Of course many people eat shredded raw carrots and carrot sticks because they like the crunchy clean sweet taste of the raw vegetable.

Long cooking and overcooking kill both the flavor and nutritive value of the brightly colored vegetable.

To speed cooking, the carrots should be shredded or cut very thin.

For best quality buy carrots with bright green stems and hard flesh, free from small rootlets. Use shredded young carrots as a garnish for a smooth cream of potato and leek soup. The carrots should be added when the cooking of the soup is nearly completed so that the vegetable retains a slightly crisp texture.

Cream of Potato and Carrot Soup. Serves 4-5.

3 tablespoons butter or vegetable fat
4 leeks
2 medium size onions
3 cloves garlic
4 medium size potatoes
1 quart and 1 pint chicken broth
2 cups milk
1 cup grated carrots
Salt—pepper—paprika
1-3 cup heavy cream
Cut the leeks into dice, using white part only. If leeks are unobtainable, use 3 onions instead of 2. Cut the onions into thin slices. Mince the garlic very fine.

Melt the butter in a large soup pot. Add the leeks, onions and garlic. Saute until the onions are yellow, stirring frequently.

Peel the potatoes and cut into 1-4 inch thick slices.

Put the potatoes and chicken broth in the pot. Add 1 teaspoon salt and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Simmer slowly until potatoes are very soft.

Force the soup through a puree machine or food mill.

Return the soup to the pot. Add the carrots and simmer until carrots are barely tender. Add the milk and bring up to the boiling point but do not boil. Add salt and pepper to taste.

Excuses Won't Help

Sergeant Jean Paille Declares War in Korea 'Hard Work' Hopes to See Peace Soon

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the Canadians in Korea, Nov. 23—(CP)—Sgt. Jean Paille sat back and reflected.

"Now," he had been asked, "would you sum up your fighting in Korea—what are your deepest lating impressions?"

The 2nd Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, with whom he crossed the Pacific in the Pvt. Joe P. Martinez almost a year ago, call him "Sgt. Paley"—it's the closest they can come to pronouncing the 36-year-old S.: Boniface man's name.

A year ago Jean Paille's English was hesitant. Great self-control increased his command of the 'anguage and during the summer ne was entrusted with a platoon.

Best Sergeant

Says Lt.-Col. Jim Stone—"He's my best sergeant."

Now homeward bound, he doubts whether he'll stay in the army.

Summing up, he said "I think it has been more a question of hard work than hard fighting."

"Actually of all the months we've been in the line these last three weeks have been hardest on the morale.

"The communists are using much more artillery now and sometimes it gets hard to just sit and take it. My fellows are good, it's fairly new and sometimes they get jittery during the shelling, and if the Chinese come in and attack, they get excited during the grenade throwing."

The secret of Paille's line in Korea has been "steady, hard work. All the damn time," he said.

Wants Early Peace

"I guess he said, "that they won't make peace. We figure the war should have finished a lot sooner."

"We've stopped them here, and thrown them out of South Korea. We've done a good job. If we hadn't stopped them here, maybe we'd have been stopping them instead on the shores of Vancouver or in Calgary."

Paille, with blue-grey eyes, and by preference an outdoorsman, Paille is enthusiastic about what the army does for a man.

"You can take any one of my fellows now—his whole force, for that matter—anywhere at all in the world. And if they go back into civilian life, you don't need to worry about these guys in Canada. With an old shovel and a bag of rations they could make a living anywhere. They could do anything, and a leader could do anything with them."

Was Fast Manager

In his time Paille has been one of the youngest post managers employed by the Hudson's Bay Company. For three years he had a put and quit in 1940. I was getting bushed so I came out."

He then worked for the Manitoba civil service as a guard at Headingly Jail. Then, in July 1950, "I had nothing against the job but I wanted fresh air—so I joined the special force."

The sergeant was looking forward to his return to Canada for two reasons—there he would see his parents, and on the way he would see at Kure, Japan, his brother, Lieut. Albert Paille, an officer in the 2nd Battalion Royal 22nd Regiment's reinforcement stream.

He didn't know that his brother already had joined the Vandoos, and had been killed outright in a minefield while returning from a patrol.

BLUFFED WAY

London, Nov. 23 (Reuters) — Herbert S. Powell, who had never been more than a deck hand on a tug, bluffed his way into an 8,500-a-year job as a maritime adviser and had five naval captains and five sea posts in Columbia under his command, a court here was told yesterday. He was unmasked, brought home, and obtained credit without telling people knew he was an undischarged bankrupt. For that he was sentenced to five years jail yesterday.

Cruelty to Tots Shows Increase In Britain

By ERNEST AGREW

London (CP)—Child cruelty is increasing in Britain. The cry is growing louder for stiffer penalties for those convicted of the charge.

In 1950, there were 1,151 maltreatment convictions. That was three per cent more than in 1949 and still by about three per cent less than this year's figure, the home office reports.

The total is alarming, a home office official said, "considering that relatively few cases investigated by the police, the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, the Salvation Army and other welfare organizations ever reach the courts."

Parents convicted of cruelty should be both flogged and imprisoned, some newspapers and social workers demand.

Flogging is forbidden in Britain. Persons convicted on charges of cruelty are liable to sentences of up to two years' imprisonment and a fine of £100.

During the six-month period ended Aug. 1, the N. S. P. C. C. investigated 19,563 cases involving 49,000 children. Only two per cent of those cases were taken to the courts," says J. J. Gladwell, an official of the society, "because we only prosecute as a last resort."

What makes cruel parents? The home office says it doesn't know.

Gladwell says inadequate housing is one cause; poverty and lack of education are others.

"There is no one root cause," Gladwell says. "We find this cruel streak running right through all classes of British society, but the well-to-do parent, living more or less in seclusion, is less likely to get caught."

Commissioner M. Owen Culshaw of the Salvation Army blames the worst cases on two world wars and the collapse of home life.

"Home life, as we used to know it, is disappearing in Britain," Culshaw told a reporter. "And as it disappears, the number of cases of child cruelty jumps. Then, too, the brutality engendered in our young men during training as soldiers, and during the war is not easily eradicated."

Christ Church Guild Has Successful Bazaar

Hillier.—The ladies of Christ Church Guild, Hillier, recently held a successful bazaar and afternoon tea in Hillier town hall, with the president, Mrs. Warner McFaul welcoming the guests at the door.

Treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. Fred Morton.

Those in charge of tables were as follows: afternoon tea, Mrs. Wesse, Mrs. D. Boyle, Mrs. M. Hardy, Mrs. G. Foster, Miss Heavyn and Mrs. W. Wright.

The home-cooking table with Mrs. Leavens and Mrs. A. Weir was well patronized and the fancy work table with Mrs. L. Jones, Mrs. C. Gamble and Mrs. R. of lovely articles.

The "touch and take" with Mrs. C. Benwey held a lot of amusement for both young and old.

The selling of aprons with Mrs. S. Weir and Mrs. C. Terry, as merchants, was a busy spot.

Mrs. Dalzard in charge of the candy table, and the country store with Mrs. C. Panting and Mrs. G. Alexander as conveners, had many patrons.

Both Rev. C. F. Heaven and Mrs. Heaven were present.

Proceeds for the afternoon were around $127.

The ladies of the Guild would like to graciously thank all who donated and attended their bazaar.

ILLEGAL STRIKE

Buenos Aires, Nov. 23 (AP) — Five-thousand workers at the American-owned Swift packing plant at La Plata, 40 miles southeast of here, yesterday staged what the government called an illegal strike. The strike was called to protest a management decision to employ women instead of men in one section.

Alberta Strikes It Rich

A 200 ft. spray shot into the air and a throaty roar echoed over the grainfield. Within minutes a crowd gathered to relish a familiar but stirring sight: Alberta's newest well was blowing up spitting blobs of crude oil for half a mile around.

In December Reader's Digest read how rampaging wells and eager people are signs of the times in booming Alberta, why this oil find is the most significant on the continent in the last 50 years, and why for Alberta the best is yet to come.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

Goat's Hair Is Also Needed

By ROY L. SMITH

This week's Sunday School lesson tucks a very great truth away in a quiet little place in one of the verses, which is quite apt to be overlooked by the hurried reader.

The scripture writer is listing all the treasures and contributions which were made toward the building of the holy tent, which was to serve as the centre of the people's affections and worship, and he adds "and goats hair."

Alongside the sealskins, gold, jewels, gold embroidery, brooches, armlets, ear-rings, and fine linen, there was need for a coarse and humble thing like goat's hair. This meant that the lowliest in the land could contribute something. Even a goat keeper's flock was valuable. Goat's hair had a market in the holy place.

This Is Democracy

This is the basic principle of democracy. Every man, however humble, has something to contribute to the nation's good. There is something about the dignity of humanity which makes the plain citizen a thing of splendid worth.

It is one of the great themes of good religion—the essential worth of the human soul, any human soul. Anything that unmans men, degrades personality, infringes upon the sacred rights of individuals, or defiles the great spiritual resource of the people, is high treason against the race.

No Common Men

There are no "common men." Every man, born in the image of God is something splendid, worthy of the respect of any other man. Nothing in all the universe can compare with self-conscious human personality. Said a skeptical philosopher, "Astronomically speaking, man is but a speck of this vast universe," to which another man, equally learned replied, "Astronomically speaking, man is the astronomer."

All this means, of course, that any individual who can say "I am," is of far greater significance than any thing about which he holds an opinion.

In one great city a newspaper man conceived a brilliant idea. "One of the reasons our minority groups become problems," he said, "is because they have never had a chance to show what they can contribute to our community life."

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for November 25: "The People at Worship." Exodus 24; 29—31; 35; 40.

He therefore started a movement aimed at presenting a great pageant to the city. Each national group was invited to present on the stage of the greatest auditorium something characteristic of the land from which the people had come—folk dances, singing societies, athletic exhibitions, plays. The participants were dress in "native costumes," and present the culture and [illegible] which they had been reared.

Suddenly the people who had been called "aliens" and "foreigners" found that they were important. They discovered they had something to show in which people were interested. They began to get applause for garments they had hidden away, for songs they had almost forgotten how to sing, for rhythm and beauty they had long neglected. The crowds spilled over into the streets and the festivities lasted for a week, with the result that police blotters went almost unmarked and there was an upward rise in the spirit of the entire city.

The humble folk became good citizens when they found there was a market for their goat's hair.

Heart of the Temple

Into the curtain in the temple it was necessary to weave great quantities of goat's hair, because it was the only material strong enough to support the excessive weight involved. Thus it happened that the offerings of the poorest went into the very heart of the Temple.

That is where goat's hair belongs!

United Effort Frees Bogged-Down Jeep

New military wonders may come and go, but the foot soldier is still basically the key figure in any army, as this photo clearly illustrates. These U.N. infantrymen, using just their muscles, push mightily to free a jeep and trailer which bogged down in the heavy mud in Korea. The infantrymen had just recaptured a strategic hill from 600 attacking Chinese on the western front. — Central Press Canadian.

Canadians Will Get Gratuities For War Service

Ottawa, Nov. 23 (CP)—Canadian troops serving in the Far East will get war service gratuities similar to those paid Canadian servicemen in the Second World War, the army announced today.

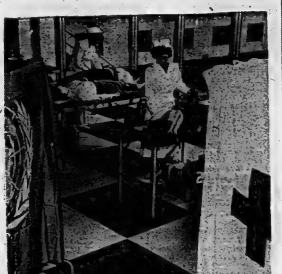
The gratuities will amount to 50 cents a day for each day of paid service in the Far Eastern theatre, plus a supplementary grant of one week's pay and allowances for every 183 days overseas.

On this basis, a married private who is serving in the Far East will receive a gratuity of approximately $375 for each year he serves overseas. An unmarried sergeant will receive approximately $250, and a married captain approximately $340.

In the Second World War, Canadian servicemen and women received a gratuity of $7.50 for each 30 days' service in the western hemisphere and $15 for each completed 30 days overseas, without regard to rank.

"Payment of the gratuities will be made on discharge to special force soldiers terminating their engagement and to active and special force men released on medical grounds," the announcement said.

Cheques will be sent out "in a few weeks" to eligible men already discharged, the statement added.



"These men need not make official application for their gratuities as all preliminary work has been completed.

"All others will make application on the form provided at the personnel depot where and when their discharge is effected."

Thousand Regina Supporters In Toronto for Game

Toronto, Nov. 23. (CP)—Toronto was invaded today some 1,-000 cheering, singing and shouting Stetson-bedecked Regina Roughrider fans.

Toronto welcomed them with open arms.

"On Roughriders! On Roughriders!

"Fight on for your fame!

"Fight fellows fight, fight, fight

"We'll win this game!"

Coming here for tomorrow's Ottawa-Regina Dominion football final, the cowboy-booted, blue-jeaned westerners arrived on two "Grey Cup Specials". The first reached Union Station at 9:40 a.m., the second 20 minutes later.

Bringing their own miniature bands, waving placards and signs predicting victory, the rollickers received a greeting from nearly 1,000 Torontonians who crowded the station concourse.

The team, which arrived earlier in the week, was slightly amazed.

"We never expected it to be like this," said big Glen Dobbs, the Riders' passing star. "Why, it's wonderful. I've never seen anything like it in all my life. We just have to win for all these wonderful people."

Typical of the Regina fans were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. (Jim) Armstrong. The retired real estate man and his wife have been coming east regularly since the first Roughrider Club made a Grey Cup bid against Queen's University in 1923. The tricolor won 54-0 that time.

"It will be different tomorrow," Armstrong said.

Norm McInnes, oil company executive, arrived on the first section. Wearing a white Stetson decked with green and white Regina colors, he assured everyone there's no doubt about tomorrow's game.

"But did we have fun on the way down?" he said. "We left Regina at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday and it was a continuous party all the way. We had dances, cooked our food and sang all the way. What a time."

There were plenty of western fans on hand to greet their Regina conferees, too. Typical of this group was big Bill Kerr who flew to Toronto Monday. A former middle wing with Riders, he played in that other Regina Grey cup game against Queen's in 1923.

"This is the greatest team we've ever had," he said. "They will bring back the cup. They're going to score 28 points doing it, too. Tomorrow is my 38th wedding anniversary. The boys have promised."

Led by Toronto St. Andrew's Girls' Pipe Band, the westerns set out in search of hotel rooms. Union Station returned to normal, except for bits of green and white bunting and used photographers' flash bulbs in the concourse.

REMANDED ONE WEEK

Kitchener, Nov. 23 (CP)—Alvin Lebond, 32, of Wellesley, Ont., and Albert DeLeary, 44, Muncey Reserve Indian, were remanded for one week when they appeared in police court today charged with the murder of Donald Fowler, 21, of Stratford.

Fowler's body was found Nov. 21, the neck resting on a jagged stump, outside the trailer where the three men lived. A 22-calibre rifle lay by his feet.

Police said medical examination revealed a bullet wound in the neck.

Drew Urges Newfoundlanders To Elect Strong Opposition To Dominant Liberal Party

Moscow-Bound?

A top Russian expert, George F. Kennan, right, may be sent to Moscow as the next U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union. President Truman, (center) said in Key West, Fla., announced that Kennan is being considered as successor to Alan Kirk, present ambassador. — Central Press Canadian.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 23 (CP) — Newfoundland's Progressive Conservative party, surprised by Premier Smallwood's snap election call for Monday, have fought mainly on an appeal to the electors to return a strong opposition.

The party has not issued a formal opposition statement but the appeal for a strong force in the opposition benches has been prominent throughout their campaign.

George Drew, national leader of the party, reiterated the appeal last night.

Mr. Drew said followers of both the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties should be interested in seeing a strong opposition.

"Even though you may believe that the present government is going to be returned," he said, "I suggest that it is in the best interest of all the people of Newfoundland that a group of the excellent candidates of the Conservative party be returned to build up a strong alternative to the government in the Newfoundland legislature. The preservation of that balance between government and opposition lies at the root of all liberties."

Smallwood Holds Lead

Premier Smallwood's Liberals, four of whose candidates already have been acclaimed by acclamation to the 28-seat house, have fought the campaign mainly on an appeal for endorsation of the government's industrial development program.

Under this program the government has given power have cent into the campaign.

One developed around Lothar Sennewald, a German optical scientist who was refused financial assistance to establish a plant in the province.

The Progressive Conservatives have arranged for him to come here to address a meeting Saturday and this alone what he has termed "surprising manipulation" behind all of the province's new industries.

Delay In Labrador

He is due today if weather conditions permit.

Monday's voting actually will be only for 23 seats.

Besides the acclamations, voting has been deferred in Labrador because weather conditions made election material.

Liberals are contesting all 23 seats and the Progressive Conservatives have candidates in all but six. Six Independent candidates are in the field, two of them in one riding, St. John's West.

Voting will be from 8 a.m. until 8 p.m. in Newfoundland's 42nd provincial election, her first as a Canadian province, Liberals captured 22 of 36 seats, Progressive Conservatives five and an Independent one.

At dissolution the standing was Liberals 30, Progressive Conservatives five, Independents two and one seat was vacant.

DISAGREES WITH EISENHOWER

New York, Nov. 23 (CP) — Winston Churchill disagrees with Dwight D. Eisenhower who said the allied invasion of Europe might have been impossible if the German began using the "V" rockets against England sooner. Eisenhower made his statement in his book "crusade in Europe."

"This is an overstatement" Britain's prime minister says in another volume of his memoirs, "Closing the Ring" published today by Houghton Mifflin Company.

Much of the book has been published previously in Life Magazine and the New York Times and in Canada in the Montreal Standard and Weekend Magazine.

CREW RESCUED

Guam, Nov. 23 (Reuters) — Seafaring Missionary William F. Rively and his three-man crew of the schooner Romance were rescued yesterday by the United States Navy after clinging to their vessel for 13 days on a storm-riven reef 460 miles southeast of Guam.

Ontario Voters Deal Roughly With Leaders

Toronto, Nov. 23—(CP)—Ontario voters dealt roughly with party leaders in yesterday's provincial election.

Premier Frost won re-election in Victoria riding to go back into the house as leader of a 79-member Progressive Conservative group. But the Liberal, C.C.F. and Labor-Progressive (Communist) party heads bowed out of the picture.

Walter Thomson, chosen Liberal leader a year ago, went down in Ontario riding in his first bid to get into the provincial legislature. He won the same constituency in the 1949 federal election. Last night he said his future plans depended on the wishes of the party and he declined to say whether he would seek a seat in the house.

The seven-member Liberal group includes two former party leaders. One is Farquhar Oliver of Grey South, House leader last session after his resignation as the provincial head of the party. The other is Harry Nixon of Brant, who has been a member of the legislature since 1919.

Mr. Jolliffe's personal defeat in York South was the second of his political career. He was first sent in 1943, lost it in 1945 and came back in 1948. W. J. Grummett of Cochrane South, one of the two C.C.F. members of the new legislature, also was beaten. He was elected in the 1945-48 period.

A. A. MacLeod, the Labor-Progressive leader, lost out in Toronto Bellwoods where he ran third in a four-way race. He had held the seat since 1943. That leaves his former legislature mate, J. B. Salsberg of Toronto St. Andrew, as the only communist member of the house.

Drew Hails Party's Victory

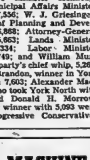
Ottawa, Nov. 23—(CP)—George Drew, national Progressive Conservative leader, Thurs. hailed the party's victory in the Ontario election as a tribute to good government.



The leader of the official opposition in the House of Commons heard the returns at Carleton County party headquarters and issued the following statement when the result was evident:

"This magnificent victory is a well-deserved tribute to Leslie Frost's good government, his splendid leadership, and to the outstanding qualifications of the candidates who supported him in every part of Ontario."

CUT TONNAGE

Duesseldorf, Germany, Nov. 23 —(AP) — The International Ruhr Authority said last night West Germany's coal exports to her West European neighbors will be cut by 500,000 tons during the six months ending next March. The seven - country authority decided that the Bonn Republic must export [illegible] tons during the last quarter of this year and 5,900,000 ... first quarter of 1952.

Minister of Education Polls Biggest Majority in Election

Toronto, Nov. 23 (CP)—W. J. Dunlop, only recently named minister of education by Premier Frost, rolled up the biggest majority in yesterday's Ontario election in his first contest for provincial office.

Mr. Dunlop, one of the first members of Premier Frost's cabinet to be returned last night, led his nearest opponent in Toronto Eglinton by 14,729 votes.

Next biggest majority to that won by the former University of Toronto director of extension and publicity was given Premier Frost—8,501 in Victoria.

Third in the province was highways minister Doucett, who followed the last two weeks of the campaign from an Ottawa hospital bed. Mr. Doucett, who suffered a broken hip in a highway crash nomination day, had a margin of 9,080 in Lanark.

Right on his heels was Hollis Beckett—another candidate running for the first time—who had a margin of 9,058 over Agnes Macphail, veteran C.C.F. stalwart, in York East.

Ray Connel, who won Hamilton Wentworth for the Progressive Conservatives, was another first-time candidate in the big-majority bracket. He had a margin of 5,795. Among other Progressive Conservative leaders with majorities over the 5,000 mark were: Agriculture Minister Kennedy, 7,032; Municipal Affairs Minister Dunbar, 7,536; T. J. Griesinger, Minister of Planning and Development, 6,868; Attorney-General Porter, 5,663; Lands Minister Scott, 5,334; Labor Minister Daley, 5,749; and William Murdoch, the party's chief whip, 5,864.

Elmer Brandon, winner in York West with 7,603; Alexander Mackenzie, who took York North with 7,095; and Donald H. Morrow, Carleton winner with 5,093 were other Progressive Conservatives returned by wide margins.

Tightest contest was in Russell, where J. Damuel Nault, Progressive Conservative, had a margin of only 27 votes over Liberal Raoul Landriault.

Another narrow battle was in Kenora, where Albert Wren, Liberal-Labor, was only 88 votes ahead of Progressive Conservative A. Vanneau when counting closed for the night.

Another constituency which went down to the wire was the heavily populated riding of York South, where C.C.F. leader Jolliffe bowed to Progressive Conservative William Beech by 618 votes. S. F. Leavins, Progressive Conservative, won Waterloo North by an even 286.

Three Firemen Burned in Blast

St. Catharines, Ont., Nov. 23 (CP)—Three firemen and five other persons were burned Thursday in an explosion and fire which swept through a building housing a dress shop in downtown Toronto. They were taken to hospital for treatment.

The firemen—Russ Davige, Harry Jones and Don Barley—were among those who went to shop after a first, minor explosion forced out 30 employees of Tilly's Dress Shop.

They were injured in a more powerful blast which blew out the front window of the shop and knocked down 12 firemen and eight passersby.

The fire apparently started in the basement where plastic buttons are made.

Four Veteran Members Returned To Legislature

Toronto, Nov. 23 (CP) —Four veteran members of the Ontario legislature will still be in their seats when the next legislature assembles.

Harry Nixon, dean of the House, Agriculture Minister Kennedy; Farquhar Oliver of Grey South and George H. Challies, vice-chairman of Ontario Hydro, all retained their seats in Thursday's election.

Mr. Nixon, 80, was re-elected Liberal member for grant, which he has represented since 1919—a continuous record of service which passes the unbroken 30-year term of former Premier George S. Henry.

Thomas Laird Kennedy, 73, also first elected in 1919 in Peel, would have an election record matching that of Mr. Nixon except for a three-year period from 1934-37, following the general election defeat of the Progressive Conservatives.

Mr. Oliver at 47 has a continuous 25-year record as representative in Grey South. First as a United Farmers of Ontario member and then running as a Liberal. When first elected in 1926 he was 22 years of age— the youngest member ever elected until Reid Scott at 21 became a CCF member for Toronto Beaches in 1948.

When Harry Nixon was nominated as a candidate in the 1919 election, his father told him he was crazy and asked: "Who will your wife and your children vote for?"

Harry replied he would start off with their votes—his own, his wife's and his father's.

His political affiliation has changed three times—from United Farmers of Ontario to Progressive to Liberal Progressive to Liberal. He was provincial secretary for 12 years and in 1943 was premier for three months.

Col. Kennedy, the farmer from Dixie, was also premier of Ontario for seven months from October, 1948, to May 1949.

He was Agriculture Minister in the Hepburn government from 1930 to 1934 and returned to the post in 1943. He still holds the post.

George H. Challies, 67, has been member for Lawrence-Dundas since 1929 and at present is vice-chairman of the Hydro Electric Power Commission.

DIRECTOR DIES

Halifax, Nov. 23 (CP) — G. MacGregor Mitchell, chairman of the board of directors of C. H. Mitchell and Sons, Ltd., and a director of the Royal Bank of Canada, died here last night. He was 78.

He was a director of the Foundation Company of Canada, International Power Company, Nova Scotia Light and Power Company, and several other firms.

Truce in Korea by Christmas Foretold as Negotiators Make Deal on Buffer Zone Issue

BY ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

Munsan, Korea, Nov. 23 (AP)— A truce in Korea by Christmas became a possibility today as negotiators reached agreement on the first section of an armistice on the thorny buffer-zone issue.

If the agreement is approved—as expected — by the full truce delegations, negotiators will have 30 days in which to solve three other problems — supervision of the armistice, exchange of war prisoners and recommendations to the belligerent governments.

Fighting will continue in the war, now 17 months old, until all of these points are settled.

Maj.-Gen. Henry I. Hodes, chief United Nations command subcommitteeman, indicated the full five-man delegations could meet Sunday to approve the buffer zone agreement worked out by sub-committees.

Staff officers Friday started mapping the actual line of battle that follows to become the formal cease-fire line if an armistice is signed within 30 days. Staff officers meet again Saturday.

Final Approval Delayed

Final approval of the buffer - zone agreement was delayed during Friday's session, mainly because communist delegates wanted to check the translation into Chinese and Korean of the U. N. command revision of the red staff officers' agreement.

Later a spokesman said the "wording" was approved.

If the agreement is reached before the 30-day deadline, a new demarcation line, incorporating changes resulting from military action will be drawn just before an armistice is signed. Then both armies will pull back to create the 2-mile-wide buffer zone.

Brig. - Gen. William P. Nuckols, U. N. command spokesman, said the agreement would give the allies "exactly what they sought for at the beginning of the talks in July."

Agreement followed

The U. N. agreement followed a U. N. command concession on one point.

Original Proposal

In their original 30-day plan the allies proposed that if an armistice agreement is not reached before the deadline, a new ceasefire line be drawn. The reds suggested that instead the line be revised just before the armistice is signed to take changes which may result through battle action. The U. N. delegates accepted this.

Formal approval of the buffer-zone issue would send the deliberations on to a discussion of how the armistice would be enforced. The U. N. command had indicated it will insist on inspection behind the lines through an international team of experts.

Recent allied charges that the reds killed prisoners of war and similar red counter - charges could create serious complications.

Repeats Charges

In Tokyo, U.S. Col. James Hanley talks to reporters about his charges of mass slayings of Allied prisoners in Korea by red Chinese forces. Gen. Ridgway's headquarters announced that the "confirmed" total of Allied dead in atrocity slayings is only 365, but the actual total might reach 6,000. — Central Press Canadian.

Phone Network Plays Major Role

Vancouver, Nov. 23—(CP)—A network of telephones, listed under fictitious names, played a major role in Vancouver's $6,000,000-a-year bookmaking business, it was reported in court here yesterday.

Thirty-four persons, called by prosecutor Gordon Scott the "kingpins" of the bookie racket here, are charged with conspiracy to operate betting houses.

The preliminary hearing, which opened Wednesday, continued yesterday.

It is expected to last a week.

Detective William Butchart, a member of the gambling squad, said he found phones listed under fictitious and fictitious company names.

He said the ... had developed from the pool room stage to one of big business, with communication systems linked to a central recording headquarters.

Prosecutor Scott said operations were made possible only by the existence of an up-to-the-minute race result system brought in by special wire. Most of the information was filed from Seattle.

38 New Faces In Legislature Next Session

Toronto, Nov. 23 — (CP) There will be 38 new faces in the Ontario legislature following Thursday's Progressive Conservative victory — 35 of them members of the winning party.

The Liberals elected two new members while one Liberal-Labor candidate new to the Ontario House also was elected.

Several of the "new members" are no strangers to provincial politics. W. J. Stewart, Progressive Conservative winner in Toronto Parkdale, is a former speaker of the Ontario House. Kelso Roberts, elected in Toronto St. Patrick, also has been a Progressive Conservative member. George Wardrope, new Progressive Conservative member for Port Arthur, has long been active in politics at the lakehead.

For Arthur J. Reaume, Liberal for Essex North, it will be his first term in the legislature. But he has been mayor of Windsor Ont., for several years. S. F. Lavvine, Progressive Conservative for Waterloo North, is mayor of Kitchener. New members William Beech of York South, Elmer Brandon of York West and Ellis Mornington of Welland, all Progressive Conservatives, have served in their own municipalities.

Two of the freshman Progressive Conservative [illegible] sons of prominent men in provincial politics. Irene Blackmarie comes Harry Lyons, son of the late James Lyons, former minister of lands and forests. W. M. Nickle, new Kingston member, is a son of W. F. Nickle, former Attorney-General.

Sports record representative in the legislature is Art Child, Progressive Conservative from Wentworth and scalle for Hamilton Tigers of the senior Ontario Hockey Association.

BEST FOREIGN STAR

Rome, Nov. 23 (Reuters) —Italian movie critics last night judged Ingrid Bergman "the best foreign film star to have worked in Italy" in 1950 and 1951. She won the title for her part in "Stromboli," the film directed by her husband, Roberto Rossellini.

Crofton—Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Morden and Beatrice, were callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Jones on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lefort and children, of Belleville, spent Monday evening with their mother, Mrs. W. J. Gray.

Mrs. B. Jones and Mrs. W. J. Gray, also Mr. and Mrs. Jerrold Bongard, were among those to attend the shower for Mr. Earl Cook and his bride, of Ottawa, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cook, Christian Street, on Saturday evening.

The Sunday School children enjoyed a wiener roast at the church on Saturday evening. There were games for the children and progressive crokinole for the adults and refreshments consisted of hot dogs, ice cream, chocolate milk and pop. During the evening a Bible was presented to Miss Francis Ann Mitchell and cards sent to Brent and David as they are leaving the community to reside in Belleville.

Presentation

On Wednesday evening, the neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. Bongard, (nee Weaver), gathered at the hall to honor them with a miscellaneous shower. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Salisbury and Janet, were called to the front and presented with a corsage table and Bible as they are moving to Belleville. Mr. and Mrs. Salisbury also Mr. and Mrs. Bongard thanked their friends for their kindness and invited all to come and visit them.

Mr. Ansel Stevenow, of Arnprior, is spending this week with his daughter, Mrs. W. Salisbury, Mr. Salisbury and Janet.

Mrs. George Hutson returned to her home on Sunday evening from Belleville hospital. Mrs. Hutson had the misfortune to fall and break her leg at the knee about three weeks ago. All hope she will soon be able to be around again.

Mr. Theran Allan, of Peterborough, spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Allan.

DRINKING CLUBS RAIDED

Montreal, Nov. 22 — (CP) — Police directed their crime clean-up at the late-night drinkeries again yesterday and clipped the wings of the Flamingo Club, the second such spot to get the license-lifting treatment in three days. The club was raided on the order of Chairman Edouard Rivard of the Quebec Liquor Commission who alleged the place served drinks past the 2 a.m. deadline. On Monday police knocked off Ciro's, another centre for hot music, cold drinks and throughout-the-night patronage.

U.S. Superforts Hit Hard Below At Red Jet Base

By SAM SUMMERLIN

Seoul, Nov. 22 (AP) — Ten United States Superforts roared through intense flak and an angry cordon of MIG-15s last night and plastered a new communist jet air base two miles from communist China's Manchurian frontier.

The Far East air forces in Tokyo said all B-29s returned to their bases. It described the results as good.

The raid was the first bombing attack on Uiju, in northwest Korea two miles south of the Yalu River boundary.

This strike so close to the "sanctuary" of Manchuria point-ed up the mounting allied effort to block off the growing communist air threat and keep the reds from setting up bases in North Korea.

Washington Warned

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, chief of the U.S. Air Force, warned in Washington that Red China has emerged suddenly as a major air power. He said this new-born air force, with Russian type jets and Russian-speaking pilots, has broken allied air supremacy in Korea although the United Nations still holds superiority.

Allied F-86 Sabre jets strafed Uiju field Sunday and caught 11 MIGS on a taxi strip. They reported eight destroyed or damaged.

Then the big Superforts hit last night.

The B-29s spilled 100-pound bombs at the 7,100 foot runway and dropped napalm fire-bursting bombs which hurl jagged chunks of steel at hidden planes.

Communist jets swarmed around the B-29s but F.E.A.F. said they made no firing runs.

Nightly Occurrence

Almost every night for a month, B-29s have bombed three new red airfields farther south —at Namsi, Taechon and Saamcham.

Vandenberg said the raids have prevented the Reds from using the three fields.

He estimated the Chinese reds have about 1,500 planes in North China and Manchuria, of which half are MIG jets. He said the MIG "in many respects can outperform our own F-86" Sabre jet, the top allied fighter operating in Korea.

Ground action along the snow-swept battle front quieted after an attack in the west by possibly 6,000 Chinese.

Larry Fortier With His Wife in Hospital

To wake up in the night in wild bushland and find two pairs of gleaming wolves' eyes staring at you is enough to throw even an experienced hunter into a panic, or so said 23-year-old Lawrence Fortier, now safe in his hospital bed in Sudbury, Ont. Fortier, who had been the object of an intensive three-day search through swampy bushland 28 miles north of Sudbury, was suffering from shock and exposure when rescued after his 72-hour siege without food, and in 14-below-zero temperature. — Central Press Canadian.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was going over her bank ballents with a pencil and a unhappy expression, and she said to pop, William, I've got a good mind to change my bank.

Now my dear, I dont think they would like that, pop said. I've known you ballents to run as high as 50 dollers, and they can use that money, he said, and ma said, I dont care. Last week I asked the butcher to cash a check for me, and he cashed it cheerfully with the iuffing remark that as long as I have confidence in his meats tha least he can do is to have confidence in my checks. So you can imagine my imbarrisment when he handed me back my check that morning marked Insufficient Funds. I hate that bank, she said.

But think of the bank's side of it, pop said. If they started to honor all checks that arn't covered by deposits, their books would soon be in a grate mess, he said, and ma said, Oh I spreciate that, even though I dont claim to be a financial wizard. What makes me mad is the deceetful and underhand way they went about it. Really, I mean really, after all the years I've been dealing with that bank and trusting them implicitly with my money, it's rather a shock to find out that their cheery nods were nuthing but hippocritical stabs in the back, she said.

But for Peet sake, pop said, and ma said, Now dont try to whitewash them with any thin excuses. Insufficient Funds indeed. With their bulging vaults and millions of assets, how dare they claim they have insufficient Funds? she said.

My dear, you do yourself an injustice, you are a financial wizard, pop said.

Saying it from in back of the sporting page.

BATTLE OF THE BIRDS!

The high-flying Hawks and the swooping Eagles of Peterborough ruffle their war feathers in Memorial Arena tonight in what should be a classic for the leadership of the district senior "B" group. The Hawks and Eagles are tied for top slot at the moment despite the fact the Eagles have played one game during the young season, that when they met defeat at the hands of their intra-city rivals, the Peks. The unbeaten Hawks have owned the slats then far and fully intend to keep their record intact tonight.

The Eagles, led by Ned Vitarelli, their canny coach, are a powerful well-balanced squad with plenty of reserve power, and lots of ability. They're blood-hungry at the moment and there is nothing they would like better than to quaff some of the Hawks red corpuscles. Besides they haven't forgiven the pesky "Redmen" of 1950 for ousting them from the playoffs and they'll be ready and rarin' to go in search of vengeance. They scouted the Hawks but plenty on Wednesday night.

The Hawks will have to be on their best behavior tonight if they want to extend their unbeaten streak. At the moment they're flying high with speed to burn and enough reserve power to snatch that of the Eagles. Wednesday night it was the Quinlan's, Bill Barrett, Jessop line that stole the limelight, the trio getting themselves the majority of the scoring points. Big Vernon Geyer was tabbed heavily, but the big boy got in that famous dipsy-doodle goal that pulled the game out of the fire.

All-in-all it looks like a gala evening for the hockey faithful. Lefort, a trifle stiff and sore after the going-over he received Wednesday night will be between the pipes. The stocky "m'sieu" grabbed the star role against the Peks and his performances to date reveal he is playing his best brand of hockey since coming to Belleville.

* * *

SHAKE-UP!

They tell us there is going to be a coufab of the masterminds of the senior "B" hockey group hereabouts over the weekend, probably in Peterborough, with regards to the drawing of a new schedule and disposition of games played with the new defunct Queen's University team.

The schedule question should not provoke any great amount or discussion since a new one will give the remaining teams more hockey, and that should not meet with much disapproval if any, unless the Peterborough clubs raise a "holler" about incurring further trips to Kingston.

However, disposition of the points gained through victories over Queen's by Belleville, the Petes and Eagles may start some mild argumentative fireworks. Both Peterborough clubs chalked up four points in the win column against the helpless students, with the Eagles getting their's the easy way, at home. Petes made the long jump to Kingston for their quartet of duck and forked over some coin for the transportation lettuce. The Kingston SAC's game with Queen's was washed out.

The Peterborough squads likely will hold out for retention of their four points, with Belleville and Kingston probably favoring elimination of the games played. After all, that is the sensible thing to do since Queen's dots could well be the deciding margin come playoff time.

* * *

HAWKS AT PETERBOROUGH

Meanwhile the junior Hawklets will be running for their second victory and they, too, have a tough assignment on their hands. They go to Peterborough tonight to take on the Petes' Jimbo Link in the city's scheduled junior "B" tilt. The Petes dropped their first game to the Kingston Vics, but improved nearly fifty per cent and pushed our hopefuls to the wire before bowing to the third period goal. Hawks rule this setter three-goals and victory. Tonight the three-ringers will be looking for the first pair of points and they'll be out to get them with a vengeance.

The young Hawks can play a lot better hockey than that they served up on the inaugural last week, and they will have to produce to beat the touch Peterborough squads in their own backyard. However, they're at full strength, or nearly so, and are confident they can take the measure of the Oddfellows-sponsored club tonight.

* * *

BANTAMS GET UNDER WAY

Tomorrow morning starting at nine o'clock, the Belleville Hockey Association's Bantam League gets underway in its first scheduled weekly triple-header. Starting the season's parade will be Stan Hagerman's Maple Leafs which meet Dan Cowley's Bruins; Harry Brown's Red Wings will clash with Henry Therrien's Black Hawks while George Jacklin's Rangers mix matters with Hector Lalonde's Canadiens. There's plenty of rivalry between these squads and there should be some smart mopped hockey this season. Triple headers will be played every Saturday until playdown time when a team will be selected to represent the city in the OMHA playdowns. Bill Rolway and Don Barrett will look after the refereeing chores.

* * *

PERFECT SQUELCH!

During the brief era when Hank Wilson reigned as homerun king, more than one umpire was subjected to the arrogant manner of the big slugger. One afternoon Bill Klem, the "the Arbitrator", was being needled by Wilson. When Bill called a strike on him, Hank immediately stepped out of the box and snapped at Klem:

"You missed that one, Bill."

"I wouldn't have," was Klem's biting retort, "if I had a bat in my hand."

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Blind at 33, Georgie (Specs) Toporcer is fat from dispirited. The former star major league infielder and highly-successful minor league manager prepared today at Scarsdale, N.Y., to launch a brand new career.

Toporcer lost his eyesight Wednesday following three unsuccessful operations on the right eye that kept him hospitalized for approximately three months. He lost the sight of his left eye 3½ years ago.

Realizing his days in baseball are over, Toporcer is planning to write several books dealing with the playing, administrative, technical and instructive side of baseball. George is well qualified for this work since he has spent 32 years in the game as a player, scout, manager and farm director.

"I'm looking forward to the future with a great deal of hope and interest," Toporcer said. "True, I got a tough break, but I'm far from heartbroken. I've got much to be thankful for.

This past season, Toporcer, in his first year as pilot of the Buffalo Bisons, won the "manager of the year" award in the International League.

He led the last-place outfit of 1950 into the first-division.

Recently, when he International League decided to give Toporcer a "Hall of Fame", Toporcer was one of the first to be picked. He was a brilliant performer with the Rochester Red Wings from 1928 through 1932.

At Kingston, centre Danny Poland snapped the Black Hawks' onko's pass early in the final period last night to give Turcotte Marlboros the unbeaten Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league leadership by a 3-2 win over Montreal Canadiens in an exhibition tussle.

Canadiens, Quebec Junior Hockey Association leaders, came from behind a 2-0 deficit only to have Poland score the only marker of the final period. Both Louis Benoo and John Lumley hit for the other Marlboro scores while Don Marshall capped an outstanding performance by scoring both Montreal goals.

At Vancouver, Bill Hagen, a six-foot 20-year-old centre and left winger, was hurled yesterday to the Vancouver Canucks of the Pacific Coast Hockey League. He came from Syracuse, N.Y. Last year he was a star with Barrie's Memorial Cup champions, piling up an impressive record as a junior in the O.H.A.

Jumping George Ratterman, who rejoined the New York Football Yanks two weeks ago after a spell with Montreal Alouettes, will start at quarterback against the San Francisco 49ers Sunday at Yankee Stadium.

Coach Jimmy Phelan made the announcement in New York after a workout session. Ratterman, in a part-time appearance, completed nine of 16 passes for 111 yards against Los Angeles last Sunday.

At Detroit, quarterback Bobby Lane hurled four touchdown passes yesterday as Detroit Lions scuttled Green Bay Packers 38-33 and moved into a first-place tie in the National Pro Football League's Western Conference.

Chihawks Jar Canadiens 5-1 Red Wings Edge Rangers 2-1

By BARRY WEST
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Chicago's lowly Black Hawks jarred the faltering Montreal Canadiens 5-1 last night and served notice on the rest of the National Hockey League teams that they aren't to be counted out.

In another game, Detroit Red Wings edged the New York Rangers 2-1. Chicago's win pulled the Hawks out of a last-place tie with New York and now has 14 points, two more than New York. Wings Win Again

The Red Wings showed their usual fire-power to beat the Rangers but it remained for Terry Sawchuk to shut the door on the New Yorkers in the final period when ace rolled Reg Sinclair twice on breakaways.

Gordie Howe scored a goal and an assist to his scoring. The load of Detroit beat Charlie Rayner for the first tally and then combined with tireless Sid Abel to set Glover up for what proved to be the winner.

Canadiens' main trouble in the Chicago contest was their inability to finish off shots. Harry Lumley worked well in the Black Hawks' cage, but Gerry McNeil of Canadiens, was called on to make six more stops than Lumley. The latter kicked out 34 while Gerry handled 30.

The first tally by the Hawks came when Tom Johnson of Canadiens was waved off for interference in the first period. Jimmy McFadden drove home a 25-foot sizzler past McNeil with Bill Mosienko and Al Dewsbury assisting.

A strong drive by the two last place clubs should cause a tight stretch fight for every position but the top one. Detroit's power has kept the team rolling along at a winning pace, and with the smooth work of Sawchuk there seems little likelihood they will be headed. Injuries are the only thing that may halt the Red Wings—the other teams don't seem to be able to at this stage of the race.

Providence Reds Down Mohawks By 4-2 Score

(By The Associated Press)

Cincinnati Mohawks remained tied with St. Louis in third place today in the American Hockey League's western division after dropping their first road game in five starts this season.

Three goals in five minutes of the second period last night by Ken Smith, Ray Powell and Jack McGill enabled Providence Reds to down the Mohawks 4-2. Cincinnati and St. Louis are tied with 19 points and a Mohawk victory would have sent the Ohioans into second place past Cleveland Browns who have 20.

In the only other game, the Hershey Bears boosted their eastern division lead by defeating Syracuse, 6-4. Hershey scored twice in each period, with Leo Labine getting two goals.

College Football Ends Season With Bowl Bids Hovering in Offering

By JOHN CHANDLER

New York, Nov. 23 (AP) College football nears the end of the hectic 1951 season tomorrow, with a heavy New Year's Day bowl atmosphere hovering over the top games on the scattered grid front.

Tennessee and Kentucky both already invited to Jan. 1 bowls, clash at Lexington in what looms as the chief attraction of the afternoon.

Tennessee, the country's top team until proven otherwise, already is in the Sugar Bowl against Maryland, Kentucky, beaten three times but improving each week, has accepted a Cotton Bowl berth. Tennessee, which upset Kentucky last year, is a strong favorite.

From the Big Ten, the southwest and Pacific coast sectors, bowl and would-be bowl teams tangle in important struggles.

Rose Bowl Bid

Three Big Ten teams still with a chance for the Rose Bowl share mid-west attention. Illinois, with the inside track, can clinch it with Northwestern at Evanston, Ill.

Purdue meets Indiana, and Wisconsin, the No. 3 team this week, plays Minnesota.

If Northwestern beats Illinois —the No. 6 team—Purdue can win the championship by defeating Indiana. If both Purdue and Illinois are beaten, Wisconsin can win by taking Minnesota.

Stanford, unbeaten in nine games and certain to be the best Pacific coast team in the Rose Bowl, meets California in the far west's dollar attraction at Palo Alto. Stanford is a 6 1-2 point choice.

In the southwest, four teams remain in the running for the conference flag and a crack at Kentucky in the Cotton Bowl. They are Rice, Texas Christian, Baylor and Texas.

Rice and Texas Christian, tied for the lead, play in the big one at Fort Worth. At Waco, Baylor meets dangerous Southern Methodist. Texas and Texas A&M rest until they meet Thursday, Nov. 29.

Others in the top 10 this week appear to have fairly easy sailing. Michigan State the No. 2 outfit, ngets Colorado at East Lansing to close out its season. Maryland takes on West Virginia at College Park. Princeton, No. 5, winds up against Dartmouth at Princeton. The No. 7 team, Georgia Tech, plays Davidson in Atlanta.

NATIVE OF PICTON

Cannes, France, Nov. 23—(Reuters)—Mrs. Maude Grant-Milne, 53, native of Picton, Ont., died Wednesday at her villa here. She was well known on the French Riviera, where she had lived for many years and belonged to several charitable organizations. Her husband, James Grant-Milne, was shot by the gestapo in 1944.

Stage is Set for Grey Cup, Colorful East, West Crowds Gather for Great Grid Show

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 23 — (CP) — Things around here today are about the same as any other Grey Cup eve.

The eastern Canada football champions, as usual, are the betting favorites, 6 to 5 with the odd wager going at 7 to 5. The weather is muggy, the coaches are singing the blues, the gaily-costumed crowds are raising some good-natured shenanigans and everybody appears to be searching out hard-to-get tickets. Even the weather man is up to his Grey Cup tricks.

So far, however, there are no wild rumors going around about $3 dusters selling at $100 a pair as a perverse last-minute scramble. And there are no reports of well-heeled westerners betting oil wells or wheat fields that the Saskatchewan Roughriders will win their first Grey Cup in the 30-year history of the east-west game for the trophy.

Teams Have Woes

The folks are ready for this greatest of Canadian sports spectacles Saturday at 27,000 seating capacity Varsity Stadium but the principals—the Ottawa Rough Riders, eastern Canada titleholders, and the western champions—have woes.

Coach Harry (Black Jack) Smith of the westerners is worried, tell, and is hailing anybody that his Roughies aren't as tough after all—his players are hobbling around trying to hold each other up, he says. And Ottawa's Riders limped into town last night with two regulars uncertain about starting, and others are ticking their wounds.

Coach Clem Crowe's red battalion picked up the pace here in Wednesday's eastern Canada final at Ottawa with Sarnia Imperials, Ontario Rugby Football Union champions. Practically anything went in that game—fisticuffs and elbows flying around until near the end.

The most upsetting of the injuries in the Saskatchewan camp is the torn knee cartilage suffered by Jack Russell, nifty pass-receiving end in the final game of the western playoffs against Edmonton Eskimos. The former New York Yankee outside has not put on his uniform since the team arrived here earlier this week.

For Ottawa it is the bruised heel owned by outside Alton Baldwin and torn ligaments in Ted Mc-Larty's left leg. Crowe said he is not certain that either player would be ready for the 1 p. m. (EST) kickoff.

Turp to Down

Both clubs plan light afternoon practices. They will be bedded down early tonight—Ottawa players in a downtown hotel and the westerners at Toronto's suburban motor hotel.

The field is protected by the Canadian Rugby Union's $12,000 tarpaulin and it's a certainty there will be no repetition of last year's mess of mud and slush on which Toronto Argonauts whipped Winnipeg Blue Bombers 21-0. That was one of the worst Grey Cup fields in history.

The tarp was put down on the slightly-wet ground a week ago and has been lifted a couple of times this week during the day to allow the sun to get at it. Friday afternoon, the ground was slightly greasy but not enough to bother anybody.

Fred Turnbull, chief forecaster for the Toronto Weather Office here who had been snod-naturedly going out on a limb the last couple of years with some long-range forecasts, finally gave up Friday. He admits now that "anything can happen."

Last night and early today, a light rain fell on Toronto with temperatures about 40 above. And more rain is "certain," says forecaster Turnbull.

Kirkland Lake Leads Bonspiel

Kitchener, Ont., Nov. 23 (CP) —Tom Ramsay's Kirkland Lake rink made a successful start in their defence of the Kitchener Granite Curling Club bonspiel yesterday, winning their three rounds in the main event for the Mutual Life Trophy.

Ramsay's foursome defeated Orillia's Stan Sarjeant 10-5 in the first round and scored a 9-5 win over D. W. Currie in the second round.

Jack Nash's London rink kept pace with Ramsay by downing Alan Shirk's Kitchener-Waterloo rink 13-6 and Nate Cornwall of Detroit, Mich., 10-7.

Quebec Ladies Open Bonspiel

Quebec, Nov. 23 (CP) — Play opened today in the third-rank-ing competition of Quebec's first ladies' granite bonspiel.

Eight teams were eliminated yesterday in the second round of the top competition formed the starting draw for the Frank Hatch Shield.

Meanwhile, three teams from Toronto and one Ottawa rink survived two rounds yesterday in the Tissot Trophy competition for the blue-ribbon award of the three-day bonspiel.

The double-entry of Toronto Granite, Mrs. E. H. Woolley and Mrs. T. J. Agar, stand at opposite ends of the draw.

Mrs. Woolley's big opposition today will come from Mrs. W. H. Smith of Ottawa Curling Club. The third Toronto rink to reach the third round is a Toronto High Park foursome skipped by Mrs. M. C. Cochrane.

The other third-round teams are doubles entries from Quebec Victoria—Mrs. H. F. Hatch, and Mrs. A. F. Moth—and from Quebec Curling Club, Mrs. W. J. Hedden and Mrs. L. Unwin.

Winners in the first round of the Oneida competition—opened to losers of first round matches in the Tissot event—included Mrs. H. Kochs, Chicago, the only United States entry; Mrs. H. H. Clarke, Montreal St. George; Mrs. A. M. McMurray, Bathurst, N.B., the only rink from the maritime provinces; Miss E. Crescabe, Toronto; Mrs. Colin Rankin, Pointe Claire, Que.; and Mrs. B. Holtham, Sherbrooke, Que.

Favor Baker Over Henry In Heavy Bout

New York, Nov. 23—(CP) — Bulky Bob Baker of Pittsburgh was rated a 9-to-5 choice to whip Cleveles Henry in Madison Square Garden tonight and earn a shot at the former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles.

This is the showpiece for both men. They've been climbing steadily up the ladder. Henry, with a 36-1 record, is right behind Baker.

A crowd of 7,000 or 8,000 probably will watch them in the garden, but other fans will eye their clash via NBC's network telecast. ABC will handle the broadcast. The 10-rounder starts at 10 p.m. EST.

"This is it," said Baker. "This is my big chance. Make it hit in New York and on T.V. and you're in the dough. I guess Henry feels the same way. It will be blood and guts in here."

Henry is fully aware of the importance of the bout to his future.

"Yeah, this is the big one all right," the Los Angeles Negro, "and Baker is a big guy."

Baker, who stands five feet 11½ and weighs 194, will spot the six-foot, ½-inch Baker about 28 pounds. Baker, thinned down by constant fighting, expects to weigh about 212.

Bob had his perfect record spoiled 11 days ago by Kid Riviera, who held him to a draw in Cincinnati. Baker, a fast puncher, has scored 17 knockouts. Henry, veteran of 11 straight, has 15 kayos in his credit.

Baker has had three fights since Oct. 15. Henry has been idle since Aug. 7.

Matchmaker Al Weill of the International Boxing Club has promised the winner the crack at Joe Louis in the Garden this January.

Ottawa Riders Win Over Sarnia, But Lose Money

Ottawa, Nov. 23—(CP)—Ottawa fans and sport writers are not too happy over how the eastern Canada football final between Sarnia Imperials and Ottawa Rough Riders was played Wednesday. The Riders won there 47-13 are still nursing bruises picked up against the hard-fighting Imperials.

Tonight (Ottawa Citizen) Shields, termed the game "a complete dog flop" and said he based his statement on "the football spectacle as it was presented, the type of play displayed by Sarnia Imperials, the injuries sustained by Ottawa players on the eve of the Grey Cup final, and the financial aspect."

Bill (Ottawa Journal) Westwick complained about the way Sarnia piled on and said, "the refereeing was quite the lowest and weakest of all efforts witnessed so far this football campaign."

Financially, the game drowned only $8,500 from the 4,361 paying customers. Sarnia was guaranteed $13,000, and allowing for expenses, officials said the Ottawa club would lose about $6,000.

ORDERLIES HELD

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 23 — (AP) — Police today held two hospital orderlies today on charges stemming from a 30-year-old girl's story that she had been assaulted, robbed and tossed into the Hudson River. Detectives said, Edwin W. Crumley, 42, has been charged with attempted murder and robbery, and Peter Kotowyjak, 46, with rape. Police said Mary Ballard told them that both men had attacked her, snatched her purse and pushed her into the water.

"Next year's cars aren't going to differ much from present models except more power and probably a price rise," one industry source said today. Other industry sources said that while refinements have been made in styling features, the decided change will be in the 1953 cars. Next year's models will have a few minor changes but about the same general appearance as this year's cars. Some changes in styling features that most buyers expected for 1952 have been deferred because of the shortage of steel and other materials used in auto production.

Cuts Worst Yet

Washington, Nov. 16 —(AP)— U.S. production officials predicted today that new cuts ordered in civilian use of scarce metals after will benefit industry and consumers.

The National Production Authority announced today that the use of copper, nickel and zinc by the aluminum industry will be limited next quarter to 90 per cent of the amount allotted during the base period, January, February and March. Also, effective January 1, the use of aluminum will be cut 20 per cent. This could open an avenue for the first change in price ceilings on cars and trucks.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Horrible nightmares come from having a partner who does not respond to your takeout double. It feels like having somebody kick a tall ladder out from under you.

A double for a takeout shows a hand that is as good as an opening bid of one. It asks partner to bid something if the next opponent does not intervene with a bid.

When partner responds with a bid, what kind of a bid should he select? His first choice is to name any unbid major suit with at least four cards in it.

The size of the cards in that unbid major suit makes no difference. But there must be at least four of them. If there are less than four cards in it, an unbid major suit should not be bid.

Suppose partner has no such unbid major suit. Only then should he respond with a bid in an unbid minor suit. If that suit is diamonds, at least four cards must be in it, regardless of their size.

Suppose an opponent starts with an opening bid of one club or one diamond and your partner doubles. With no intervening bid, your response is one heart with this hand:—

♥ 4 3 2
♦ 6 5 3
♣ 9 8 6

Suppose an opponent opens with one spade or one no-trump and your partner doubles. With no intervening bid, your response with the same hand is two hearts.

Suppose an opponent opens with one heart and your partner doubles. With no intervening bid, your response with the same hand is two diamonds. You have no unbid major suit with at least four cards.

The fact that you must go to the level of two should not constrain you. The fact that you have weak cards in the suit you bid should not bother you. The fact that your hand is weak does not harass you.

Don't give me that stuff about your hand being too weak to respond. You are too weak to pass.

Absent Face

Smith, until recently, was interviewing actors, directors and producers for a Los Angeles newspaper (Daily News). He suddenly exchanged his typewriter for a make-up kit, got himself an agent and started on a promising career as a character actor. Why did he do it?"

"For the money," he replied crisply. "Even with the few jobs I've had so far, I've earned more than I could on a newspaper."

Smith is a lumbering bear of a man with a photogenic profile. Ken so, none of his colleagues suspected he would attempt to make a living as an actor.

"It all started when I wanted to write a play," he replied. "I didn't know how to write it, so I joined a little theatre group. I did a number of roles, including the lead as the stage manager in 'Our Town.' Strangely enough, I liked it.

"Then ... in 'The Asphalt Jungle' I played a newspaper man, and if you looked closely, you could have seen the left side of my face."

Has this new experience changed him?

"Well, a little," he admitted. "While carrying I thought I needed a haircut. But then I decided to forego it, since I might get a job in a period picture or something. Also, I put in an hour of pickup work at home every day in order to keep my waistline down."

USE CARRIERS IN TEAMS

Hollywood, Nov. 23 (AP)— Newspaper writers in Hollywood were startled recently to learn that columnist Darr Smith had gone over to the other side. He became an actor.

Now there is supposed to be a war between newspaper men and actors in Hollywood. The shooting has been led by Franchot Tone and Frank Sinatra recently.

There is also a cold war, as fought by such stalwarts as Greta Garbo, Jean Arthur and Charlie Chaplin.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was handing pop more liver and onions on account of it being his favorite thing to eat, saying, William, would you be surprised to learn that women can play bridge just as seriously as men play poker?

The scientists claim that nothing is impossible, but it's doubtful if any scientist ever even conceived of that one, pop said.

Meening he would be surprised all rite, and ma said, Then you and the scientists can both set your doubts at rest, because our bridge game this afternoon was played in utterly complete silence. In fact, we didn't open our mouths even to bid, she said.

Now I know I'm dreaming, pop said, and ma said, Oh no you're not. Ye bid by making signs. For instance if we menti 2 clubs we held up 2 fingers and made a motion as though we were hitting something with a club. Or if we held up 3 fingers and pointed to our chest it ment 3 hearts. And so on, without a single word or sound, she said.

It's a site I'd like to see some time, pop said, and ma said, I'm afraid you wont, though. I mean it was a very special occasion. Blanch Hippie's deff sister was visiting her, so we invited her to play. She doesn't hear a single sound, so we made up the signals for her benefit. And then we agreed not even to talk among ourselves, so she would feel still more at home. It was all so quiet and peaceful it didn't seem real. And still I must say there was a certain element of strane involved in all that unnatural silence. I had to make myself a strong cup of tea the moment I got home.

And what's so funny? she said.

Nuthing, my dear, I'm just laffing on general principals, pop said.

Which he kept on doing.

PERSONAL REGRET

Ottawa, Nov. 23—(CP)—M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader in the House of Commons, last expressed his personal regret at the defeat of K. B. Hallitte, the party's leader in the Ontario elections.

"He carried on a magnificent campaign," Mr. Coldwell said. Of the results in general Mr. Coldwell said: "evidently the people of Ontario are satisfied with the government. They returned it with an increased majority.

The election caught us somewhat unawares. But, the people have spoken and we abide by their decision."

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday November 24

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Some matters may have you upset or in doubt as to your ability. Don't let this get an upper hand. You can handle things well if you retrue to your best talents and true character.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Shipping, travel; confidential, secretarial work among outstanding first favored. Most activities ask more concentrated effort, better alertness. Avoid needless legal, personal disputes.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Excellent for inspirational matters, research, promotion, advertising. Things of unusual nature. But practicality and common sense must be maintained. Watch for new leanings.

June 22 to July 22—(Cancer)—Dealings in chemicals, minerals, food stuffs, machinery; travel by land, air or sea favored in same way. You in confidential positions will probably be keen, intuitive.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Fine period for the receptive mind, for work requiring true knowledge and analytical ideas. Keen, imaginative. If you're active in financial and business endeavors can reap fresh gains.

August 24 to September 23 — Virgo—Doctors, surgeons, nurses, public accountants, general work have fresh vigor. Be careful not to take things for granted, check again, whether you are sure or not. Emotional moods out.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—With your innate perception and intuitiveness to discern good from bad, except things to be accentuated a bit now. You can achieve much in any worthy endeavor, and help others, too.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Continue good work of past. Take courage; general influences are most favorable to both your business and personal efforts and especially where the masses, children are concerned.

November 23 to December 23—(Sagittarius)—Good day for health measures, medicine, oil, minerals, lumber, steel and food products, if care is maintained. Launch out early, keep steady pace, and you will come through fine.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)— Open sort of day. Perception keener. You should solve difficult problems easier. However, let there be steady control of desires, may be tendency to take chances, pamper emotions.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius) — For clearer vision, calmer judgment, take time solving matters before acting. Opportune now for developing unusual talents, confidential work. Don't let lack of interest creep in.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)— Don't permit any dull feings, disinterest or carelessness to dominate, they are tempters now. Urge yourself forward, much can be accomplished by honest, industrious methods.

YOU BORN TODAY: Sagittarians make excellent bankers, managers of business and people. Generally you have clear vision and the ability to think and do things quickly and accurately. In argument are apt to be blunt. Tone down, be more considerate if you expect co-operation. You are fond of the good things in life. Are prompt, can be depended upon. When you say you'll do a thing, you generally do it. Can find success as lawyer, public speaker, journalist, explorer, executive. Recognize your faults and master them.

Birthdate: Dale Carnegie, author, Geraldine Fitzgerald, actress.

WHY WE SAY

UNLUCKY 13

... The Last Supper

Many people have failed to trace the origin of the "unlucky 13." The most plausible derivation is the expression in the twelve apostles and Christ at the Last Supper . . . totalling 13. The thirteenth was Judas.

On Their Way

Waving white stetsons and sporting plaid shirts and blue jeans, 800 Reginians are en route east in two 16-car special trains for the Grey Cup game Saturday between Saskatchewan Roughriders and Ottawa. They will arrive in Toronto Friday where they will take part in a monster Grey Cup parade and cheer their team on to victory . . . they hope. — (CP Photo.)

In the Day's Work

Captain Herman L. Bushong, U.S. marines, is contemplating the gaping hole in the tail section of his Corsair fighter-bomber after he landed safely at his home base after an important photo mission over North Korea. Capt. Bushong's plane was hit by a communist 37-mm anti-aircraft shell, but the pilot was unhurt.—Central Press Canadian.

AERIAL RECORD?

Bombay—(Reuters)—The Hindu Mahasaba, Orthodox religious group and India's third largest political party, has called on Hindus to "cast off superstition in killing pests and vermin." The group has sanctioned the killing of monkeys and locusts that destroy food crops.

Victory Tide Flowed Strongest In Toronto

Toronto, Nov. 23 (CP) — The Progressive Conservative victory tide flowed strongest in the 17 Toronto and York ridings in yesterday's Ontario election.

The Progressive Conservatives retained the four Toronto area seats won in 1948, and gained 11 seats from the CCF and one from the Communist Labor-Progressive party. They missed a complete sweep by one—Toronto St. Andrews, held by Labor-Progressive Joseph Salsberg.

Western Ontario's 36 seats edged further into the Progressive Conservative fold. The government added six seats to the 16 won in 1948; Liberal holding dropped from eight to four and two CCF seats were wiped out.

In Northern Ontario's 13 seats the government's party's strength rose to 10—four more seats than in 1948. The CCF lost three of four seats and Liberal supporters fell from two to one.

Of central Ontario's 18 seats the government won 16, compared to 13 in 1948. The Liberals kept one of two former seats and the CCF one of four.

Eastern Ontario, with 17 members, showed no change in party standings, in 1948 and yesterday, the Progressive Conservatives won 13 seats and the Liberals two.

Tickets Wanted

Police Cannot See Connection In Two Incidents

Hackensack, N. J., Nov. 23 — (AP)—New Jersey authorities said last night they can see no direct connection between the Willie Moretti killing and Mrs. McCadlac impounded at Toronto by the R. C. M. P.

The R. C. M. P. stopped the car at the Canadian border yesterday and arrested a former jockey and his girl friend who were driving the $5,000 vehicle.

The Canadian police said they had information that the car was stolen and used for a getaway after the gangland slaying of the gilt-lonjured Moretti Oct. 4 in a Cliffside Park, N. J., restaurant.

Capt. E. J. Thompson, of the Bergen County prosecutor's office, which is investigating the Moretti killing, says he does not believe the couple in the car—Patsy Perry and Laurette Nesbitt, an 18-year-old dancer from Vancouver—had anything to do with Moretti's death.

A routine questioning by Toronto detectives, investigating an international jewel theft, uncovered the Cadillac convertible.

Three weeks ago New York city police detective James McShane and Daniel Fox, a New York insurance company investigator, got in touch with Toronto detectives. They believed part of a $16,000 jewel theft from the Waldorf Astoria hotel had found its way into Toronto.

During police investigation in Toronto Inspector John Nimmo talked with 19-year-old Laurette Nesbitt and her boy friend, Patrick Perry, a former jockey.

Miss Nesbitt claimed she bought a black Cadillac convertible beating New York licences plates in New Jersey, unaware it was stolen.

Miss Nesbitt, who had aspirations to a New York stage career as a dancer, and Perry were charged with being in possession of a stolen car.

The Outsiders

By Jane Abbott

Dolly this moment every man in the group had looked upon Marilyn and her prettiness with complete indifference. An hour later But, now, such was their anxiety, there were no lines drawn. Threats growled, hands doubled into fists.

"Run him out of the valley!" "Tar him and run him out on a rail!"

Reds went around their circle like a flame.

"Beat him up! Beat him to a pulp!"

"That's the doc's right."

"Slim! He couldn't throw a punch!" But there was no scorn in the man's voice and it once more growled, "I'll help him!"

"If he needs us. . ."

Tom Matthews came out to them. He held a slip of paper in his hand. He jerked his massive head toward in the direction of the manager's office. "Order is for you fellows to go home and stay until you're sent for. He tore the paper across, crushed the pieces in his big grained hand.

As the men filed out of the mill yard Eliza drove in. She went at once to George Culbert's office.

"Are some of the men quitting?"

"No. It's the crew on the best. I laid them off until the machine is running again."

"Without pay?"

"Well we'd scarcely pay them for manning themselves in the yard, would we?" It was only with a great effort he managed to kept a smile on his face and his voice smooth for Eliza.

John Streeter looked in and said: "Can I have time off to drive Mrs. Culbert over to the hospital in Cranford for some X-rays on his hand? Matthews sent me to you."

"Why have you elected yourself to do it?"

"Dr. Cook appears to want my opinion in this particular case."

"I thought you were trying to chisel in on it" George Culbert sneered. "But, understand, Dr. Cook is the only one to be paid by the mill. Don't be too hopeful about his splinting his fees with you!"

John Streeter ignored, that. "How about it? It'll take most of the day, and we should get started."

The blood rushed to the manager's already pounding head. "Using that bone to get at that stupid wife of his, all in the same puzzle.

He felt better, quite a bit better, until from his window he saw the men in the yard and the way they huddled close together. The look on their faces. There was too much of that lately—it smelled of trouble! Well, there was one way of breaking it up. He caught up a pad, wrote an order on it, went out to find Tom Matthews. Again he felt better. Though not enough to welcome Eliza Forrestals unexpected coming. She was demanding: "did my grandfather ever do that?"

"I can't say. There's been no occasion for me to, since you've been here. But I feel pretty certain he held to the good old rule of 'no work, no pay'. Here it all down and be comfortable." He drew a chair forward.

Eliza sat down. "When will the machine be fixed?"

"Three, maybe four weeks. I've put the order through for the new parts."

"Isn't there some other work you—we could give these men?"

The manager shuffled some papers on his desk. "I've been going over the payroll and thinking it ought to cut it. Your grandfather fixed the scale of wages when everything was going okay, but now with the raw materials hard to get and manufacturing slowed up by one thing and another—it's taking a lot of money out of your pocket. If we cut down on the pay, proportionately fair to every last man, it'd be simply good business."

Eliza was looking out of the window, her forehead knotted a little, but the confident look still on her face.

"I've found out that running this mill, with my grandfather, wasn't just business! That there was more to it than the money that was in it. . ."

George Culbert lighted a cigaret with a not too steady hand. But he kept his voice tolerant, amused. "Now where did you find that out?"

"From that ledger my grandfather kept. There is much more in it than figures and statements. There are notes and letters from before his time. I haven't read them all. But enough to know that my grandfather and his father and his father considered the men the backbone of the mill!"

She had spent all of last evening searching it. Except for what Chris Cameron had said she might have found its pages as incomprehensible as she had that first time she looked into the book. He had given her a key to their meanings.

"There were notes of deaths and of births of babies. One of fighting a fierce fire that burned in the next valley. "Worst in my lifetime." Of the building of a new shed in the mill yard. Of a new organ for the Meeting House. On one page "Pretty little Annie Aldrich got the honor and disappointment to teach the school here."

There was a note of some kind on almost every page and all had to do with happenings and persons in the valley. Some were in abbreviations so that they meant nothing to her, but they had to her grandfather.

She had found some letters attached by scotch tape to one of the pages. One spoke of her great-great grandfather's valor, an example to them all; another mourned the loss of him as a "leader in the continuing fight for the principles of freedom and equal rights to all men."

She was thrilled and proud. Her mother never by a word had suggested them had been any great worthiness in the Forrestals.

She could not tell George Culbert how it had made her feel, this knowledge that the blood of those dead and gone Forrestals, who had built school and valor, ran in her own veins.

George Culbert said "there's a name for it, Eliza. It was practised to quite an extent in bigger industries than this, a number of years back. Company houses for the workers, company stores where they could buy everything they needed. Had to buy, in fact. They didn't want to be told to live here, - buy there! They wanted to work and get their wages and do what they pleased with them. They got together on it—unions came in and the paternal system went out. Feudal system, you might call it."

Eliza felt a little trembling run up from her knees. "You mean—my grandfather—his father. . ."

"Very much the same, from what I know of it. And as outdated now. The only reason the men here haven't joined up long ago against it is because the mill was too small for the unions to bother with. The time's gone by Eliza when a pat on the head by the big boss is part of the business. I know it isn't a pleasant situation for you, to find you've inherited a dying industry, but that is what this is. And I want to do everything possible to save you from bankruptcy." He pulled some letters to him. "I've had word this morning of a further increase in the price of pulpwood, in rags, in twine, in every one of the raw materials we have to have. I can show you on a single sheet of paper in a few plain figures that we can't go on much longer."

Eliza, listening, had not moved; she had barely felt herself breathing. It was a moment before she could speak. "What would happen to these men here if we—if you closed down?"

"They'd find jobs quick enough, better jobs. There are paper mills all over the state. The old ones'd probably farm. They've savings put away. They are a thrifty lot. It'd be no big tragedy to them."

Eliza got up from her chair. She had a feeling of something breaking inside her. The manager hadn't spoken falsely before.

George Culbert got up his feet. He put his hand on her arm. "You said you'd trust me!"

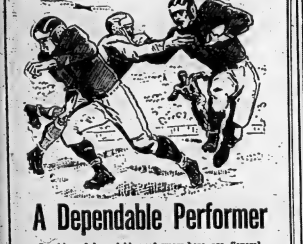
"Yes, I trust you." She drew away from the touch of his hand. She went to her grandfather's office. She wanted to cry, she wanted to fight, George Culbert was right—he was wrong. She did not trust him and she had to. She longed to talk to Chris Cameron. . . The conflict of emotions whirled inside her, yet she sat without moving as much as her hands.

Then she sprang up and went out of the office, impelled by a sudden impulse to see and talk to Annie Wilson. No. Go to the picking shed. She did not stop to think what she would say to Annie, nor did it occur to her that it was more proper to summon Annie, the mill worker, to her.

She paused at the door of the picking shed, gazed at a long wooden table piled with old garments, at which two boys and an old man and Annie Wilson sat, their heads bent to their work.

No one saw her and she stood there, hesitating, looking in, looking at Annie. Then a man saw her, grunted, "good morning," every head lifted and turned toward her.

Annie Wilson came to her. "Miss Forrestal you shouldn't come in here! It's too dirty today. Isn't always as bad as this —it's only when some bales have been opened and the things scattered about."



She stood before Eliza at the door as if she must shield her. But she looked back into the shed. "Tim you know Miss Forrestal?"

She said that to the man by the boiler who merely nodded his head in answer. She waved her hand toward the table. "That's Martin Beebe over there and Cran Shipley and Uncle Pete Dancomb—he's stone deaf and he doesn't hear me. Boys, this is Miss Forrestal!"

Vishinsky Rejects Disarmament Plan Offered by West

United Nations Ponders Russian Amendments

Paris, Nov. 24 (CP) — Russia's Andrei Vishinsky today rejected the western disarmament plan in its present form and submitted 12 "serious" amendments which he said would make it acceptable to Russia.

Vishinsky's amendments had the apparent effect of transforming the west's plan into the plan Russia submitted to the United Nations' General Assembly two weeks ago.

The Soviet Foreign Minister submitted his amendment to the 60-member U.N. political committee at the end of a one-hour and 46-minute speech.

Would Ban Atom Use

Vishinsky's amendments called for immediate prohibition of the atomic bomb under international control; asked an immediate one-third reduction of forces of the United States, Britain, France and China; emphasized that the control committee on atomic energy council, where Russia has a veto, find out all reference to a step by step sequence of arms.

The west contends that a foolproof disclosure of arms by steps and verification of them be submitted by various countries are the keystones of its plan.

The expected Soviet rejection of the Western plan was somewhat softened by the list of amendments. At least it means that the western proposals would be used as a basis for discussion.

It was recalled however, that Vishinsky used the same technique last year in presenting amendments to an American plan for strengthening the U.N. General Assembly. The amendments were called so drastic to change the entire character of the plan and were rejected.

Expresses Viewpoint

"The Soviet delegation considers that the draft submitted by the delegations of the United States, British and French cannot in the present form serve as a constructive basis," Vishinsky said today.

"This draft needs serious amendments, which the Soviet delegation is simultaneously submitting to the members on the first (political) committee.

He urged acceptance of the Russian proposals that, he said will open the way to "agreement on such important questions as reduction of armaments and prohibition of atomic weapons, with the establishment of strict international control over implementation of prohibition of atomic weapons and reduction of armaments."

"Finally," Vishinsky said, "we would like to see the authors and supporters of the three-power proposals to answer the following questions.

Seeks Answers

Would they agree that the general assembly would proclaim unconditional prohibition of atomic weapons and establishment of strict international control over implementation of this prohibition:

"Do they agree that the general assembly should instruct the commission on atomic energy and conventional armaments to prepare and submit for consideration of the security council by Jan. 2, 1953, a draft of the corresponding convention?

"Do they agree that this convention should envisage measures facilitating the fulfilment of the decision of the general assembly on prohibition of atomic weapons, cessation of their production and utilization for military purposes, and bombs exclusively for civilian purposes, and establishment of strict international control over implementation of said convention?"

Wants Imposition

Vishinsky also asked if the west agrees that, once a disarmament convention is concluded, the international control organ should immediately "carry out imposition of all establishments for the production, stockpiling of atomic weapons" with a plea to carrying out the prohibition of atomic weapons.

Truman Orders End to Russian, Polish Trade

Washington, Nov. 24 (AP) — President Truman has ordered an end to tariff agreements under which the United States gives Russia and Poland most favored nations equal to those afforded any other country.

And another presidential order yesterday calls for an outright ban on importing several types of furs from Russia and communist China. Furs are a major Russian export to the west.

The orders are effective Jan. 1.

The new tariff treatment ordered for Russia and Poland stems from from the list of countries to which the U.S. promises the same tariff concessions it gives to most of the rest of the country. It means Russian and Polish exports will now be subject to regular import duties at U.S. borders.

The president's action follows legislation last summer extending the reciprocal trade act. Congress directed that, as soon as possible, the president should withdraw tariff concessions granted to Russia and other communist countries or areas.

Under this act, Bulgaria, communist China and Czechoslovakia have already lost their "most-favored treaty" standing. Trade treaty with Russia, written in 1935, required six months' notification for termination. A 1931 treaty with Poland also had a 6-month termination clause. Both countries were notified last July 6 that the U.S. intended to end their tariff standing.

Hungary has a one-year termination clause, dating its tariff from favored status to next July.

The furs that may no longer be imported from Russia or red China at any rate of duty are mainly those of muskrat, marmink, muskrat and weasel.

Six Crew Members Killed in Crash

Zurich, Switzerland, Nov. 24 (AP) — Six crew members were killed today when a big four-engined Swiss airliner on a flight from El Al Airlines crashed while circling for a landing at Zurich airport.

A seventh crew member, Michael Gerber, was found with two broken legs.

The plane burst into flames after crashing. Officials of the Swiss Air Office and the airline have started an joint investigation into the tragedy.

Five bodies were found inside the plane. A sixth had been thrown clear, still strapped to the seat.

Princess Margaret Enjoys Self By Attending French Night Clubs

Paris, Nov. 24 (AP)—Princess Margaret, kicking up her high-heeled shoes in a gay farewell to Paris, danced until 5 a.m. today in two of the French capital's smartest night-clubs.

The 21-year-old princess started the evening with a dinner at Maxim's, famed gathering place immortalized by Franz Lehar in the "Merry Widow."

Then accompanied by the Duchess of Kent and a group of blue blooded-and-tied reporters and photographers a merry chase.

First she stopped at the smart Montaigne-ne Jazz Club, "Jimmy's," stayed there long enough to have a drink; then headed off for "Montgomery's" chic night club in the Montmartre section.

Leaving "Jimmy's," she ran through a drizzling rain to the waiting automobile. A photographer who tried to flash her picture found the heavy hand of a Scotland Yard man thrust against his face.

At "Monsieigeurs" two British detectives strode into the club, seized a camera from a French newspaper photographer, hustled him outside and presumably exposed films he had taken of the Royal party.

The Princess, dressed in a white satin evening gown with a pert bow at the waist, danced the rhumba and samba with Prince Nicholas of Yugoslavia and the Comte De Robes.

The party drank champagne at 9,000 francs ($26) a bottle.

GOVT. DRAWS BOTH PRAISE, CRITICISM FOR PENSION PLAN

All Weekend Program But Thought it Late

Ottawa, Nov. 24—(CP)—The government formally put its plan for increased disabled war veterans pensions before parliament yesterday and drew both praise and criticism.

Legislation to increase the pensions by an average of 33 1/3 per cent beginning next January was given first reading after a lengthy debate in the resolution stage.

Opposition and government spokesmen generally backed the legislation. But many thought it was a year late, that some pensioners would not live to see maximum of the effect of the Veterans Allowance Act and that more should be done for dependent children and dependent parents.

Tabling forward a bill December adjournment, the commons got through its Friday business quickly that it adjourned early the second day in succession.

Besides the pensions resolution, the commons dealt with a measure to provide privileges and immunities to the representatives of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Canada. Ottawa will get similar privileges abroad.

Sent to Committee

Hon. Ian Mackenzie (Vancouver Centre) suggested the bill should be thoroughly discussed. It was given second reading and sent to a committee for further study.

Also given second reading was a measure to increase to $4,000,000 from $2,000,000 the revolving fund at the disposal of the King's Printer. Secretary of State Brooke Claxton said the increase is necessary by government departments, Act and King's Printer owed $2,000,000 to his suppliers.

Details of the new disabled war veterans pension plan were given the house last week by Veterans Minister Lapointe.

They will increase the basic pension for a single, totally disabled veteran by $15 from $85 a month, the basic allowance to a totally disabled pensioner's wife by $10 from $40, and the allowance for the first child to $20 from $19 and the widow's pension to $100 from $75.

Cook Test Removed

Capt. Howard Green (PC—Vancouver South-Burnaby), opposed the bill should have a section providing for a cost of living bonus and have the effect of decreasing war veterans allowance payments.

Hon. Hugh Conn (PC—Cape Acadia) asked the means test be removed for pensioners and that war veterans allowance legislation.

TO GO ON WAGON

Los Angeles, Nov. 24.—(AP) — Actor Lawrence Tierney promised a judge today to go on the wagon for three years, in lieu of a six-month jail term. Tierney, 32, was found guilty on his eighth charge of drunkenness by Judge Roger Alton Pfaff.

Canadian Troops in Korea Have Easier Time as Enemy Turns His Attention Elsewhere

By BILL BOSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the Canadians in Korea, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Canada's 25th Brigade in Korea has lately been reaping dividends which haven't made the headlines.

The situation has been strictly on a barge-pole basis. And, naturally, shifting. Mainly he busies himself elsewhere.

The situation stems directly from his progress earlier this month when he felt out United Nations lines throughout the sector and was rigidly stonewalled by the Canadians. Following a logical pattern, he has concentrated since on areas indicated then as more likely to be profitable.

Nightly the enemy moves some mild-to-big nuisance of wire strung out in front of the Canadians. His shells and mortar bombs upon them. Sometimes he comes in close for combat. Usually the Canadians while a major attempt is made elsewhere.

At one nearby headquarters one night a lighter formation blanketed Seattle. What they come here? Why don't they bomb the Canadians once in a while?"

Handle Them Properly

Division headquarters answered: Handle them properly because the Canadians handle them properly.

Indeed, for Brig. J. M. Rockingham's troops it's mainly a question of absolute quiet, holding their fire and stern discipline in hugging their foxholes while the shells are dropping. It's a case of just sitting there and taking it.

Naturally, the artillery supporting the Canadians is dishing it out in a more lavish scale than they are receiving. A bluish haze is constantly rising above the gun valley behind them, indicative of the support they are getting.

Also, Canadian and British soldiers perched on ridgetops ahead of the main positions take on enemy-targeted and maintain a constant harassing fire.

Meanwhile, night after night an enemy probing party assails itself nearby, where the enemy almost effortlessly captures what he wants in no time. Occasionally one comes before nightfall—and the remainder of the night is spent by United Nations forces there regaining it. In the end sometimes unopposed.

One hill which changed hands about six times recently now is a mass of wire and stakes strung out in front of the Canadians. His shells and mortar bombs upon them. Sometimes he comes in close for combat. Usually the Canadians while a major attempt is made elsewhere.

One hill which changed hands about six times recently now is a mass of wire and stakes strung out and shrub growth. So heavily has artillery from both sides rained on it.

It was up that hill that the "Dragon Lady" — a black-clad Chinese woman spy — was alleged to have led Chinese troops.

So many murderous concentrations of artillery fire have been poured out by the entire divisional area that Canadian Horse Artillery, that Canadian gunners are joking about where new fire positions are going to get their share of the ammunition.

Nonetheless, the nights are long during the front, where vigilance and steadiness are absolutely essential, right up to Rockingham's headquarters where it is most important to keep abreast of the situation along the line, last enemy successes embarass the Canadians' own situation as well as to watch developments to lend a helping hand such as artillery, mortar or machine-gun support.

Hope Fades for Final Approval Of Zone Issue This Weekend

Munsan, Korea, Nov. 24 (AP) — Hope faded today for final approval of the Korean buffer-zone issue this weekend as staff officers reported agreement on only one-half of the 145-mile ceasefire line.

The officers pored over maps for five hours and 10 minutes Saturday, comparing United Nations' and communist versions of the battle line. But only 80 miles is located. They will meet for the third time in Panmunjom Sunday at 10 a.m. (8 p.m. EST Saturday).

The official U.N. command communique said only that they agreed on approximately one half of the line. It did not designate sectors still in dispute.

Lt.-Col. Howard Levie, U.N. command spokesman at staff conferences, said it was too early to say the staff officers have hit a snag. He added that allied officers hope to settle the line tomorrow but "couldn't make any guarantees."

Progress Made

"Progress was being made right up to 4:30 this afternoon when the meeting ended," Levie said Saturday night. "Our staff officers expect to go back tomorrow and make considerable progress there. The only thing remaining because both sides will have an opportunity to get the latest information from the front lines."

Levie acknowledged that there still remain "a few areas of major difference" when Saturday's meeting ended.

There had been some expectation that the staff officers could finish mapping the cease-fire line Saturday.

Lt.-Col. Howard Levie, U.N. command spokesman had expressed hope that if the buffer zone decision were reached speedily the delegates could move on immediately to the next item on the agenda—supervision of the Armistice.

Presumably final approval of the clause cannot come before Monday now.

Under terms of the agreement worked out by the subcommittee, the cease-fire line agreed upon will become the final demarcation line if no

Armistice is signed within 30 days.

Levie said the staff officials worked from a situation map of the battle line during their morning session and ironed out some "minor differences" which had remained unsettled.

The U.N. Allies and the reds both claimed one east Korean hill. Levie said Eighth Army headquarters had telephoned that the Allies holding the hill and rejected back the claim that it was "highly insulted" when they learned there was some doubt as to its ownership.

Settlement of the cease - fire line would be the first three forces talks for almost four months — since July 27. The negotiators then left more knotty problems to solve, any one of which could torpedo the truce conference.

The next item on the agenda is supervision of the armistice. Allied officials envision behind the battle lines and policing a 2½-mile-wide demilitarized zone encircling the cease-fire line. If the negotiators clear this hurdle, they still come to the exchange of war prisoners. Then they must formulate recommendations for the governments involved in the war, including plans for withdrawing all foreign troops from Korea.

Three Killed in Toronto Traffic Accidents

Toronto, Nov. 24 (CP) — Three persons were killed Friday night in traffic accidents in and about Toronto.

Leo Debarge, 36, was killed when he fell under the wheels of the windshield of his car in a crash west of the city on High-way No. 2.

Samuel Ward died of injuries suffered when he was hit by a car in front of his home in northwest Toronto.

Thomas Samuels, 56, of York Township, was killed when she was hit by a car while crossing Yonge Street south of Thornhill. In another accident early today, Ilse Sladek, 36, was taken to hospital unconscious after the car in which she was riding hit a train at a crossing and was wedged between a freight car and a building on front street.

TWO OF EVERY 3 MONTREALERS USE U.S. CIGS

Millions of Smuggled Smokes Brought Across

Montreal, Nov. 24. (CP)—It looked as though Canadian smokers are taking no chances of a cigarette here.

Police estimate that two of every three Montreal smokers have switched to U.S. brands. They say the cause is a closely-guarded secret has become a wide-open business.

Customs, R.C.M.P. vigilance millions of smuggled smokes are finding their way over the border.

They are selling at $3.10 to $3.50 for a 10-package carton. Duty-free carton contains 20 cigarettes. A similar Canadian pack costs 46 cents here.

Police say R.C.M.P. have seized 7,800,-976 American cigarets in Quebec province since the beginning of the year, R.C.M.P. Inspector Rene Belec said last night. The latest seizure was three days ago when 240,000 smokes and a new truck were confiscated near Hemmingford.

The head of the criminal investigation branch of R.C.M.P., "C" division headquarters here said it isn't up to him to explain the smuggling. He acknowledged he admitted it is at a peak never before known.

The smuggling, coupled with buyers' resistance here, are the effects of a boycott started by the Imperial Tobacco Company.

Inspector Belec said that in the 700 seizures of cigarettes since the start of the year 250 cars and trucks were confiscated and more than 400 persons have appeared in district courts.

Most of the offenders were returned to their owners, he said, after payment of a voluntary penalty in the form of a fine.

The largest single seizure was 240,000 cigarettes found in a barn ago in the eastern townships, near the American border. They were headed for Montreal, he said.

Seventeen border patrols of the R.C.M.P. and customs men are constantly trying to halt the smuggling rackets.

Inspector Belec said smuggling has increased to the point where it is an organized racket in some sections of the province.

"Even United States citizens are involved," he said.

U.S. Accuses Russia of Intercepting, Attacking American Naval Plane

Paris, Nov. 24.— (AP)— The United States today accused Russia of intercepting and attacking an American naval plane without warning while it was flying over international waters of Europe.

The plane had been missing and was "presumed lost" since Nov. 6 when it set out on a weather-reporting mission. It was under U. N. command in Korea.

The accusation of protest was sent to the United Nations' secretary-general, Trygve Lie, for submission to the U.N. security council. The charge was based on a report from the U.N. Far East commander in Korea. The note did not ask for action on the report and was believed intended to forestall any Russian initiative on the case.

The note said the route of the plane did not approach closer than 40 miles to Russian territory, and that the pilot had been ordered not to approach closer than 20 miles to Soviet territain under any circumstances.

People Knocked Out of Their Beds 30 Miles Away

Exploding Half-Ton Mines Cause $1,400,000 Damage

By BIRGER FARUP

Copenhagen, Denmark, Nov. 24—(AP)—At least 21 firemen and sailors died last night when exploding half-ton mines blasted the Danish navy's arsenal into a charred tangle of death and wreckage.

Others possibly were blown into the harbor or still may be lying under the tangle of concrete and metal debris. Seventy-nine others were injured.

Unofficial estimates set the damage somewhere between 75,000,000 and 100,000,000 crowns (about $1,700,000 to $1,400,000).

The violent chain reaction of fire and explosion, which destroyed five buildings and heavily damaged other navy installations, shattered windows throughout Copenhagen. It set off hundreds of burglar alarms and knocked people out of their beds as far away as Sweden, 30 miles across the straits.

Fire in a gasoline tank behind the heavy concrete arsenal touched off seven of 10 mines which were stored along the line, last reports from the United States. The blast made a crater about 10 yards deep and 30 yards wide and disintegrated the workshop where the mines had been taken for inspection.

Firemen Caught in Blast

Firemen who first were called to battle the fire were caught by the blast. Only one was able to tell what happened. The other 22 were dead or dying in the hospital.

The resulting fires were brought under control two hours after the blast and the grim work of searching for bodies began.

The roof over the dormitories of the Royal Danish Academy collapsing panic among the 1,100 sleeping men. The navy's new headquarters also was heavily damaged.

Speculation on the possibility of sabotage was aroused when Police Commissioner V. Odmar imposed a censorship blackout of information on investigation of the disaster. Military court investigators met this morning in secrecy after Defence Minister Harald Petersen visited the navy yard.

It was the country's worst peacetime disaster. But it brought to mind a similar disaster in 1944, when forces of Danish Nazi Germans were killed in the explosion of a German munitions ship at Aarhus.

Of the known dead, 20 were firemen called here from the navy's fire squad. Their bodies were identified and turned over to relatives. The explosions hurled several marines into the harbor and it was not known whether all had been recovered.

Air Passenger Throws Scare Into Airport Police

Chicago, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Trans-Canada Airlines officials said yesterday a passenger changed his mind about going to Toronto Tuesday and thereby threw a bomb scare into airport police.

The man, about 35, refused to allow his name to be used. He told the TCA stewardess just before take-off that he wanted to get off the plane.

"I am supposed to go back to Toronto tomorrow instead of today," he was quoted as saying. "I'll have to get off right away."

When the portable ramp was rolled back, the man refused to take his suitcase. He said he would have it when he arrived in Toronto.

The plane's crew and ground officials who had heard the tale of his action recalled the tragedy last month when 23 airline passengers were killed when a man left a bomb on a plane.

The actual 13 minutes in the air, was directed to return. The suitcase was removed, carried away from the buildings until police arrived, then was opened. It contained nothing but personal effects.

To entitle passenger left by train Wednesday for Toronto.

Fine Display Paintings Seen At Art Exhibit

Yesterday afternoon the Arts and Crafts Guild held an exhibition of pastels, oils, charcoal, ceramics, and other handicraft by local artists, in the "Phillips Studio", Bridge Street, where the talented budding artists and those interested in things beautiful gathered to view and to enjoy a special tiea.

Lovely Oils

Among the oils some exceptionally fine pastoral scenes exhibited including a realistic scene of rocks, trees, wind-swept skies, entitled, "Windblown" with a rich, vivid coloring packing a deal of motion in its swift and flashing strokes. Another scene depicted a glorious Autumn with golden trees, a winding roadway, and distant hills lost in blue haze surrounding a blue lake; while another, a most charming bit of color with its deep green evergreens, red-touched rocks and shrubs, fallen logs—a little bit of "Nature Untouched", such as one seldom sees after the lumber jack has strayed off from the beaten path. A "Summer Meadow" with its misty mauves, the delicate expanse of soft green and cirrus clouds, was restful and pleasing

Your Hospital

'Early Ambulation' Treatment Method Increases Hospital Costs

(Last of a Series)

We have a great deal these days about how inflationary conditions have increased the cost of providing patient care in our public hospitals. Of the impact higher costs for supplies, equipment and personnel have had on hospital costs, there is no doubt. Hospitals, like industry, are subject to the conditions of the open market and must pay the price for everything they use — every person they employ.

Among other things which have added to the cost of caring for the sick in hospitals is the new treatment method of "early ambulation" that is, getting patients up and around again as soon as possible after surgical treatment so that they will get better faster, lose less time from their normal occupations, and regain less of the effects of surgery such as adhesions and hernias.

Other Cost Problems

Immediately, we think that this kind of treatment should cut down hospital costs, for aren't patients discharged earlier? Isn't the patient's stay in hospital is shorter and as a consequence his bill is not much more, or as much, as it would have been fifteen or twenty years ago when hospital rates were lower. But early ambulation and resulting early discharge from hospital adds to return home without the benefit of spending long periods of convalescence in hospital, the hospital bed they vacate is immediately given to another acutely ill patient requiring this treatment method of the hospital staff. Thus your hospital is providing a continuous chain of concentrated care for the acutely ill. Having no "convalescent" period which formerly lowered the average daily cost, the hospital is obliged to ask patients for more per day.

What are the factors that relate both what we call "attention"? First of all, hospitals have had many more beds to provide the proper skilled service. More special diets are being prescribed. Anyone who has had an operation knows that for several days following surgery, especially of an abdominal type, food is carefully chosen both to appeal to the patient's taste (which is often not too good just then) and to provide and improve the patient's health.

Need More Skilled Staffs

Having greater numbers of acutely ill patients means that hospitals must employ more highly skilled professional people such as radiologists and x-ray technicians, pathologists and medical laboratory workers. There is more housekeeping to be done; more laundry to handle; more instruments and other equipment to be sterilized. The nursing room must be kept in constant preparation. Having more patients admitted and discharged from hospital means more office staff, greater bookkeeping service and everything.

Taking these few simple facts on one phase of hospital operation and giving them a little thought, we soon see that every function of the hospital is affected by the medical profession's ability to help people get well quicker. In discussing this subject nothing has been said about the additional complex equipment required by the hospital to treat more and more patients every year, or about the many new kinds of treatment which require costly, highly specialized apparatus as well as the skilled operators to use them.

The next time you think hospital rates are high try to remember that the community hospital — your hospital — is doing everything it can to provide the very best kind of health care, and that, every day, persons who years ago would have succumbed to certain illnesses are being quickly restored to health, vigor and happiness. There is no dollars-and-cents value to life.

THE HILL OF RACHEL

(Article 9)

Jerusalem — (Special to the Ontario Intelligencer) — Situated on the northern outskirts of Jerusalem Negev is a small settlement called Ramat Rachel, the meaning of which means the Hill of Rachel. I had the opportunity of visiting the settlement and of observing and the surrounding terrain, and of hearing the very interesting story of the settlement.

The hill on which the settlement is built is historic ground because the tomb of Rachel is plainly visible from that vantage point. I was also able to view the town of Bethlehem, a Greek Orthodox monastery marking the spot where the prophet Elijah began his prophecies, and the Judean desert.

Rocky Country

The desert is not the sandy type that we know of in Canada but is a desert of rocks and hills. It is inhabited by wild camels and Arabs suffering from leprosy. I found it hard to believe that in this modern age, just as in Biblical times, that the exile people suffering from leprosy, leaving them to wander in the desert waste lands.

The settlement of Ramat Rachel was built in 1927 with about 300 people settling there.

It was an agricultural settlement with fruit growing and dairy farming the foremost industries. Because of the Arab riots which took place in Palestine in 1929, the settlers were forced to build a fortress in the middle of their settlement, which was used also for a school and dining hall.

During the Arab-Israeli War which took place after the declaration of the state of Israel in 1948, and during the long siege of Jerusalem, a great deal of fighting took place at the settlement and Ramat Rachel changed hands three times.

Win Third Battle

First captured by the Egyptian army, the Israeli Palmach (elite troops of the Israeli army) managed to drive the Egyptians back and gain possession of the hill. Guarded by the Irgun Zvei Leumi (Jewish underground terrorist organization), it was recaptured by the Egyptian army when the Irgun were unable to give adequate protection. A third battle was fought through in which the Israeli army managed to capture and retain the hill.

The Hill of Rachel was of great importance to both sides because of its commanding position overlooking Jerusalem.

Today the settlement at Ramat Rachel is situated on the border dividing Israel from Transjordan, Israel to the north and east, south and west by the latter state. Most of the original buildings of the settlement were destroyed during the war. The fortress, built in 1929, still stands although its walls are filled with shell and bullet holes.

Scene of Rain

Trenches wind between the foundations of buildings which once stood and on the three sides facing Arab territory there are many trenches and much barbed wire. The fruit trees that once stood on the slopes of the Hill of Rachel were destroyed by the Egyptians during their first occupation as well as the 300 cattle which belonged to the settlement.

The fortress, despite the terrific shelling that it received, still stands today and is a good example of the endurance of the settlers of Ramut Rachel. These people, although they have been faced with many hardships, have returned to the ruins of their settlement and in the true spirit of the Israeli people are attempting to build a new and flourishing settlement.

"Blest Be The Tie That Binds"

Blest be the tie that binds
Our hearts in Christian love;
The fellowship of kindred minds
Is like to that above.

Before our Father's throne,
We pour our ardent prayers;
Our fears, our hopes, our aims are one,
Our comforts and our cares.

We share our mutual woes,
Our mutual burdens bear,
And often for each other flows
The sympathizing tear.

When we asunder part,
It gives us inward pain;
But we shall still be joined in heart,
And hope to meet again.

This glorious hope revives
Our courage by the way,
While each in expectation lives,
And longs to see the day.

From sorrow, toil and pain,
And sin we shall be free;
And perfect love and friendship reign
Through all eternity.

The English evangelist, George Whitefield, never preached a more telling sermon than that which led John Fawcett, one night in 1753, to come to the altar at the close of a London meeting hall service.

Fawcett, a 16-year-old tailor's apprentice, had left his needles and iron at the close of a day to listen to the preacher whose sermons were stirring city-wide interest. Whitefield used for his theme that night this text from St. John III, 14, 15:

"that even so must the Son of Man be lifted up: That whosoever believeth in Him shall not perish, but have eternal life."

At the close of the service he invited those who wished to join Christ to come to the altar, and the tailor lad came. Ten years later, Fawcett was ordained a Baptist minister and began serving a small parish at Wainsgate, in Yorkshire. He grew so attached to his people that he devoted his entire life to service in their midst.

It was a near separation from his congregation which led the young clergyman to compose the hymn which, through the years, has become increasingly precious to Christians everywhere. In 1772 Dr. Fawcett received a call to become pastor of a leading Baptist church in London. He had served his people at Wainsgate for seven years and the lure of London's larger field seemed to tempt the young minister. So he accepted and, after preaching a farewell sermon, he began loading his household goods and other belongings on the wagons which were to take him to his new parish.

While he packed and piled his trunks on the waiting carts, his parishioners crowded about him and with tears in their eyes begged him to stay with them. Moved by their loyalty, Fawcett could not depart. He unpacked his goods and promised never again to think of leaving. A few days later, still impressed by the devotion of his people, he wrote "Blest Be The Tie That Binds".

WHO ARE RUSSIA'S ALLIES?

Nigel Birch, under secretary for air in the recently-formed British Conservative government, informed his colleagues in the British House of Commons on Wednesday that Russian-built MIG-15 jet planes which had been shot down in Korea were powered by engines which were "copies" of the Rolls-Royce Nene engines which are manufactured in Britain for the use of the Royal Air Force.

Mr. Birch further declared that the Russians had "derived considerable benefit" from buying Rolls-Royce engines in Britain while the Laborite government was in power.

Emanuel Shinwell, the Laborite who had been minister of defence until the Labor government was defeated, denied the accuracy of Mr. Birch's statement, but Mr. Birch insisted his statement was correct and that it was based upon information supplied by the intelligence experts.

Mr. Birch may have been mistaken, but how could Mr. Shinwell know he was mistaken? Does Mr. Shinwell know all about what kind of planes the Russians build? Is Mr. Shinwell in contact with Russian aircraft designers and builders?

It seems strange that any British government, Laborite or otherwise, should permit the sale of military aircraft engines to a country with which the British and their allies are engaged in what is called a "cold war."

Even if the Rolls-Royce company, which makes these engines, is prepared to sell to all comers, the British Laborites might have shown an interest in preventing the sales to a country with which Britain, sometime, may be engaged in a shooting war.

ARMOR MAKES COMEBACK

Those suits of armor which the United States government plans to test under actual battle conditions, probably in Korea, are in production, it was announced in New York the other day.

The material of which they are made bears the impressive name "Haskon Reinforced Alkoyd Molding Compound." Whether these suits of armor are light enough for a soldier to wear conveniently is not disclosed, but the Associated Press says they are tough enough to stop a .45 calibre bullet at 10 yards.

The .45 calibre bullet referred to is probably the bullet shot by the .45 calibre Colt automatic with which American officers are equipped. The plastic armor may be tough enough to stop a .45 calibre bullet, but it cannot be tough enough to stop a .45 calibre bullet and also protect a soldier from the shocking power of any such heavy bullet. Also, there are more powerful handguns than the .45 Colt automatic, although some of them are smaller in calibre.

SINDBAD WAS NO FIBBER

A group of fourteen Danish scientists has been investigating what goes on at the bottom of the Pacific Ocean. Their ship, Danish royal naval frigate Galathea, has just docked at Sydney, Australia, after months spent in studying deep-sea life.

At 22,000 feet below the surface of the Pacific, the Danish scientists found blind fish, but other scientists found blind fish in the ocean depths before. They also found fish with feet-long larvae of eels at great depths off the Philippine Islands.

No adult eels of this species were located, but one of the scientists, a chap named Hakon Mielche, estimates that a larva six feet long means that the adult eel would be 100 feet or more in length.

Thus it would appear that Sindbad the Sailor was not spoofing and that there really are sea serpents after all.

SUDBURY KICKS, TOO

Not long ago, both Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec and Mayor Lucien Borne of Quebec City complained that those who took the federal census had undercounted the approximately 200,000 residents of Quebec City by about 40,000. Mayor Borne demanded a recount.

Now it is Mayor Wm. S. Beaton of Sudbury. Mayor Beaton says that the federal census takers give Sudbury's population as 41,837, although the municipal census showed the city's population to be more than 50,000.

Mr. Beaton said also that the federal census takers did not call at his own home and enumerate either him or any of the members of his family.

SUCH A QUESTION

"Just what day will Christmas be?"
Why should that be asked of me?
With Thanksgiving come and gone
Why, see Christmas drawing on
And ask grandpa casually
Just what day it's going to be?

On their mother's desk they know
There's a calendar to show
All the feast days and the dates,
And in figures red it states
Just when Christmas Day will be
So I wonder: why ask me?

With such a sudden way
Chance to think of Christmas Day?
Has my stomach grown so fat
It suggests a thought like that?
Was the question asked because I resemble Santa Claus?
So I answered: "I don't know.
Glad you thought to ask me, though.
Since it comes but once a year
I'd forgotten it's so near.
Now we'll look it up and see
Just how Christmas Day will be."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 24th., 1931

Subscriptions to the Belleville unemployment relief fund now total $1,541.89 in direct individual subscriptions and also the sum of $5,082.27 through various stores and industrial plants.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McConnell have left here to reside in Oshawa.

Miss J. Irene Chatterton, Alexander Street, is visiting friends in Brighton.

Mr. George Forbes, manager of the Belle Theatre, and his efficient staff, were busy today loading all the advertising, posters, shirts and other wearing apparel which was brought to the theatre during the past week by the teen-age children in the city. It required two trucks to move the articles to the Relief Committee's office and many an unfortunate will benefit by the children's efforts to collect the clothing. All the children were guests at the theatre today.

30 YEARS AGO

November 24th., 1921.

Mayor Charles Hanna and J. Freeman Meredith, K.C., occupied the bench at the police court this morning owing to the absence of the magistrate.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. McKenna and two nephews left today for Winnipeg, where they will live and be in the service of the Provincial Police for some time.

Mr. Reeve, Maybee of Brownville, N.Y., is here on a visit to his parents.

Mr. W. J. Wilkes will spend Thanksgiving with his parents in Toronto.

Mr. F.E. O'Flynn and family will spend Thanksgiving Day in Madoc.

At the regular meeting of Mizpah Lodge No. 127, I.O.O.F. the following officers were elected for the ensuing term: John T. Thompson, J.P.G.; James Duckworth, N.G.; J. T. Osborne, P.G., R.S.; F. M. Clarke, P.G., F.S.; E. B. Cooper, C.S. W., treasurer.

40 YEARS AGO

November 24th., 1911.

The Business Men's Bible Class in connection with Bridge Street Methodist Church, was largely attended on Sunday, there being 100 men present. Mr. F. E. O'Flynn gave an interesting address. Vocal solos were rendered by Mr. Dan. A. Cameron and Mr. C. H. Vermilyea.

Persons who contemplate having their Christmas dinner in England should make strenuous accommodation now.

The Rev. Father Spratt, who has been parish priest in charge of St. Michael's Church here for over two years, will bid farewell to his parishioners on the evening of Nov. 28th, where he will be consecrated Bishop of the Diocese.

50 YEARS AGO

November 24th., 1901.

Mr. Lewis Bird of West Huntingdon showed the Intelligencer today a mammoth squash which weighed 90 pounds. He thinks that it is an extraordinary size and we agree with him.

Mr. Hesson Maybee of Brownville, N.Y., is here on a visit to his parents.

Mr. W. J. Wilkes will spend Thanksgiving with his parents in Toronto.

Mr. F.E. O'Flynn and family will spend Thanksgiving Day in Madoc.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE BOOK AND ITS WORK

Listen to what some of the world's truly great men said about the Bible: Said Lincoln, "Take all of this Book that you can upon reason, and the balance on faith, and you will live and die a better man." Said Coleridge: "The words of the Bible are the profoundest wisdom of my being than all other books put together." Said Ruskin: "What I have done in my life has simply been due to the fact that, when I was a child, my mother daily read with me a part of the Bible and made me learn a part of it by heart."

Even Huxley, the famous agnostic scientist, had this to say: "The Bible has been the Magna Charta of the poor and oppressed." Gladstone, the great English statesman declared: "What crisis, what trouble, what perplexity of life has failed or will fail to draw from this inexhaustible treasure-house its proper remedy?"

The rules for reading the Bible are: Read it regularly and thoughtfully. Reflect upon what you have read. Read it with full faith that its truths will be verified. Read it with a prayerful heart.

Even Huxley, the famous agnostic scientist, had this to say:

BOTH BUCKS LOST

Barrie, Nov. 24 (CP) — The 225-pound buck deer battled for supremacy recently on an island in Georgian Bay. Both lost.

Hunters Rex Watson of Dalston and William McCarthy of Barrie and Andy Patterson of Barrie, found their bodies while hunting.

The animals lay in a clearing churned up by their hooves, their horns were locked.

The head of one of the animals was in water. It had drowned and the other, unable to free itself died of starvation.

PAIR ROB BANK

Kansas City, Nov. 24— (AP) — Two men robbed the Johnson County National Bank and Trust Company at suburban Prairie Village, Kas., of an estimated $62,000 today. Thirteen employees were herded into the vault. They released themselves with a key after the robbers left.

EASES GIRL'S FALL

New Orleans, Nov. 24. (AP). A 98-pound circus performer fell 60 feet into a net but was caught in the arms of another circus worker, Maria Peters Sisters, blacked out during an aerial ballet at the Shrine circus here. She was caught by Ralph Vinarski, 38, assistant rigging superintendent for the 20 Big Top Circus. Vinarski suffered a strained back. The girl was unhurt.

INDIAN FIGHTER DIES

Bath, N.Y., Nov. 24 — (CP) — Arthur E. Perkins, 81, veteran Indian fighter and frontiersman who witnessed the slaying of Chief Sitting Bull in 1890, died Tuesday. As a scout and buffalo hunter for the United States Cavalry, Perkins was with 30 foes of Chief Sitting Bull when the noted Indian leader was killed by an Indian serving with the cavalry.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

FOR SALE: AIR

There have been some remarkably irresponsible arguments advanced in the past year in support of handing Canadian television over to the deodorant and soap-chip boys. None has been quite as foolish as those of radio writer Dick Diespecker.

In a speech prepared for the service club circuit — delivered to audiences so contented with rendered veal chops and pineapple sundaes that their only comment on wild statements is a gentle belch—Diespecker has been advocating that CBC control or television or radio could lead to totalitarianism.

It would be easy to shrug and tell yourself that such nonsense will be given the quick burial it so richly deserves. Yet there's a cumulative effect to all the anti-CBC propaganda so well organized and well-financed by the private enterprise stations.

Only last week, at their convention in Vancouver, Canada's boy Liberals went on record as favoring an "independent control" of Canada's radio setup, a gimmick eagerly accepted and commended gaudily for obvious reasons. Parenthetically, it was interesting to note how the convention delegates boosted the resolution up to the head of their newscasts, another small sample of the public bad faith with the inarticulate listening public.

Because of this, however flimsy Diespecker's point may be, it may not be too great a waste of time to keep the facts straight. We happen to have in this country something too precious, too precious, to be sabotaged by a group of bull-nessmen and their stooges.

Right to Buy

"We may not like as much cheap commercialism as exists on many private stations," writes Mr. Diespecker told his listeners, "but the day that it disappears we say goodbye to free radio."

There, surely, is the year's most enigmatic statement.

Who, indeed? The only discernible freedom guarded by Canada's commercial stations is the freedom of those who can buy time to use the air for the selling of their goods and services to you. The only freedom it offers the public generally is the freedom to listen to grandstand records.

You and I have no access to the wave-length of private broadcasting stations but—mark this!—an emissary of the corrupt and dictatorial forces of Juan Peron was able to take over 15 minutes of time on a Vancouver radio station—of course, at any idealistic concept of "freedom" but simply because the time was purchased. The station, curiously enough, was the old alma mater of Diespecker himself.

Freedom? Sure Dick, all the freedom that money can buy.

The freedom of the air that you and I are more interested in is the freedom of all shades of opinion, not merely those that can be used for profit by the station owner. Unlike Diespecker, I'm not too concerned with the "freedom" of some laxative-maker to "sell" my dinner with a description of his product's swift action.

But that is a negative argument. The positive argument is that the CBC—and, more dramatically, the British Broadcasting Corporation—have kept both politics and commercialism under control.

Neither can be called "government" systems since they are, in fact, controlled by non-partisan boards whose basic functions and policies are unchanged by governmental changes, by operations expertly operated the same during the years of Labor as it did in the years of Tory rule.

If that kind of public service can be seen as a threat of totalitarianism, then so can the federal postal system.

A Choice!

The actual fact is that, beyond giving a community service, the private stations have only two considerations as well nigh indefensible. The whole history of the radio broadcasting has been an abuse of their privileges.

Diespecker speaks of the government getting a "stranglehold on education." He must know that the CBC alone has saved the air for education. The commercial stations' idea of an "educational program" is a pompous philosopher reciting Edgar Guest poems.

He must know, too, that the CBC alone has made an honest effort to bring all shades of opinion to the air. The "Town Meeting of Canada," which spends so much time appealing for funds to keep it going, is a classic of the barriers of its "freedom"—as if this was something it had invented—that is often genuinely laughable.

Finally, Diespecker says this: "Little as we may like it, we are safer, and will be safer in the future, with soap operas and quiz programs than with Stage '52 and Cross Section".

Even if this were true—I think most of us would rather run any risks than live on the kind of intellectual pablum soap-and-quiz programs with are in radio for profit alone.

THE PACKSACK

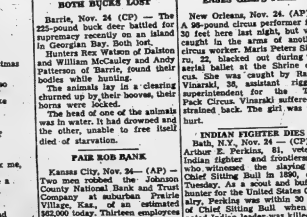
By GREGORY CLARK



The National Audubon Society sponsors two new pocket manuals by Richard H. Pough, who is research associate of that continent-wide organization of professional and amateur field naturalists. The first book covers the eastern land birds of America, and the second, just off the press, covers the water birds, marsh birds, and the larger birds not covered in the first one. They are small pocket size, very handy to carry in the out-of-doors. There are pages of colored plates right in the middle of the books, and every bird in America is shown in lucid detail. The text is brief, precise and in terms that anybody can understand. There are references to the appearance and habits of each species.

These portable manuals are a great addition to the sport of outdoor adventuring. With these together with Roger Tory Peterson's famous "Field Guide to the Birds," Canada and the United States are exceptionally well provided for in the realm of nature study. England is supposed to be a highly nature conscious country, but I found last summer, overseas, I hunted high and low for the practical field guides to the British birds. The only pocket manuals available were those Tory Peterson is now engaged with a leading British ornithologist on the preparation and publication of a field guide to European birds, built on the same ingenious as his famous field guides, one to the eastern and the other to the western birds of America. If so, it will be a tremendous success in Europe generally, and a great thing for visitors to carry with them from America.

Reading essays about outdoor nature keeps you indoors. Owning a pocket manual takes you out.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease Diagnosis or Treatment, Will Be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

MORE SCARED THAN HURT?

A medical colleague took exception to my allegation that if the quackery for a physician to prescribe over the telephone for a patient the physician has not examined. He maintains he can give his patients fairly good advice that way, to do until he can see them in person. Somehow the doctor-quacks can't see that the allegation makes me think that he may be right and I may have laid it on a bit too thick. We'll wait and see. I asked for and hope to receive instances of such good advice by telephone. I'll be grateful to any doctor who may be kind enough to cite such instances in his or her practice. I seek only to conform to Sec. 3, Chap. IV of the Code of Medical Ethics, which reads:

Physicians should warn the public against the devices practised and the false pretensions made by charlatans which may cause injury to health and loss of time and money. Silence in the quacks I occasionally catch an honest doctor in an embarrassing position I'm sorry and anxious to make amends.

Asking or answering medical advice via the telephone is commonly associated with quackery, charlatanism, or in my opinion, unwise practice, namely, keeping the patient unnecessarily ill in the throes and being judgment as to the state of health or need of treatment on the individual's temperature.

Quiet, please, Mr. Wisecare. I see nothing just plain folks what I think they should know.

Take the Brady stamp, for instance. Nominal head of the house is a doctor of sorts, the wife is a trained nurse. She took a lifetime job with me under false pretenses, thought I was getting a wife and a nurse in one package, but the first time I called her a nurse at our wedding she said "Uh-uh"—which, translated, means "My professional nursing days are over, and henceforth you're going to be my assistant in our own family." Even so it was the best deal I ever made. We have had on hand a clinical thermometers at our house and I note with satisfaction that your children are as careless as we were about body temperature.

All right, smart Alec Wisecare, your "specialist" has you so well hypnotized that you must take child's temperature and tell the doctor how high it is before he will consent to instruct you over the telephone or come and see the patient. What have I to say about that? Only this: Easy does it, my friend. If your snobbish aim to keep up with the Joneses is so gratified, keep right on slinging your hundreds of recording temperatures. If your sole purpose is to guard the health of your family, you ought to have enough common sense to judge by behavior and appearance whether child or adult is ill enough to require medical attention.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Ma. Tee

When I have to search for Dr. Brady with a magnifying glass and find only a paragraph or two in place of our favorite column, it irritates me. Bless your heart, you are such a cheer-up-per—we need more, not less . . .
(Mrs. D. J., Ajax)

Answer—Aw, too.

Receding Gums

What gum or tooth disease other than gingivitis will cause the gums to recede? What is the cause of such disease? (E. C.)

Answer—Send 25c and stamped-addressed envelope for booklet Save Your Teeth. It will tell you how to go about knowing the subject. At any rate, pyorrhea—recession of the gums and loosening of the teeth in their sockets and other conditions commonly associated to pyorrhea—is not as you seem to think, a specific disease or ailment, but, a list of symptoms of the course. In the manifestation of physical degeneration. In my opinion the cause of physical degeneration is nutritional deficiency. How more to the point is in the booklet maybe you will begin to realize where you are.

Tongue-Tied?

The doctor says our six months old baby girl's tongue must be clipped in a few weeks. Without it, he claims, she will lisp. (Mrs. C. L.)

Answer—Nicking the edge of the frenulum (the vertical cord connecting the tongue to floor of mouth) is necessary only when child cannot protrude the tongue.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

RIVERS

From my earliest youth rivers have fascinated me. I learned to swim in one, and have sailed a boat in a few, but what has struck me most about them has been the humanity, the continuity, the aliveness of the thing.

Lovers of rivers could well invest in the wonderful series of rivers of America. I have a few volumes and all are of interest. Many years ago I read Parkman's book sponsored by H. M. Tomlinson—the "Sea and the Jungle," a book which described his visit to the Amazon in South America, a most absorbing tale.

I read of a book called "The River" by Rumer Godden, a year or two ago, and at once I went and bought the book, and never have I enjoyed such a little masterpiece. Recently I viewed the filming of this book in technicolor and it is the most beautiful, and moving picture that I have ever seen. I have written with this book that I searched every possible corner to get all the books I could about the writer. I now have them all but one—her second—but all flavored with the same genius as I discovered in her "The River."

We have had human life where about a river. Fishermen, bird lovers, naturalists, and those who merely love rivers are drawn to them. Each seem to have a place in the scheme of humanities them. Movement, always movement, as they seem to "go on forever."

About six years ago there was published one of the most beautiful of books on the river and its inhabitants, a book called "Lovely is the Lee" by Robert Gibbings, an Irish writer. One of these years I must have all two scarce. Not only is the writer a lover of his ecosystem, but also a most talented artist who illustrates his own books.

I have a love for rivers that no other body of water has. And I think it is because the river is giving to it personality. Imagine what a dearth of fertility there would be in the world if each of rivers to quench the thirst of the earth. And a contribution to the happiness of people are the rivers of every country!

Letter to the Editor

Another Side To the Question

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer:

After reading Mr. Schwab's apparent attempt to put your musical reporter, Mr. Eugene Lang, straight as to what is entertainment and what is not in the realm musically, I am urged to write in Mr. Lang's defence. Knowing your reporter's musical background, his keen interest in things musical and the fact that he is a student of music, I can assure the public they can trust their ears and their faith in his criticism of the Jubilee concert.

Whether the music is classical or popular it is still entertainment and Mr. Lang being hired as a music critic has made his report as a good critic should basing his remarks on such important factors as good artistry, proper technique and general ability to handle the instrument used, just as to how many schools Mr. Rubinoff visited or how interesting were his remarks to Kiwanis. Any artist should never attempt to perform on the concert stage but cannot properly reproduce doing it in the justice the composer intended. But the concert been properly executed it would have received a satisfactory critique. I am sure.

Why should an artist like Rubinoff be disgraced in the school children. True he may claim to be only a "fiddler" with a "fiddle" but children are not liable to misconstrue him as a talented violinist and he has certainly been according to his performance. There are certain musical standards set up by the Department of Education—Why spoil their ears by introducing a mediocre musician like Rubinoff.

Appreciating the fact that the combined concert was considered as strictly entertainment it is a shame that the children's interest in literature, music or any such arts have to be lowered to please the "ordinary people of Belleville" as Mr. Schwab puts it, and especially by a service club like K.I.W.A.N.S. There are enough chances in Belleville to see the grade Mr. Schwab introduced that an organization has to bring good concerts, it should avail itself of the chance to do so.

PICTON

Winner Cheered After Election In Prince Edward

Picton—While crowds filled the two committee rooms which faced each other across the street, and others braved a light rain to stand in the streets, election returns were received here Thursday night. The early returns indicated a win for P.C. candidate Norris Whitney and he had a majority in all but two districts. These were Bloomfield and Sophiasburg, the former, the Liberal candidate's home village.

At 2a.m. each candidate received 96 votes and in the advance polls each received 18.

After the celebration in Napanee, the victor, Norris Whitney, came to Prince Edward where cars formed a cavalcade from the ferry at Glenora. At the P.C. committee rooms, both Mr. Whitney and Don Baxter expressed their thanks to their supporters and were both cheered. Mr. Whitney paid special tribute to his campaign manager, Phil Dodds, who had set up the organization and looked after most details.

Others addressing the crowd were Reeve of Ameliasburgh, H. H. Colliver, Carl Reid, J. K. Welsh.

Though the campaign in Prince Edward—Lennox was keenly fought, it was without personalities or hard feelings.

In expressing his appreciation, Mr. Whitney pledged himself to work in the interests of all people of the entire riding.

CONTESTS FATHER'S WILL

Kitchener, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Mayor Vernon Bauman of Waterloo yesterday appeared in court to contest his father's will on the grounds that the old man was incapable of understanding the difference between right and wrong at the time of his death.

Mayor Bauman, contesting the will with a brother, Wilfred and a sister, Mrs. Laura Snyder, alleged undue influence on the part of another sister, Mrs. Helen Taylor.

Defence Department Discloses Atrocity Report Estimating 8,000 U.S. Prisoners Murdered

Washington, Nov. 24 —(AP)— A newly-disclosed report from Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Supreme Allied Commander in the Far East, has raised the possible total of United States prisoners slain by communists in Korea to 8,300. That is 2,000 more than previously indicated.

The new atrocity report was to the United Nations, and covered the period through July. C. Herschel Schooley, chief of the Washington military press section, told reporters about it last night.

It was described as saying exact evidence of executions, obtained through July 20, numbered about 400 killings, the 8,000 figure was the sum of unconfirmed reports from various sources and in various forms.

This report was apparently made days — or even weeks — before Lt.-Col. James M. Hanley, chief of the Eighth Army's war crimes investigation section, said Tuesday, Nov. 14 — that the reds had slaughtered about 3,500 Americans and 390 other Allied prisoners.

Six days after Hanley gave out his figures in Korea, Ridgway said the total might reach as high as 4,000, of which 300 were confirmed atrocity killings.

There was no immediate explanation of these lower figures, given — apparently — at a later date than that of the Supreme Commander's report, to the U.N. Ridgway's Nov. 20 statement did not definitely say what period the figures covered.

Ridgway's summary of a possible 8,000 prisoner killings apparently reached the American delegation at the U.N. General Assembly in Paris about Nov. 12. It may have inspired the tone of State Secretary Dean Acheson's speech, on Nov. 13, against setting red China in the United Nations. Acheson described the Chinese communist regime as far below the "general level of barbarism."

The U.N. report said Ridgway's headquarters is investigating the atrocity reports. It added that more than 100 suspected atrocity killers were in custody.

Canadian Soldier's Pay so High It Causes Official Headaches

By DOUGLAS HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the Canadians in Germany, Nov. 24. (CP)—It certainly doesn't represent opulence by Canadian standards but the Canadian soldier's pay is so high relatively over here that it already is causing official headaches.

This applies mainly to single men since deductions for married soldiers and officers bring their available money more in line with comparable standards.

The single Canadian private, with overseas allowance, makes $99 a month, about equal to the pay of a British sergeant and nearly double what many German people in this Hannover area would consider a good salary for a family man.

Problems arising from this situation are twofold. The disparity in pay—even bigger than in the last war—might be a factor relations with the British in whose area the Canadians are, and with the Germans. It could also tend to drive prices up wherever the Canadians go and could lead to squandering when the soldiers have an excellent chance to save and still live better than they have been.

It is more than likely that some method of enforced saving will become effective soon.

British troops here shown exceptional courtesy and friendship to the Canadians, but to a man they consider the Canadian pay scale fabulous. The Canadians, in turn, feel the British pay is low and rather than that their own is high.

Germans Get Wise

It is only beginning to dawn on the Germans that more highly paid troops are moving in and officials expect the inevitable reaction.

So far the Canadians find prices surprisingly low. The official R.A.A.F.I. canteens sell a pint of beer for 12 cents, British cigarets 20 for 15 cents, a lunch of steak, potato chips, beans, bread, and tea for about 30 cents. The soldiers also will be able to order cigarets from an all-ranks canteen of the cost over there.

Both British and Germans consider German prices more than adequate, but Canadians pay 65 cents for a meal, that would cost twice that in Montreal.

The Canadian draws his money in two forms—British pounds, shillings and pence as special paper vouchers nicknamed "Bafs" and German marks worth 25 cents apiece.

The paymaster will change his Bafs into marks but not vice versa. This is one of many methods the British use to control black marketing.

However, there are reports by which foreign soldiers in Germany can swap both Bafs and cigarets to Germans to make profit through methods that authorities frown on but are powerless to stamp out entirely.

Ernest Cockburn, former commanding officer of the Prince of Wales Regiment, and a well-known war veteran, was named president.

The Kingston branch has held its charter since 1947 but nothing was accomplished along organization lines until recently.

Candidates Make Last-Minute Vote-Getting Calls

(By Canadian Press Staff Writer)

St. Johns' Nfld., Nov. 24—(CP) —Candidates made last-minute vote-getting calls today in the campaign for Monday's Newfoundland election came to a close.

The campaign, short but spirited, wound up last night with radio broadcasts and public meetings. A Progressive Conservative meeting scheduled for tonight was cancelled.

The meeting was arranged to hear Dr. Lothar Sennewald, German optical scientist who was flown here by the party after he said he had proof of "surprising manipulations" behind establishment of the province's new industries, a big plank in Premier Joseph Smallwood's election manifesto.

Gordon Higgins, federal member who has been organizing the P.C. campaign, complained of what he called "police state tactics" by the Liberals in Sennewald's case. He said a German speaking civil servant had been sent to Gander by R.C.A.F. plane to talk to Sennewald before he reached St. John's yesterday morning.

Later Mr. Higgins said, Sennewald spent several hours in the office of the province's director of economic development. "He gave me the impression," Mr. Higgins said, "of what it must be to have been interviewed by the gestapo."

Grain Growers Go to Polls For Referendum

Winnipeg, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Manitoba grain growers go to the polls tomy to say how they want to sell their oats and barley.

Under the regulations in effect since 1949, virtually all must be sold through the Canadian Wheat Board. In a referendum ordered by the Manitoba government, farmers will vote "yes" or "no" to the question: "Do you wish to continue to sell your oats and barley as at present?"

The government has promised that if the vote is "no" it will repeal legislation which paved the way for the federal government to introduce the board marketing system, and will ask Ottawa to withdraw its legislation.

About 30,000 farmers have registered for the special vote. Polls are open from 9 a.m. to 5 p. m. CST. There was no advance poll.

Little early interest in the vote was shown and bitter weather today was expected to cut the turnout. A strong west wind, clear sky and zero temperatures was the outlook for much of the day.

Manitoba's coarse grain crop which is involved in the issue totalled 125,000,000 bushels last year and the provincial government estimated its value at $97,450,000. This year's yield is estimated at 116,000,000 bushels.

Opponents of the present marketing system claim farmers can get higher prices by selling through the grain exchange themselves. Supporters argue for a stable market and price. The provincial government has remained neutral.

NURSES FROM U.K.

Portage La Prairie, Man., Nov. 24 (CP)—Fifteen nurses will be flown to Canada from Great Britain to relieve the shortage of nurses at the Portage La Prairie General Hospital, the board directors announced yesterday.

MARMORA

Marmora—An election is imminent for Marmora village council for councillors there being eight nominees for the four seats at Friday evening's nomination meeting in the town hall. The four retiring, Ritchie Wells, John Reynolds, Fred Johnston and Arnold Walker were among the number. New aspersants are Harold Price, Carl Heath, William Lavendar and Arthur Pack.

Reeve V. M. Lynch was given an acclamation as were public school trustees Donald Marett, Roy Wright and Thomas Bateman.

Thomas Bateman will be the one new member on the school board, replacing a candidate for council. There is a possibility there will be an election for hydro commissioner for two years since ex-reeve R. E. Neal was nominated for that position, as well as the retiring commissioner, F. R. Wells. E. C. Prentice, village clerk, who presided called on the reeve-elect and the other municipal officers and candidates as well as reeve Irwin McCoy for speeches at the nomination closed.

Jasper, Alberta to Victoria B.C.

By CHARLES R. BOND

Reluctantly we leave the environs of Jasper Park, where all roads lead to the courtyard at the entrance to Jasper Park Lodge, whose hospitality is matched only by its vast interior, where scores of golden burnished logs pattern the pillars, walls and ceiling and massive stone fireplaces and chasms of Canterbury bells capture the opalescent beauty of the great outdoors; its winding paths and flower gardens without end, where foundations the fields gave up their stones and whose walls of polished logs once grew on the same spot; now, by the hand of architect and artist, arranged in useful ornamental order nestle back among the growing pines and the solitude of nature, where the soft thud of green pine cones, the protecting mountains and flowering alpine meadows, provide a haven of rest and relaxation away from busy city life.

Peaceful Haven

Where the transporting chipmunks scattering the glassine dew, the silly brilliant bluebirds' quick disappearing flight, the inquisitive deer, sure and nonchalant squirrel, with neck outstretched in friendly, apprehensive curiosity, proclaim this a haven for man and beast alike; where totem poles and flowering borders brighten and color the sun - drenched greenery.

From morning till evening an ever-changing scene takes place. From the mountains that surround the town in Lac Beauvert reflecting in density the elongating shadows of green pines, the mountains shrouded in mist before the sun reveals their snow-capped heights bright, clear days; the evening shadows gathering in the valley as the sun descends and the highest peaks and the everlasting snow captures the glow of the sun in a mantle of reflected glory of crimson and gold and the deeper beams flowering on guardian White Angel glacier protecting Mount Edith Cavell, majestic memorial tribute to the shining life of the one so permanently lingered here.

The pungent pine needles in the bridal-path spread a tang in the air, as horse and rider, following the curves of lake and brook-stream, disappear from view in a fold in the mountains along the wide Athabasca Valley.

Fishing, mountain climbing, tennis, bicycling and the heated swimming pool add attractions to suit every taste; while on the manicured, terraced lawns, lovers of those less inclined to physical pursuits. The smooth green turf, a golfers paradise, provides a matchless course in a matchless setting; its every curious outlined like a scenic jig-saw, set between the mountains and the lake, by whose rock-bound edges and encircling path grow wild roses, holly, blue-bells and a host of miniature alpine blooms.

"Valley of Green Trees"

Not easily forgotten are the many trips over smooth mountain roads high above the winding rivers in the Athabasca Valley, which means "Valley of green trees," (where the bus drivers' wisdom in life and after-life-junction into heaven seems to depend on frightening the evil spirits out of all passengers on these far flung straight, though narrow paths.)

Also noteworthy are the youth hostels and frontiersmen stations at strategic points, the double beauty of Maligne Lake, reflecting the surrounding peaks; the spectacular Columbia Ice Fields on the roof of the North American continent, ski mania in winter's snow, bringing visions of dimpy, dancing descent, the "home of the north winds," a mountain range so christened by the Stoney Indians, and the "Valley of crooked trees" with uniformly curved trunks due to some past pressure of nature.

The friendly bears with bow-legged cubs, especially sweet-toothed "Butch", who stops all buses; the many timid deer peering through the bush; the clumsy moose knee-deep in marsh, and we, the goats, leaning over parapet and precipice looking for elusive sheep, add life, amusement and movement to an immovable panorama of mountain peak and gleaming orb in kettle-like stratified formation, over whose sides turbulent mountain streams, fighting against the rough and rocky elements, come bounding and pounding down in a torrent of swirling spray and white foam, racing in the valley of the shadows far below.

Herds of Royal Elk

Others carved and rounded and striped with metallic markings; others again of serrated and crystalized grandeur; with lower slopes providing a rolling ground for herds of royal elk and deer, while others with haunted, black and burned-out stumps, bear witness to the carelessness of men. Thick glazed over-hanging ice decorates the more lofty masterpieces, tiered and colonnaded, whilst falls and misty sprays cascading down their sides.

From the deep icy chasms where the sun never penetrates and the towering heights of sunlit snow line, is a great variety of animal and vegetable life existing in protected custody in this Eden-like paradise of Jasper National Park.

Enroute to Vancouver on the National line is Mount Robson, soaring 13,973 feet, the highest peak in the Canadian Rockies, attacking clouds join forces against this intruder into their domain, creating a sunny day, the nearby fields with rain.

Variety of Scenes

Ascending the valley of the North Thompson River to Kamloops and the Fraser Valley into Vancouver encompasses a great variety of scene, of wind-swept rivers, placid lakes and fruitful valleys. Rafts of log, deep-sea fishing vessels and ocean-going liners herald the entrance into Vancouver, whose soaring skyline, busy streets and harbor bear witness to the enterprise of the city.

On sailing from Vancouver's Victoria Pier, skyline slowly disappears and the green spaces of Stanley Park and Lighthouse, North Vancouver stand guard on either side. The ship passes under the Lion's Gate Bridge and into the straits of Georgia, accompanied by a convoy of albatross sea gulls floating along in effortless formation; the clear blue sky and brisk breeze add pleasure to the cruise as windswept Island outer island passed by, the "Thousand Islands of the West," until, in the distance, Victoria's skyline slowly emerges from the green of trees and domes and towers of Victoria's skyline.

Beautiful Harbor

Traversing through the straits of Juan De Fuca into the outer breakwater, there appears the first full beauty of the harbor, focused on the domed and turreted buildings, growing ever nearer and nearer until the ship ties up before them.

Backed by the snow-clad mountains across the straits, the rockbound and rugged shoreline; the wide, white streets, the inner harbor alive with pleasure craft and ocean-going vessels, with groups of spectators leaning over the harbor railings, the "Pilgrim of Plymouth Rock Hoe" give this most westerly city an allure of Europe and the Orient, where to depart from and return into heaven seems to depend on frightening the evil spirits out of all passengers on these far flung straight, though narrow paths.)

Also noteworthy are the youth hostels and frontiersmen stations at strategic points, the double beauty of Maligne Lake, reflecting the surrounding peaks; the spectacular Columbia Ice Fields on the roof of the North American continent, ski mania in winter's snow, bringing visions of dimpy, dancing descent, the "home of the north winds," a mountain range so christened by the Stoney Indians, and the "Valley of crooked trees" with uniformly curved trunks due to some past pressure of nature.

The friendly bears with bow-legged cubs, especially sweet-toothed "Butch", who stops all buses; the many timid deer peering through the bush; the clumsy moose knee-deep in marsh, and we, the goats, leaning over parapet and precipice looking for elusive sheep, add life,

English Homes

The English residents far from ancestral homes, have recreated here their fond visions of English homes and gardens, lanes, clipped hedges and stone walls; while in Beacon Hill Park, which overlooks the sea, are royal swans from the King's preserves of "Windsor Park," gracefully gliding about in ornamental lakes, the scenic Malahat Drive, the shops and display of Englishware and the leisurely pace, all add a distinctly English atmosphere.

Thunderbird Park has the finest collection of Indian totem poles in existence and presents the history and art, carved in wood, of the first settlers, who used, as a means of expression, the ready earth and vegetable dyes, the rude instruments and standing timbers, and whose manner of living has been so faithfully recorded on paper and canvas, art among cathedrals of trees, by the late Emily Carr, renowned Canadian artist.

In Butchard Gardens, a transformed limestone quarry, there are vistas of rare aquatic and garden blooms, of shrubs and trees, of lily ponds and pools, and trellised walks over hung with scented blooms; a living monument to man's ingenuity, and the Creator of all things, where earthly scars are healed, where one may breathe the perfume or English roses and dream of Victorian homes across the sea, or of homes in Belleville, whose city has been so signally honored by Victorians living in this the capital of British Columbia, which embodies in its growth many aspects of the British Empire and scores reminiscent of famous landmarks of other lands, whose climate is unsurpassed and where the retired of many nations find comfort and contentment, in this their earthy "promised land".

SISTERS ALL

By JEAN LOVE GALLOWAY

Homemakers in search of work-savers for household linens discarded the tablecloth in favor of small, easily laundered table mats. Now, many of us have come to the point where even table mats are a bother. There is a wonderful new plastic article appearing in the stores which eliminates the necessity of washing mats. This plastic is designed in such a way that it resembles a handwoven mat so closely it is almost impossible to tell the difference. Colors are coral, sky blue, hunter's green, chartreuse and dark brown. After a meal, you simply shake off the crumbs, wipe the soiled spots and the mats are ready for use again.

Food Notions

If you're after something different for a few really good afternoon tea sandwiches for a special tea party, get a tin of canned turkey. It is a few cents more than the tinned chicken, but makes a richer, more delicious sandwich.

Featured at the meat counters recently, a line that containing a whole chicken or a half chicken. We've found the half-chicken size a better buy for two people. You can fry all the pieces except the breast for one meal, saving the broth and breast to make a chicken pie later on. Topped with hot biscuits, this canned chicken broth with added vegetables and thickening, makes a wonderful meal . . .

Whether we can't be helped or not, the chicken canned by this new whole and piece method does seem to be tougher—and tends to fall to pieces with the slightest warning.

Every time you go to the grocery store, the biscuit counter seems to have been lengthened another few feet. Where, oh where are all the biscuits coming from? Who, oh who, is eating them all! Only kind we prefer are the old fashioned raisin or fly biscuits, the chocolate coated graham wafers and the shortbreads.

Diaper Service

While nobody has yet come out with a one cent disposable diaper for Canadian babies, these new diaper services being set up in the larger centres, are providing cloth diapers at the same, sanitary $6 monthly, a mother receives 20 dozen diapers. The fresh ones are delivered to her door in 1½ dozen lots three times a week. Soiled diapers are taken away at the same time.

There is no need for a mother to worry, about baby's infection because the diapers are washed and sterilized more efficiently than she could do them herself.

She also saves the expense of buying diapers "which at the present cost, would amount to" for the first three" or four months of the diaper service.

Women's Institute

WALLBRIDGE W.I.

The regular meeting of the Wallbridge Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Evans with 20 members present and one visitor.

With the president, Mrs. E. Phillips, presiding, the meeting opened in the usual manner. The treasurer reported a substantial amount in the treasury.

A donation of $10 to the Red Feather campaign was granted, also $10 to the Canadian Institute for the Blind and $5 to each Sunday School of Wallbridge and Stone churches, for prizes and popcorn and candy for the Hallowe'en party held in each hall.

A letter of real help asking for help to buy a 'tractor' for the war-stricken people of Greece. This was left over for decision at the next meeting.

An invitation from Unionville W.I., to attend their November meeting was read and plans were made for a carload to attend, if possible.

"Thank-you' letters were read from Mrs. Percy Westover and Mrs. Selbourne Westover for the blankets of fruit sent them while ill.

As this meeting was on "Historical Research", the roll call was well responded to by the "History of your homes".

Mrs. Albert Fisher gave a brief report of the Belleville Area convention.

Present and past current events were given by Mrs. Hugh Gray.

The hostess and lunch committees served refreshments and a social half hour was spent.

Next meeting is to be a night meeting at the home of Mrs. E. Nicols, with an exchange of inexpensive home-made Christmas gifts.

ELDORADO W.I.

The Eldorado and Bannockburn Women's Institute held their November meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Blakley, on Tuesday, with a good crowed in attendance. The president, Mrs. Russel Empey, opened the meeting.

Business was dealt with, after which Mrs. H. Shaw gave a splendid report on the Institute convention which was held in Belleville.

Mrs. Kenneth Bateman took charge of the program. Mrs. Douglas Pigden gave a reading on "Woe to the Man Who Won't". "Current Events" were given by Mrs. C. D. McCann. Mrs. Bert McCarey and Joyce, gave splendid talks on "The Work of the Club Girls", the project being "How to Work With Wool". A reading by Mrs. Kenneth Bateman on "How Many Have Seen the Flower Clock at Queenston?" Mrs. Harold Pigden and Mrs. Kenneth Bateman gave readings on "Grit".

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants, with a social half hour enoyed by all.

TOUGH ON SANTA

Medicine Hat, Alta. (CP)—Like fire departments in most Canadian communities, firemen here now are busy fixing donated and broken toys for Christmas distribution. But Santa's local helpers complain many of the toys they are getting are "broken beyond repair".

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

The girl who wants to have her cake and eat it, too.

I have a nice letter from a boy who can't figure a girl out. In this sort of problem I'm sure he has lots of company!

For a year, they went "steady". then they broke up after no apparent reason except that they began to have little arguments and then bigger ones."

After the break, they still dated occasionally, but the boy resented they no longer had any claims on each other and raised no objection when she went out with other boys. To his surprise, however, the girl becomes angry when he dated other girls and refused to go out with him if he continued to do so. In other words, she wanted the new status for herself, but denied it to him. He is very much puzzled and calls her "a deep one".

The girl who wants to have her cake and eat it, too, may be a "deep one", but she presents a familiar pattern for which there may be a choice of explanations.

On the one hand, it may be that her feelings toward the boy are so mixed that although she isn't satisfied with their relationship, she is still sufficiently attached to him so that she feels disturbed when he shows interest in any other girl. On the other hand, she may be a person lowered by insecure that she can't take a chance of losing anything she has so tries to hold on to everything. A girl who has real respect for her own worth will know that she can always make friends, and she'll never get panicky if she makes a break with any one individual when she feels she is becoming more involved with him than she really wants to do.

Sensible Person

This boy's letter gives me the impression that he is a very sensible person, reasonable and understanding. Perhaps this is why he is so puzzled by the girl's behavior. It is mysterious to him because it is so foreign to his own temperament.

What he should try to understand is that the girl really does not know herself why she acts so unreasonably, and that what she most needs for her own future well-being is some help toward self-understanding and self-confidence. A few interviews she attends some measure of these, when she does marry she will undoubtedly become what is known as a "possessive" wife, a wife who is not satisfied unless she feels that a man is completely her property. Since no man of spirit and integrity will consent to be owned even by his wife, such a woman is inevitably unhappy.

Sympathetic as one must be

Popular Combination

Skirt and skirt

The skirt and skirt costume, beloved for years of the college girl and the young executive, has taken a firm hold with most women and the stores are just filled with delightful examples of this sensible fashion. This skirt is of beige and white checked flannel with raglan, push-up sleeves a small, neatly buttoned-over band collar and a pearl button closing. It is shown with a modified peg-top skirt of fine brown tweed with covered buttons on the front closing and slot pleat to ease the otherwise pencil-slim line.

with this girl's own psychological difficulties, it is, after all, the boy who has asked for help, and I can only say that I think he owes it to himself to cut loose from such an unsatisfactory friendship.

I advise him to go out freely with other girls, without any feeling of guilt or of obligation to tell the other girl about it or make any explanations to her. Once free of her, he may find that he has exaggerated her importance to him. At any rate, it will help him to clarify his feelings for her, and it may do the same for the girl. Seeing him with others should make her realize either that she still cares for him, or that she has been clinging to him unnecessarily and can very well get along without him. This would be all to the good for both of them.

GOOD MANNERS

Christmas cards

Lovingly urge your children to send Christmas cards . . . even when they are so young that you guide the little fingers to print an initial as a signature, or to add an "X" to their name which you have written. And, if at all possible, have a child choose, with perhaps some gentle and discreet guidance, the cards he or her own Christmas cards.

Should cards be left on wedding presents?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. When you shower presents and wedding presents are displayed at my trousseau tea, is it correct to leave the cards on?

2. If I wear a long dress at the tea, should "the mother" also wear long dresses?

H. G.

1. Although it is not really incorrect to leave the cards displayed with the presents . . . either at the tea given before the wedding or at the reception after the ceremony . . . today this is generally not done. And this is a better procedure, I think, for then there need be no "comments" no invidious comparisons . . . as formerly there too often were!

2. Not necessarily . . . this would be according to their preference.

Only the bride-to-be herself can decide about tea-blue gown

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother and sister think that I, instead of waiting several months I should wear a pale ice-blue wedding gown. I think my mother and sister would prefer a cream-shade. (This is my first marriage.) Please advise me.

H. M.

This is a decision . . . a most important decision . . . which only you can and should make. White, with its varying shades of ivory and cream, is of course the usual choice of brides. If you are trying to avoid stark, new, consider candlelight (a wonderful deep cream shade) or the rich bridal ivory, or egg-shell shade. Of course it is quite correct for you to choose ice-blue (or blush pink) if you really prefer not to wear a shade of white. But be absolutely positive that you prefer this, and that it will be more becoming to you.

Informal dress for mistress of ceremonies at evening wedding reception

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been asked to be mistress of ceremonies at a wedding reception to be held after the evening church ceremony. The bride has asked me not to wear formal dress because the mothers are not dressing formally. I have not yet decided whether to wear a suit or a street-length dress. Which do you suggest? And please tell me if it is correct, necessary, for me to wear a hat at the church wedding, and if so, should I wear a hat at the reception?

R.

I would suggest that you wear a street-length afternoon dress rather than a suit. With this it would be in excellent taste to wear a "brief", smart hat, perhaps a so-called half-hat . . . this "head-covering" you should wear during the church ceremony. And it would be proper for you to wear it also during the reception . . . however, if you have any doubt, do ask the bride-to-be her wish about this.

Women's Activities

MEETING OF W.M.C.

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the W.M.C. of Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clifford Elliott. A letter from the district secretary, regarding a parcel from a home worker, was read and also a letter from Rev. W. L. Bouchard, of Montreal Christian Academy, in which a box of parcel received; as well as a letter from Rev. and Mrs. Bruce, missionaries in Antigua, B.W.I.

Mrs. Miller brought a message from the Sunday Gospel, speaking on "Love One Another", Mrs. Miller read articles from the Pentecostal Testimony and Missionary Action, telling of the revival in Japan.

Mrs. Elgin Payne read the Prayer Bulletin. A portion of the "Review" was read and needs mentioned. Mrs. Knowlton Wright closed the meeting.

Club Activities

BRIDGE STREET Y.P.U.

On Monday evening the Bridge Street Young People met for their regular meeting.

The meeting opened with recreation led by Lorne West.

The second film strip "Boy Dales Girl", was shown and a short discussion led by Rev. Duncan McTavish followed.

During the business period it was moved that a Christmas party would be held in December.

A short worship service was led by Margaret Radnor.

The meeting closed with friendship circle and "Taps".

A blond is giving British butchers the business.

A young lady wearing a low cut dress, employed as an inspector by the British Food Office, has recently caused havoc by buying steaks without the usual ration coupons. Butchers who described her as "smashing" admitted they forgot all about ration regulations when the lady smiled, and immediately found themselves tangled in the coils of the law. It was not cricket.

Undoubtedly their offenses would have been much less serious had the blond merely asked for a pound of ground lamb for lamb loaf.

Lamb loaf, like any meat loaf, may be baked in a loaf pan or in a shallow roasting pan. In the latter case the sides of the meat will be more browned than in the loaf pan. A good idea for shaping the loaf is to pack the meat into a loaf pan and then unmold it into the larger pan. This will insure even sides and a crisp brown surface.

Lamb Loaf, Grilled Pineapple Serves 5 to 6

1-4 cup rice
1 lb. ground lamb
1 teaspoon salt
1-4 teaspoon pepper
1-4 cup bread crumbs
1-4 cup tomato juice
1 egg, slightly beaten
1-4 cup minced onions
1-4 cup minced green pepper
Vegetable fat
4 slices canned pineapple
Cinnamon
Sugar

Drop the rice into 1 quart rapidly boiling salted water. Cook until rice is tender, 15 to 20 minutes. Cooking time will depend upon size of pot. Do not overcook. Drain the rice.

In a saucepan melt 2 tablespoons vegetable fat. Add the onions and green peppers. Saute until peppers are tender. Remove from fire.

Mix the sauted vegetables, cooked rice, ground lamb, salt, pepper, bread crumbs, tomato juice and egg.

Shape into a loaf or turn into a loaf pan. Bake at 375 degrees 1 hour.

About 10 minutes before removing lamb from fire, cut the pineapple slices in half and place in a shallow pan. Sprinkle lightly with cinnamon and sugar. Place under a moderate broiler flame until sugar melts.

Shape lamb loaf, and garnish with pineapple.

What helps smooth out too-curly locks?
☐ Softening ☐ Stretching ☐ Brushing

If you're a friend, don't fret. Have your locks shaped and thinned out. After each washing, use a softening set, apply, starve not to s-t-r-e-t-c-h hair while patting into pin curls. And you'll find occasional brushing can help smooth those problem locks. Of course, you can't smooth away problem-day cares—with the comfort of Kotex to keep you at ease. Because Kotex is made to stay soft while you wear it. Gives softness that holds its shape.

When leaving a vehicle, which is correct?
☐ Ladies first ☐ Ladies last
☐ Look before you leap

When you leave a bus, street car, taxi or jalopy—ladies last is the rule to remember. That's so your square can assist you to a safe landing. Why tempt fate or thwart his gallantry by leaping to the street before him? Why take risks at any time? Side-step problem-day "accidents" with that special safety centre of Kotex. It's extra protection. And those fat pressed ends of Kotex really prevent revealing outlines! Your secret is safe.

3 ABSORBENCIES: Regular, Super, Junior

More women choose KOTEX than all other sanitary napkins!

How to prepare for "certain" days?
☐ Circle your calendar
☐ Buy a new belt ☐ Pack up your wardrobe

Before "that" time, be ready! All 3 answers above can help. But to assure extra comfort, buy a new Kotex sanitary belt. Made with self-stretch elastic—light-weight Kotex belt's non-twisting. Stays flat even after many washings. Dries pronto! So don't wait... buy a new Kotex belt now. (Why not buy two—for a change?)

P.S. Have you tried Fabray? Fabray is the new bathroom tissue that's 1/3rd thicker because it's softer. Fabray is as superior as Kotex . . . a tissue as soft and absorbent as Kleenex. (We think that's the nicest compliment there is.)

Eagles Shut Out Senior Hawks 3-0; Hawklets Tie Peterborough Jrs. 6-6

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

CAN'T WIN 'EM ALL!

The Hawks didn't look too good in that game last night — as they surrendered top slot, (it could be temporarily) to the Peterborough Eagles. It looked from the aerial capsule as if the Eagles had a planned system of playing for after their first home town game they appeared content with that neat style and settled down to play a kitty-bar-the-door type of hockey that paid off but handsomely.

The Hawks appeared hurtled. They couldn't, it seemed, do anything right. Their passes were straying sad as were the wings and once inside the Eagle blueline they were as chicken as a grasspuppy's guess after bedtime. Of course young Mr. Milne in the Eagles' nest had something to say about that, too. He kicked out everything that came his way for the first greasy shutout of the season but don't forget, brothers, he had a defence in front of him "wot is a defence". These Eagles backed into their fair hire their namesakes young in a nest. They had a lot of the breaks and couldn't do very much wrong.

They were fast, heady and opportunists who took every advantage of a weak Hawks defence. Lofert played another grand game and almost a half-dozen times he neatly outguessed Eagle rangers who were in on top of him all alone.

These penalties didn't help any, and Referee Bill Reason showed plenty on everything within sight. Vern Goyer drew a misconduct for pecking at Reason in protest against Gerry Maher's sentence and it looked a bit borderline at that, but the fast remains the gentlemen of the white sweaters in the loss and there's nothing much a player can do about it.

Meanwhile the junior Hawklets reared from behind up in Peterborough to outscore the Peter Oddfellows 6-3 in the last two periods to force the game into overtime. The Hawks now top the junior loop with eight points, two more than the Eagles and Lakefield rank in the first period and it began to look like the opposition camp on a "Frosty" Friday. But the kids came through with a driving finish to pull up an even break in another record crowd that seemed to be a "natural" when Peterborough - Belleville teams meet.

YEA, STATE!

Michigan State's star-studded varsity squad, rated one of the best in the United States college teams should be tops among the pigskin chasers for the next three or four years. And don't be surprised to see them on the All-American list.

So say Al Simard, 205-pound tackle and Blake Harris, 195-pound quarterback, two Albert College ex-students, who are members of Michigan State University. Simard and Harris who hail from Three Rivers, Quebec and Barrie, Ont. respectively played for the Albert College squad for four years and this season made the grade for the junior varsity (Jayvees) at State. They are the only two Canadians on the squad.

The boys are spending the long American Thanksgiving holiday with Coach "Pete" Beach at Albert, and renewing other college acquaintances.

They prefer the American style of football to that taught this side of the border, they say, claiming it is more specialized, faster, and more open than our style. State teaches one the platoon system with specialists for practically every type of football.

Secret of the varsity's success this year is its depth. "Four deep" they say meaning four platoons of players tossed out there at various times.

Coaching is an art over there, the boys said, with a highly specialized expert looking after one job only. None of this "coach-of-all-departments" as used in Canadian schools and other.

There's no such thing as a coach's "pet" over there. A player who turns out for the varsity and junior varsity and makes the team must do so every week. Reputations don't mean a thing and he positions are won each week at the beginning of training. The squads go through a stiff six-weeks spring training period starting in mid-April and extending through May.

There's no loitering. Play is generally the rough rugged type and players are taught to "play as well as to score." If you're knocked for a loop by an opposing player, don't linger too long on the ground unless you are bora-de-combjet, or you won't be on the line-up the next game. "Up-and-at-'Em" appears to be the slogan in Michigan football circles.

Blake who towers to 6.3 and Simard who totes his 205 frame around on a 5.11 chassis have played on the Jayvees in all their games this season. They defended their school's gridiron arch enemies from Albert College, once by 7-6 score and next by 28-7. Over there, the boys said, an athlete rarely runs in for more than one specialized sport. If he's a football player, that's his athletic forte, baseball, basketball — are the same. Season, concentration, training etc. is to be hard on the study hours, and star athletes have to be "up" there, academically" or else.

Simard and Harris are the "football" type and that's their game. There are no football scholarships at State although several for hockey are awarded to Canadian hockey-playing students. An odd angle to this is the fact that the hockey team is 100 per cent Canadian under a 100 per cent American coach.

GROUP MEET SUNDAY

There will be a senior "B" group meeting in Memorial Arena on Sunday to draw up a new schedule subsequent to the withdrawal of Queen's University, Frank Buckland, OHA executive member has announced. Speaking of senior "B" hockey the Peterborough Petes have officially protested the Eagles' 7-6 victory, which Earle Dye, Petes' manager and good Parnell, now an RCAF officer stationed at Trenton. Petes claim Belleville de his nearest senior "B" centre, and so on. OHA sub-committee will deal with the matter.

Scoring All Done in First Period of Boisterous Battle; Ref. Threatens to Call Game

Peterborough Eagles and the Belleville Hawks, locked in a stick-flying as high as their hockey feathers, staged the most boisterous battle of the season here last night with the Eagles shutting out the Hawks 3-0 in lake over the top slot in the group standing.

Strangely enough, the Hawks and a wide margin in territorial play throughout the game especially in the last period when they had practically all of the play with the Eagle players content to merely hockey to successfully stave off the desperate Hawk attacks.

Young Milne, Eagles netminder who the hero of the piece as he thwarted every Hawk attempt to score when they got by the hard-hitting Eagle defence. Lofert in the Hawk nets also drew stars as his defence faltered at times in favor Milne's eagle-eyed show. The stocky French-Canadian outguessed all the Eagles who sortied in to his doorstep.

Score Three in First

All the scoring was done in the first period. It was lightning fast hockey with the Eagles getting the nod in flashy offensive rink-length drives. The Hawks nearly scored in the first minute of play when big Vern Goyer, held penalties for the first time this season, was smarted by Milne, after combining with MacDonald and Moher to lace in the first shot at the goalmouth.

Moher drew a slashing penalty and the Eagles drove in hard to draw first blood with Vitarelli blitzing the puck past Goalie Bill Mortimer and Hill. Two minutes later Jim Hamilton, who stalled off the Eagles attacks with Semark in the boxes, Greenlaw put the Eagles two up, batting in Stewart's pass from cone in. E. Mortimer on a fine passing play with Moher and Goyer in the penalty box. Hamilton scored on the last goal of the game while the Eagles were short-handed with Mortimer resting for tripping. That was it as far as the scoring goes.

Feeling was high throughout the game with Referee Bill Reason handing out 14 penalties nine of them going to the Hawks. The game was held up several minutes in the second period when Hawk fans hindered Jim Milne in progress in protest against what they thought were cheap penalties. A bottle zoomed on centre ice and after the surface had been cleared twice Reason announced that he would call the game to Eagles if the crowd continued to toss their programs.

Goyer Gets Misconduct

Big Vern Goyer drew a misconduct when he protested too vehemently to Reason against a penalty given to Moher. The Hawks were two men short but the Eagles failed to capitalize on hockey in an all-out effort to protect that three-goal lead.

In fairness to the Hawks it must be said they were lacking the fire and dash that has marked the efforts of their former performances. Their passes were not clicking and they were especially impotent when around the Eagles goal-mouth. They strayed from their position too often and the Eagles grabbed every opportunity that came their way.

It was hard, fast rugged senior "B" hockey and a battle of the goalies. Lofert had no chance on any of the trio that beat him while Milne came to heights at times with his uncanny thwarting of desperate Hawk attempts. The Eagles easily mobbed him when the siren shrilled at the end of hostilities. The paid attendance was 1632.

The MacDonald, Barrett, Desjardins line was the most effective for the homesters and all three narrowly missed scoring. The Eagles defensive tactics following their three-goal first-period attack was the chief victory factor with Moolsomery and Mortimer standing out. Dootch Vitarelli, Greenlaw and E. Mortimer looked the best for the Eagles.

The Teams

Belleville: Goal, Lofort; defence, Schrieder, Semark; centre, Goyer; wings, MacDonald, Moher; subs, Jones, Barrett, Desjardins, Doran, Wardbaugh, Day, Batsford, Trumble, Graham.

Clarence Henry Knocks Out Jumbo Bob Baker

By JACK HAND

New York, Nov. 24 — (AP) — Clarence Henry, 24-year-old Los Angeles Negro, is the newest threat in the heavyweight division after his sensational knockout win over Jumbo Bob Baker of Pittsburgh last night at Madison Square Garden.

What next?

That's the big problem for Henry who flattened Baker with a stunning left hook in 2:14 of the eighth round.

Instead of one of the "big three," Henry probably will be offered a Garden date for Archie Moore, the perennial "uncrowned light heavy champ."

Jack McGinnis of Pittsburgh tried to rematch Henry and Baker for the bout in Duquesne garden. That may be the answer. Baker is willing but Henry, giddy with his win, doesn't wants time to think it over.

It was a Garden date for Henry who weighed only 185 to Baker's 209½. Apparently beaten by the bulkier Pittsburgher, he was still undefeated in 26 previous fights, including a draw with Baker in a devastating left. Sliding through the ropes, Baker landed on his shoulders on the floor but a referee referee Ruby Goldstein counted ten.

The sudden ending came as a shock to the small crowd of 3,515 that paid $10,000. Henry was given top 3-3 and 4-3 and Goldstein had it 3-3-1. The AP card showed Baker ahead 4-3-1.

It was Henry's 12th straight win and his 20th win and 16th knockout in 22 starts.

Browns, Bears Clash Sunday

New York, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Commissioner Bert Bell threw a natural when he arranged tomorrow's National Football League pairings.

The No. 1 contest on the first-class program brings together Cleveland Browns, defending champions and pace-setters in the American Conference, and Chicago Bears, tied for top spot in the National Conference. The game will be played in Cleveland's stadium with the crowd between 80,000 and 80,000 in prospect.

The Browns, leading New York Giants by 1½ games with four games to play, have won seven straight since dropping their opener to the San Francisco 49ers.

The Bears go into the crucial tilt undefeated in four outings. Los Angeles Rams, winner of the National Conference last year, and the surprising Detroit Lions who turned back Green Bay Packers 52-35 Thursday.

Marlies Extend Unbeaten String To Sixteen

(By The Canadian Press)

"Toronto St. Michael's," soon fans suggested, would put an end to Toronto Marlboros' unbeaten streak once they meet.

St. Michael's haven't really have to wait another day. In the first meeting of the two Ontario Hockey Association Junior A teams last night, the leading Dukes supplied their lofty rivals 3-1 in a rugged encounter at Maple Leaf Gardens.

It was the 11th straight game without a loss for the Marlies.

Second on the list are Bill Ehlmores kept four points behind the Dukes by thumping Galt Black Hawks 7-3. Other games saw Kitchener Greenshirts down Weston Dodgers 4-2 and St. Catharines Teepees defeat Barrie Flyers 5-3.

Kitchener's win brought them into a three-way tie for third place in the standing with Galt and St. Michael's.

The OHA Senior A league race tightened considerably last night as the leading Hamilton Tigers were dumped by last place Brantford Alexanders, 5-3. The Sailors eked out a 5-4 win over Toronto Marlboros. Flying Dutchmen and Stratford Indians trounced Owen Sound Mercurys 7-1.

Ottawa Riders 7-5 Favorites To Corral Famous Grey Cup

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 24 (CP) — Probably a record for the greatest and most colorful history of football in Canada, and certainly one for the largest gate receipts of any event on the Canadian sports calendar will be set this razzy, but wonderful, Grey Cup day. Everything about the classic is built on a whopping scale.

About 27,500 somewhat delirious fans are expected to be shoehorned into Varsity Stadium. That's a 400-fan increase over the 27,100 crowd figure set last Grey Cup day. They'll pay a top of $5 a seat, plus tax, for a total of almost $131,000, and nothing in the country's sports can compare with this.

City Crowded

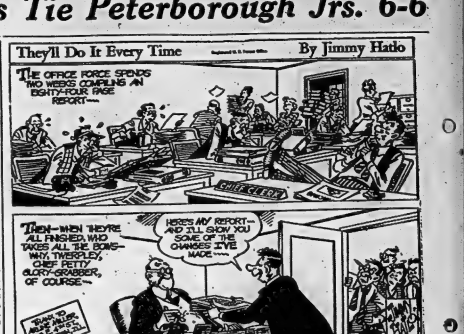
Hundreds of fans have followed the principals, Saskatchewan Roughriders and Ottawa Rough Riders, into this city and they've brought back those rousing, rollicking scenes of 1941 when Calgary Stampeders blew into town and knocked Ottawa over 13-7 in one of the most drama-packed Grey Cup finals on record.



The western fans have made downtown Toronto their range, mixing it up in good-natured fashion with Ottawa enthusiasts. The chuckwagons and flapjacks of the 1948 cup celebration are missing but the gaily-costumed westerners have drawn more cheers-packing mountebanks to the downtown hotels to watch them on their daily parade.

For the teams it is the finish of months of tough competition in the western and eastern Canada. It will be all over in about 2 1-2 hours with the winner getting the 42-year-old trophy donated by Earl Grey, former Governor-General of Canada plus the glory and adoration of thousands of football enthusiasts.

Ottawa Riders are favorites at 7-to-5 and 9-to-5 odds over the injury riddled western Canada champions whose attack is built around triple-threat Glenn Dobbs, their six-foot-four-inch passing and kicking star.

Junior Hawks Rally Strongly To Overcome 3-Goal Margin And Force Game Into Overtime

By MAURICE H. REID

Hector Lalonde's goal in the dying minutes of the game brought the Belleville Junior Hawks on even terms for the first time in the contest and gained for them a 6-6 tie with Peterborough Oddfellows. The game was hurriedly scheduled Junior B tilt and was played in the Peterborough Civic Arena.

Ten minutes of overtime play failed to produce any further scoring although the sides were rushing and Barclay and Wasson especially nice stops. Barclay, in particular, played his best in the overtime heat as Robinson, Bickford and Bockton roared in on him in hard succession.

The homesters threatened to make a runaway of the game in the first period as they rapped home three counters in the first 20 minutes. Lalonde broke the scoring at the 2.15 mark, finishing up a three-way passing play from Heffernan to Bigford. Then Robinson got the first of his three goals with a slap shot that Barclay had little chance of handing. Bockton assisted.

Play Fast

Belleville tried hard and seemed to have the territorial edge on the play but some great netminding by Ken Watson prevented them from sliding the disc into the scoring area. Play was fast and even with lots of body being used by both teams.

Robinson gave the Oddfellows third goal just before the third minute as he poked when Gilmour, passing the puck from behind the net, put it neatly on Robinson's stick.

Jacklin tipped Strahan's shot into the corner to make the Hawk goal at 1.31 in the second period. They continued to dominate the play but once again Watson kept them at bay. Ray Carey slapped a perfect pass into Strahan for goal number two. It was a neat three-way effort all the way with Jacklin being the last partner.

Hawks started to get rough about that point and as a result the play became ragged and at times dangerous. Gilmour, Carey, Jacklin and Armstrong drew five minute majors for scuffling in the corner although no damage was done. The Hawks put on a concentrated drive but Petes came to life after a couple of moments and Carey went in alone at 15.05 but Strahan and Jacklin combined again shortly after for another breakaway.

No sooner had Armstrong and Carey completed the fore after penalties than free-for-all broke out with everyone getting getting into the act. After the smoke of battle had cleared away, Lalonde, Jacklin, Heffernan and Wilson were sitting out five minute majors for fighting.

The third period was by far the best of the regular heats from a hockey standpoint. Only three penalties were handed out and all for minor offences.

Barclay, Carey and Strahan whizzed a score by Coyle just after the mid-way mark in the period to set the stage for Lalonde's tying marker. Wilson and Jones were the Hawk spearheaders while Don Bigford, husky Pete defenceman, handed Coyle the disc. Both teams had several scoring opportunities but the opposing netminders foiled many good plays.

In all, a total of 52 minutes in penalties were picked up, 25 for Oddfellows and 27 for Hawks. Armstrong nosed out Lalonde for the bathman honors of the night, 14 minutes to 13.

The line of Doran, Houle and Carey impressed as a group; the others were hard to call as they were continually broken up by penalties and injuries. Gilmour retired early in the third frame because of a weak ankle and had to be helped from the ice. Barclay went well in the twines, being brilliant in the overtime.

The two carrot-tops "Red" Robinson and "Red" Wasson, were easily the choice for Peterborough. Coyle, Heffernan and Bigford also played notably.

The teams:

Belleville Hawks: Goal, Barclay; defence, Wilson, Green; centre, Houle; wings, Carey and Doran; alternates, Houle, Jacklin, Strahan, DeGray, Gilmour, Therrien, Brown, Munroe.

Peterborough Oddfellows: Goal Wasson; defence, Armstrong, Clapper; centre, Robinson; wings, Hayfield and Buckton; alternates, Ray Hayfield, Heffernan, Floyd, Morrow, Sullivan, Bigford, Wilson.

Officials: "Dit" Rowden, Port Hope, referee; "Bun" Kingdon, Peterborough, lineman.

CHINESE GARDENER SUICIDES

Vancouver, Nov. 23—(CP)—A 71-year-old Chinese gardener committed suicide yesterday a victim, his friends said, of communist extortion threats. He was found dead in a Chinatown shed by a Chinese suicide in Brighouse.

His friends said, of communist extortion threats. He was found dead in a Chinatown shed by a Chinese suicide in Brighouse.

Following a new wave of threatening letters and telegrams from red China. Leong Gun, an old man who worked as a gardener since he came to Canada 50 years ago, was found dead in a Chinatown shed by a Chinese suicide in Brighouse.

Licence Fee-Bargain of The Year

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Sehome Tablet)

Most folks think of the post-age stamp as the world's out-standing bargain. I suppose it is. You get wonderful value for the three cents that you spend, and that little blue square of gummed paper.

For my money, however, there is another bargain which runs a close second to the postage stamp. I'm referring to your hunting licence.

Some hunters, particularly those who have the free time to hunt only two or three days of the season, figure the returns on licence investment purely in terms of game bagged — dollars against meat.

Well, even a couple of rabbits will get your money back for you if their your way of figuring. Add to these a ringneck and maybe a couple of grouse or a few quail and you are well ahead of the game, what with meat selling for what it does to-day.

Big Return

Here in Pennsylvania, at least until this year, a hunting licence allows the owner to shoot all game — upland birds, migratory birds, small game, deer, etc. This year we have a small additional fee for the privilege of taking one antlerless deer.

If a man is diligent and knows his way around in the outdoors, the return in pounds of meat is out of all proportion to the outlay.

But the actual bag of game is only a small part of your return on your licence expenditure. Forget for the moment the aesthetic values; consider only the monetary.

Your hunting licence makes you, in effect, a stockholder in the conservation set-up of your state; the game farms, the state-owned public hunting lands, the wardens' schools, the experimental stations, a large amount of costly equipment, not to mention buildings and real estate.

The licence fees finance extensive stocking programs, without which most of our covers would be so empty of game that hunting would not be worth the trouble and effort involved.

I was born in Pennsylvania and I lived here and went to school locally until I was seventeen years old. Then I went away to school, college, World War I and, after that, to work in the city.

Plenty of Deer in Pa.

Believe it or not, right here where deer hunting is as good as any place in the nation at present, I do not recall ever having seen a deer, either alive or dead, until I was sixteen years old.

Now I can take a guest for a drive any evening in the spring, summer, or fall, with the assurance of showing him at least twenty-five deer in an hour's time. Without proper game management, under the direction of trained, competent men, and without a staff of wardens to enforce our game laws, such a thing would not be possible.

It is your licence money, yours and mine and the other fellow's, which pays for all this.

There are many by-products that are handed up directly with your licence fee. For instance, consider the fun you have merely going into a sporting goods store. There you will always find congenial company and men who speak the same language you do.

Or think of the hunting trips themselves. These take you into country which you would never see if it were not for the fact that there is game there to be hunted and, if you are lucky, to be brought home.

The days of healthful outdoor recreation that you enjoy each year afield are things that you simply cannot buy. Dividends in health and general well-being cannot be calculated in terms of dollars.

Then, too, there is the companionship that goes with hunting. These evenings at camp are pleasant, not to be forgotten. There is no better way to learn to know a man than to go on a hunting trip with him.

Other Dividends

Other by-products of your licence fee are such things as the outdoor magazines. These and the books in your sporting library are the direct results of the fact that we can enjoy the outdoor sports in these United States. Without the licence fees to foot the bill this would not be so.

The wildlife motion pictures which are shown for your entertainment at the meetings of the sportsmen's clubs where you go as member or guest are also dependent upon your licence fee. Without it they would be just less little wildlife to photograph.

Last but not least is the storehouse of memories that a fair time of hunting brings to a man. Recollections of bygone days in the field are priceless things not to be enjoyed by any save the hunter himself. Trophies on the wall, photographs and small remembrances bring back to a man in his later years the golden days of the hunting seasons of his youth.

To be sure, it is trite indeed to say that it is not all of fishing to fish; not all of hunting to kill, but these sayings are true as the Gospel itself. The wise man counts his blessings and hunting is surely not of the least of these.

Each fall when you buy your hunting licence, don't begrudge the outlay. That is money that should be spent with a smile. Pay it and be thankful. Believe me, it's the bargain of the year.

Ask Overtime For National

(By The Canadian Press)

The question of tie games in the National Hockey League was brought up again yesterday.

In 33 games held this season, 13 games have resulted in ties. General Manager Art Ross of the fourth-place Boston Bruins yesterday asked President Clarence Campbell to take an immediate telegraphic poll of the N. H. L. clubs on the restoration of overtime play.

Ross, in a wire to the N. H. L. president asked the poll be taken and that sudden-death overtime periods, not exceeding 10 minutes start Dec. 2.

The Bruin executive suggested the teams should commence overtime plays without changing goals to avoid needless delay. They offered a similar suggestion a year ago.

Vic Seixas Takes Aussie Tennis Title

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 24 (AP) — Vic Seixas, of Philadelphia, pulled out his finest tennis under extreme pressure today to defeat Mervyn Rose, 20-year-old Australian southpaw, 4-6, 9-7, 4-6, 7-5, 6-3, in the final of the New South Wales championship before 14,000 on the White City courts.

At the intermission of the two hour struggle it looked as though Rose meant to complete an almost single-handed rout of Uncle Sam's Davis Cup forces.

In the two previous rounds he had eliminated Dick Savitt and Ted Schroeder and after three sets today he appeared to have Seixas on the run.

But that was when Seixas rose to the occasion with a bread of volley and smash tennis which brought rounds of applause from the big, shrinkered audience and eventually took much of the fight out of his youthful opponent.

THREE LANGUAGES

Johannesburg. (Reuters)—The Missionary Council of South Africa's largest church, the Dutch Reformed Church, is considering the choice of an African language as the country's third official language.

Boxers License Is Suspended

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)— Rocco (Rocky) Constantino, the middleweight boxer who punched and kicked a 33-year-old referee last week, yesterday lost his boxing licenses.

Robert E. Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, threw the book at the 24-year-old Brooklyn fighter.

"I advise you to get other means of livelihood," Christenberry said. "As long as I am commissioner you never will be permitted to box in the state of New York."

Thus ended the career of the young pavlin fighter, His license had been suspended indefinitely after his Nov. 15 bout at Broadway arena with Tony Rocco of Niagara Falls, Ont.

Referee Jack Appel said he warned Constantino four times to break cleanly. On the fifth warning, Rocco hit him on the bridge of the nose. Then he sent the fighted to his corner and disqualified him in the third.

RHINE IS SINKING

Bonn, Germany. (Reuters) — The Rhine, western Europe's big-gest international waterway, is sinking. In some parts the water-level this winter is so low that the biggest barges cannot take their full load of 700 tons.

Stanford, Illini May Tangle At Rose Bowl

New York, Nov. 24 (AP)—The games might not be the biggest of the year today—the last big Saturday of the college football season—but some of them certainly will be the most important of the season.

Both the Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conference races will be decided with Stanford and Illinois expected to come out on top and go back to the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day.

And in the Ivy League, Princeton probably will wind up champion for the second straight year. The same is true of Oklahoma in the Big Seven, except that this will be the Sooners' fourth straight title.

But the top ones pit Illinois against Northwestern in the Big Ten and Stanford against California at Stanford, Stanford, on the basis of its having whipped the Uclans, would get the Rose Bowl nod, anyhow.

Illini are in a better position. The Indians, can do no worse than tie for the crown. If that is to come about, Southern California will have to beat U.C.L.A. Stanford, on the basis of its having whipped the Uclans, would get the Rose Bowl nod, anyhow.

The big battle of the south is in Lexington, K.Y., and it will send unbeaten Tennessee already set for the Sugar Bowl, against slow-starting Kentucky, which will play in the Cotton Bowl New Year's Day.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

He's lying six feet deep. He'll never see no more trouble. He's gone to his last sleep. He passed away takeout double.

If your partner doubles for a takeout, he asks you to bid. If he bid informatory and you have a weak hand, there is absolutely no excuse for you to pass. You must bid.

It is possible that you may not own a trick. And yet you must bid. It is possible that you may not have a suit to bid. And yet you must bid a suit.

What is your first choice of response? Any unbid major suit with at least four cards of any kind in it. With none such, your second choice is also any unbid minor suit with at least four cards of any kind.

With none such of either, your third choice is to bid clubs if that suit has not been bid. Even if you have less than four clubs in your hand, clubs is your bid in such circumstances.

You see, the takeout double orders you to bid something if no bid intervenes. It asks you to show an unbid suit of at least four cards, if you have one. Without one, you must still bid something.

So you must give your partner some sort of a signal that you do not have a four card or longer unbid suit. You do so by bidding the lowest ranking of all suits.

Suppose an opponent starts with an opening bid of one heart and your partner doubles. If the next opponent passes, there you are with the hand you see here:

♥K 5 2
♣9 8 6

You have no unbid major or minor suit with at least four cards. You must bid. So what this is where you are forced to bid two clubs. Can you find your partner without a club in his hand.

Does that scare you? Do not let it. If partner has enough for a takeout double, he is prepared for your two club bid. Give it to him.

SUCCESSFUL STRIKE

Hong Kong, Nov. 24 (AP)—Sixty - eight Pakistani deportees from the United States staged a successful sit-down strike aboard the liner President Cleveland Friday and Saturday and refused to transfer to a Calcutta - bound ship. The Cleveland sailed for Kobe, Japan, today with the Pakistanis still aboard. The deportees, mostly seamen who jumped ship in the United States, balked at heading in Calcutta, and demanded direct air passage from Hong Kong to Karachi.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 24 (AP) — Glancing at the week's news in movietown:

The president of the Theatre Owners of America has declared that one of the biggest problems of film house owners today is "noise and more roadshows."

In the Los Angeles area, seven ordinary films are being advertised at premium prices.

The principle of the road show has long been attacked by some showmen who argue that most patrons are expected to take the good with the bad throughout the year. Then, when a superior picture comes along, the patrons are required to pay extra for it.

How times change. A couple of years ago, you would never reward the king of one studio and the queen of another to be off salary. But that's true today. Betty Grable and Clark Gable are not drawing their weekly stipends from 20th Fox and M-G-M, respectively...

Eye-opener on the cost situation was offered by figures on "The Fourposter." The picture is running in one set with two players—Rex Harrison and Lilli Palmer. Cheap, you think? The bill came to $800,000...

Best news of the week was the announcement that Dorothea Mary Pickford will be returning to pictures. Today's youngsters may not have seen her on the screen, but their parents remember her as a symbol of a pleasant era...

AT THE CAPITOL — Gene Evans comes under heavy fire in this scene from Allied Artists' "I Was An American Spy," in which Ann Dvorak, as his co-star, plays the title role. The film, a David Diamond production, opens Monday at the Capitol Theatre and deals with the espionage activities of Claire Phillips, awarded the Medal of Freedom for her spy work following the invasion of the Philippines. On the same program, "Disc Jockey," with an all star radio cast. Both hits are first showings.

AT THE BELLE — Red Skelton and Sally Forrest share laughs, romance and song in "Excuse My Dust," MGM's Technicolor musical comedy, and Red Skelton's funniest picture. MacDonald Carey and Monica Lewis also star in the new offering, showing today and Monday.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Past and present football greats league and team officials from Edmonton to Montreal last night paid tribute at Toronto to 39-year-old Johnny Black who faces the prospect of spending the rest of his life in a wheel chair, victim of a playing-field accident.

More than 100 fans, coaches, league presidents and men who made their names on gridirons across Canada, sat down to a $10-a-plate dinner, proceeds to go to the Oakville, Ont. boxer who suffered a broken neck and back while making a tackle two years ago. Johnny signed up the intermediate Oakville, Ont. Braves in the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

The dark-haired former player set at the head table at the event, an annual get-together of football enthusiasts on the eve of the Grey Cup. Proceeds from last year's dinner went to the widow of Ross Grimsley, late Ottawa Rough Rider and Toronto Balmy Beach coach.

Black, unable to move either arms or legs, acknowledged the cheers of the gathering with a nod of his head. He is to be a special guest at the Ottawa-Saskatchewan Cup final at Varsity Stadium today.

Marty Marion, Mr. Shortstop of another year, was eased out as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals in a surprise move yesterday. Owner Fred Saigh wouldn't say why the rookie manager was given the gate but it generally believed Saigh felt Marion lacked aggressiveness, despite the club's third-place finish last season.

Pt. Hope Defeats Glen Roys 13-8 In Exhibition

Belleville Glen Roys couldn't stand the stiff pace in Port Hope last night and fading badly in the third period dropped a 13-8 decision to the lakesborn town intermediates in an exhibition tilt.

The Glens led 6-4 going into the third period but lack of practice and condition told and the Hopers ran in nine tallies as against two for the Glens.

The city crew played their best hockey of the game in the second period scoring four times to the homesiers once after trailing 3-2 after the first period. Yorks and Adams scored in the initial heat with Hatfield, Williams, Semark and Mulvihill counting in the second. Hatfield got his second goal of the night, with Jones scoring also in the final frame.

Mulvihill was injured at the start of the third period and forced to retire from the game.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Sunday, November 25

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Delightful, promising indications for both Sunday interests and essential work. Urgent now for all honest, worthwhile matters. It can, should be a happy, good day with your help.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Do enjoy your family, church services and all happy doings commensurate to true Sunday living. Can be advantageous and pleasant, especially if you go to church, pray and spread cheer.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Generally friendly for you folks, too. Thank God for your many blessings. Aid those in need and don't neglect the little niceties that help make life more liveable, especially in the home.

June 22 to July 22—(Cancer)—Many benefic aspects today to encourage cheer one on to doing greater good, to help lighten heavy hearts and bring sunshine into gloomy places. Give of your cheerful self wherever you can.

July 23 to August 23—(Leo)—Don't take on unnecessary work, tasks that should wait until later. This is God's day, should be treated as such. Prayer, good deeds, healthy recreation are important to right-living.

August 23 to September 23 — (Virgo)— Grand rays, especially for your Sunday interests, music, good reading, family's and useful social affairs, and of course spiritual devotions. After necessary duties, enjoy diverting fun.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Moon, Mercury, Jupiter among favorably aspected planets and your Venus not unfriendly as it offers a pleasant, interesting time. Remember obligations to God, family, country.

October 24 to November 23—(Scorpio)—No ifs and buts, try, sin high, be your best self. Use well day's generous, benefits. Have a bright heart. Do what is essential, pray, enjoy pleasant pastimes.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius) — Whatever your schedule and essential duties, enjoy doing them and speed up your tempo to extra more time for wholesome fun, diversion. Do not neglect your soul's needs.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—And you can have a happy day, But we must all put our shoulder to the wheel for our country's security, for the preservation of liberty and the right to serve God. Pray, work if you should.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Pleasant aspects going to very good ones for tomorrow's problems and work. If duties permit today, enjoy a healthy sport or other hobby. Attend your church. Enjoy family fun.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—The unusual and daring as regular affairs to aid our country and armed forces' interests are in order. Do not neglect spiritual needs when serving other right-eous causes.

YOU BORN TODAY: Are sincere, optimistic, intelligently cautious. A determined, alert, impartial somebody with plenty of vigor and daring in your talented makeup. Make excellent, business manager, investor, skilled scientific worker, machinist, religious leader. Be true to your fine qualities and living as God intended you should, you will be truly line of endeavor, undertaking. Keep studying, improving, you can happiness. Pray when troubled.

Birthdate: Andrew Carnegie, industrialist, philanthropist; Lope de Vega, Span. dramatist, poet.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which you find your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars:

For Monday, November 26
March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Many needs to make changes in plans. Go along calmly in your most congenial manner and you may escape many upsets. If you meet contention you will be forbearing.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Good business openings; opportunities for all who work hard. Use earnestly; it will. Many difficulties perhaps in money, business matters. Work can be overcome by smart handling.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Get things rolling smoothly by taking all in calm sensible way. Watch out for misrepresentation; be accurate yourself. Heart interests; family, social affairs freshly favored.

June 22 to July 22—(Cancer)—Take responsibility for your action and listing, to both sides of a story. Do not blame others quickly. News from correspondence may be interesting to your welfare, socially.

July 23 to August 23—(Leo)—Be ready for changes these days. Eagerness, acting with care, thoughtfulness of others necessary. It will carry you over uncertain spots. Romantic, family affairs mostly; in tune with these.

August 24 to September 23—(Virgo)— Zodiacal configurations encourage extraordinary efforts. Be ready to pick up loose ends—and make ends meet; a natural gift of yours. Travel, too, maintain good humor.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra) — Among top favored: needed building, financial and business opportunity; especially interest in travel; handling the public, students; employer and employee. Seek out opportunities.

October 24 to November 23—(Scorpio) — Some disturbance may occur early. Mark time, plan first for action, don't rush in. P. M. brings encouragement; you can make up for a lax period. Mind health, have sense fun.

November 24 to December 23—(Sagittarius)—Certain influences changing now mean much to advancement if you're ready to take on. New progress in manufacturing, shipping, new and improved products, public relations.

December 22 to January 21—(Capricorn)—May not be important.

Federal Surplus $604,700,000 For Seven Months

Ottawa, Nov. 24. (CP)—The federal budgetary surplus climbed another $91,500,000 in October to bring to $604,700,000 the total for the seven months of the current fiscal year, which began April 1.

In his budget speech last spring, Finance Minister Abbott forecast a surplus of only $50,000,000 for the year, ending next March 31.

The monthly treasury statement released yesterday, showed that the $91,500,000 increase in October compared with an increase of $11,300,000 in September.

Revenues in October totalled $254,900,000 compared with $253,600,000 in the corresponding month of 1950. In the seven-month period revenues totalled $3,159,900,000 compared with $1,-935,100,000, an increase of $824,800,000.

Income tax payments by individuals were $187,300,000 higher at $561,900,000 for the seven months. This, said the report, was due in part to higher personal incomes and to the defence surcharge introduced in the budget.

Corporation tax receipts in the period totalled $612,800,000, up $241,200,000 as a result of higher corporation and increased taxes. Custom import duties were up $15,300,000 to $99,500,000. Excise tax collections were $176,-400,000 higher at $301,700,000 due to increased consumer spending and to higher taxes.

Stupid, Silly Thing to Do Says Woman

San Francisco, Nov. 24—(AP)—The widow who "died" talked about it yesterday.

She was full of apologies for trying to take her life—"a stupid silly thing to do." She feels like any newly-born. She wants to live. She's going to finish a book she was writing.

This woman was pronounced dead by a doctor Nov. 8 her seeming lifeless body was sent to a morgue. There her jaw moved slightly. Then, when word about the medical battle that saved her knew her under a name which she won't be known.

The 50-year-old woman, meeting the press in a hospital office, explained:

"I must be known only as T. K. Butler. After that you may say Mrs. Butler. My New England kin are conservative old fashioned. I did a silly, goofy thing. It's sensible not to harden them."

The initials and the last name actually are hers but she made all interviewers promise not to use her first or middle names.

And does she remember anything when she was deep in the land of shadows? No. Nothing until the nearest consciousness a week after taking 50 sleeping pills.

"My first conscious impressions were of perfect geometric patterns of all colors and shapes sailing through through my mind."

"I think it may have been prisms of light trying to break through my consciousness. Then, as the light seemed to hurt, I could hear all that was being said around me. But my eyes were like a baby's. I was like starting all over again."

MARMORA

Alex Kay Gives Talk on 'Birds'

Marmora.—Alex. Kay, of Peterborough, was the guest speaker at the monthly open meeting of Marmora Home and School Association, held in Marmora Public School, on Wednesday evening, when there was a good attendance of parents, children and friends of the movement.

In his entertaining style, Mr. Kay took a representative number of birds and compared them to various types of human being, using language as befitting descriptions of humans as could be used upon their characteristics and adding many laughs in his audience.

236 Different Birds

He mentioned, as a prelude to his talk, that there are 236 different kinds of birds. He touched first upon the robins which are protected birds, birds which wear plumage at times and doctor their own children.

Then he spoke of the woodpeckers, which place a storm door at the entrance to their home as a winter precaution; the crows which are first cousins to the birds of paradise. There are only seven kinds of birds which may permissibly be killed. The owls and hawks were eulogized by the speaker as insect killers as well as the yellow hammer, which successfully attacked the ant colony with its strategy.

He deviated once from the course of his talk to say that without a compass, there were 11 signboards in Marmora. Through the use of which no one who discovered their import should be lost.

He lamented the fact that the quail had entirely disappeared from Ontario, the bird which specifically went after potato bugs. Mr. Kay concluded his reference to the prescher bird which attracts various kinds of other birds to its attention and they eventually fly away before his discourse is finished.

He said his would be pleased at some time to go on a hike here with scholars as he had in several other districts. "Birds lead one to think of the Creator, God, who has so ordained that we cannot live without them."

Introduced by Rev. J. E. Glover, the speaker was thanked by Russell Welke.

Mrs. R. Frost, president, was in the chair, and she thanked Principal E. C. Symmons and older boys of the school for having planted the tulips before the frost came.

Mrs. Vaughan Glover played two violin numbers with Mrs. A. F. Fraser accompanying as pianist. The attendance of parents and grandparents was large, said Mr. Prentice.

A Royal Family contest, staged by Mrs. Effie Manchester, of the school staff, in which the audience was palated for competition, was won by Mrs. DeClair and Miss Cole, who paired together.

Light refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Reeve Irvin McCoy, Council Are Returned by Acclamation In Marmora, Lake Townships

Marmora—Reeve Irvin McCoy and his 1951 associates in Marmora and Lake Township council were given acclamation at the nomination meeting held in Marmora town hall on Friday night, upon under presidency of Township Clerk Thomas Bateman. The three existing members of the Marmora school area trustee board were re-elected to office.

The auditor's report, which was released yesterday, showed that the $91,500,000 increase in October compared with an increase of $11,300,000 in September.

Revenues in October totalled $254,900,000 compared with $253,-600,000 in the corresponding month of 1950. In the seven-month period revenues totalled $3,159,900,000 compared with $1,-335,100,000, an increase of $824,-800,000.

Prime Minister Defends Claxton In Parliament

Ottawa, Nov. 24. (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent yesterday gave the Commons a denial from Defence Minister Claxton that he had said at Rotterdam Canada would spend $100,000,000 on airfields in Europe.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, promptly challenged the Prime Minister's explanation of a Shotgreen news story quoting Mr. Claxton at a press conference there Wednesday.

The exchange was a continuation of an incident that began in the House, Wednesday night, when Mr. Drew took the Defence Minister to task for his reported announcement that Canada would foot the bill for four or five airdromes to accommodate Canadian squadrons in Europe.

Mr. Drew contended such announcements should be made first to parliament.

The Prime Minister, after getting in touch with the Defence Minister in Rome, today told the House of Commons that actually all that Canada would have $1 million airdromes in Europe and would need accommodation for them. It also had been indicated to the House of Commons that Britain's were not available for them now in Europe.

Alan Lennox, the Prime Minister said, was that the cost of construction would have to be met and that Canada would have to bear her share. This was to be done through what would have to be paid.

Mr. St. Laurent said the Defence Minister advised him he did not give $100,000,000 or any other figure at the press conference.

In fact, he said, no new information had been given out there except the number of bases that would be needed. That had been settled on providing the number of squadrons by capacity on the airfields.

"A GOOD PLACE TO DEAL"

The Outsiders

By Jane Abbott

There was curiosity but no friendliness on the faces. Eliza lowered her eyes from them and saw Annie's hands, red and rough the satin broken. "Pretty little Annie Aldrich. . . ." Eliza thought.

Shock and an inexplainable shame combined to confuse her. "Annie, I came over to ask about your husband."

Annie's eyes shone very bright through the rings of dirt. "Dave . . . he didn't fuss so much last night and Hester's take the bug him over, to Cranford today for pictures of his hand. They'll know more, then. Doctor Street, he's been very kind. And it's kind of you to ask."

"If there's anything . . ." Eliza stopped. It was too stupid a thing to utter when there was so much she could do. If she knew . . . She said, after a moment's pause and with sudden vehemence, "I hate to have you working in there."

Annie looked over her shoulder into the shed and then back at Eliza. "It isn't too bad when I'm lucky to have it!" She smiled. "Not yet, at least. She was going get back at it! We've got the table to look over. It was nice of you to come, Miss Forrestal.

"I wish you'd call me Eliza," said Eliza impulsively.

"I will—Elliza!" Annie put out her dirt-stained hand and took Eliza's and gave it a quick squeeze. Each of Annie, the man Tim and the boys at the table were still staring but now Eliza did not feel it so unfriendly.

Eliza was practising when a loud thump of the knocker sounded at the front door. Chris Cameron . . . Eliza sprang up from the stool. While she played, half of her had been listening for his step behind her.

Chris stood, grinning a little, when she opened the door. "My manners better this time?"

"Much . . . Will you come in?"

"Isn't it too nice a day to sit indoors? Why not here on the doorstep? I've a special liking for sitting on doorsteps—I wish you'd try it."

"I will." Eliza sat down on the broad oaken step. Chris sat beside her. He put the book he was carrying between them.

Below them stretched the valley and beyond the valley the hills and beyond the hills the distant mountains. Presently Chris said, "It's a little like sitting on that rock of yours, up on Spruce Hill, isn't it?"

"Yes, if you mean the view." Eliza added, on a burst of candor, "that afternoon—I don't like to remember it!"

"It was your first day here, wasn't it? And I intruded on you frightened you. . ."

She shook her head, "I wasn't that. Before you came—I sat there seeing the valley mine simply for the claiming. That was why you made me angry— you told me in plain words that it wasn't mine!"

"For which forthright speaking I now ask your pardon."

"No, no, please don't. It's so—and I had to find it out, some time."

Each spoke of the occasion as if it were a long time ago.

"I looked through the ledger last night. I think I learned a great deal from it."

"Good!"

"Though Im still terribly mixed up. . ." Eliza stopped. How she did not want to tell Chris Cameron of the talk with the manager that had shattered her newborn confidence in herself. "No, yet, at last. She was going to fight to get it back. But she would tell him. . . "I went into the picking shed today. I haven't been there before. I saw Annie Aldrich. I saw her hands. My mother's hands are beautiful; she spends hours rubbing creams into them. And Annie's. . . " She turned to Chris, her eyes dark with the intensity of her feelings. "You don't know why I thought of my mother's hands when I saw Annie's. You don't know that once my father and Annie Wilson, Annie Aldrich, were in love with each other, may even have been engaged to marry, and then my father went south and met my mother. . . "

Though she knew it had been her instinct to keep her deepest feeling shut within her self, she was neither startled nor embarrassed, now, by so unloading her heart to this man beside her.

"And always, whatever my mother has wanted, she's gotten for herself!" she finished.

Chris said quietly, "that wrong was for Annie to forgive and I feel pretty certain she forgave it a long time ago."

"You mean—I've felt, since Hespeth told me that I had to make up to Annie, something I can't bear to think of her working in that shed. And I suppose she has to, now."

Chris smiled. "I doubt Annie's worrying about her hands! Dave's of course. And something more. Her boy. She is ambitious for him. He's been going to the high school in Cranford. This is his second year. Not many of the boys in the valley go on through high—they go into the mill or go outside. But Annie wouldn't have it that way with hers—she's talked to me about it. She lives on dreams for him. He's good on a violin and he's been taking lessons after school. Now it'll all stop; Ted told me yesterday he was quitting school. That he was going into the mill. Into the picking shed. That's where boys of that age begin."

"Oh, he mustn't!" cried Eliza. Chris took out a pipe, looking hard down into the empty bowl of it.

"I've an idea! Let me bring the kid up here, sometime. Play for him, tell him about your own study of music. I'll tell him to bring his violin up and you ask him to play for you. Keep it alive in him—or Annie's dream of it.

"That doesn't take her out of that shed! Or keep her boy from going in!"

"Maybe it'd make up to her for the drudgery of it there. And maybe for that hurt of a long time ago—if she still feels any of it."

Eliza's eyes were on the valley, a little frown over them. "I was thinking of giving her money, quite a bit and I didn't know how!"

"No not money." Chris spoke quickly with decision. "Not Annie, Annie has a rather special kind of pride—it wouldn't let her accept money. But kindness, neighborliness, she would, and count it more. . ."

The neighborliness of which she knew nothing; Eliza turned to him, her face expressive of her discouragement. "You're like Hespeth, you know! You both make me so—ashamed of myself.

"That's putting it too strong, isn't it? It's experience that gives us wisdom. I'll confess until I came here I always thought of money as the first and immediate palliative."

"I'm afraid I never thought of giving anything!" said Eliza with astonishing frankness. "You don't know what a completely self-centered person I've been all my life!"

Chris got to his feet, stood over her. "Whatever made you—fight, is all past now, isn't it?" He asked it very gently.

"I want to be," cried Eliza with some passion. She got quickly to her feet her face a little bewildered. "Just then—it seemed as if I'd known you before—before I came to New Interval. But I couldn't have, could I?"

Now it was Chris who said "I don't see how—I've lived all my life in a Midwest city, and you abroad."

"Of course! It was absurd in me to think I had!"

Chris picked up the book from the step. "I brought this along with me—that book I thought you'd enjoy reading." He put the book in her hands.

She looked down at it. "I'll read it."

"And it's settled that I may bring the kid up here?"

"Yes."

"I'll come again—tomorrow? Is that too soon?"

"No."

He swung off down the short cut and, she watched him until he disappeared in the woods beyond the clearing. A tall rangy figure of a man in faded service-khaki, old army boots on his feet —why had she thought she had met him before? Then, she remembered that, that afternoon on Spruce Hill, he had asked almost exactly what she had asked him, today.

She did not try to search her memory for any conflict stored disturbed her musing. On the contrary she liked to think that the "beginning" had been up there on the rock, that afternoon she wanted to forget.

"I'm driving Wilson over to Cranford. I may be there most of the day. Better stay in bed all day and off that ankle," John Streeter had said to Marilyn before he left for the mill that morning.

That was all he had said to her. He had brought toast and coffee in to her earlier but he had put the tray down beside the bed and gone out of the room without a word.

He had not said anything last evening after she came to, He had looked at her sharply, strapped it, given her a sleeping pill and left her. He hadn't more than just spoken to her since the party.

U.K. Turns Down Plan To Set Up U.S.-Led Command

Defence Ministers Meet In Special Session at Rome

Rome, Nov. 26 — (AP)—Qualified sources reported today that British again has turned down a proposal to set up an American-led North Atlantic naval command immediately.

They said also Prime Minister Churchill's government so far has refused to accept the American 30 Garrard as the standard rifle for the Atlantic Allies.

Britain is still arguing in favor of adopting its own .280 rifle as the standard Allied rifle.

These developments emerged after Allied defence ministers met this morning in a special session with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization military committee, made up of 13 chiefs of staff.

Accept British Leadership

The defence ministers accepted a plan to create a separate British-led naval command in the English Channel area, with another North Sea to guard the approaches and the ports in Dutch, Belgian and Britain.

The plan needs the approval of the Atlantic Council as a whole before it can be adopted. That approval likely will come later today or sometime tomorrow. Earlier Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in a 30-minute address to the military committee said peace with honor "will come to Europe only if the west builds a strong defence line far to the east of the Rhine."

Aides described his talk as "inspirational, not pessimistic nor optimistic."

As the men who have built up S.H.A.P.E. (Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers in Europe) Eisenhower gave the chiefs of staff assembled in the one time Mussolini Stadium a report that some progress was being made "here" in the drive for security. But he emphasized, some lagging "there" in the drive for security.

Eisenhower made it plain that he said Eisenhower gave no clue, either by implication or by inflection of his voice as to his personal future. Some diplomats here have been speculating Eisenhower might drop a hint about whether he intends quitting S.H.A.P.E. in order to run for the U.S. presidency next year.

Must Feel Responsible

The Atlantic Pact supreme commander declared that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization nations must grow "strong" and "attempt the impossible" if there is to be any real security.

Eisenhower spoke to the military chiefs in advance of the press conference this afternoon (9.30 a.m. EST) because the 13 nation top N.A.T.O. council at which he is scheduled to tell them they must feel responsible for defence effort if they are to ensure peace through strength.

Eisenhower told the secret session of the chiefs of staff—"as one old soldier to another"—that he had been "horrified," when he came to Europe last January, at the lack of readiness a single army out of the different forces possessed.

But, he declared, he learned that "it must be done." The problem of security is so great that no one nation can discharge its responsibility for security alone, he said.

ESCAPES REFORMATORY

Brampton, Ont., Nov. 26. (CP) —Howard Cramer, 21, of Burford, Ont., escaped Saturday night from the reformatory here. Provincial police searched for him in vain.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 26 (CP) —Synopsis: A storm centre from the south central United States moved over Ontario today to bring lower lake regions early this afternoon rain that may end as occasional rain to southern counties with a brief freezing rain in southwestern sections. Snow is falling in most sections of northern Ontario and will continue throughout the day.

Tuesday will be mostly sunny in northern regions but a weak low system in central Alberta will bring cloudy weather to southern portions again Tuesday evening. Southern sections will be sunny Tuesday.

Police, Firemen Given Busy Time By Small Boy

Hicksville, N. Y., Nov. 27 — (AP)—A small boy's big story led police and firemen on a wet chase last night.

The boy, identity unknown, raced up to a Long Island rail road switchman and told that late a playmate had climbed a 50-foot ladder to the railroad watertank at Hicksville — and had failed to return.

Then the youngster, about 10, disappeared.

Police and firemen came. The search party grew to more than 100 persons.

They grappled in the 35,000 gal. tank. The night was chilly, but the hunt went on for hours.

Finally they drained the tank — a task that hadn't been done since it was erected in 1907.

The firemen splashed down into the tank.

They found: three dead pigeons. No small boy.

No youngster was reported missing today.

None, that is, except the boy who turned in what the searchers called a false alarm.

They can't find hide nor hair of him.

Two Hospital Guards Convicted Of Manslaughter

Quebec, Nov. 26 (CP) —Two hospital guards convicted of manslaughter in the fatal beating of a mental patient were sentenced today to four year terms in penitentiary.

Conrad Asselin, 22, and Emmanuel Audet, 35, were convicted last Friday in the death of Arthur Pare, 54, April 5 last year.

Counsel for the two men said he will appeal the jury's verdict and the sentences.

Counsel told the jury during the trial that Asselin and Audet beat up the patient because he could not handle a floor rag properly. The physician who made an autopsy on Pare's body testified the patient suffered 27 separate injuries, nine of them internal fractures. He attributed death of the patient to the beating.

SIXTEEN KILLED AS TWO CRACK TRAINS COLLIDE

Most of The Dead In Car of One Train

Woodstock, Ala., Nov. 26 (CP) —Death toll in yesterday's head-on collision between two New York-New Orleans streamliners was placed at 16 today by railroad officials. Forty other persons were injured.

A Southern Railway spokesman said 15 bodies have been recovered and another has been sighted.

The collision occurred on a railroad trestle 29 miles south of Birmingham.

Most of the dead were in the first car of the Southerner, all-coach train from Washington to New Orleans. It was crushed like an eggshell.

The Southerner pulled into the path of the onrushing southbound Crescent, crack train of the Southern tracks here because a bridge was out on the Louisville and Nashville lines near New Orleans, 320 miles away.

"We were slammed back 90 feet," said George Newton, Seminary, Miss., a passenger in the third car of the Southerner train. "Everybody was running through the windows screaming."

The Southerner stopped after pulling out from a siding. The Crescent rounded a curve and slammed into it.

Normally, the Crescent operates over the south to Atlanta, over the West Point route to Montgomery, Ala., and there on to New Orleans via the L. and N. All of the known dead were on the Southerner. Fifteen were Negroes, most of them in the illfated "Magnolia," a combination baggage passenger coach with 22 seats.

Telescoped by Car Behind

It was telescoped by the car behind it.

K. C. Shults, division superintendent of Alabama Great Southern (a wholly owned Southern Railway) said there was no indication the engineer of either train should have stopped the Southerner on its siding were not obeyed.

The northbound train had gone into the siding to allow the southbound companion train to pass. The 13-car Crescent was a few minutes late. The Southerner was scheduled today to four year terms in penitentiary.

Shults said the Crescent probably was running at about 65 miles an hour when it hit.

The engine and baggage car left the tracks, with four plunging off the 40-foot embankment, Alabama highway officials said. Two were killed in the cars which dropped to the ground.

DESTROYED BY FIRE

Wallaceburg, Ont., Nov. 26. (CP)—The Turnerville general store and residence of Mrs. Rose R. Smith in Chatham township was destroyed by fire early Sunday, with estimated loss of close to $20,000. The fire was blamed on an overheated chimney.

Despite His Age, Churchill Sets Pace Around British Government Offices

London, Nov. 26—(AP)—Winston Churchill wound up his first month as peacetime Prime Minister of Britain today with the vigor of a freshman trying to make the varsity squad.

The 76 year old who will be 77 Friday, is running a taut ship of state. His ministers are finding it keep up with him. The sprawling office-cialdom of Whitehall is in a state of alert.

There are strong indications that Churchill will not open his first session of parliament's problems until after he visits Ottawa and Washington in January.

To give his ministers time to knock together new policies, Churchill is heading Parliament out on a long Christmas holiday despite the Labor party's outcries. The recess will extend from Dec. 7 to Jan. 29.

Churchill's vigorous pace keeps five secretaries working in relays on the hop day and night. He lives in a 10-room apartment over his office at 10 Downing Street. He likes to work late at night and early morning, often propped up in bed.

At present he is carrying the heavy burden of two offices, Prime Minister and Minister of Defence. He has taken over the latter office with vigor of a freshman trying to make the varsity squad.

Meyer Says he Came to Canada 'A Fanatical German' and Left Convinced Nationalism Dead

Offleben, Germany, Nov. 26 — (CP)—Kurt Meyer, German master-general of the Hitler Youth movement, said Sunday—in the midst of his first freedom in seven years—that he went to Canada as a "fanatical German" and came back to Germany "convinced that all nationalism is dead."

He was interviewed by a Canadian Press reporter within easy sight of the Canadian zone in a meeting that was a surprise to both of them.

The imprisoned former S.S. leader came back to his mother's home in this coal-mining village only two days ago under a system which he said allows war prisoners to go home on short leave from time to time.

The reporter went to Offleben to interview Meyer's wife and was assured to step into a room where Meyer himself was romping with his three of his five children. Neighbors kept a casual watch but Meyer seemed to be on communist terms tried to take him behind the iron curtain—and he needs away.

United Europe Answer

The man who is serving a life sentence because he was found responsible for the death of 23 Canadian prisoners-of-war in Normandy in 1944 said he'll return to Canada for a visit Military court where he was transferred recently from Canada.

Ironically, Werl is only a few miles from Soest, where Canada's 27th Brigade was on guard post-ed in 1952.

Then are Meyer's key words:

"I went to Canada a fanatical German, I came back convinced from all I could read and hear from talks that nationalism is dead, whether it be German, British or any other. A United Europe is the only answer."

He was told several Canadians think the Canadian government eventually will release him and was asked whether he expects to get his freedom. He said he has had no official word about a release. but this reporter's impression of his reaction was that Meyer is not sitting around waiting for one.

Appearance Not Changed

His appearance had not changed markedly from when the picture was taken.

Through the window could be seen an open field through which runs the east-west frontier.

Here are paraphrased versions of questions and answers in a talk over the dining room table in the house where he spend his boyhood before joining the Nazi party in 1933:

Q. Have you any comment about your imprisonment in Canada or about Canada herself?

A. Everybody at Dorchester (the federal penitentiary at Dorchester N. B.) tried to help me. They were fair, just, but I am pleased to be back, among my comrades in a military prison. All West there are eight generals. On side side of me is Gen. Kesselring and on the other Gen. Von Manteifel. We are studying English together.

Q. Do you still think Hitler was right?

A. The past is dead, History is its own answer about that. I live for the future.

Q. What is the attitude of the Russian, Greek and western fronts, which allied troops did you find the best?

A. New Zealanders, but Canadians compare favorably. I think Canadians have less stamina.

Fears Another War

I hope there will be no war but I am afraid there will and I think all the western powers must prepare their youth. The army is the backbone of nations.

It was a surprise to me to find Canadian youth practically having to be invited into forces to defend their wonderful country. The Canadian people are living in a joyous toyin freedom under those circumstances. They cannot afford to have a soft youth.

Q. How did you find Canadian generalship?

A. Overly cautious.

In Ottawa, there was no comment.

Soest, Oct. 19, the day of Meyer's departure for Germany, the government announced the transfer was criminals now held in prison outs de of Germany. his transfer is a prison in Germany has been decided upon," an army headquarters statement said. "There he will serve his sentence along with other war criminals convicted by American, Canadian and British military courts.

"The prison to which Meyer is being sent is administered by the British occupation authorities and a number of other German war criminals are incarcerated there. His transfer will not change his sentence."

Canadian Troops in Germany Will be Posted to Key Soil From Which Russian Ruhr Army Can Be Attacked

With the Canadians in Germany, Nov. 26 — (CP) — The Canadian Army has been earmarked for posting to key soil fronting the German industrial heartland in the Ruhr, Western Europe's strategic prize of prizes.

By the fall of 1952, the 27th Brigade is expected to be a fully-operational formation based at or near Soest, 20 miles east of the Dutch-Phalian city. This would place the 8,500 men nearly in the path of any Soviet surge for the Rhine through such important cities as Dortmund, Essen and Duisdorf.

The significance of the decision to post the brigade to Soest is fairly apparent to anyone who knows the map of Germany. The Ruhr cities cluster like a group of gigantic grapes in the 60 miles between Soest and the Rhine.

Soest, too, is in an area where the Canadians have been involved in battling any Russian attempt to thrust into Western Europe.

It is significant in another way too, that Canada is preparing to pour $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 into new barracks for the brigade in the Soest area, between the Rhine east of the Rhine. Thus this capital investment is to become available to the Russians and the Germans that the Atlantic Pact powers intend to fight any aggression east of this great water barrier.

Soest, again, is going to place the Canadians close to one of the most historic areas in western Germany, the so-called Sennelager. Brig. Geoffrey Walsh and his officers are delighted over this prospect because at Hannover, the initial concentration area, they are not in a particularly good training area and units will have to travel many miles in some cases to do certain training.

Present indications are that the brigade will move to Soest after participating in large-scale multi - national Atlantic Pact manoeuvres early next fall. Well before that time, the brigade is expected to be fully operational and ready to fight.

ROYAL 22ND REGT. UNDER STEADY ATTACK FOR WEEK

Fight Without Sleep For 72-Hour Period

Tokyo, Nov. 26 (AP) — The Canadian army public information office in Tokyo said today "United Nations forces in the west central sector of Korea have been engaged in the bitterest fighting encountered on this front-in months."

The statement said the struggle centres on "Hill 355 and a dominating hill in the area."

(Bill Boss, Canadian Press staff writer assigned to Canadian troops in Korea, reports that United Nations troops held firm last night to a vital ridge-top position west of Imjim despite three days of almost incessant attack by Chinese reds in battalion strength.

(Censorship apparently would not let Boss identify the U.N. troops involved but in reporting the same action Saturday, he was allowed to say then that the Royal 22nd Regiment was in the line. Lt. Col. Y. A. Dextraze of Montreal.)

Under Attack for Week

"U.N. forces, under continuous attack for a week, had backed up to the foothills surrounding this main feature," the Canadian army said. "For more than three days the intensity of the battle increased as waves of Chinese infantry threw themselves against the stone wall defence line held by the U.N. formation."

"This U.N. formation, fighting without sleep for 72 hours, at times found itself fighting off attacks from three directions."

Heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy, the statement said. Mortars of the formation fired 1,000 rounds in less than 24 hours at one period of the battle.

"A plateau of this same formation, faced with an attack by an estimated 300 Chinese, fired their small mortars until they were out of ammunition and removed the weapons back into shell holes and continued to fire until the last Chinese was completely broken up.

"The commanding officer of this formation has already received congratulations from a senior commander on the 'fine show' of his unit."

Boy Dies of Tumor After 'Santa's Visit

Camp Borden, Nov. 26—(CP) —Sadie paid Bunchy Franks an early visit this year.

Bunchy, the three-year-old son of Sgt. and Mrs. Robert Franks, died Sunday, 24 hours after he celebrated a special Christmas because doctors predicted he would not live until Dec. 25.

Bunchy had his tree Friday, complete with lights and all kinds of presents. Then he was taken to hospital. He died of malignant tumor.

Heavy Snowfall At Montreal

Montreal, Nov. 26—(CP)—The first real snowstorm of the season struck Montreal early today and up to noon 4 inches had fallen.

Police reported that between 7.30 and 10 a.m. there were 100 accidents, enough to call out all for police attention.

Port authorities said the snow they predict the St. Lawrence River and ships between here and Quebec dropped anchor.

TWO RESCUED

Dryden, Ont., Nov. 26 (CP)— Summer-type ski equipment was used during the weekend to rescue two persons from a strictly winter accident. Ronald Skene fell through the ice on a small pond here and his father jumped in to rescue him. Both clung to the ice until friends saved them with a diving tower ladder.

Only Signatures Needed to Start Armistice Agenda

Sub-committees Will Meet To Approve Proposal

Munsan, Korea, Nov. 26 (AP) Allied and communist staff officers tonight agreed on the exact location of a 145-mile line across Korea where the shooting will stop if an armistice is signed within 30 days.

Only signatures of the truce negotiators are needed to complete settlement of the second item on the armistice agenda—fixing a cease-fire line.

The sub-committees will meet in Panmunjon tomorrow at 10 a.m. (8 p.m. EST Monday) to approve the proposal. The full five-man armistice delegations will open a plenary session one hour later. Formal adoption of the buffer clause is expected to be a mere formality.

Then a race against the 30 day deadline sets in while the fighting goes on, the negotiators will work on three other points that must be agreed on before a full armistice can be signed.

The staff officers adjourned the last sector of the cease-fire line at 6:30 p.m. (4.30 a.m. EST) after a marathon session lasting almost 7 1-2 hours.

Minor Differences

The official U.N. Command communique said minor differences cropped up after the officers reached general agreement on the line of battle contact, All were ironed out and the line was drawn on two sets of maps which both sides initialled.

The cease-fire line approved by the negotiators will be the centre of a demilitarized zone about 2 1-2 miles wide if an armistice is signed within 30 days of the approval expected today or Monday.

The fighting will continue until an armistice is reached, and if the negotiators fail to reach agreement within the time limit, the line will be redrawn just before the truce goes into effect to the battle lines then held.

After the buffer zone clause is formally approved the truce delegations will try to agree on measures for enforcing the armistice. Neutral inspections behind the front lines.

Must Solve Problems

Two other tough problems also must be solved before the armistice can become effective. They are the exchange of war prisoners and recommendations to the belligerent governments, including withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea.

Agreement on the proposed truce line came four months after armistice delegations first tackled the problem July 10. Then the staff officers met Monday morning there were 10 points on the battle line still in dispute. When they recessed for lunch four had been settled. Agreement was reached on the other six in a five-hour afternoon session.

Growing Belief Russian Officers Take Command of Red Artillery

Western Front, Korea, Nov. 26 (AP)—There is a growing belief on the western front that Russian satellite officers have taken command of the red Chinese artillery.

Staff officers and commanders give several reasons.

1. Since Nov. 1 the red artillery has shown an increasing increase in speed of fire and accuracy.

2. At least one allied radio man had been killed by a weapon of high accuracy.

3. It was heard, (two words censored) made by a former Polish soldier now in the British service, was picked up eight days ago.

The British Pole said he heard a voice adjusting the communist gunfire "in pure Russian."

Sir Guy Lowther, commander of the Eighth Hussars, Britain's cotton turnan tank outfit in Korea, said he has entirely new tactics since November with a starting improvement in red artillery.

Other officers said that instead of the wild and scattered fire that has been typical of Chinese gunners, the communists recently have been pumping in highly accurate fire that sometimes amounts to two or three shells a second for a period of up to one hour.

This would indicate a new development in red artillery since the communists began to use field guns in numbers last May.

Some allied officers said it was obvious Russian officers would be called in to step up Chinese artillery especially as the Russians themselves are among the world's best artillerymen, and have provided the Chinese with guns.

Four Fatally Injured When Truck Hits Bus

St. Hyacinthe, Que., Nov. 26 — (CP) — Four persons were fatally injured today when a 37-passenger bus, en route from Drummondville, Que., to Montreal in a blinding snowstorm, was sideswiped by a heavy, Drummondville-bound truck.

Three of the dead, unidentified women, were brought to the morgue here. The fourth, Georges Shelsworth, 39, Drummondville, died in hospital shortly after admittance.

Police said 12 other persons were injured but none was believed in serious condition.

St. Hyacinthe is some 40 miles east of Montreal.

Santa Comes Off Second-Best In Annual Parade

Timmins, Ont., Nov. 26—(CP) —Santa Claus came off a poor second-best Saturday in his bout with Timmins' children. His float in the annual parade was broken up and his loudspeaker put out of commission in a small-scale riot.

At one-point pop-eyed youngsters—3,500 of them—watched St. Nick, his white beard angrily blowing, strike out wildly at teenagers mobbing his float for bags of candy.

About half the kids didn't get any goodies after the float halted to allow youngsters to walk up the steps to greet Santa.

The jam-up was so great that those on the float became alarmed. They began throwing the candies into the crowd to ease off the pressure. That made it worse. A dozen fist fights broke out at once when knots of boys strove to get the candy.

Then the scene cleared the yard was strewn with children's gloves, rubbers, candies trampled into the earth and torn bags, the streets were full of irate mothers going home with weeping, empty-handed kids.

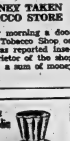
LUMBER, PULPWOOD TO BE CUT IN QUINTE AREA

An estimated cut of 30 million feet plus 2,000 cords of pulpwood will be taken from the timbered areas of the Bay of Quinte district, according to the Department of Lands and Forests.

Approximately 33 lumber camps with 500 lumber workers were in operation at the end of October and this number has been increased since that date.

MILLIONS OF EGGS COLLECTED AT HATCHERY



Up to November 17th, some 19 million whitefish eggs had been collected at the Glenora hatchery. Spawntaking operations have now been completed and this number will be substantially increased.

Some 304,000 speckled trout fingerlings have been moved from Glenora to White Lake ponds.

Two million herring eggs have also been collected at Glenora.

J. Allin Will Contest Mayoralty

At the request of many city residents who have urged him to offer himself as candidate, Ex-Mayor Jack Allin will contest the chief magistrate's office in the forthcoming municipal election.

"I am sincerely interested in the good administration of the city and have decided to run for the office of mayor," Mr. Allin stated today.

Mr. Allin said he had been urged by many citizens to offer the city the benefit of his executive municipal experience. He denied any rumor that he was sponsored by any political party or other organization.

"I am not sponsored by any political party, service club, the Chamber of Commerce, or any other organization," he said.

Boy, 9, Returns Lost Money

Honesty paid off for a nine-year-old Murney Street lad on Saturday.

While walking on Front St., Stephen Halsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Halsey, spotted a number of bills lying loosely on the sidewalk. He picked them up, counted the money and reported the matter at the police station turning $16 over to the desk clerk.

Later a woman from the Frankford district reported at the station she had lost some money. She identified her property and left a one dollar reward for the lad who had proven his honesty.

N.B. Man Found In Possession Of Pistol

Discovered prying on a window sill at Thrasher's Feed Mill on North Coleman St., two young men were arrested by city police Saturday night. One has been charged with attempted breakin and entry.

Arrested were Gordon Gough, 27, of New Brunswick and John Gaffney, 22, of 10 Moira Street west. At the time of his arrest Gough was in possession of an automatic pistol and he has been charged with carrying an offensive weapon.

The sound of breaking glass attracted the attention of patrol officers and investigation by Constables Crook and Martin and Detective Reid revealed that the two men attempting to gain an entrance to the feed building.

A station wagon cost and a pair of trousers were found lying on the ground near where the two men were working on the window and later investigation revealed the articles of clothing had been stolen from the Belle Cleaners which was also reported entered.

Bantams Play Two Contests At The Arena

Canadiens defeated Rangers 2-1 and Leafs and Red Wings played to a 1-1 deadlock to open the fantam league play at the Belleville Arena Hockey Association on Saturday Morning.

Sinclair tallied for Black Hawks in the opener while "Speedy" St. Louis ranged in the losing cause. Ter with less than a minute of play left.

Eddie Green and Duval scored for the winners in the second encounter, the latter's goal coming as the result of a breakaway. Burns countered from Bishop for the Rangers goal. It was not enough to stem the winning tide of the Red Wings.

Two of the youngsters received injuries proving, if nothing else, that they can play just as rough as their older brethren. Ted Wallbridge received a badly bruised and possibly fractured wrist while little Gary Rowbotham came away with a couple of stiffened ankles his left eye.

These same four teams will meet again next Saturday morning at nine o'clock.

Two Scouts Attain King Scout Rank

Thursday evening was a gala occasion for Belleville Public Scouts and Cubs. It was Parents' Night and the boys presented a most highly interesting program to a large number of parents and guests gathered in Christ Church parish hall.

The Cubs, with their Akela, opened the program with the "Grand Howl." Cub Cub prayer after which Field Commissioner Art Jackson told a story of "Scouting From Cub to Scouter" followed by colors, the marching in of the colors and the Scout promise and prayer.

The solemn ceremony of "Going Up" followed and seven Cubs, Kenneth Gilham, Dennis Clarke, Glen Sherwood, Richard Howbottom, Eric Beeby, Jim Greene and Bert Sellick received welcomed into the Scout group. These new Scouts entertained the audience with an amusing skit.

Ken Gilham favored with a guitar solo and Richard Rowbottom played the piano. All enjoyed a spirited sing-song and the modern story "The King Will the Terrible Temper."

Presentations were made to boys for work during the year. Several Scouts received proficiency badges just as badges. Scout Ed. Gillespie had earned his Cyclist Proficiency badge, the second of its kind to be awarded in Belleville.

1st Class Badges

First class badges and "all-round" cords Grade A, were awarded to Scouts Wilkins, Stewart, Bedford and Owen. Scout Wilkins had also earned his "all-round" cord Grade B. These were awarded by Scoutmaster Willis Jackson, assisted by Scoutmaster Ken Moore.

The highlight of the evening. To assistant District Commissioner Dent Allen, went the pleasant duty of promoting Scouts Ernie Gilham and Ed. the rank of King Scout, one of the highest achievements in scouting.

He commended these boys on their splendid work and progress, and gave a brief history of the King Scout badge.

The Cubs closed the program with the "Mouse Howl" and Cub prayer and the Scouts with their Vesper song and Scout silence.

Refreshments were then enjoyed, provided by the Chipmunk Patrol.

Straight Fight for Mayor, 15 Qualify for Council Seats And Four for Commissioner

A straight fight for the office of Mayor between Ex-Mayor Jack Allin and Alderman A. McLaren Haig was indicated here Saturday night when two of the 11 persons nominated for mayor qualified to run for the office.

There will also be an election for public utilities commissioner with four of the nominees having qualified, and 15 candidates will contest for the seven aldermanic seats. There will be no election for school trustees with two candidates in each of the seven wards receiving acclamation.

Qualifying to run for utilities commissioner were Enos David, William Harvey, Urias "Sandy" Lemmon and Percy McGuire.

For Council—seven to be elected —William Argue, Harold Arnott, Arthur Bateman, Jack Bonn; Burton B. Farrar; E. S. Falkwell; Charles L. Hyde; Arthur Keegan, Christian Leggatt, Donald McNevin, Kenneth Ross, Bruce Smith, Harry Temple, Claude D. Tice and John M. Wood.

School Board Acclaimed

Receiving acclamation for school trustee were the following: Foster Ward—Harry C. Powell, Robert Robb; Samson Ward—Charles R. Hewson, Mrs. Effie McCabe; Ketchum Ward—Frank W. Grandiene, William A. VanTassel; Baldwin Ward—Gerald B. Hyde, John D. Godwin; Dufferin Ward—Dr. Edward House, A. C. Wilkin; Coleman Ward—Mrs. Ida Caverley, Allan Lennox; Murney Ward—Fred Beeby, Fred Symons.

The municipal election will be Monday, Dec. 3rd, but before that time the candidates for the various offices will have two opportunities to speak at public meetings.

Wednesday evening there will be the annual "pan feed" at the Wharf Street Debating Club on South Front Street, while Friday evening the local Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a public meeting at the Collegiate Auditorium at which all candidates will be invited to speak.

Gifts Presented To Staff Members

Presentations to two members of the staff of the Ontario Intelligencer on the eve of their betrothal to associations with the newspaper, were made on Friday and Saturday last.

Tangible tributes were paid to Miss Beth MacLeod, business staff, who has left for Toronto and to Mr. Richard Cowan, circulation manager, who is now on route to Sydney, Nova Scotia, where he is associated with the Sydney Post in a similar capacity.

The presentations of handsome gifts were made, to Mr. Cowan, by Claude D. Tice, news editor, and to Miss MacLeod by Geo. H. Carver, sports editor, before assembled members of the various departmental staffs.

Both Mr. Cowan and Miss MacLeod expressed their sincere regret at the severing of connections with the newspaper, and their appreciation of the gifts presented to them.

Two Inches Snow Cover Most Of Ontario

Toronto, Nov. 26. (CP)—Two inches of snow covered most of Ontario Sunday night and snow was still falling there in the eastern parts of the province. Windsor and London areas received freezing rain.

The Dominion public weather office said more areas, including Toronto, could have snowflurries late in the afternoon. The temperature would be about 35 during the day but drop to 30 tonight.

"The snow, is expected to stay with us for a few days," a forecaster said.

The drop in temperature tonight was expected to result in slippery roads and highways.

BABE'S DEATH SADDENS TRIP

Halifax, Nov. 26 — (CP)—The arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Goldwin, German humanists to Canada, was a sad one.

Their eight-month-old son died last week from injuries in a fall aboard ship while crossing the Atlantic. The first act on landing here during the weekend was to bury the boy.

REMANDED WEEK

Hunters, Anglers Do Not Want Guides to Shoot

Orillia, Ont., Nov. 26. (CP)—Zone Five of the Ontario Federation of Hunters and Anglers wants to make sure that when a man goes hunting, he hunts, and doesn't leave it to a guide.

At the annual meeting Sunday the zone passed a resolution asking the Ontario Lands Department to forbid the firing of rifles by licensed guides during the hunting season. They felt the rule would make the hunter do his own hunting instead of leaving it to his guide.

Other resolutions called for a royal commission to investigate pollution of inland waters and for permission to hunt on Sunday during the deer season.

Hugh Plowman of Peterborough was elected president and Campbell Roberts of Peterborough was named secretary-treasurer. Two vice-presidents, Jack Prentice of Trenton and George Wilder of Oshawa, were elected.

DRAG FOR BODY

Magnetawan, Nov. 26. (CP)—Dragging operations continued here today for the body of Mrs. Arthur Coombes, who disappeared from her home since early Sunday.

Her husband found footprints in the snow leading to the edge of the Magnetawan river.

Mrs. Coombes suffered a nervous collapse two years ago. Police have listed the case as presumed suicide.

Magnetawan is about 15 miles west of Burke Falls.

Matheson, Ont., Nov. 26—(CP)—A trip to find a Saturday night dance ended at noon Sunday in death for one young couple and illness for another.

Police are holding three district men as material witnesses in connection with the death, apparently from poisoning, of Viola Durham, 18-year-old switchboard operator, and Robert Ford, 17, Ontario Highways Department employee.

Held are Howard MacIntyre, 28, of Shillington; Harold Dillman, 24, of Matheson, and Pettifer, 25, of Alcohol Creek.

Fourteen — year — old Barbara Smith, the surviving girl, said she and the two victims and Carlyle Wilson, 16-year-old bank clerk, the fourth member of the four-some, had two drinks each from a bottle of wine in a restaurant at Hunnex, a few miles from here, where they had gone after Wilson's old-model car went into a ditch.

The dance they had hoped to find at Bourkes, 30 miles south of here, had not been held.

She said that in Ramore they met MacIntyre and Dillman and started on a ride through the district that lasted until noon. Police believe that about dawn the car was parked along a district road. At a lumber camp, shortly before noon, the six met Pettifer, who is reported to have driven the car part way back to this northern Ontario asbestos-mining centre. The survivors say MacIntyre drove the rest of the way.

When they reached Matheson, they found the Durham girl and Ford were dead.

Barbara Smith later told how death came to her two friends on the backwoods road.

"They kept on moaning until sunrise, then they were quiet."

Investigators said they would not know for sure what caused the deaths until an autopsy was performed today. Dr. R. C. Wood, who examined the bodies, said the cause might have been wood alcohol, food poisoning or carbon monoxide poisoning.

UNDERGOING TESTS

Hawthorne, Calif., Nov. 26—AP —A new twin-jet interceptor, the F-88D Scorpion, will go into quantity production soon at the Northrop Aircraft plant here. The company said yesterday that the first model is undergoing tests. The craft fires rockets with electronic aiming and automatic triggering equipment. Details are restricted but the ship is known to fly in the 600 miles an hour range.

Lions Club Will Hold Parade

Bancroft.—Cecil Wiggins, president of Bancroft Lions Club, announced today that the annual Santa Claus parade would be held on Dec. 15th. As usual there will be a monster parade, complete with music, floats, clowns and Santa himself, and free movies and candies for the youngsters. In recent years this event has drawn a crowd of five or six thousand from the trading area within a thirty-five mile radius of the town.

BRISK TURNOUT OF VOTERS

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 26. (CP) —Returning officers reported a brisk turnout of voters as polls opened in Newfoundland's provincial election today.

Twenty-three of the 28 seats in the legislature are being contested.

The weather was cool and clear.

776 PERSONS KILLED

Toronto, Nov. 26. (CP)—Ontario traffic accidents from Jan. 1 to the end of October killed 776 persons, the provincial highways department reported during the weekend. During the comparable 10-month period last year, highway deaths numbered 695.

HIGH STANDARDS PRESERVED

All six candidates who contested last Thursday's election in the two Hastings county constituencies deserve a big pat on the back for the dignified manner in which they conducted their campaigns.

The two Co-operative Commonwealth Federation candidates, Ernest Gibbs in Hastings West and Arthur Whitehead in Hastings East, gave the electoral ash slide and conscientious exposition of the socialist viewpoint. It was not their fault, nor that of their campaign manager, Arthur Cole, that the electors decided against socialistic experimentation at this time.

Liberal candidates Angus Duffy in Hastings West and Jon Carruthers in Hastings East also maintained a high standard in presenting Liberalism as an alternative to the policies of the Frost administration. That Mr. Duffy and Mr. Carruthers were both defeated was due more to influences beyond their control than to any defect in their own campaigning or to the principles to which both gave their personal adherence.

The Conservatives were all, or nearly all, with Elmer Sandercock and Roscoe Robson, the two successful Progressive Conservatives. Both were popular and well known. Both had been winners before and carried with them the prestige of previous successes.

Besides, the two Progressive Conservatives had the very potent help of the Frost government's record, including the knowledge, in the mind of every voter, that the Frost government has been levying less taxation per capita than is levied by any of the other nine provincial governments in Canada.

WILL PADLOCK GAMING HOUSES

Some two years ago, Premier Maurice Duplessis of Quebec and his National Union government wanted to abolish all gambling and all gaming houses and gambling institutions. He was prevented from doing so by the federal government on the ground that the Quebec legislature and the Duplessis cabinet had no authority to legalize lotteries or prize competitions.

But Mr. Duplessis, like the elephant, did not forget. Now he is threatening to use his famous (or infamous, depending on your point of view), Padlock Law to "padlock and seize" any buildings in which bazbotte, bingo and other gambling games are played. The people of Quebec, as is well known, are great devotees of these bingos, raffles and so on.

The Duplessis Padlock Law, it will be recalled, has been tested in the courts and has been found to be intra vires of the Quebec government; in other words, the Padlock Law has been certified as "good law," by the learned judges of the higher courts.

Last Monday night, Mr. Duplessis sent his provincial police to raid the Quebec City Coliseum, where 5,000 persons were watching a wrestling match. The provincial police were not interested in the wrestling performance, but they did seize tickets that were being sold there on a new car.

When a howl of protest was raised against the action of the Quebec provincial police in raiding the wrestling match and seizing the raffle tickets, Mr. Duplessis replied by referring to his action in which he prevented him from establishing a provincial lottery, blandly assured his critics: "It is the duty of the attorney-general to have the law respected and see that it is enforced. If people don't like the law, let them go to the competent authority, the federal government, for redress."

The reference which Mr. Duplessis made to the "duty of the attorney-general" must have caused his critics to wince, since Mr. Duplessis is not only the attorney-general of Quebec, as well as the premier.

RIVERSIDE GROWS FASTEST

Riverside, near Windsor, with a population of 9,114, which is an increase of 87 per cent over the 1941 census, has gained population faster than any other town or city in Ontario, according to statistics that have just been issued by the Ontario government's bureau of statistics and research.

Other fast-growing communities, with the percentage increase for each during the last decade, are: Oakville, 67; Port Credit, 67; Merriton, 57; Sarnia, 84, and Eastview, 72.

In the list, which includes all urban municipalities with more than 2,500 population, only Timmins and Parry Sound have lost population.

Belleville's gain during the ten-year period was 23 per cent to a new total of 19,394.

TRENTON LOSES GOOD MAN

Citizens of the neighboring town of Trenton will learn with regret of the retirement from municipal affairs of Kenneth J. Couch, who has been Trenton's mayor for the last five years.

Mayor Couch has not been merely the chairman who presided over council meetings; he has been a full-time mayor who gave full-time service to the town which honored him by choosing him as its chief magistrate.

Mr. Couch's numerous friends and well-wishers, in Trenton and elsewhere, will hope that he will now be able to find more time to relax and enjoy life than he has done in recent years.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

NOVEMBER 26, 1931

Four thousand, five hundred and twenty transients have been given shelter this week, 4,126 homeless men have been given lodging for the night. During the last winter the wanderers were fed with hot, nourishing soup and bread and the same practice will be continued this winter, through the kindness of the generous church and other organizations the transients often enjoy many varieties of food left over from social gatherings.

30 YEARS AGO

NOVEMBER 26th., 1921

The following have been elected directors of the Chamber of Commerce for a term of two years: Harry W. Ackerman, chairman; Dr. Ross, Mr. McGie, J. G. Moffatt and Mackenzie Robertson. Mr. McGie is new to the board; the others were re-elected after serving a term of two years.

Mr. T. J. Hurley spent yesterday in Kingston.

Mr. Harold Gramtz of Detroit, is visiting relatives here.

The present registration at the high school is 350.

Mr. Harold Doolittle was home from Wellington to spend Sunday.

Mr. Charles Good was home from Toronto to spend Sunday.

40 YEARS AGO

NOVEMBER 26, 1911

The schools of Belleville, according to information released recently, cost $2.96 per capita the new schools will greatly increase this. Kingston has the lowest cost in the province with a per capita of $2.65; Fort William is the highest, being $5.76 for every one of the population.

Mr. George Vanderwater, of Carlaville, who was hunting in a swamp in the 5th. concession of Thurlow township, shot a beautiful silver fox, the skin of which is very valuable.

Mr. Curtis Bowen has been appointed preventative officers in the Department of Customs and will be on duty at the Canadian Northern Railway station here.

Mr. Alfred Gillen has been appointed postmaster here to succeed Mr. D. A. Williams. Mr. Gillen has been in the post office here for many years.

50 YEARS AGO

NOVEMBER 24, 1901

At a meeting of the shareholders of the Belleville Lock Factory the reports submitted showed that much progress is being made. The officials of the company are as follows: President, W. F. Chaffey; vice president, T. S. Carman; secretary-treasurer, H. W. Ackerman; Messrs. H. I. Graham, Ald. Allan McPhee, H. Corby, Sir Mackenzie Bowell, W. C. Springer and the president and vice-president are directors.

The butter and cheese factory at Stine in the Township of Rawdon was destroyed by fire on Monday night. This is the third time within a few years that the factory has been destroyed by fire.

Mr. Charles Good was home from Toronto to spend Sunday.

PEOPLE AND PLACES

Here and there, but nowhere in particular:

* * *

Nearly all our neighbors are elderly, retired folks and they come out with some surprising things.

Yesterday, for instance, I was standing in the general store looking over the racks of pocket books in search of a good mystery. One of the real ancients of the island joined me and we contemplated in silence for a moment.

Then, looking straight ahead, he said, "All these books remind me of a cook we had in a logging camp where I worked one time. Name was Joe. You couldn't name a book but what Joe'd read it or read it. He was the world's greatest experts on books. One time I said to him, "Joe, d'ye ever use the Kitchen Mystery, or Who Kissed the Cook?' and he'd'gawd, Joe said he'd read 'em both and he'd like to get that.

Then, laughing softly to himself, the old gentleman selected the goriest-looking mystery and went off, perhaps in search of another listener.

* * *

The general store--now there's a subject for a full-dress piece some day.

I always make a point of accompanying my wife when she goes in to shop because the store is a fascinating place. You can buy everything in there from a straw hat with an extra-wide brim to a niche carved in the wall. Whatever you get, it'll send away for it. They tell me the store even looks after certain mail order business.

In one building there's drugs, hardware, furniture, groceries, fishing tackle, meat, groceries and heavens knows what else. There's a kind of mezzanine floor that links this building with another which is a freight shed, express office and the like. Over top of this building, the overhead belt affair passes directly through the small post office.

The store is the one place where you finally get to meet everybody. It's funny. We learned everything I know about how to catch and fillet lake trout and the care and feeding of chickens.

* * *

I've been reading Ken Johnstones' entertaining piece about Harry Hohnak Canada's most successful fight club operator and there's some darn fine advice in it.

"Anybody sick" says Harry "let him go but the sport for two months. He'll come back cured".

Certainly there's a theory about splitting wood that has its own kind of therapy. Or it has, at any rate, for the kind of person who lives by his wits and doesn't give his body the exercise that his brain gets.

For just minor, irksome problems I find that splitting cedar is the best treatment because the cedar splits so beautifully, as easy as peeling the skin from a Japanese orange.

But if you've really got the blues or some worry that seems uncontrollable, that's the time to select something with knots in it. You'll get a new perspective on things by the time you reach the second wind. They ought to have a special room in all these jails mezzanine's clubs so that worried executives could be handed an axe and directed to a dandy pile of shingle bolts for the revival of the spirits.

* * *

I was anaong those who sent a CARE Christmas package to friends in England last year and the results were so appreciated that I was determined to give you a reminder this year.

CARE is a non-profit outfit that's sending $10 worth of food dollars worth of food and clothing packages aboard from Canada before the end of the year.

There's a really wonderful Christmas package deal this year. It costs $10.00 and there are a whole canned turkey, pound of butter, pound of bacon, pound of coffee (all the best from Britain), plum pudding, pound of chocolate candy, canned pudding, pound of hard candy, raisins and even an ounce and a quarter of mustard.

They can be sent to any part of Great Britain, Austria, Belgium, Finland, France, Western Germany, Greece, Italy, The Netherlands, Norway, Japan, the Philippines and Yugoslavia.

All you do is bring your order in for one or more packages before the end of next week to the CARE agency to CARE, 73 Albert Street, Ottawa, and, of course, let them know how you want it sent.

They'll bless you for it, believe me.

* * *

Had a note a couple of weeks ago--or more, I guess--about the fact that the cloth-of-gold outdoor clothes generally are almost all ill-fitting and uncomfortable in jobs and sports where you want comfort most.

Here's good news manufacturer was stung to the quick by this, made enquiries among my friends about their size and sent me a pair of his denim work pants, replete with a red sling affair on the side to carry a hammer.

Trouble is that my friends vastly over-estimated my girth and they're about enough in the pants for two other people. First pants I've had that I could rent office space in.

They're comfortable, sure enough, but it's dark in here.

HOLD ONTO YOUR HATS, FOLKS

Cyanocobalamin, as we scientifics call it, vitamin B-12 to you dumb laymen, is getting so complicated that it is difficult to keep up with the literature describing the various forms, such as B-12a, B-12b, B-12c and B-12d.

Coming up for air I am happy to say that so far all forms of B-12 seem to have the same blood-building value.

In the ordinary wear and tear of life millions upon millions of red blood corpuscles are destroyed in the body daily, and in order to replace these and keep the blood up to full strength the blood building structures require a constant supply of the anti-anemia factor or substance which is known as vitamin B-12 or, to us doctors -- but let it go, once is enough.

If this anti-anemia factor is not present in the diet the consequence is a declining number of red corpuscles available for duty -- you probably do not know that carrying oxygen to the functioning cells is the duty of red cells, whether of muscle, heart or other body tissue.

As I explain in the pamphlet The Red Blood Vitamin, (for which send stamped self-addressed envelope) it is not enough to add just pure vitamin B-12 to the diet, as has been done. Bones and bone marrow to manufacture enough red corpuscles. The potentiator or activator to place it or make it work most efficiently. The potentiator is another vitamin-like substance called folic acid.

Folic acid, in fact, was isolated from liver before B-12 was discovered, and for a time folic acid was believed to be the essential blood-building substance present in liver. It is now known to be an odenal substance of the hog. But it was discovered after considerable animal experimentation and experimentation in the treatment of anemia in human subjects that the blood-building effect of either folic acid or B-12 alone is indifferent compared with the effect of the two substances combined.

Nearly every one gets some folic acid and some B-12 in even the most refined and restricted daily diet. The same thing is true in regard to other vitamins and minerals. But thanks to the over-refinement of our diet today a small many percent insufficient amounts of these essentials to maintain good nutrition. Anemia is one of the common consequences of poor nutrition.

Letter to the Editor

Applauds Criticism Of Rubinoff Concert

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

I write this not as much in defence of Eugene Lang as I do in defence of good music. I have not read or heard of Mr. Lang's or Mr. Schwab as to Mr. Lang's criticism of Dave Rubinoff's alleged concert here in the Capitol, but I add a little fuel to the fire?

Why is it in this day and age that there is so much paid for mediocrity? Why are we willing to pay more than $2.00 a seat for the genuine? Why do we applaud mimics, people who sing through their noses, who play like somebody else, or act like somebody else? A comedian is a song that sounds like somebody else's song and it becomes a musical hit. And it is with this Rubinoff. He knows audiences and knows what will be applauded. He therefore takes no chances--he plays it safe. He makes sure people will applaud. And he gets paid. The Kiwanis Club knew this when they engaged him and consequently had a financial success.

As a result of financial success such as these it must follow that if any organization wishes to make money they must appeal to mediocre tastes. Should we therefore retrain from encouraging the finer things? Should we to discourage up and coming artists who have been playing for years? Should we be called "fiddlin'" Why should we pay this tremendous fee to an instrument he has been playing all his life? It is a sacrilege that he be allowed to play on the fine instrument he owns. He is not entertaining but is playing something that has been written for it. He trample rough-shod over the masters?

It is not a question of being a Rubinoff-hater. I am a great admiration for jazz musicians who try to improve and perfect their mode of expression. Such great artists, like Benny Goodman, Tex Beneke, Louis Armstrong and Les Paul. They are at least honest with their wares. They take their instruments and orchestras from their narrow confines and try to do something better with them. Rubinoff does just the opposite. He advocates mediocrity. He capitalizes on the reputation of the masters, on the reputation of the violin and then disgraces himself in a dress suit to create the impression of being a violinist.

I would like to defend good music here. I believe it was Jascha Heifetz who said, "The thing only the people earnestly desire -- bread and circus games." Yes, there is no question about it. That's exactly what the ancient Romans wanted and that's exactly what they got. They got circuses and a decayed empire. If we were confronted today with a dictation where only bread and circuses were outlawed, and we heard chamber music incessantly, I would be the first to say certainly, everybody is entitled to a little levity once in a while, but where is the limit? Is this the case? We get the most awful dribble several times a week on the radio and Mr. Schwab insists that we are entitled to a little fun. I agree, but I think Mr. Lang unleashed his tirade against Rubinoff because he felt cheated, as that Eugene feels that Belleville has been artistically starved for the finer things of musical diet. Outside of our community concerts we get very little in the line of concert treats and it enfuriated Mr. Lang to be treated to mediocrity.

Rubinoff is unpardonable. But you might ask, is there any harm in listening to him? Is there anything wrong with sugarcoating the pill? Dear readers, it is the sugarcoated pills like Rubinoff who will always stand in the way of decent music coming in the door. Rubinoff is the line of least resistance, a musical Mephisto. He is the musical devil standing for you. Eugene Lang helps you develop your own mind so that you will not be a mere sucker for yourself what is good and what is not.

Remember, artistic tastes have developed in the last two decades. Take the case of Rubinoff again called a certain amount of acceptance as a musician and he is only the gullible who buy what he offers. Small wonder that he grows bold enough to play with the pantaloons of Beethoven and Brahms or even to attempt to play "Liebestraum" and "Rhapsody in Blue" who has failed on the concert stage, and gave up in disgust to make an easier living "fiddlin'." Why should we pay this tremendous fee to an instrument he has been playing all his life? It is a sacrilege that he be allowed to play on the fine instrument he owns. He is not entertaining but is playing something that has been written for it. He tramples rough-shod over the masters?

It is not a question of being a Rubinoff-hater. I am a great admiration for jazz musicians who try to improve and perfect their mode of expression. Such great artists, like Benny Goodman, Tex Beneke, Louis Armstrong and Les Paul. They are at least honest with their wares. They take their instruments and orchestras from their narrow confines and try to do something better with them. Rubinoff does just the opposite. He advocates mediocrity. He capitalizes on the reputation of the masters, on the reputation of the violin and then disgraces himself in a dress suit to create the impression of being a violinist.

I would like to defend good music here. I believe it was Jascha Heifetz who said, "The thing only the people earnestly desire -- bread and circus games." Yes,

A PERTINENT QUESTION

A prominent editor in this country wrote an editorial recently which struck such a responsive chord in the minds and hearts of people that he was deluged with messages of congratulation. The theme of his editorial was: What has gone wrong with this generation of ours? The books we read, the plays we witness, the customs we condone! In heaven's name, what is happening to us?

Just the other day I was reading about youngsters of both sexes gathering together and staging parties which were characterized by liquor, narcotic drugs and sex orgies. These were not hardened criminals; these were kids.

The position taken by this column recently has been that much juvenile delinquency is the result of adult delinquency. Children in the past would have never established the prevailing customs of any generation, and they never will. These customs are established by adults. If the adults are thoughtless, the young people behave themselves.

We need many laws to correct bad situations and better enforcement of the laws we already have, but laws by themselves will never correct any evil. What we need above everything else is that our people develop a new zeal and begin setting better examples to the kids.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There is a studied shabbiness about a good many newspapermen. If they are shabby then at least they effect a certain unconventionality in their dress and appearance. They don't care. They do it on purpose. Their purpose is to avoid being sent to report luncheons.

If there is anything that fatigues a newspaperman it is attending luncheons and banquets to report the speeches that are given. Keep your eye on the press table, the next time you are at a banquet, and you will see either behind a more melancholy group of humans. For you who belong to service clubs or other organizations that meet to hear inspirational addresses, it is all very well. You can stay home when you like. But a poor devil of a reporter has to go and go and go. You may suppose that the free lunch he gets with his press ticket ought to be some consolation. But meals served at

Air Force Plane Flies Hurt Folk From Manitoulin

Trenton (Special)—An RCAF Dakota aircraft left the Trenton Air Station here early Saturday in answer to a distress call from Manitoulin Island.

RCAF authorities were requested by Provincial Police to arrange a flight to fly a critically injured woman and child to Toronto. No commercial aircraft were available and as both of the victims were reported by the attending physician, Dr. Strain, to be in need of immediate treatment, an RCAF plane left here at 1.45 a.m.

Three patients were taken on board at Gore Bay, Manitoulin Island, and one hour 30 minutes later the aircraft landed at Malton airport.

The injured were Mrs. W. Hough, wife of a department of transport employee, and David Benson. David's mother was also a victim of an auto accident in which Mrs. Hough and David were hurt. Mrs. Benson was not injured seriously. Husbands of the injured women accompanied their wives to Toronto in the plane.

Captain of the aircraft was Flying Officer J. L. "Jack" Mellott, Montreal and Picton; co-pilot Flying Officer O. M. C. "Orville" Piper of Sault Ste. Marie, crewman Corporal G. W. Murphy of Sarnia Ontario. The senior medical officer was Wing Commander T. J. Powell and two nursing sisters were Flying Officer C. M. Snowden and R. A. Stanley attended the patients throughout the trip.

Guays Bowling Team Regains First Place

Guays bowling team from Trenton regained 1st place in the Bay of Quinte Bowling League on Saturday night by taking a 7 point win from three town rivals, the Bowl-o-drome entry, while Belleville Recreation took two games and total points from Belleville B-O-D.

The Guays' entry toppled the pins for a high team triple for the year with 3395, comprising 1156, 1251, and 1238 single games. The second game just failed to beat out Belleville B.O.D.'s single score.

Horace Ormshaw contributed steadily to the total with his single of 379 and triple of 940, both tops for the year. The latter will be particularly hard to beat.

Other good triples were rolled by Jim McKenzie of Recreation, 776; Ed. Moore, Guays, 749; Gord Myles, Trenton B.O.D., 721; Cec Tyler, Guays, 715; Ros Saylor, Belleville Rec., 714; Jack Bennett, Belleville B.O.D., 696; C. Viddert, Guays, 690; Jim Conles, date the 6 B.D. house league has enjoyed a very successful schedule and the brand of game dished up in the Wednesday afternoon events provides the air force hotstove boys with lots of meat for discussion.

Standings up to last Wednesday are:

Burtt After Trenton Mayoralty But Will Not Oppose Couch; Banfield Wants Big New Arena

Trenton— (Special) — Since Mayor Kenneth J. Couch reversed an earlier decision and decided not to stand for election for a sixth term, the Trenton municipal picture has taken on the aspect of an ever-changing scene, Citizens taking part in local affairs over the years predicted that Mayor Couch would be returned by acclamation and that there would be no contest for the six members of his council.

But when Mr. Couch announced he would retire several aspirants were quick to enter the race.

Veteran Councillor Ross Burtt, who once was defeated in a three-cornered fight between Mayor Cory, Kenneth Couch and himself, considers he will seek election for mayor if Mr. Couch does not. "I know I am going to be nominated as a candidate for mayor," said Mr. Burtt, "and I certainly intend to stand against anybody excepting Mr. Couch."

Sutherland Runs Again

Donald J. Sutherland, a member of the council, voiced his intention last week. He announced that he was seeking re-election as councillor and contrary to rumors would not aspire for the chief magistrate's seat.

In all likelihood, Councillor Norman Banfield will again ask the voters to return him to council. Mr. Banfield is a supporter of the proposed $250,000 community centre and is spending much time gathering information for the centre's planning and development committee.

Three councilmen, Charles Alore, Claude Graham and Victor Ryan, reported over the weekend that they favored withholding their decision until nomination night, November 30.

Won't Oppose Couch

Reasons for not declaring decisions as to their intentions mirrored back to Mr. Couch's decision not to seek re-election and leave the municipal government in a mix-up unsurpassed in six years.

When Mr. Couch announced he was stepping out, he claimed that politics had entered the municipal field and that pressure was being brought to bear on him from two sides. He figured it would be better to retire and live the life of an ordinary citizen.

When voters go to the polls December 10, they will have at least six ballots to mark. Questions to be voted upon are: mayor, council, board of education, public utilities box franchise and community centre. Therefore, heavy balloting is expected and authorities are looking for one of the largest votes ever registered. And it is the consensus that there will be several new faces around the council board next term.

Fisheries On Arena

One of the questions placed before the electors concerns the erection of a quarter-of-a-million dollar community centre to be financed by government grants, private subscription and debenture. Supporters of the centre have already backed their campaign with huge printed signs placed at strategic spots asking ratepayers to exercise a "yes" franchise on behalf of the cause. Councillor Norman Banfield has arranged to use the radio to point out the benefits the centre holds for the townspeople.

In the past week during the commotion created by Mayor Couch's unexpected decision, service station operator, realtor and trucker resolved they would stand for election to council. The new aspirants are: Ruben Herrington (service station operator), Frank Barry (realtor) and Cliff Gunter (trucker).

No Experience

None of the men with ambitions to become councillors has served in a similar capacity, although Mr. Barry held down the job of successor for Cramahe township for five years. The other two have lived in Trenton practically their lifetime while Mr. Barry is a resident of 10 years having moved here from Colborne.

While it is not known what will come out of the nomination meeting Friday night, there is a possibility that one faction will ask that a town manager be appointed to guide the destiny of this $4 million dollar corporation.

Little has been said along these lines since Senator W. A. Fraser at a chamber of commerce banquet in the Queensway Hotel two years ago suggested that the time was nearing when the affairs of the town would grow to proportions that necessitated the attention of a manager at a four figure salary. At the time the senator's remarks received rounds of hand-clapping approval from the listeners.

C.A.S. Meets

The board of directors of the Children's Aid Society met in Bridge Street Sunday School rooms. The secretary reported briefly on the conference for board members held in Port Hope in October.

The superintendent reported that there were still 530 children involved in the case of prevention still open. Six new wards had been received during October.

Mr. George Whitney, who has taken a month's course in civil defence at Ottawa, explained the reasons for preparedness in case of disaster and urged all to help in whatever way they can when the call comes for defence training.

WEDDINGS

COWAN—ESSELTINE

A quiet wedding was solemnized at Bayside parsonage on Tuesday evening, November 20, when Margaret G. Esseltine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brandow, of St. Thomas, Ont., was united in marriage to Ross D. Cowan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Colin G. Cowan, Brownsville, Ont.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. C. McCallum, of the Bayside pastoral charge, in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hockaday, of Tweed, Ont., as witnesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Cowan will make their home at Brownsville, Ont., where the groom is employed.

Club Activities

THE B.B.T. NATURE CLUB

The B.B.T. Nature Club (Belleville Branch of Ontario Field Naturalists), met at the home of Miss Grace Houston on Wednesday.

Miss Boyd, of the Entomological Institute, was guest speaker, who brought an exquisite collection of photographs of birds and animals, most of which had been taken in Ontario.

It was decided to meet each month during the winter at the homes of members.

An enjoyable social half hour brought the meeting to a close.

Women's Institute

QUINTE W.I.

The Quinte Women's Institute held their November meeting at the Y.M.C.A. with an attendance of 36 members and visitors. The president opened the meeting.

Correspondence was read and business discussed. It was decided to accept the invitation from Melrose to attend their euchre party at Shannonville Hall. Birthday greetings were tendered Mrs. Bellamy. It was also decided to send $10 to the fund for the blind, and $10 to a needy case for clothes.

Mrs. Noble Brown gave a paper on the motto "The true foundation of peace is love for one another". Mrs. Arnold Mitchell and Mrs. Douglas Atkins each gave a splendid report on the convention.

Mrs. Eric Leeming took charge of the program. Mrs. Archie Grestrix gave an educational paper on "Our Flag", followed with the singing of "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall".

Mrs. Arnold Mitchell conducted a contest of old songs.

The president closed the meeting in the usual way.

The next meeting will be held at Mrs. K. Vivian's, Shannonville, when Christmas gifts will be exchanged.

The hostess served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Mrs. J. Houston Praises Eskimos For Hospitality

Montreal, (CP)—Mrs. James Houston, wife of Canadian artist Jim Houston, doesn't think of the Arctic as a vast, cold wasteland of ice and snow.

After eight months in the Northland, Mrs. Houston is mostly impressed by the warm-hearted, hospitable people who live in snow huts and look mainly to hunting and fishing for their living.

Building a Cooking Reputation

By MARY MOORE

Is cooking your favorite subject? Is eating your favorite occupation? If so there's a good chance that you and I can become pen pals.

This opportunity and privilege of writing to Belleville homemakers comes at the best possible time of the year. Christmas cooking proves our worth and all of our friends and loved ones are welcome to our open house to share it.

On Thursday of this week I will give you my special 1951 Christmas cake recipe. This was made up in October and by luck and by gulle I have been able to hide it away from my ravenous family, to give it time to ripen.

However, late Friday afternoon one of the neighbors came in for tea and I cut the new Christmas cake—just to sample it —for your sakes of course!

Better Than Good

I try to avoid boasting, but be assured the recipe would not be appearing in this column next Thursday if I could find any fault with it. It has to be better than good for this discerning neighbor, said it is the best she has ever tasted but she would be prejudiced.

If you are wise in the ways of children, you will know that my friend Margy does with hers—promise to let them help with the Christmas cake if they are good and do their other jobs well. It works like a charm. She not only gets the dishes and dusting done better and faster but has help with the mixing of the cake too.

With the fond hope that you would like to test this Mary Moore person and see just what kind of stuff she dishes up I'm going to begin helping you to build a cooking reputation by answering my first request from a local reader. I was talking to this lady whom many of you know, and she said she would like me to give her some ideas for soon lunches. Her two girls of 13 and 14 years come home from school starving hungry and she serves them soup and sandwiches, but would like more hot lunch-con dishes to choose from.

This is my specific answer to Mrs. E.'s direct request, and a good starter for a new feature.

If you keep shooting the cooking question at me I'll do my best to keep supplying the answers in this column.

VENETIAN EGGS

I give you this because it is a favorite of my two young people, who can make it themselves.

Two cups canned tomatoes, 1 tablespoon minced onion, 1-2 teaspoon salt, shake of pepper and paprika, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1-2 cup grated cheese, 4 eggs. Simmer together the tomatoes, onion and seasonings for 10 minutes. Strain if desired. Add butter or margarine and cheese. When hot slip in the eggs, yolks broken but not beaten. When the whites begin to set, after about 3 minutes, stir until the mixture is creamy, and pour over hot toast and serve hot. This amount will serve 4 or 6. If you like, add 6 eggs, and cook or stir, but let them "poach" in the tomato sauce. When they are cooked, lift them out onto hot toast, and pour tomato sauce over.

Watch for more luncheon dishes in December 3rd column.

Canadian Girl Has Less Height Than American

Toronto, (CP)—While "petite" may mean "pretty cute trick" to the man with an eye for pulchritude, actually it is a style label in the Canadian women's wear industry.

At Lu, Larry's suit and coat factory in downtown Toronto it stands for "Perfect Canadian Type"—meaning a gal a shade over five feet, three inches tall and weighing between 120 and 125 pounds.

Mr. Larry, a statistics-minded stylist, claims to have spent 16 years trying to develop sizes suitable for Canadian women—ever since his five-foot-four wife complained that she couldn't buy clothes to fit her.

Mrs. Larry found everything she tried on either too long in the skirt for her, too broad at the shoulders, or too snug at the waist and hips.

Husband Larry's investigations uncovered the fact that the Canadian Miss or Mrs.—is approximately one inch shorter than her American cousin. In fact, she's far from being the tall, lean model of fashion magazines.

He discovered that six out of 10 Canadian women are from five to five feet, four inches tall and weigh anywhere from 105 to 140 pounds.

CENTENARY W.M.S.

Mrs. G. Sills presided at the November meeting of Centenary W.M.S. at the home of Mrs. R. Hardy.

A letter from the pupils of Centenary Mission Band was read thanking the society for their treat of last month.

Mrs. J. Jay, Peace secretary, gave a fine paper on peace, entitled in part "What is Peace?"

Mrs. Sills told of hearing Capt. McBride, of the Salvation Army, recently, and she stated that a few points from their way of doing for "others", might be taken up here of the fine work of this group.

Mrs. R. Roblin read the slate of officers for 1952. Rev. A. C. McCallum closed the meeting.

CANNIFTON W.A.

The Canniffon W.A. November dinner meeting was recently held in the Sunday School rooms, and was in charge of Mrs. R. Bedell and Mrs. C. Bird, assisted by Mrs. A. Boyd.

The two long, white tables were prettily centred with black vases of mauve 'mums. A delicious well-planned menu was served to a large crowd and a satisfactory sum was realized.

After the dinner, the regular regeting was dispersed with and plans and discussions were in order for the bazaar planned to be held later in the month.

Quilting was the order of the day, and was in charge of Mrs. W. Cole.

Time to Remember—Douglas.

This book is the autobiography of the popular novelist Lloyd C. Douglas. The book deals mainly with memories of the author's youth but many references to his mature life are included.

Closing The Ring—Churchill.

The fifth volume of Churchill's memoirs. It includes the story of the Quebec decision on the atomic bomb, the conference at Teheran, the record of Anzio and Cassino and the story of the preparations to cross the Channel to the Normandy beaches.

Cleopatra Slept Here.—Brown.

"The author of "I Married A Dinosaur" resumes her account of adventures incident to life as an archeologist's wife, again coupling genuinely amusing situations with hearty handed humour."

A Doctor's Pilgrimage—Brazet.

A Canadian doctor's story of his beginning years in medical practice during the depression. The book is filled with anecdotes of patients and stories of Nova Scotia.

The Last Englishman—Woemsley.

"A blend of modern and archaic language is used to tell the romantic story of Hereward the Wake's last stand against William the Conqueror."

Women's Activities

CENTENARY W.A.

The November meeting of the Centenary W.A., was held at the home of Mrs. R. Harder. The theme song opened the meeting which was in charge of the president, Mrs. E. Hart. Rev. A. C. McCallum led in prayer.

A "Thank-you" letter from Mrs. Orval May was read by Mrs. F. Aikens. One member contributed to the birthday box. The copper contest was closed with the returns being over $50. The ladies are to be congratulated on their fine efforts. It was decided to send $37.50 to the Missionary and Maintenance Fund with a part of this amount being earmarked for the Victor Home in Toronto. Plans were made for the afternoon tea and bazaar which is to be held on Dec. 6 by which Aikens', Wesley and White's W.A. members are invited. Mrs. H. Robbins read the slate of officers for 1952.

In the absence of the devotional convener, Mrs. E. Hart read a portion from the "Upper Room" and the meeting closed with this.

Mrs. B. Harder served tea, and a social half-hour was spent.

Returns Scroll With Navy Cross To President

Glenwood Springs, Colo., Nov. 26—(AP)—Captain Eugene E. Gould, retired, has returned to Washington a scroll accompanying the posthumous award of the Navy Cross to Private Marine Lieut. John N. Gulid.

Gulid has been carrying on a one-man war against President Truman for "appeasement and belly crawling to Russia."

"Those noble words on the scroll may be used only by those who earn the right," Gulid wrote. "By you marine speaking of another, by a Lincoln grieving the loss of his soldiers. Your use of these words will heighten, not lessen, the anger of those who saw their sons die for a policy of fear and appeasement.

"You honor neither the words nor you by using them. We return the scroll to you.

"May God forgive you; we cannot."

The letter was signed by Gulid and his wife, Sarah.

The scroll said in grateful memory of John Ninian Gulid, who died in the service of his country on 21 September, 1950, in Korea."

"He stands in the unbroken line of patriots who have dared to die that freedom might live, and grow, and bring its blessings. Freedom lives, and through it, he lives in a way that humbles the undertakings of most men."

U.S. Has Wheat King for First Time Since 1928

Chicago, Nov. 26—(CP)—For the first time in 23 years Canada today was withheld a wheat king at the International Hay and Grain Show.

The record reign of Canadian wheat growers, which began in 1928, was broken yesterday when Harold Metcalf, 31-year-old farmer from Fairgrove, Mich., was crowned the 1952 wheat king.

Metcalf, father of four small girls, won with a sample of "Yorkwin" which weighed 60½ pounds to the bushel. He was the first American to win the wheat title since C. Edson Smith of Corvallis, Mont., won the premier honor in 1928.

The new wheat king won in his first try. He was working on his 80-acre farm when he received word of his victory by telephone. "This is the greatest day of my life," he said.

Metcalf raises from 10 to 30 acres of wheat each year. He said heavy snow and freezing weather helped his wheat and it looked so good when he harvested it last July that he decided to send a sample to the show.

"I didn't know it would stack up against the Canadian entries but I'm glad I played a hunch and sent it along."

The 1952 reserve wheat championship also went to an American, Lee D. Ferden of Chesaning, Mich. His "Vega" variety of soft red winter wheat, weighing 61½ pounds to the bushel was judged second best.

The United States has won the title only five times since the grain show first started in conjunction with the international livestock exposition here in 1918.

Two are Killed, Third Injured In Car Crash

Brownsville, Nov. 26—(CP)—Two men were killed and a third injured early Sunday when an automobile in which they were riding went out of control and rolled over three times.

Killed were Fred Ellis, 21, and Floyd Brough, 19, injured was Wilfred Lorne Ellis, 18, a brother of Fred. All three were district residents.

Parents of the Ellis brothers are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ellis of Donaldson, P. E. I. Fred Ellis came here 15 months ago to work at a rubber plant.

Wilfred Ellis suffered head injuries and a crushed right hand.

Alberta Strikes It Rich

A 200 ft. spray shot into the air and a throaty roar echoed over the grainfield. Within minutes a crowd gathered to relish a familiar but stirring sight: Alberta's newest well was blowing up spitting black oil and gas for half a mile around.

In December Reader's Digest read how rampaging wells and eager people are signs of the times in booming Alberta, why this oil find is the most significant on the continent in the last 50 years, and why for Alberta the best is yet to come.

Chinese Women Are Leading Communists Into Korea Battles

Tokyo, Nov. 26 — (Reuters) — Barges halted Chinese women, helmet-less and unmindful of shattering gunfire, are leading communists into battle in Korea.

Frontline Canadian officers report four of the strange women warriors have been encountered so far, all wearing black dungaree coveralls over regular Chinese winter uniforms.

Two of the women in black were killed and two wounded last night west of Yonchon.

Cpl. Butch Bouchard of Jonquier, Que., who killed one yesterday and wounded another with his machine gun, said:

"I could tell they were women. They had long black hair reaching their shoulders. Searchlights on the battlefield made it easy to see them. One was running ahead of the Chinese shouting. Bullets almost cut her in two."

Artillery fire prevented removal of the dead woman in front of Bouchard's position.

Another allied unit west of Yonchon believed it had also killed a woman in black.

One of the wounded women was being treated at a casualty clearing station for leg wounds Sgt.-Maj. George Dagnias of Montreal said he saw the other wounded woman at a forward clearing station. She was "young, quite pretty," he commented.

Fanatically Fearless

Fanatically fearless, the communist mails stood and cheered their men on — apparently indifferent to gunfire. Allied troops actually came across the first woman in black 11 days ago. A wounded allied soldier saw her waving a pistol and blowing a whistle as she led charging communists into heavy mortar and artillery fire.

United Nations forces have been in new for some time that Chinese women were permanently attached to some communist combat units.

Maj. R. Liboiron of Pontiac, Sask., said Chinese women stretcher bearers had been seen with burial parties. Several times they were seen carrying bodies off the battlefield, he added.

Lieut. Wally Nash of Ottawa explained:

"There have been cases where women crept up to our barbed wire defences and shook the wire shouting at us. The idea was for us to open fire and give our positions away to Chinese artillery. You could tell they were women from their voices. They dressed like black toss, I guess to be hard to see in the dark."

NOT EQUIPPED!

Washington, Nov. 26—(AP) — Mohammed Kamil Bey Abdul Rahim, Egypt's ambassador to the United States, said yesterday he did not believe there would be "real war between Britain and Egypt" because "our army is not equipped to fight Britain." The envoy discussed the current crisis between his country and Britain over the subject of Suez on the National Broadcasting Company's "Meet The Press" tevision program.

ALL TO PARTICIPATE

New York, Nov. 26—(AP) Everyone in New York City will participate in a surprise air raid drill this Wednesday or Thursday. It will be the first city-wide public participation drill during the current defence preparations.

Banfield Says Kingston Arena Beautiful Place

Trenton—(Special)—On Saturday Councillor Norman Banfield went to Kingston where he was shown through the Limestone City's new half-a-million dollar community centre. Mr. Banfield, who has the job of compiling data for the planning and development committee of the proposed Trenton centre, described it eKingston centre as a beautiful piece of work and a credit to the men who sacrificed time and effort to make it a reality.

Both federal and provincial governments provided $100,000 apiece while private subscription accounted for another $200,000 and the city floated a debenture issue amounting to $100,000. The centre was built outside of the downtown area, but still creates a problem for traffic when great crowds attend major sports events. The governments, according to Mr. Banfield are more partial to committees building in outlying places because they "provide plenty of room for sports requiring open spaces."

Many people of Trenton would like to see the community centre project erected on the site of the old wooden arena on Quinte Street when three other parcels of land had been acquired and added to the arena piece. Th merchants calculate the centre would be a good drawing card for downtown spending, but those favoring a centre away from the middle of the town forsee massed traffic jams resulting from great numbers of cars carrying fans back and forth.

Bain Memorial Park and seven acres of land offered by C.P.R. for the price of one dollar are two other sites to be considered.

Tone and Payton Again Happy

Hollywood, Nov. 26—(AP)—A public display of hugs and kisses by Franchot Tone and Barbara Payton has Hollywood wondering today whether their contemplated divorce will ever come to trial.

A night club press agent said yesterday he saw the film couple "necking" in full view of other patrons and obviously of the accompanying tithers and smiles.

The Saturday night appearance was the couple's first since Tone filed suit for divorce a week ago. The two could not be reached for comment on whether the reconciliation would be permanent.

Tone earlier said the seven week marriage broke up over Barbara's plans to make a picture with Tom Neal, husky actor who smashed Tone's face in a fight over Barbara Sept. 14. The actress denied this and said "I hope I'll never have to tell the real reason."

Thirty Violent Deaths Reported In Eastern Canada

(By The Canadian Press)

Eighteen persons killed in traffic accidents in eastern Canada during the weekend brought the total of violent deaths in the area to 30.

A Canadian Press survey early today showed that drowning took four lives; poison, two; falling trees, two; and other causes, four. Sixteen persons were killed in Ontario, eight in Quebec and six in New Brunswick.

Two mysterious deaths in Ontario are believed to have been caused by poison but no official verdict has been given. Dead are Ella Parkman, 18, of Matheson, and Robert Ford, 17.

A second mysterious death, that of Mrs. Doris Kenyon, 46, of Hamilton, is also being investigated by police. Near Hamilton, at Freeman, police are holding one man after George Herman, a Polish immigrant, died of a kick in the stomach after an argument.

Two brothers, Murray Stewart, 9, and Grenville, 8, were drowned when they tried to play hockey on ice that was not thick enough. Joanne Kells, 8, was drowned at Thornbury when she ventured too far out on the ice of a mill pond.

On the last day of the deer hunting season, Arthur Potvin, 36, was fatally wounded by another hunter who mistook him for a deer 30 miles south of his home at Sudbury.

John Cunningham, 67, retired farmer, was killed when struck by a truck 45 miles from Sault Ste. Marie. In another traffic accident near Bowmanville, Fred Mills, 21, and Floyd Brough, 18, were killed when their automobile rolled over. Rating Over at Circle

A car in which Mrs. Gladys Wilson, 37, of Hamilton was riding went out of control and rolled over at a traffic circle. She was killed. Howard Pollock, 23, of Toronto was killed when his car struck a safety island at Toronto. In a similar accident not far from Niagara Falls, John A. Bell, 23, of Riverton, Ont., was killed.

Two men were killed by falling tree limbs, Folke Gustafson, 44, of Port Frances at Sapawe, Ont., and Alex Egilocks, 31, of Pembroke at Algonquin Park.

In Quebec province, three persons were killed in an accident between an automobile and a freight train near Drummondville. Dead are Mrs. Gerald Leclerc, 40, of St. Cyrille de Wendover; her daughter Berthe, 21, and her son Roger, 15. In a head-on crash between two cars across the river from Montreal, Miss C. Pinard, 19, of Montreal was killed. Two cars struck the rear ends of two trucks, killing two persons: Rejean Gilbert, 20, of Grande Baie at Chicoutimi and Edouard Dube, 55, at Beloeil, 30 miles south of Montreal.

At Valleyfield, Albert Bailleult, 46, of Melocheville was fatally injured when hit by a car. At Val Moran, Leo Juteau died of injuries suffered in a truck accident Friday that killed four other persons.

In New Brunswick, three members of a Newcastle Creek family were killed when their car had a blowout and landed upside down in a stream. Aubrey Straight, 36, his wife, 33, and his son, Rossland, 4, died in the crash.

The body of Rupert Eaton, 21, a fisherman from Fairbanx, Deer Island, who had been overdue since last Thursday, was washed ashore near Mace's Bay.

The body of a missing hunter was found near Bathurst. Raymond White, 24, died of exposure, the whole committee show. He is T. A. (Tommy) Stone, Canada's minister to Sweden, whose first experience at a U.N. session was marked by election by acclamation to chairmanship of the budgetary committee. And Watson Sellar, Canada's auditor-general and chairman of the U.N.'s board of auditors this year, has stood by in committee ready to answer any questions about the auditing of the budget.

Many Members Would Curb Spending by United Nations; Trygve Lie Fights Reductions

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Paris, Nov. 26 (CP) — West and east are agreed on real thing at the United Nations Assembly: there must be some economies in the $48,800,000 annual budget.

Some western countries have been even tougher in the budgetary committee debate than Russia — which asked for a 25 per cent cut in the estimate for 1952.

Reorganization Urged

Norway suggested to Secretary-general Trygve Lie that he reorganize the whole upper echelon of his staff and cut the number of his assistant secretaries-general from eight to three. Each assistant secretary-general gets an annual salary of $13,500 plus an allowance ranging from $7,000 to $11,500 at Lie's discretion.

Canadian delegate Maurice Bourget, Liberal member of parliament for Levis (Que.), hasn't been as tough as the Norwegians so far in the debate, expected to fine-comb the budget until mid-December. But he has called strongly for economies.

Another Canadian is running Ha told the 60-member committee that the countried they represent are spending about $100,000,000,000 on armaments while the $48,000,000 U.N. budget is the only means of securing peace and economic and social development.

Assessments Criticized

Another big fight is expected when the committee gets around the recommendations for changes in the annual assessments for the 60 members. A special 10-member committee on contributions has suggested that the United States contribution be cut from 33.92 per cent of the budget to 36.90 per cent, and that the Russian assessment be raised from 6.96 per cent to 9.85 per cent. The U.S. payment last year was $16,563,244.

In the new proposed scale Canada's share would be raised from 3.30 to 3.33 per cent — which Canada is not expected to contest. Last year the dominion's assessment was $1,404,810.

FICTON

EIGHT PERSONS INJURED

Montreal, Nov. 24 — (CP) — Eight persons were injured, four seriously, in a head-on automobile collision last night at LaPrairie, Que., across the St. Lawrence River from Montreal.

The two cars, driven by Therese Rochette of Montreal and Rev. Howard MacCasland of Champlain, N.Y., collided at a point where a two-lane highway becomes one. One car burst into flames.

Seriously injured in hospital are: Jeanne LaFontaine, 28, of Champlain, N.Y., fractured skull; Claude Pinard, 19, Outremont, Que., fractured skull; Gloria Caspice, 20, Champlain, N.Y., both legs fractured; and Mr. MacCasland, in serious condition, suffering from undetermined injuries.

Guelph Cuts Marlies Win String; Stratford Second in Senior Race

(By The Canadian Press)

Three pesky Guelph Biltmores added insult to injury Sunday when they convincingly downed Toronto Marlboros 8-5 at Toronto. The second-place New York Rangers farm club not only broke the Duke's unbeaten streak of 19 games, but also pulled to within two points of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league leaders.

In handing St. Catharines Teepees their 7-3 setback, Toronto St. Michael's hoisted themselves into third place, a full game ahead of fourth-place Galt Hawks, idle during the weekend.

Saturday night games saw Waterloo Hurricanes cling stubbornly to the circuit's seventh spot with a 5-3 win over eighth-placed Barrie Flyers while Oshawa Generals kept out of the cellar with a 4-3 victory over trailing Windsor Spitfires. The Spits have won only two games this year in the 10-team loop.

Indians In Second

In O.H.A. senior play, Stratford Indians held on to second place with a 9-1 Saturday overtime win against fifth place Owen Sound Mercurys. Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen decisively beat off Sarnia Sailors' challenge for their third-place spot with an 11-4 victory.

The Stratford showing puts them one point behind league-leading Hamilton while the Mercurys remain in a fifth-place tie with Brantford. Kitchener-Waterloo now holds third place by three big points.

Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds racked up their sixth straight win in Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A competition Saturday night when they clumped North Bay Black Hawks 9-3. Ronnie Lay and Johnny Offland led the Sault attack with two goals each. Fred Valenti notched a pair of markers for North Bay.

Sudbury Miners edged Sudbury Wolves 7-6 in another N.O.H.A. tussle, the Miners coming through with two goals in the final minutes of play. Andy Milne tallied three times for the losers.

Chuck Henderson and Andy Ra'Boule paced the Cobalt club to its 8-4 junior win over Marlboros with two goals each. Roy Rose, Ken Lanthaun, also Cobalt, and Doug Prentice notched the remaining counters.

Eddie Louis Bendo lit the red light three times for the Dukes. Danny Poland scored the other Toronto goal.

Ron Wallace, with two goals and two assists, sparked the 7-3 St. Michael's victory over St. Catharines. Bill Lee collected a pair and singletons went to Bill Dineen, Jim Logan and Bill Knox. Bill Young scored twice for the losers with defenceman Pierre Pilote adding the other. Paul Oliver garnered two goals as his Waterloo Hurricanes dropped Barrie. Jerry Horton got the winning marker in the 5-3 victory and Booth Madder tallied the clincher. Charlie Broker scored the opening goal.

Minnie Menard, Doug Mohns and Larry Thibeault each scored once for the Barrie Club.

Oshawa Goalie Stars

Bob Shropshire, the Oshawa General's brilliant netminder, was the star of the 3-0 Oshawa win over last-place Windsor Spitfires. He turned back every thrust by the border city club and looked especially good during a concerted second-period Windsor drive.

Bob Attersley, Leo O'Connor and, Hervi de Jordy tallied the three Oshawa goals.

Dinny Flanagan scored with only 30 seconds left to play in overtime for Stratford's victory over Owen Sound in the O.H.A. senior contest. Billy Flick had tied the game 1-1 midway through the second period after Johnny MacDonald had given the Mercurys a 1-0 lead earlier in the stanza.

Big Ed Stankiewicz, the league's leading scorer, picked up six points on three goals and a trio of assists in the 11-4 Kitchener-Waterloo route of Sarnia. Jack Pernfuss and Art Hurst collected tow goals each while Doug Verity, Maurice Lavesque, Hugh Mair and Harry Pratka tallied singletons.

Bill Taylor scored twice for the losers. Leo Dodds and Ted Garvin got the others.

WEEKEND STARS

HELD MOSIENKO of Chicago Black Hawks, who scored two goals Saturday night to help defeat Detroit Red Wings 5-2.

CAL GARDNER of Toronto Maple Leafs who scored once and figured in two other goals Sunday night as his team downed Boston Bruins 6-1.

ED WESTFALL of New York Rangers, who scored twice to be the winning goal Sunday night as his team edged Montreal Canadiens 3-1.

Weston's Defeat Trudeaus 3-1 In Owl League

Weston's Bread took the measure of Trudeau Motor Sales in the opening game of the newly - formed Owl League by a 3-1 score.

Weston's took an early lead when Norm. Bahrage fired the opening goal and Charlie Hamilton added another before the period ended.

Steve Garvin's goal for Trudeau narrowed the margin but Cam Foster came back to score the clincher.

The game was cleanly played with Referee C. Cooke handing out two penalties one going to each team.

Other teams in the league are Boyce's Garage and Bonn Motor Sales.

The teams: Trudeaus, goal, Wight; defence, Grant Badgely, D. Cameron; centre, Bowser; wings, Garvin, Kennedy; subs, Paschelik, Jury. Weston's, — goal, Bonn; defence, Bartage, Irish; centre, Hamilton; wings, Fitzgibbon, Desjardins; subs, Foster, Wickett, Ferguson.

Referee: C. Cooke.

FRANKFORD

Fireballs Lead Bowling League

Frankford — The Frankford Bowling League seems to specialize in the second place team knocking the league leaders off their lofty perches. Thursday night was no exception, as Jack Farley's Fireballs knocked off Gene Lohnes' Pinpoppers in two out of three. The Pinpoppers only win came by virtue of Lloyd Hanna's 292 game, narrowly missing the 300 club. Mary Morrow, last year's high ladies' average holder joined the Ladies' 250 Club with a 252.

In other contests, Bob Morgan's "Bohemoth" downed Rod Hogg's Inkspots in all three games, while Ross Huffman's Crackpots, paced by their captain's 335 game whipped the Hotshots in three contests. Ed. Tomecek's Rockets just can't seem to click on anything, as they dropped their fourth straight seven to Ray Scott's Skeeters. Doug Montgomery of the Skeeters just missed the 300 Club with a 296.

A meeting of the executive was called and a discussion on Christmas week bowling took place. It was unanimously decided that the schedule would remain unchanged, and that bowling would continue on the 26th as planned, rather than the 27th. The turkey roll, one turkey for ladies, and one for gents high single, including handicaps, will take place on that date.

200 club creek were presented to the following: Preston Chase, Bob Cage, Gene Lohnes, Ray Scott and Ross Huffman. 250 club creels went to Margaret Hogg, Doreen Osterhout, Alice Sharpe, and Edith Henry.

Seek Major Help To Increase Loop

Erie, Pa., Nov. 26 (AP) — Elmer Daily, president of the Class C Middle Atlantic Baseball League, said yesterd: he is going after more major league support so the circuit can go back to eight teams next season.

The league finished last year with only five teams, new Castle, Erie and Butler, Pa., and Niagara Falls and Lockport, N.Y.

Daily told mid-Atlantic directors today there is a possibility that three teams from Canada will join the circuit in 1953. These are St. Catharines, Niagara Falls and Welland, Ont.

Christmas lasts all year for lucky MECCANO boys

Prices start as low as $1.50

On Christmas morning the fun begins—when your boy discovers his Meccano. And that fun lasts right through the year—and for years to come.

There is lasting entertainment—and education—with a Meccano Outfit, and your boy will love every minute of it. He'll create real working machines—he'll never tire of building the hundreds of different models—and he'll always have something to do on rainy, stay-in-the-house days.

Choose the size to suit your boy's age, and as he grows make his Meccano grow too, by adding accessory outfits—to build even larger models. Meccano is ruggedly built to last for years.

What do you do with our Two Billion Dollars?

$2,085,187,091.60, to be exact.

That's what our 1,800,000 customers had on deposit at our 572 branches on October 31st, 1951 — the end of the 134th year of Canada's First Bank.

More than half of this money is made up of the savings of private individuals . . . hard-earned dollars that will give the depositor a backlog of money for future use. And, in B of M care, these two billion dollars are a powerful force working toward a better future for Canada and for all Canadians.

Where does this money go? Well, for instance...

AT THE B of M's 1951 YEAR-END

$446,368,336.93 was on loan to scores of thousands of Canadians in every walk of life . . . to farmers, fishermen, lumbermen, and ranchers . . . to private citizens in all parts of the country . . . to business and industrial enterprises for every kind of production . . . to provincial and municipal governments and school districts. These loans stood at the highest year-end figure in the Bank's history, despite a steady effort to hold down non-defence lending to co-operation with the Government's anti-inflationary policy.

$976,950,829.78 was invested in high-grade government bonds and other public securities having a ready market. These were carried at a figure not greater than their market value. In addition, the B of M had $113,233,533.10 in other securities, mainly short-term credits to industry.

$218,011,232.89 was held in cash in the B of M's vaults and on deposit with the Bank of Canada, ready to meet depositors' immediate needs for cash.

IN ALL, THE B of M HAS RESOURCES OF $2,221,630,314.45

THE B of M'S RESOURCES, OVER AND ABOVE WHAT IS OWED, AMOUNT, THEREFORE, TO . . . . . $ 88,534,081.96

This figure of $88,534,081.96 is made up of money subscribed by the shareholders and, to some extent, of earnings which have from time to time been ploughed back into the business to broaden the Bank's services and to give added protection for the depositors.

1951 EARNINGS

After paying all overhead expenses, including staff salaries, cost-of-living bonuses and benefits, and after making provision for contingencies, and for depreciation of Bank premises, furniture and equipment, the B of M reports earnings for the twelve months ended October 31st, 1951, of $10,336,373.64.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A NEW START!

The senior Hawks leaped into undisputed possession of first place in the senior "B" hockey group yesterday afternoon without putting a skate or stick on the ice. They were set in the top slot with three wins and one loss for six points. In second place are the Peterborough Eagles with four points for two wins and one setback. Third place occupant is the Peterborough Petes, tied with one win and two defeats, while Kingston sits in the cellar with no wins and two losses.

The reason for all this is that the Queen's University games played with Petes, Eagles and Hawks were washed out at a group meeting held here yesterday, while the Peterborough Petes-Eagles second game was nullified following the upholding of the Petes protest that Eagles player Parnall was ineligible.

The OHA, however, in awarding the protest to the Petes stated it did so because Parnall was not signed at the time of the game. He remains, however, the property of the Eagles club and can play for it.

Nullification of the Queen's University games and the washing out of the Petes-Eagles game cost the latter team six points in the league standing. The Petes dropped four points while the Hawks lost two. The Petes, however, will likely be reimbursed for transportation expenses incurred during their trip to Kingston to play Queen's. Should the two teams wind up at the OHA executive meeting on December 7th, it is possible that since both Hawks and Eagles played home games with Queen's and benefitted by the gates, these squads will be asked to share the cost of the Eagles-Queen's trip.

The meeting held under the convenership of OHA executives members Frank Buckland, Peterborough, and Lorne Cook, Kingston, laid the groundwork for a new schedule. Representatives of the four teams were present, and the outcome produced arrangements for this week's games. The new sked will be completed this week, and published as soon as received from Buckland. This week's games see Peterborough Eagles play Kingston on the latter's ice tonight, clashing with the Hawks here on Wednesday night and the two Peterborough teams tangling on Friday night. Playoff arrangements for the new grouping will be discussed later.

This new four-team set-up should resolve the group into a well-balanced quartet of squads, Kingston, it is reported, has added some needed strength and it is learned on very definite authority that six members of the suspended Nylons squad, are applied for reinstatement. The matter will likely be dealt with at the December 7th meeting of the OHA executive. Should the players' reinstatement be granted, the Kingston squad will prove a definite threat for group honors. It should be a right lively year, and with all four squads, if their performances to date can be judged a criterion, showing a marked preference for the rugged type of hockey, there should be some merry old tectaan fireworks before the playoff whistles blow.

VICS ON TOP

Kingston Vics Junior "B" squad came through with a fine exhibition Saturday night to defeat the powerful Lindsay Kinsmen 4-3 for their second victory of the young season, and to grab top spot in the group standing. Belleville Hawks occupy second spot with three points for one win and one tie; Lindsay is in third place with two points for one and one while Peterborough trails with two losses and one tie for one point.

All teams in the junior group see action this week with the Hawks playing both at home and away. On Friday night they play hosts to the Kingston Vics and Saturday night seen them back at Kingston. Wednesday night Lindsay Kinsmen go to Peterborough and the teams play a return game at Lindsay on Friday night.

IT'S ALL OVER!

Bytown won a football game, its first Grey Cup since Hector was a pup, and we discovered how to see future Grey Cup classics without benefit of pasteboards . . . The secret was disclosed while we sat on the fifty-yard line by the family radio and listened to the post-mortems in the cool of the evenin' . . . Jack Price, Toronto sports commentator (Remember?) gave the tipoff when he said that 30,000 football wacky spectators saw the thriller instead of 27,000 with the extra three thousand viewing the game via the simple expedient of a spot of steeple-chasing during the early morning hours and lying doggo under the seats until game-time . . . The 3,000 emerged unbloody, unbowed and slightly dizzy from the kickoff whistle tooted . . . According to press, radio and tonsilar descriptions of the classic, it was the best Grey Cup till in years . . . The injury-riddled Saskys, whose strategy slightly backfired in the first half, roared into belated fourth quarter action for a pair of T. D.'s and a lot of radio addicts outside the confines of Parliament Hill were rootin' for the gallant Saskys to come through . . . And they danged near did just that . . . Pete Karpuk did call Save to resort to any knavery in this game and he proved that he is a football player without any sensationalism, or goatish antics . . . Humor came when Viscount Alexander and the official kickoff party found themselves minus a pigskin to boot to start proceedings . . . It was ideal football weather with a perfect field . . . And after all that "carp" about the "carp" the westerners played quite and decided to assist matters by tossing atmosphere and conducive to football at its best . . . Glen Dobbs' tremendous kicks in the first quarter good for a points pair had the big mob gasping . . . A seventy-yarder, Wow . . . And the boys that foot the football bills had to cough up with the price of eleven new ones . . . That, it was reported was the current "take" for the crowd . . . One said the pigskins cost $93.30, another 14 bucks, each that is . . . With the interest in football steadily mounting and the Grey Cup final already proven the Canadian sports spectacle of the year, don't be surprised if you see some sort of action mooted or taken to change the venue to a stadium where seating capacity could be expanded to accommodate 50,000 or even 75,000 spectators . . . As Ted Reeve puts it, a great number of Grey Cup ticket-getters are those who don't know a football from a flying saucer while those who live, dream, eat and see the game from season's start to finish, are left out in the cold, so to speak . . . Too much "minky" business, it appears . . .

West's Blazing 4th Period Surge Nearly Pulls Game From Fire, But East Rallies For Victory

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Nov. 26—(CP)—Ottawa, Rough Riders, whose habit of playing like champions instead of champs in Grey Cup finals became almost a legend, today are Canadian football champions and holders, for one year at least, of the six-pound trophy. They broke the hex the hard way.

A glazing fourth-quarter club in the Big Four pigskin, they reversed the tactics Saturday against Saskatchewan Roughriders and practically handed the game to the westerners in the final seven minutes. Sensing disaster, they picked up their feet and went on to win 21-14.

Ahead 21-0 at one point it, Ottawa developed a bad case of jitters and before anybody could spell Saskatchewan backwards, the alert and cup-hungry Roughriders picked up three Ottawa fumbles and cracked over for two converted touchdowns. They were still on foot but Ottawa rallied to put out the blaze and take command until the gun.

Had it Wrapped Up

Ottawa had wrapped up the game with three converted majors and two singles against the two first-quarter Saskatchewan singles when the old hex caught up with them. The Roughie surge brought the record - breaking crowd of 27,326 to its feet but Ottawa, playing on home turf, ground smashes deep into Saskatchewan territory.

And during those anxious moments, hard-hitten Ottawa fans with memories of heart-breaking failures against the west in 1939, 1941, and 1943—and all in the dying stages of the games—were resigned to another flop.

Fans still recall the last-minute single Art Stevenson kicked for Winnipeg Blue Bombers to give the westerners an 8-7 victory over Ottawa. They remember, too, the placement Ches McCance kicked for the Bombers late in the 1941 game that converted a 15-15 deficit into a thrill-packed 18-16 victory.

Ain't it still hurts Ottawa supporters when they think of that Nov. 27 game three years ago when Calgary Stampeders pulled the sleeper play and Pete Karpuk committed his famous skull when he failed to get off a home ball, allowing Calgary to set up its game-winning Stamp touchdown. Bill Paul "fell" at the one line—late in the final quarter. Karpuk contented himself Saturday as the game's only outstanding ground-gainer.

Saturday's game was one to remember if only for the tense finish of nicuture and but perfect football weather with the field dry ed.

Leafs Trim Canadiens, Bruins In Weekend Victory Splurge; Chihawks Split With Detroit

(By The Canadian Press)

Conn Smythe must have shined that crystal ball pretty thoroughly before calling his Toronto Maple Leafs off the ice after Saturday night jinx and win over Montreal Canadiens ended the weekend.

Leafs not only routed the Habitants 4-3 in as rousing a game as has been seen in Toronto in many a year, but kept on rolling to flatten Boston Bruins 4-1 right in Boston Sunday.

The double victory hoisted Toronto to within five points of the league-leading Detroit Red Wings who managed to split their weekend fare with fifth-place Chicago Black Hawks. The Hawks pulled the big upset Saturday night, drubbing the Wings 6-3 right in Detroit, only to bow 8-2 before 12,326 Chicago home-town fans, their largest crowd of the new season.

Habs Drop Two

In New York, the luckless Montreal crew dropped an exciting 3-1 decision to the last-place Rangers. The last-shifting clash was marked by several traditional Blueshirt - Habitant brawls.

Leafs and Canadiens dished up their fastest and most-exhilirating game of the year for 14,580 fans. Maurice (Rocket) Richard put Canadiens one up at 1:00 of the first period but Ted Sloan made it 1-1 just minutes later and Cal Gardner put the Leafs in front at 7.18 of the middle session. Elmer Lach evened it up at 3-3 after 57 seconds of play in the final period, but Tweeter Kennedy came through with the winner at 7.59. Bob Solinger put the game on ice with the fourth Leaf goal.

In Boston Sunday, Toronto took a 2-0 first-period lead on goals by Gardner and Howie Meeker. Boston came back briefly in the middle period as Ray Barry tallied, Max Bentley and Harry Watson scored one each in the final period.

In New York, Herb Dickenson and Ed Slowinski made it 2-0 for the Rangers before Richard scored the lone Montreal goal.

In Detroit, Gus Bodnar and Bill Mosienko gave the Hawks a 2-0 lead before Ted Lindsay was given to reply for the Wings in the first-period exchange. Mosienko came up with his second goal and Jimmy Peters and Bep Guidolin added two more before Marty Pavelich got the second Detroit counter in the second period. Pete Babando scored the last Chicago marker.

The Wings had it all their way at Chicago Stadium. Black Jack Stewart opened the scoring for the Hawks, but Metro Prystai, Red Kelly, Glen Skov and Ted Lindsay scored to clinch the game for the league-leaders. Jimmy McFadden replied for Chicago's second goal, but Gordie Howe got that one back.

Tennessee Vols Top College Team; Illinois, Stanford Get Rose Bowl

New York, Nov. 26 (AP) — With the exception of the Army-Navy affair and a few scattered games across the country next week, the book was closed today on the 1951 college football season.

The participants in two of the four major bowls have been decided, and one team has been selected for each of the other two.

Unbeaten Tennessee, the nation's No. 1 team, and Maryland, currently ranked No. 4, collide in the Sugar Bowl. On the basis of a stunning 25-0 victory over Kentucky Saturday, the Vols probably will rule favorites.

Maryland, scored a thumping triumph, defeating West Virginia 28-7.

The Rose Bowl gets Illinois and Stanford, champions, respectively, of the Big Ten and Pacific Coast Conferences. Neither outfit was expected to finish near the top before the season got under way.

California Wins

California, the September favorite on the coast, finally did beat Stanford, 30-7, in the final game of the season for both schools, but it was too late to hurt the Indians in their quest for the title though it did put an end to Stanford's bid to end the season undefeated.

Illinois made it, but not by much. In fact, it was a field goal by Sam Rebecca in the 12-degree freeze of Evanston, Ill., that enabled the Illini to defeat Northwestern 3-0, and gain the championship.

Illinois needed the game, too, because Purdue and Wisconsin, both still in the contention, won their games. The Boilermakers stopped Indiana, 21-13, and the Badgers defeated Minnesota, 30-6. The other Big Ten game, in which Michigan defeated Ohio State 7-0, had no bearing on the outcome.

The Cotton Bowl will send Kentucky to battle the champion of the Southwest Conference, which has not been decided yet. Texas Christian has the inside track at the moment.

Georgia Tech, which has been able to rest easy for the past two weeks, having been the first team selected for a major bowl assignment—the Orange — kept its fighting trim by downing Davidson 34-7.

Princeton won the Ivy League title again when the Tigers scored a 13-0 victory over Dartmouth, without the aid of Dick Kazmaier for most of the game.

The second-ranking team in the land, Michigan State, made a determined bid to get back at the top of the heap by routing Colgate 59-7.

St. Louis Flyers Edge Hornets For Second Loss

(By The Canadian Press)

Pittsburgh Hornets lost their second game of the season last night dropping a 3-1 count to the St. Louis Flyers in an American Hockey League game.

The setback ended an undefeated string of nine games for the western division leaders who won seven and tied two. They have 15 victories.

In Saturday night tilts, the Hornets routed Syracuse 10-3, Hershey took Providence 4-1, Cincinnati beat St. Louis 6-4 and Cleveland handed Buffalo a 8-3 defeat.

Last night's triumph put the Flyers back in a tie for third place in the western division with the idle Cincinnati squad.

The Hornets appeared to be on their way to another victory when Andy Barbe blasted home a 40-foot shot after only 50 seconds of action in the first period.

But the Flyers took over from there on with Pat Dundy, Al Bacari and Don Morrison getting the goals.

At Buffalo, Knobby Warwick set the pace with two goals as the Bisons defeated Syracuse warriors 6-1.

Other Bison goals were made by Gerry Couture, Ab Demarco, Eddie Kazur and Les Rickey. Kelly Burnett tallied for the visitors.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Hamilton Panthers Saturday took the Eastern Canadian Intermediate Football Title, defeating Royal Montreal Regiment 13-1 in a lopsided game that saw two Hamilton touchdowns called offsides.

The game was played under protest by the Montreal squad.

Hamilton big guns were Dutch Holland who got two majors and Joe McFarlane who got two singles. Glen Dawson scored one convert. In the third quarter, Mike Macaluso of Montreal was tackled by a gang of Hamilton players for a safety touch, but the officials were at a loss to award the two points to any individual player. Macuso scored a single in that qu - to save R.M.R. from a shutout.

R.M.R. coach Dave Peebles announced before the game that he was protesting the use of three Hamilton players, one of whom, Sam Scoccia, didn't play.

Johnny Russian, playing manager of Galt Terriers of the Intercounty Baseball League last season, has agreed to return next year. He is expected before Christmas to discuss team prospects.

Italians claimed first and second Sunday in the 1,933 Pan-American road race which ended at Juarez, Mexico. Americans took third and all but one of the next seven places. Pietro Taruffi, Italian ace, sent his low slung Ferrari across the finish line at 2:06 p.m. CST, a split second ahead of his countryman, Alberto Ascari, also in a Ferrari.

Twent feet behind was Bill Sterling of El Paso, Tex., in a 1951 Chrysler.

Cleveland Browns Trim Chi. Bears By 42-21 Score

New York, Nov. 26 (AP)—Detroit Lions want you to know their youthful coach, Buddy Parker, knew what he was talking about when he said "if somebody beats the Chicago Bears, we'll win the title in the National Conference of the National Football League."

Look at the standings today and you'll see what the Lions mean. Detroit tops the National Conference with a record of six victories, two defeats and one tie.

The Bears and Los Angeles Rams are deadlocked for second place with six wins and three setbacks each. And they meet next week in another one of the league's naturals. A defeat will put about above either one out of the running.

Cleveland Browns and Washington Redskins gave the Lions a helping hand.

The Browns defeated the Bears 42-21 to cement their position at the head of the American Conference with an 8-1 record while the Redskins pulled the surprise of the day by downing the Rams 31-21.

Meanwhile, New York Giants remained at the Browns' heels by shutting out Chicago Cardinals 10-0.

In other games, the winless New York Yanks struck from behind in the last quarter to tie

London, Windsor School Teams Win Grid Crowns

London, Ont., Nov. 26 (CP)—London Central and Seaforth won their first W.O.S.S.A. football titles and Windsor Patterson captured the senior grid crown for the first time since 1933 in the Purple Bowl here Saturday.

Patterson took the senior championship with a 23-5 triumph over Guelph in a wide open contest. Central blanked Kitchener-Waterloo 7-0 in the junior final while Seaforth edged Sarnia, St. Patrick's 6-3 for the Senior "B" title.

The Panthers operating from a split-T, hit hard and quickly on offence chalking up four touchdowns, three of them converted.

Three recovered fumbles and a stout Patterson front-wall holding on a third down Guelph play put the Panthers in position for their scores.

Guelph's lone touchdown came on a 50 yard run with a pass interception by centre Brian Keeling.

the San Francisco 49-ers, 10-10 and Pittsburgh Steelers whipped Philadelphia Eagles 17-13.

Dub Jones, formerly of Tulane, was the outstanding player of the five-game card. He paced the Cleveland attack by scoring six touchdowns. This equalled the league scoring record for a single game set by Ernie Nevers of Chicago Cardinals in 1929.

'Weiner' Brown Scores Three For Tacoma

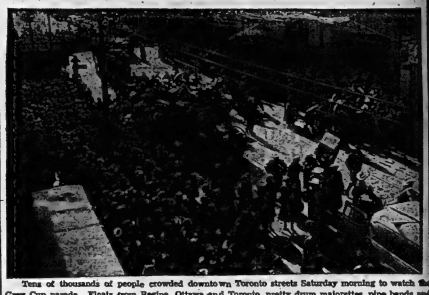
(By The Canadian Press)

Seattle's bustling Ironmen moved within two points of first-place New Westminster in the Pacific Coast League during the weekend.

Seattle banged out a 5-0 victory over Edmonton Flyers Sunday after tying 1-1 with New Westminster Saturday night. The Sunday loss was Edmonton's fifth in five tries. Saturday they lost 5-3 to Tacoma Rockets. In another Saturday night contest Saskatoon Quakers downed Calgary Stampeders 6-4.



Seattle gained their Saturday tie with a third-period goal by Joe Bell. Bobby Love counted for New Westminster in the first. On Sunday Seattle settled the issue with first-period counters by Walt Samanski and Stan Maxwell. Delmonte and Bell counted the others two while Edmonton's score was by Kilburn.

Warne "Weiner" Brown scored the first three Tacoma goals and Doug Adam picked up the other two. Hartley McLeod and Ken Johnson scored for Edmonton.

Junior Hawks Practice Tuesday

Hollywood, Nov. 26 (AP) — Lyn Wilde is a girl with all the obvious factors for film success. She has a beautiful face, a figure that is whistle-bait and she can sing, dance and act.

The only thing holding her back is her carbon copy.

That's her twin-sister Le, who possesses the same attributes and abilities. The girls claim being a twin is above business is a living hell.

Individually Out

"I hate being a 'twin,'" complained Lyn. "It's hard enough in this busy world to establish yourself as an individual. But when you're a twin, it's impossible.

Lyn is going as far as possible to dissociate herself professionally from her sister, who has retired from show business. The girls are blondes, but Lyn now is seeking her own career as a redhead.

The Wilde twins were under contract to MGM for several years, but their careers never progressed much farther than a few gag appearances.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, November 27

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Aim to be in tune with things around you; accept cheerfully your chores, no matter how humble. Spread the good word and you will find more friends and happiness.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Reach into the new and untried; give your keen imagination a chance, albeit, sanely. General business, sound investments forward.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Indications now point up need for conservative action rather than all daring or full force. Be equipped with proper information; don't go ahead regardless.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Some uncertain conditions likely in a.m. Mark time wisely, study well each problem. Reasonable gains indicated.

July 24 to August 23—(Leo)—Excellent opportunities for you clever salesmen, if you just don't rush things. Stress care in money matters.

August 24 to September 23—(Virgo)—Don't bank too much on others' help. Be more self-sustaining. Figure things out yourself; you are a keen observer.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Auspicious here for most well planned honorable endeavors. Concentrate on what you can do well, don't hopscotch around your calendar.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Hold it, folks! Confusion, hazards possible for willful, unthinking action. Better hesitate first to avoid mistakes.

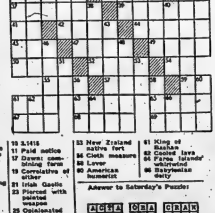
November 24 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Even if this period isn't all auspicious, you can always make something worth while come from good effort, Courage!

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Circumstances often alter cases. Be sharp to detect this. Be eager, too, to attain or you will miss out. Don't go by hearsay; be informed through right sources.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)— Fast reputation or luck won't suffice. Bear down, with true ambition; study well before taking that forward step.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Loosen up your wits and make this one of your best days. It's packed with opportunity, though much is hidden.

YOU BORN TODAY: Jupiter in Sagittarius says you are jovial, just, honest in purpose and intent. Fine perception, good faculties for higher education and success. When really striving, you seldom miss your mark. Quick to discern, often before others. Should love the outdoors, are bright, good company. You need regular rest and recreation periods to relax your active mind and being. Many fine doctors, bankers, judges, lawyers, public officials born in this Sign. Avoid restlessness, unwise speculation with your assets. Many actors also.



Birthdafs of: Paul W. Garrett, noted industrialist.

Answer to Saturday's Puzzle

THREE CHIEFS PLAY

Toronto, Nov. 24 (CP) —Three Indian chiefs in feathered headdresses and tribal regalia played wind instruments last night at a concert in the Royal Ontario Museum Theatre. The bandsmen, from Shawkeno, near Brantford, were among 45 musicians from the 50th Light AntiAircraft Regiment of Brantford who performed.

Sharp Quakes Jolt Formosa For Second Day

Taipeh, Formosa, Nov. 26 (AP) —Earthquakes jolted Formosa for the second straight day today. At least 15 persons were killed and more than 200 injured by shocks that tilted the capital and southwestern coasts yesterday.

A sharp shock was felt in Taipeh this afternoon but caused no damage or casualties. Yesterday's quakes damaged the east coast railroad at seven places in the 75-mile stretch between Hualien and Fulinge.

Hualien, hard hit by quakes that killed 100 persons Oct. 22 and 23, suffered no casualties yesterday.

The rail towns of Yuli and Fuli, 30 and 60 mile south, bore the brunt of the Sunday tremors.

WHY WE SAY

— Meant a baby

The Lady went Mad! Father for a baby who couldn't speak yet is the same as the modern word Mamby. In the Middle Ages, knights in armor used to employ young boys as attendants to run alongside them when mounted . . . The boys were not allowed to speak and were mere cat boy soldiers as we know them today.

Higher Milk Prices For Several Districts

Toronto, Nov. 26 — (CP) — Milk price increases, ranging from one to two cents a quart, have been approved by the Ontario Milk Control Board for several districts. The new minimum prices will be effective Dec. 1.

Fergus, in Central Ontario, where milk probably is cheaper than in any other part of the province, and Chapleau, where it is most expensive, both get the cent-a-quart increases.

It may mean Fergus residents will pay 10 cents for milk which now costs them 17; Chapleau residents 26 cents instead of 24.

Other maximum prices follow, with current prices in brackets:

Dryden 22 cents (20); Fort Frances 23 (20); Fort William and Port Arthur 23 (22); Geraldton 24 (21); Hamilton 22 (20); Hearst 21 (19); Kenora and Keewatin 23 (22); Nipigon 23 (21); Ottawa 23 (18); Sudbury and Copper Cliff 23 (21); Niagara district 22 (20).

Grain Growers Vote to Market Through Board

Winnipeg, Nov. 24 (CP) — Manitoba grain growers voted overwhelmingly Saturday to continue marketing their oats and barley through the Canadian Wheat Board.

In a provincial referendum, more than 34,000 of 51,833 eligible farmers went to the polls despite bitter cold weather. Almost 80 per cent wrote "yes" on a ballot that asked: "Do you wish to continue to sell your oats and barley as at present?"

The heavy affirmative vote — 30,625 to 3,820 — threw out the possibility of the Canadian Wheat Board being discarded as the marketing agency for coarse grains.

The provincial government promised farmers that if the vote was "no", it would repeal its legislation making marketing through the board compulsory and ask the federal government to do so also.

The referendum was ordered by the provincial government after it received petitions asking that compulsory marketing of coarse grains be thrown out and farmers be allowed to sell on the free market. The federal government introduced the compulsory system two years ago when the Prairie Provinces passed complementary legislation.

Little campaigning preceded the referendum and in many quarters a light vote was expected. The provincial government remained neutral throughout.

DO OWN CHOOSING

London, Nov. 26—(Reuters) — Possessive mothers who put difficulties in the way are often responsible for failure of young couples to marry, the British Marriage Society said today. In a report the society advised boys and girls to do their own choosing and then stand by their decisions.

TIGHTEN TRAFFIC CONTROLS

Hong Kong, Nov. 25—(AP) — Police have tightened traffic controls between this British Crown colony and red China. Chinese are not permitted to enter the colony unless they have communist permits authorizing their re-entry into red China. The restriction is aimed at freezing the colony's population, swollen from a prewar 800,000 to more than 2,500,000.

Dairymen Had Oleo Worries Back in 1882

Galt, Ont., Nov. 26 — (CP) — Dairymen had margarine worries "way back in 1882, W. C. Barrie of Galt has a 69-year-old copy of the Farmer's Advocate to prove it.

"Dairymen," said the editor, "should remember that oleo is better than bad butter—but good butter is better than oleo."

The journal is one of several old newspapers Mr. Barrie acquired three years ago when a neighbor, Alison Johnston, left him her 50-acre farm.

The Johnstons had been sentimental about their property and wouldn't even permit a tree to be cut on their land. They never threw anything away. When Miss Johnston, the surviving member of the family died, Mr. Barrie found about 5½ tons of old papers.

These included a copy of Mackenzie's Weekly Message, published in 1836 at Toronto by William Lyon Mackenzie. It carries an advertisement that Mr. Mackenzie lost his bamboo cane with its ivory carved bear on the handle.

Some time ago Mr. Barrie told the late Prime Minister King that he owned a copy of his grandfather's newspaper and offered it to him. Mr. King thanked him and advised him to keep it. The paper will be given to the Mackenzie King Memorial Foundation at Kitchener.

Other papers include a 94-year-old copy of the Galt Reporter, and an 1844 copy of the Toronto Globe. The columns were three inches wide and there were six to a page.

The Northern Messenger, a Sunday School favorite, told in an 1853 issue of David Livingston's travels in Africa.

SHOWED PICTURES

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 26. (CP) — Dr. K. B. Jackson of the University of Toronto had an audience of about 1,000 goggle-eyed over pictures of the royal tour. Dr. Jackson took stereoscopic colored pictures of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh and the audience donned special goggles to see the films in three dimensions.

WILL LEAD SEARCH

London, Nov. 26—(Reuters) — Farmer Gilbert Harris is going to leave his goat farm in Warwickshire to lead a search for the lost city of Shabwa, once the fortress of the Queen of Sheba, the London Daily Mirror reports today. Harris, 40, a wartime signals officer in the Royal Air Force, claims he flew over the deserted city somewhere in Saudi Arabia while stationed in the Middle East.

Mossadegh Wins Confidence Vote In Iranian Senate

Tehran, Nov. 26 — (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh won a unanimous vote of confidence in the Iranian Senate today, paving the way for national elections in tre next two or three days.

The vote followed a similar ballot in the Majlis (lower house) yesterday when Mossadegh persuaded the deputies to reverse their earlier decision to postpone the elections until Dec. 18.

Deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi told reporters the government plans to start the election within two or three days.

The senators also put through a bill asking that the balloting be secret. Mossadegh said he personally favored secret voting but added that he gave the bill "half of one per cent of a chance" for ratification by the Majlis.

The outlawed communist Tudeh party already is reported placing candidates in the field under false party labels.

The aged Nationalist faction premier won a 90-0 vote from the lower House yesterday after a tearful appeal for support. It was his first visit to parliament since his return from the United States.

Fifteen Majlis members abstained on the confidence vote. Twenty-four senators were absent from the voting today, but all 26 present voted with the government.

The Outsiders

By Jane Abbott

She did not think he knew what really happened last night. Maybe he'd never known, for why was there to tell him? That man who had found her in the ditch didn't know anything about it.

Tury did not console her. She fell back on her old self-pity. She never had anything. . .

Her first job was in a five-and-ten store. She was fifteen, she had lied about her age. She had had to lie or starve. All that winter, while other girls were having fun, she had gone to night school to study typing.

Her next job had been typing copy all day in a room that smelled of chemicals.

Suddenly without any direction of her will, her thoughts jumped ahead to the evening when she had met John. Hey Jay had died two months before. He'd come home, one afternoon, dragged himself up the stairs, his hands holding his head and just inside the door had keeled over, promptly after her father was buried she had sold the contents of the tenement apartment for next to nothing and moved into a third-floor back room with a girl who worked with her.

But it was only a slightly different room. She still did not have any more clothes for it. Who could, on eight dollars a week?

She had gone to a dance at the "Y" one Saturday, and she had met John there.

John didn't dance well and after one try at it they had agreed it'd be more fun to sit out. They'd sat, for the whole evening, John looking at her as if he couldn't take his eyes off her.

He was very different from the men she knew in the tenement neighborhood and at the different places where she worked. He was a doctor! Doctors were rich, usually.

He had asked her to meet him in the park, the next afternoon. She had and again the evening of the next day and the next. He was going overseas in three weeks. If they were going to have any time together they had to get married.

John bought her a suit to be married in. She had told him she had no money after burying her father. She had told him much of the truth about herself; on the contrary, quite a bit that was not true.

They'd gone from the mayor's office to Fire Island. . .

Marilyn had turned her face into the pillow. She wanted to cry out but no tears would come —instead they gathered down inside her, hurting. Why hadn't it been, after John came back, like it'd been that week? He'd been gone so long. It hadn't been fun living with his family; she'd thought when John came home, they'd do things. . .

"Just wait, Lyn! We'll only have to live close for a while. When I get a practice started we'll be going places!" New Interval was his idea of "going places." With a truck load of old furniture from his mother's attic.

But for all her defence of herself the tears inside her pressed heavier.

John Streeter had not forgotten what Marilyn had admitted to him about herself and George Culbert, but he had suspected something of the sort so it had come to him as just one thing more added to the whole problem rather than a surprise or shock. He told himself he had to go slow about it. Any hasty action—such as punching Culbert's smooth, handsome face into the back of his skull—would not solve anything. So he pushed the problem into a corner of his mind to wait for the next development.

He had distractions, Dave Wilson's injury, for one. And his summons up over the hill to Mrs. Larkin. He'd found her in a coma, her pale, blessedly over, a look of infinite peace on her face. She died soon after he got to the house.

John had felt strangely loath to go away. There in that old lamp-lit kitchen he had witnessed a demonstration of neighborly kindness such as he had not known existed. Simple and yet rich and warming. He had driven back to New Interval with something of its warmth in his own heart.

But for that experience he might have met Marilyn very differently when she limped into the house. Her broken explanations, too flimsy to accept as the truth, the fright on her face. . . He had carried her into the bedroom. Well, he had told himself.

He had had no doubt but that Culbert was mixed up in what ever had happened but he forced that, too, to the back of his mind, to wait there.

The small up-to-date hospital in Cranford interested him to the exclusion of every other thought. Doctor Cook was proud of it and took him into every corner of it. "This is Doctor Streeter from New Interval," Doctor Cook said introducing him to one and another.

The older man told him frankly that he envied him his experience in the war. "I'd say you aren't 30 yet and you know more from practice than I do and I've been at it close to 40 years."

When they talked over Dave Wilson's injury, they agreed that Dave should stay in the hospital until danger of infection was past, then they would go in and sew those torn muscles, possibly save for Dave the use of his hand.

Over their luncheon in a cafeteria, Doctor Cook said: "I wanted to practise in a place small enough to know the folks in it. I've the theory that knowing the inside of folks goes a long way in helping to doctor them."

Cranford had grown 'in the years since he'd come. And he'd grown along with it, older. "Seventy, next birthday. And I'd like some leisure before I die. Now with you set up in practice I won't need to go driving down your way any longer."

It was on John's tongue to say he was not "set up" that he was working in the mill. Doctor Cook continued, "next time anyone calls me from New Interval I'm going to tell 'em to get their own doctor and that they're lucky to have you there!"

(To be Continued)

What's the Miracle of Canada?

The miracle of Canada is the reward of its thrifty people; it is a standard of living wrought by men and women who believe in spending and saving wisely. The average Canadian, for example, owns his own car and his own home. He pays his bills when due. His pattern of living is excellent.

When the pattern breaks

But unexpected emergencies do break the pattern. Usually the emergency requires more money than he has available. This can happen to anyone. Then help must come from a dependable outside service.

3 out of 4 choose Household

HFC feels that no one should borrow unless a loan is the best solution to a money problem. Because HFC service is friendly, dependable, 3 out of 4 Canadian families prefer to borrow in amounts of $50 to $1000 from HOUSEHOLD FINANCE. Your telephone book lists the office nearest you.

WHAT A DAY!

What a misery it can be on those days when you are feeling way below par. How slowly the hours drag by when you feel seedy and sluggish and seem to ache all over.

And how unnecessary it all is, very often. Most times that dull, logy feeling is the direct result of constipation and kidneys not working properly. You need something more than a simple laxative these times. You need Kruschen Salts. Millions the world over have learned the benefits of Kruschen . . . the salts that are like those in the waters of famous Mineral Springs. Acting in two ways at once, laxative and diuretic (for sluggish kidneys), Kruschen helps rid the body of waste matter. It goes right to the cause of that miserable, sickish feeling that constipation brings about.

Get some Kruschen today. Less than half a teaspoonful can make you feel better all day long.

Battered by Atlantic Storm U.S. Trawler Holding Own Ninety Miles From Halifax

Halifax, Nov. 27 — (CP) — A United States trawler with 10 men aboard, battered by a howling sou'-easter, was "more than holding its own" today in the stormy Atlantic 90 miles southeast of here.

The storm which swept over the Maritimes last night and today marooned power and communication lines and toppled trees.

After a fleet of rescue ships had been launched, messages from the trawler Mary Jane, equipped for sealing, showed that her hand and mainsail bailing crew was coming on the water pouring into her holds. The Canadian trawler St. Nicholas was standing by with deck lanterns.

It is expected other rescue vessels from Halifax would reach the distressed ship in a few hours, and attempt to tow her into Lunenburg, N. S., the nearest port.

The trawler was working three dumps in an attempt to keep afloat.

Meanwhile an inshore fishing smack, with fifteen men aboard, put into nearby Terrance Bay early today after surviving mountainous seas. R. C. A. F. search and rescue officials, who had started a search expedition, said craft was little damaged and the men were uninjured.

Communication and power line crews were busy restoring service which had cut off news wires to Cape Breton last night. This hindered reports from the Newfoundland direction. The storm hit that province today and was expected to hamper the collection of returns.

This city was littered with broken branches and fences.

The storm was today centred in the gulf of St. Lawrence just north of Prince Edward Island and was moving towards Newfoundland.

The Donallon public weather office forecast moderate to gale over the sea and gusts of 50-60 miles an hour over the the land.

Reports from New Brunswick said gales gusting to 70 miles averaged 40 miles an hour and reached 70 in gusts.

Rain and snow was falling in Newfoundland but the full force of the gale is not expected to reach the island until tomorrow. The brunt of the storm was expected to be felt in Prince Edward Island and Cape Breton later today.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 27 (CP) —Synopsis: Eastern Ontario shivers in a strong northerly flow of cold polar air this morning. Minimum temperatures ranged from five above at Killaloe to 24 above at Windsor. Wabie River, Ontario's cold spot, settled to an uncomfortable 33 below. Snow continues to fall in the lee of Lake Huron but otherwise skies are generally clear over all the forecast regions.

Tuesday will be mostly sunny throughout the province and continuing cold. Warmer air over the Great Plains region will move into southern and central Ontario during Wednesday, and temperatures will show a gradual rise.

British Troops Wear Eye Shields After Attacks

Port Said, Egypt, Nov. 27 — (CP) —British troops went about their duties in the troubled Suez Canal zone today wearing eye shields following yesterday's attacks on Britons by acid-throwing Egyptian terrorists.

Several more incidents were reported during the day from various parts of the zone, centre of the Anglo-Egyptian treaty crisis.

Terrorists armed with sten guns fired on British soldiers repairing three military telephone cables. The soldiers returned the fire and the terrorists fled. No one was injured.

At Ismailia, a British military spokesman said an Egyptian who attempted to remove a length of copper cable was killed by British guards near there today. This brought to 43 the number of Egyptians killed since the Anglo-Egyptian split Oct. 15. Nine British military personnel have lost their lives.

Police Probing Beating Suffered By Allandale Man

Allandale, Nov. 27 — (CP) — Provincial police today were investigating a beating suffered by John Campbell, 68-year-old resident of Allandale, a small town several miles north of Barrie.

Campbell told police he was attacked by a man he did not know last night as a result of a disagreement that developed in a local beer parlor. He said he had been knocked to the floor and kicked in the head and body.

Dr. Duncan Corcoran said he had no doubt Campbell's injuries were "the result of a merciless pounding."

"His skull looked like pummelled meat. No accidental fall could have caused such injuries."

Canadian Corporal Tells How Chinese Reds Baited Into Range of Mortar Fire

Western Front, Korea, Nov. 27 (Reuters)—This is how a Canadian combat patrol baits a communist ambush: Ten times its size and gets away with it. Cpl. Leo Major of Frontenac County, Que., told about it today.

"We had just got back a possible communist ambush when we run. So we edged forward—there were 15 of us.

"There we saw a large number of communist soldiers moving up single file. I'm sure there were several hundred. And they spotted us and manoeuvred to surround us.

"Well, we pulled back 20 yards and called down mortar fire. The mortar fire of its own year ago boys shiped at them constantly ments.

and they kept coming at us. We'd pull back another 20 yards each time and order more mortar fire. By the time the fifth line had started to run. So we edged forward—there were 15 of us.

COUNCIL STUDIES REPORT ON SOVIET STRIKING POWER

Russia Equips Partners With MIG-15 Jets

By STAN SWINTON

Rome, Nov. 27—(AP) — The North Atlantic Council today studied a report on increased communist striking power in Europe. It learned, among other things, that Russia is rapidly equipping her partners with Russian-built Mig-15 jet fighters—the speedy foes of United States Sabre jets in Korea.

The report was compiled by Lt.-Gen. Alfred Gruenther, chief of staff to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's supreme headquarters (SHAPE) in Paris.

Gruenther's report was put before the council side by side with Eisenhower's estimate of the forces he needs to partially counterbalance the power of Russia and her followers.

Informed sources say SHAPE believes Russia would have about 175 first-line divisions available at the beginning of the year with probably quick expansion to 200 to 220 divisions. A division's position however, is only about one-half the size of a western division.

Gruenther reported that the Russian MIG jets—already well proven in Korean air battle—are speedily replacing the piston-engined planes in satellite air forces.

Rolls Royce Engines

The MIGs are powered with an engine adapted from the British Rolls Royce Nene, some of which were sold to the Soviet Union in 1946. The Nene is the engine now concentrating on jet engines with more power compressors.

Gruenther's report is expected to be expecting to have 34 western divisions ready for combat by the end of 1953. This force would include six American divisions, seven British, French, Italian, three from Norway and Denmark, and four from Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg.

The vanguard of a Canadian brigade is already in Europe.

The distribution from West Germany is much talked about but no hint was given. Previously it was that German forces could bring the 1952 strength up to 40 divisions. The Canadian brigade would be only partly trained.

SHAPE's goal is 40 divisions by the end of 1952, 70 by the end of 1953, and 70 by the end of 1954.

Six Liberals Elected in Nfld.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 27 (CP) —Six Liberals had been elected and another was leading in only returns reported today in Newfoundland's provincial election.

The leading Liberal was Myles Mc Donnell, 57, who sat in the house in 1949 by an independent.

A storm which struck Nova Scotia last night hit the island today and as a result final returns were delayed. Returns from ago from New Brunswick's Doucher penitentiary to a British prison in West Germany.

Mr. Drew protested that there should be no punishment for a man on a responsible for the death of Canadian troops.

He received support from George Cruickshank (L, Fraser Valley), who proposed as a solution to the First (World War, against "this rat" being permitted to go home for a holiday to see the mothers mourned their murdered sons.

Cost of Airfields in Europe First Attributed to Claxton Made by Writer Says P.M.

Ottawa, Nov. 27 (CP) — The controversy over Canadian financing of bases and airfields in Europe, as announced at Rotterdam last week by Defence Minister Claxton, came up in the Commons again yesterday.

Prime Minister St. Laurent quoted in full an explanatory story by The Canadian Press of Toronto. It said the figure of $100,000,000 at first attributed to Mr. Claxton as the cost of the fields, was an estimate made by its overseas correspondent, Douglas How.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, who originally brought the matter up last Wednesday, said the figure was incidental. The report made no secret for the figure and the fact remained Canada was to foot the bill for airfields—and for barracks which had not been mentioned by the prime minister.

His original question of privilege—whether parliament was the first such public announcements first hand or in press dispatches from abroad—had been adequately dealt with by the prime minister.

Mr. St. Laurent, after quoting The Canadian Press story, said perhaps the lesson that could be learned from it was the statements even by ministers of the Crown, might be misleading in being as accurate as the expanded or backgrounded reports published by news agencies.

Mr. Drew said the way The Canadian Press story had quoted the $100,000,000 attribution, considering the way press dispatches are sometimes written, was the way in which the government makes information available to the press, would be considered a "perfectly reasonable explanation."

Canada to Foot Bill

The cost of the airfields was incidental. The fact remained Canada was to foot the bill. Previous to the airfields announcement at Rotterdam, Mr. Claxton had announced at the Hague that Canada was going to build trucks on the Soest, Germany, at a cost of $5,000,000 or $10,000,000.

Drew Demands Review Of Kurt Meyer's Sentence

Ottawa, Nov. 27 (CP)—George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, has demanded a review of Meyer's death sentence, commuted to life imprisonment, imposed on German General Kurt Meyer for the murder of Canadian prisoners of war.

"Either Meyer is guilty or he is not," Mr. Drew told the Commons yesterday.

"If he is guilty, he should receive the punishment that goes with such guilt—if he is not guilty, he should be freed."

He revived the controversial case on the basis of a dispatch by Douglas How, Canadian Press staff writer, reporting that he had some secret Meyer on temporary parole in his mother's home in Odelzhausen, Germany.

Meyer, serving a life sentence for war crimes arising from the shooting of 23 Canadian soldiers held prisoner in the Second World War, was released temporarily a year ago from New Brunswick's Dorchester penitentiary to a British prison in West Germany.

Mr. Drew protested that there should be no punishment for a man responsible for the death of Canadian troops.

He received support from George Cruickshank (L, Fraser Valley), who proposed as a solution to the First (World War, against "this rat" being permitted to go home for a holiday to see the mothers mourned their murdered sons.

Fraser Wangling New Industry For Trenton

Trenton (Special) — General freight agent H. Fraser of the Canadian National Railroad was in town the better part of yesterday in conference with Senator W. A. Fraser.

Subject of the talks was industrial matters in Trenton. He was motor reported after the C.N.R. officials left Belleville, a refrigerator car which sat on the downtown siding from noon until after tinduction of Mr. Fraser disclosed that the C.N.R. had arranged to operate a working 100 per cent with regard to locating industries in Trenton. At the same time the senator announced that the location of a large N.S. industry was discussed and its land requirements dealt with. Noteworthy part of the Fraser visit was the revelation that the railroad seemed extremely anxious that the proper manufacturers of mining and paper-making machinery would involve 25 acres. Fraser said that industry would be considered in the near future.

Senator Fraser said he had been working in direct contact with the U.S. industrial field for the past several weeks and had been assured after the meeting with the railroad's general freight agent that the Canadian National Railroad would do everything in its power to influence the industrial location here.

Mr. Fraser, however, did not hesitate to add that other Canadian cities were also interested in competing for the new plant.

FOUR COMMUNIST JETS SHOT DOWN IN FIERCE FIGHT

Ground Fighting Slows As Negotiators Battle

By JOHN RANDOLPH

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 27 (AP) — Four communist MIG-15 jets and a United States F-80 Shooting Star were shot down in two battles today in a fierce flare-up of the air war over northwestern Korea.

Two MIGs were damaged in Tuesday's double-barrelled action. The MIGs' losses are reported by the U.S. Fifth Air Force.

Ground fighting slowed almost to a standstill as truce negotiators agreed on a provisional cease fire line across the Korean peninsula as they skirmished on the next item on the armistice agenda—supervision of a truce.

The provisional line will become the cease-fire mark if negotiators agree in 30 days—by Dec. 27—on terms of a full armistice.

Sides are free to keep up the ground, air and sea fighting during the 30-day period.

It was considered a certainty that air and sea warfare would be un unabated. A full war is expected in ground action on the battle line if the truce talks bog down and materials to take new ground and have to give it up through expiration of the 30 days of an armistice.

The American Shooting Star was knocked down in the first battle Tuesday—a skirmish between 18 MIGs and eight of the slower Shooting Stars. Fifth Air Force said the pilot was killed. One MIG was damaged in that battle.

Sabres Return Safely

The four-hour battle came in the day's second fight, a clash between 18 U.S. Sabre jets and 18 MIGs. One MIG was damaged.

Fifth Air Force said all Sabres returned safely.

There was a marked decrease in the number of communist reconnaissance missions flown by allied planes Tuesday. By noon, only one strike had been called for by the infantry.

The Fifth Air Force Tuesday reported one of its most profitable daylight attacks against communist rolling stock. Pilots reported eight locomotive and 45 rail cars destroyed or damaged.

Reds on the touchy western front Monday night set off a series of explosions in the problem of supervising the armistice.

Lieut.-Gen. Matthew Ridgway, U.S. commander-in-chief of the United Nations command, presented the communists ideas first.

U.N. Plan Proposed

Then Joy presented the detailed seven-point plan of the U.N. command. It provides:

1. The armistice effective within 24 hours after an armistice is signed.

2. A supervisory organization with an equal number of allies and reds to carry out armistice terms.

3. No increase in military forces, equipment supplies or facilities.

4. Prisoner exchanges and rotation joint observation teams "shall have free access to all parts of Korea."

5. Air, naval and ground forces to remain in present positions with draw from enemy territory.

6 Armed Forces will stay out of the buffer zone.

7. The military 'commander of each side shall administer his half of the 2½-mile-wide buffer zone.

Truce Negotiators Sign Agreement On Cease-Fire Line

Widely Different Ideas How to Put it Into Effect

Munsan, Korea, Nov. 27 (AP) —Truce negotiations signed an agreement on a Korean cease-fire line today—and immediately came up with widely different ideas on how to put a cease-fire into effect.

United Nations' delegates presented a seven-point plan for supervising an Armistice. It included provision for joint allied-communist inspection teams with "free access to all parts of Korea."

The communists did not mention either inspection or supervision behind enemy lines in a five-point plan they submitted. They have consistently refused to let outsiders enter red Korea.

"The session was short and sweet," said Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, chief U.N. delegate.

We started the ball rolling by telling the communists their proposal wasn't broad enough on the general principles (for supervision). Then we gave them an idea of what we wanted." He said the communists asked for an adjournment until 11 a.m. Wednesday (9 p.m. EST Tuesday) to study the U.N. plan.

The conference, set in a Christmas-like ambiance in the area of Panmujjom, opened with a series of meetings of liaison officers—committees which had been working for more than three months, and finally by the full truce delegations.

Approve Buffer Zone

The truce teams also approved a buffer-zone agreement, making the line the same MIG was assigned.

Fifth Air Force said all Sabres returned safely.

The agreement does not halt the fighting. Agreement first on the main agenda item, other clauses—supervision of the Armistice, exchange of prisoners and recommendations to governments.

Each can be as troublesome as the cease-fire line.

Ridgway has sought to speed settlement of the remaining points by proposing that each side begin exchanging necessary data now on the exchange of prisoners.

"The reds made no reply and the truce teams recessed to study the problem of supervising the armistice.

Ruthless Cruelties of Nazis Practised By Reds Says Slovak Priest

Winnipeg, Nov. 27 (CP)—The "universal kingdom of satan" is being placed on the communist regime by a local priest who was one of the many displaced persons of the last war.

After 18 months in Canada Rev. J. Jarmus, 38, has told how a group of Slovaks who hope to build the first Slovakian church in Winnipeg. Before coming to Canada he helped to plant underground cells within communist centres centres in his homeland, Jarmus said in an interview today, and opinion under the very noses of the Russian secret police.

Father Rekem says the Russian pattern of aggression is just the same as that of the German nazis. When the reds over-ran Czechoslovakia he and his followers [illegible] very possible support to the anti-communist underground, known as the "white legion."

Father Rekem himself was thrown into a concentration camp along with 600 others accused of anti-communist activity, when the communists took over the government of Czechoslovakia. On his release, eight months later, he started writing leaflets for the anti-communist underground.

Members of the "white legion", he said, have a secret system of information on communist activity but used the Russians' own tactics against them—using machines to circulate their material. Some members obtained high posts in communist secretariats.

By 1947 however arrests were becoming commonplace and many legion workers lost their lives or were thrown into prison. Father Reken escaped into Austria the day before Russian troops invaded his home. He came to Canada after serving as a chaplain in displaced person camps in Austria.

Turnip and Corn Crops Have Not Been Harvested

Toronto, Nov. 27—(CP)—Turnip and corn crops in many parts of southern Ontario have not been harvested, the Ontario Department of Agriculture said today.

Brant, Elgin, Essex, Kent, Lambton and Oxford Counties all report sizable acreages of corn remain to be picked. Some western Ontario counties as well as most parts of southern Ontario, report turnip crops in the fields.

Most Ontario potato crops have been harvested, the report says.

Poultry raisers express disappointment in the sudden drop of price for chicken broilers.

Most farmers have good supplies of roughage and other feed.

The communist plan had no provision for either free-roaming inspection teams or a guarantee against a military build-up.

The U.N. plan called for:

1. Hostilities to end the day an armistice is signed.

2. Armed forces to withdraw from a demilitarized zone within 30 days after the armistice is signed.

3. Military forces to vacate coastal islands and seas off each others coasts within 30 days.

4. Armed forces stay out of the buffer zone.

5. Form a joint commission responsible for armistice arrangements and supervision.

WEATHERMAN SLIGHTLY OUT IN FORECAST

The weatherman was slightly out in his prognostications for today predicting a temperature of 30 degrees above zero. Instead when the mercury started to fall last night, it registered the twenty degree mark and kept falling until it reached seven degrees above zero. This is drop of 23 degrees from yesterday's maximum temperature.

Tomorrow should be a trifle more comfortable. The prediction is maximum high 30 and low 15.

Cheese Warehouse To be Officially Opened Dec. 7th

In operation since the first of September, the Ontario Farm Products Co-operative association's new cheese warehouse here will be officially opened on Friday, Dec. 7th, following the British Empire Cheese Show next week.

The Hon. Thomas A. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, will preside and will be the other government officials and agricultural heads of the province. Invitations have been extended to The Hon. James G. Gardiner.

Prior to the opening a luncheon is being held at the Masonic Temple.

The Belleville storage plant is the first of its kind in Ontario built specifically for warehousing of cheese. Dimensions are 130 by 200 feet and the building has a storage capacity of close to 80 000 boxes of cheese, all storage rooms are refrigerated.

Officers of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association are on the second floor of the building.

Nothing has been omitted at the storage that would further facilitate the handling and shipping of cheese. Loading platforms are all under cover and an electric hoist operated by a truck is used to move stock and turn it over, thus reducing manual labor to a minimum.

Value of Credit In Business Told to Rotary

"Credit—Man's Confidence in Man" was the subject of an interesting and informative address and film, presented by William F. Shade, K.C., of Napanee, Secretary of Dun and Bradstreet, to the Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon in the Quinte Hotel yesterday.

Mr. Shade was born in Moose Jaw, Sask., receiving his education in the west, in Toronto and finally at McGill University, Montreal, where he graduated with a Commerce and Finance degree. His technical assistant was Mr. K. F. Merton.

Credit, the speaker stated, is a faith or belief, confidence or trust; in short, it is confidence in the future.

He gave some interesting facts pertaining to business in this city among which he stated that 50 years ago there were less than 10,000 people and approximately 270 businesses; today there are over 24,000 people and 460 businesses. Some of those which were listed in the Dun and Bradstreet 50 years ago are still on the books, although with much higher credit ratings and in the last ten years there have been more than 270 new businesses started.

Expression of Confidence

This, in itself is an act of confidence on the part of every person dealing with business, he added. Most of these have started, not through cash alone, but through credit. This is an expression of confidence, he said.

Confidence, he continued, is not a spontaneous thought. For every business that now exists, there are many that cannot be recognized.

In conclusion, he said that credit is absolutely essential for there is not enough gold in the country to carry the economic system without it.

Mr. Shade was introduced by Don McKinnon and thanked at the conclusion of the film by Harry Gourley.

The aspirations of the Belleville Recreation Committee were presented to the club by Jack Deveau.

He explained why a mill of the tax rate should be granted the committee at the forthcoming municipal election. One of the main reasons was to create, maintain and supervise recreational facilities in the city. Mr. Devine urged the club members to cast their vote in favor of the by-law on election day or say good-bye to the recreation grounds in Belleville.

George Lanning read the financial report of the past three months hiding of the expense in the crippled children's work and the summer camps as well as various other activities.

Obituary

ERNEST JOHN BONNEY

Campbellford—A well known resident of this community, who has resided here for the past 50 years Ernest John Bonney, 83, passed away at his home after an illness of about three years.

Born in Percy Township near Baby village o' Warkworth, Mr. Bonney was the son of Thomas Bonney and Martha Marks of Warkworth, where he spent nearly half his lifetime in that district before moving to Campbellford about 50 years ago. His late beloved life wife, the former Martha Oliver, predeceased him about five years ago.

He was the last surviving member of his family. Besides his wife he had no children. Surviving are three nephews, Thomas Bonney, Richard Night of Norham; George Heiran of Warkworth; Harry Heiran of Alnwick and Mrs. W. Warner of Hastings.

Mr. Bonney was for a number of years an elder of St. John's United Church in Campbellford. Here he was always active behind his knees. He retired as elder a number of years ago. He was also a Noble Grand of the Oddfellows Lodge and received his 25 year jewel. For a number of years he was a member of the "Egg Circle," the egg grading and marketing association of this district.

Funeral services were conducted at the residence of Mr. Bonney on St. John's United Church, where Rev. Dr. R. H. Cumming officiated. The bearers were all elders of the church. They were: Messrs Sterling Chappell, Robert Campbell, Ernest Sloggett, F. B. Nelson, Howard Clark and T. J. Craighead.

MRS. JOHN QUINN (Harmsen)

After an illness of two weeks duration the death occurred on Friday of Mrs. Jane Quinn, at the home of her brother Daniel Gallagher, 21 Bleecker Avenue. Deceased who was in her eightieth year was formerly Mary Catherine Gallagher, the late Mr. and Mrs. Francis Gallagher, pioneer residents of Rawdon township. Her husband predeceased her four years ago. Born in Marmora township, Mrs. Quinn has been spent in that neighborhood. She was a member of Sacred Heart Church, Marmora. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. William Oulton and Mrs. A. Coulter, who both reside in Toronto and one brother Daniel of Marmora township, with whom she resided for the past few years.

The funeral was held on Monday morning at 9.30 from the home of her brother to Sacred Heart Church, Marmora when High Requiem Mass was celebrated by her nephew, the Rev. William Perrin of Oshawa, Ontario. The Rev. J. A. O'Neill, pastor, was also in the sanctuary.

The pall bearers were George Poresteil, E. D. O'Connor, Irwin O'Neil, Fowler Bonisteel, Bernard Maloney and John McAvoy.

Interment took place in Sacred Heart Cemetery.

LATE MRS. ANNE WILLIAMS

The funeral of the late Mrs. Anne Williams was held from the Corrigan and O'Brien Funeral Home this morning proceeding to the Holy Name of Mary Church at Marysville. Rev. M. Dempsey celebrated the Mass and also the last rites, assisted by Rev. E. Brieland, in the cemetery nearby. There was a large attendance.

The bearers were Messrs. Williams, William Walsh, Lorne McKinney, Bernard Corrigan, Clare O'Sullivan and Vince McDermott.

LATE MRS. JANE EMPEY

The funeral of the late Mrs. Jane Empey was held from the Corrigan and O'Brien Funeral Home on Monday morning to St. Michael's Church. The Mass was celebrated by Rev. L. L. Garvin, while prayers at the graveside in Codrington cemetery were said by Rev. F. Hobbs of Wooler.

The bearers were John McColl, Fred Gabourie, Fred Bruyea, Edward Bruyea, Clare Dean and Ray Turley.

community's loss in the death of Herbert Middleton. A moment's silence was observed in tribute to the former Rotarian.

Several visiting Rotarians and guests were introduced by Art Francis including Fred Seibert of Edmonton, past president of the Winnipeg Rotary, Peter Seibert and Rogers Riedel of Belleville, Paul A. Lantiff of Belleville, Vance Keith, Hadley of Trenton, Everett Ketcheson of Stirling, Earl Casey of Belleville, and Charles Spalding of Windsor, a former member of the local Rotary Club. ## Hugh Squier's Trenton Store Suffers Damage in Flash Fire

Trenton—(Special)—A flash fire believed to have started in the ceiling lighting fixtures caused considerable smoke and water damage in the Esquire Men's Shop last night. The store, in the mail street, is operated by Hugh R. Squier.

The proprietor, with his clerk Red "Crawford, were standing in front of the shop when the latter saw flames in the ceiling at the corner of his eye. Investigation revealed that flames were shooting out of the ceiling at the rear of the store. Clothing on a rack below had caught fire, by then and smoke was rolling down toward the front.

The two men dashed through the smoke to the back of the shop and started to fight the flames. Young Crawford ran to the adjoining store and fire in an attempt to get a pail filled with water in the lavatory, but found the latter being cut off when a sheet of fire shot up between the office and the water supply.

Firemen had arrived by this time and with water subdued the blaze.

The Esquire Shop is in the middle of a row of buildings, Simmons' Drug Store and Lipson's. Above the store the MacDonald Hotel has a shared large supplies of highly inflammable materials.

Lottie Niddery Is Golf Queen Of Trenton

Trenton—(Special)— A modest young woman who lives a quiet life by straight is an arrow carried in an armful of cups away from the Trenton Golf Club's annual meeting here last night.

And at that club champion Lottie Niddery has a trophy to ware than she could handle.

Miss Niddery received the following awards: Dr. J. E. Benton cup for women's club championship, Nugent weekly handicap cup, Hodge ringer score trophy and the McLean handicap cup.

Other prizewinning ladies were: Mrs. J. E. Renton, Parkes consolation cup for women and Mrs. D. Wise the Addison cup for beginners.

President of the women's section, Joyce Orser, made the presentations.

With Dr. J. E. Renton handing out the awards the following men members received honors: club championship, Dr. Benton; runner, Clarence Niddery, Pete Deduke; F.-L. E. Herbertson, J. Valchar, F.-C. Asa Truman and Col. H. L. Harris.

Country Club At Trenton Cuts Liabilities

Trenton—(Special)— Climaxing a very successful year Trenton Country Club executive held their annual meeting here last night.

Secretary-treasurer J. Gwens reported that the club's liabilities had been reduced $4,700 while assets had been increased $1,300. A great deal of new equipment for the course and clubhouse had been acquired during the season.

From golf and bowling revenue the club netted a profit of $3,421.97 for the year, W. F. Aylesworth reporting on the greens, told the meeting that the course had never been in better shape. Ladies professional Dick Charman has been employed for the new term.

Report from the membership committee showed that 407 members belong to the club. Outside members from Belleville, Brighton and Campbellford numbered 50, while R.C.A.F. members totalled 58.

H. Aziz and Ian Gardiner were complimented for their generous donation of cups for junior competition.

Before allowing the reading of reports and discussion of club business a new board of officers was elected to serve for the ensuing year: social, Ian Gardiner; bowling, J. Orrill, G. Bruce and E. Kennedy; golf R. Y. Aylesworth, A. Wilson, Col. H. L. Harris, Pete Aziz, Mrs. Renton and Dr. J. E. Renton.

TO FACE MURDER CHARGE

Hull, Que., Nov. 27 — (CP)—A coroner's jury last night found Rheal Beaudoin, 37, of Ottawa "criminally responsible" for the Nov. 10 death of his 35-year-old wife. Police immediately announced he will be charged with murder. Mrs. Bertrand was burned to death in a cabin which Beaudoin, a laundry worker who practised psychology at night, rented for a hunting trip near the village of Lake Ste. Marie, Que., 70 miles north of here.

Firm Will Reply To Criticism In Mid-December

J. Alasco, vice-president of Dominion Management Associates Ltd, Montreal, which is making an economic survey of Trenton's industrial potentialities visited Belleville today.

Making reference to a recent report in this newspaper of a council meeting in Trenton during which his firm was criticized for its method of work only, Mr. Alasco stated the criticism was unjustified.

Mr. Alasco said his firm feels it cannot enter into any public argument with the town officials at the present time, but will issue a statement of its position when the survey is completed, about December 15.

Other Charges Face Pair

Arrested over the weekend on a charge of attempting to break and enter Thrasher's Feed Mill on Coleman Street, Gordon Gough, of New Brunswick, and John Gaffney of this city will face additional charges of breaking and entering when they come to trial.

Inspector Hayes of the local police department today stated the two men had been charged with breaking and entering the Swift Co. office have been rearrested, and also entering the Belle Cleaners.

Two calculators and one adding machine stolen from the Swift Company have been recovered as have a calculator and adding machine stolen from the Stokely-VanCamp office at Trenton. The latter machines were recovered from a barn in the Read area.

The two men were arrested by police at the Thrasher Feed mill building after the alarm had been raised by a neighbor who heard the sound of breaking glass. Police Chief Gough and Detective Gaffney were arrested they were attempting to open a window at the feed mill building.

Cost Accountants Hear Talk On Industry, Unions

Matters relating to collective bargaining and its application to industry was the topic of an address heard at the regular monthly meeting of the Bay of Quinte Chapter of the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants. Speaker for the evening was Mr. R. H. Perowne, manager of the Industrial relations department of Dominion Textiles Ltd.

Mr. Perowne gave a brief review of management-labor relations of the past few years and stated the unions' wages and benefits for factory workers and stressed the open options of again increasing them has shown workers a version of "Utopia."

"All of this has created a psychological attitude in minds of those concerned," he said. "The new theme in industry is 'more pay, less work' with present groups; and the inevitable lockin and strike."

Unions Big Business

The position of the unions now is Big Business, dealing in class relationships, collectivism, the unfortunate barriers of suspicion and distrust erected through collective bargaining and negotiations have widened the gulf between the unions and the boss until now there seems to be no common ground for them to meet, the speaker said, in conclusion of management's aims. The "Right to Manage" in collective bargaining, and here the company needs the expert help of the financial executive. A union's demands are varied; seven per hour for basic rate, fringe benefits, such as pension schemes, health insurance, holidays, sick benefits, guaranteed annual wage and many other forms of increase.

"The financial controller, working with the personnel department and accounting department, must, all these various steps, may then present a true picture of facts and figures to enable the company to wisely bargain with the union."

Will Ridsdale acted as chairman for the meeting and greeted representatives of the Kingston and Peterborough chapters who were guests for the meeting. Carl Casey introduced the speaker with George Brooks expressing chapter appreciation.

One-Time Hatchet Man of Redism Has Been Fired

London, Nov. 27—(AP)—Moscow-trained Rudolf Slansky, one-time hatchet man of Czechoslovak communism, has been fired as vice-premier and arrested for "activities against the state," Prague radio announced today.

The arrest was ordered by communist president Klement Gottwald at the suggestion of Premier Alois Eliminating the announcement said. It said "investigations into activities of superstar groups" brought out facts that unveiled Slansky.

Slansky was removed from his job as secretary-general of the Czechoslovak communist party last September in a move lifted by western observers to Moscow orders to the Czech communists to tighten their ranks against inroads of "Titoism."

The announcement at that time said Slansky would "take another important state post," but did not say what it was to be.

The Czechoslovak government shake-up was believed to have been linked with growing unrest in Czechoslovakia at the rising demands of the ruling communists for greater production. Demands that the Czech economy created critical shortages and passive resistance among some workers.

An underground source reported from Czechoslovakia last month that the Slansky ouster came because the Gottis case backfired. The Czech communists imprisoned and convicted AP correspondent William N. Oatis as a "spy", sentencing him to 10 years. The trial was denounced throughout the non-communist world.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 27 (CP)—Strong mid-season support today pushed early afternoon stock market prices receding higher. Industrials opened firmly in continuation of Monday's sharp upswing.

Trading picked up slightly from the slow pace of recent sessions with increased demand for industrial leaders and low-priced mining issues. Banks was a standout as more than 175,000 shares changed hands within the first three hours.

Consolidated Smelters jumped 3% while Hudson Bay and International Nickel added fractions. Ascot, Barvue, Caronhua, East Sullivan, Falconbridge, Golden Manitou and United Asbestos strengthened.

Western oils eased from early gains. Calmont, Calvan Consolidated, Home Oil, Model Oils, Central Explorers, Souryc, Trins Empire and New British Dominion showed advances ranging to about 25 cents.

Senior golds climbed. Dome, Giant Yellowknife, Kerr Addison, Lake Shore, Malartic, Teck Hughes and Wright-Hargreaves posted gains to about 50 cents. Secondary issues strengthened.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Nov. 27 (CP)—Prices were 50 cents to $1 lower at the Ontario stockyards for the week on cows and bulls, and steady on other cattle. Receipts: Cattle 930, calves 220, hogs 620, sheep and lambs 160. The leftover from last week was 2,100 cattle.

Medium to good weighty steers sold from $33-$34.50 with a few choice selling $35.50. Common to medium light steers and heifers were $23-$32 with good heifers up to $33.50. Medium to good cows were mostly $25-$26 while canners sold downward to $15. Common bulls were $21-$25 with good bulls $26-$27. Good to choice fed yearlings sold for $34.50-$35.50. Common to medium stockers were $27-$33 with a few selling at $34.

Veal calves were steady at $36-$38 for choice and $26-$35 for common to medium. Creamers for slaughter made $18-$22.

There were no hog prices established.

Lambs were steady at $32.50 for good ewes and wethers with bucks $31.25 while culls sold from $20-$29. Medium to good sheep brought $17-$22 with culls selling downward to $10.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

Buffalo, Nov. 27—(AP)—Cattle 100; demand moderate for dairy-type cows and bulls; market steady with Monday's close; good dairy-type cows $2.00-$3.50; canners $6.00-$8.00; good dairy-type heifers $5.00-$7.00; good weighty slaughter bulls $7.00-$9.00.

Calves 100; market steady; clearance good; good and choice handyweight calves $0.00-$3.00; early sales steady to 25 cents; strongweight bobs $5.00-$9.00.

Hogs 100, demand moderate, lower; good to choice nearby hogs $6.50-$9.00; good sows $4.00-$6.50.

Ottawa Mayor Irked by Milk Price Increase

Ottawa, Nov. 27 (CP)—Protesting to Premier Frost over a proposed three-cent jump in the price of milk in Ottawa consumers, Mayor Charlotte Whitton today said the Ontario Milk Control Board plans to raise the price a cent more than Ottawa distributors had asked.

The Ottawa mayor said yesterday she had been in touch with Mayor Hiram McCallum of Toronto and they had agreed that Ottawa, Toronto and Hamilton should demand a full investigation of the milk board's findings and the milk industry.

The board has decided to boost the ceiling on a quart of milk in the province to 22 cents from 19 cents effective Dec. 1.

"Here in Ottawa," she said, "the distributors did not ask for such a hike in the price of milk, yet the milk board has given a cent more than they asked."

The distributors and producers had been content with a much lower figure than that accorded by the board, she added. No consideration had been given to consumers to medium. Consumers for slaughter made $18-$22.

There were no hog prices established.

Lambs were steady at $32.50 for good ewes and wethers with bucks $31.25 while culls sold from $20-$29. Medium to good sheep brought $17-$22 with culls selling downward to $10.

BUFFALO LIVESTOCK

Buffalo, Nov. 27—(AP)—Cattle 100; demand moderate for dairy-type cows and bulls; market steady with Monday's close; good dairy-type cows $2.00-$3.50; canners $6.00-$8.00; good dairy-type heifers $5.00-$7.00; good weighty slaughter bulls $7.00-$9.00.

Calves 100; market steady; clearance good; good and choice handyweight calves $0.00-$3.00; early sales steady to 25 cents; strongweight bobs $5.00-$9.00.

Hogs 100, demand moderate, lower; good to choice nearby hogs $6.50-$9.00; good sows $4.00-$6.50.

Broadcasters Want Annual Fee Abolished

Ottawa, Nov. 27—(CP)—Abolition of the annual $2.50 licence fee on radio-receiving sets was urged today by the Canadian Association of Broadcasters.

The association, whose membership includes 104 of the 135 privately-owned radio stations in Canada, presented a 160,000-word brief to the commons radio committee.

It recommended that:

1. The Department of Transport continue to license and police the use of the broadcasting channels.

2. A reasonable number of channels be provided for the CBC's "subsidized government service."

3. All other physically usable channels be offered to Canadian citizens for "general non-subsidized use."

4. There be a complete elimination of the radio licence fee "which is a tax on knowledge, a tax and the right to listen and therefore a serious limitation on a very fundamental right."

5. Non-subsidized, non-governmental licences of channels have security of tenure subject to compliance with the general framework of the law of the land, including equitable expropriation where the public interest may require this.

6. There be eliminated "control of news and other programs over non-CBC stations by a government agency (CBC) as at present," and that radio be made subject only to the same laws as printed publications.

7. A separate regulatory body not connected with any broadcasting system be established to control radio and television in Canada.

Murray Wants Wage Boost For Steel Workers

Pittsburgh, Nov. 27—(AP)—Philip Murray today begins negotiations which he hopes will result in a "substantial" wage boost for nearly 1,000,000 steelworkers who now average $1.97 an hour. His big problem is how to get around government wage ceilings.

In addition, Murray—president of both the C. I. O. and the United Steelworkers' Union—is meeting firm opposition from the steel industry. Top industry spokesmen say they can't afford to boost wages because materials have increased in price and profits have fallen.

In Washington, some government officials hinted that the industry might have to absorb, without price increases, any wage boosts granted steel workers up to 15 cents an hour.

Under present controls, the steelworkers are entitled to a maximum wage hike of four or five cents an hour without getting special permission. Murray has made it clear he wants much more, but hasn't spelled out his demands.

Today's opening round of negotiations (starting at 10 a. m., EST) is with U. S. Steel Corporation, the bellwether of the industry. But steel employs about 550,000 U. S. W. members. The pattern it sets usually is followed by the rest of the industry.

Before the week is out similar negotiations will open with most of the major steel companies.

Murray has 25 days to try to reach a settlement before a strike is possible. The steelworkers' contract with the industry expires at midnight, Dec. 31.

However, government officials have termed a strike "unthinkable" in the present national emergency.

Besides his demand for a substantial wage boost, Murray and his aides have drafted a 22-point demand. It calls for a guaranteed annual wage, union shop and better incentive pay plans.

HOUSE DESTROYED

Guelph, Nov. 27 — (CP) — Fire which apparently started from an overheated stove destroyed a two-storey frame house in nearby Hillsburgh Monday night and threatened to set several other buildings ablaze.

The fire, whipped by a strong wind, raged through the home of Norman Somerville, one of the oldest in the village in a matter of minutes. Mr. Somerville and his 70-year-old mother escaped.

YUGOSLAVS RAP RUSSIA

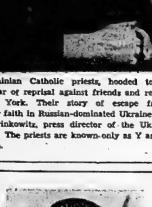
Paris, Nov. 27 — (AP)—Yugoslavia yesterday spelled out in a 23,000-word document charges that Russia and her satellites are waging an "all-round and open aggressive pressure" to destroy Marshal Tito's government. She asked that the United Nations use its moral pressure to set up mixed commissions to settle increasingly serious frontier incidents.



8. Persons engaged in broadcasting and telecasting be given full opportunity to be heard by such a regulatory board on matters directly affecting them.

9. Properly qualified Canadian citizens be permitted to provide television service immediately in any area of Canada.

BLACKMAILERS COME BACK

After the Roman conquest and occupation of the land which the Romans called Britannia, the natives, referred to by historians as ancient Britons, had no need to defend themselves. The Romans kept large numbers of their legionaries stationed in Britain to ward off trouble; no power in the world at that time was strong enough to challenge Rome successfully.

But, generations later, Rome itself was threatened by barbarians. The Roman troops in Britain were hastily summoned home. The legionaries departed, taking with them the two-edged swords which were their traditional weapons. Meanwhile, the Britons had forgotten how to fight.

About the time the Romans departed from Britain, serious trouble struck many parts of Europe accessible from the sea. Pirates from the Scandinavian peninsula and around the Baltic Sea appeared in large numbers. These pirates harried the defenceless islanders without mercy. These, who were relatively wealthy, undertook to hire immunity from the pirates by giving bribes gold.

The result was what might have been expected. Next year, the Norse pirates appeared in larger numbers than ever, demanding more money and more of everything else that was available. When their demands could not be met, they conducted orgies of looting and killing.

Eventually, the pirates and their friends took over the east land in Britain altogether and made it their permanent home. They drove the unhappy Britons into remote settlements in the mined mountainous west country. They brought their families from their homeland and became the ancestors of most of the people who live in Britain today. The real Britons disappeared as an important factor in the modern world. Their successors, the Romans became known as Angle-land, or England, from the name of the most numerous of the allied tribes which had conquered it.

All this may be ancient history and not many people today are worrying much about the conquest of the ancient Britons. But there is a lesson in the fate of these people for those who are living in these times. Here is that lesson: giving money to people who threaten to make trouble if they don't get it is like pouring gasoline on a fire; they will keep on making threats and taking the money as long as there is any money to take; then they will make the trouble anyway.

We could not begin thinking about what happened to the ancient Britons when we read a newspaper account of a speech made in New York last Saturday night by M. J. Coldwell, national leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation. Mr. Coldwell was advocating that the West (Canada and the United States) should give "economic and other aid" to Egypt and Iran to prevent Communists from assuming control of these countries.

Mr. Coldwell apparently thinks that the "the West" gives plenty of cash to the Israelites and the Egyptians; these peoples will forget about Communism and become nice, well-behaved fellows. Our guess is that, if the Iranians and Egyptians learn that they can get "economic and other aid" (i.e., money) by threatening to turn Communist, they will continue their threats as long as the money keeps coming. When the money stops coming, as it eventually must, there is no guarantee that they will behave. History suggests that they are much more likely, after they have collected all they can get by threatening, to make worse trouble.

CANADIAN FARMERS TOPS

It is worthy of note that, for the first time in 22 years, an American farmer has not won the "wheat king" title at the International Hay and Grain Show, held annually in Chicago. The new "wheat king" is Harold Metcalf, of Fairgrove, Mich.

During the last 22 years, Canadian farmers have captured the coveted "wheat king" title 21 times. Since 1919, when the International Hay and Grain Show was instituted, American farmers have won the "wheat king" title only 3 times.

But the prestige of Canadian farmers has not suffered greatly from the loss of the "wheat king" title this year. An examination of the prize list indicates that a large proportion of the prize-winning entries, if not most of them, were from Canada.

DOUBLE-SPEAKING

The pernicious practice of making one speech for the press and another for the audience is becoming more and more common in certain parts of Canada. The prepared speech and the statements made previously for the reporter's benefit often are entirely different from the speaker's real message. Yet the reporter assigned to the meeting is expected to include in his story the prepared statement which the speaker did not make.

The result, of course, would be an untrue report of the meeting. In many instances to omit certain of the speaker's statements, because he requested that they be left out, would falsify the report of the speech just as much as would the addition of statements which the speaker had never uttered. — (Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph.)

KINDNESS

We find in all our memories held
A blend of give and take,
Some tasks were done for fame and gold,
And some for friendship's sake.

The triumphs proving strength and skill
May still be self-esteem,
But later deeds of kindness will
Much more important seem.

For rich or poor, who knows that he
A friend in need has been
In his declining years will be Contented and serene.

Many Belleville residents have also noticed the robins being seen here and they go one better by stating that fish worms, snails, frogs and other creatures are crawling things are still about.

Mayor George Reid has decided to seek reelection at the coming municipal elections. He will be opposed by Ald. George O. Tice, who announced that he would be a candidate for mayor a few days ago. Mayor Reid has filled the office for the past two years.

The Belleville unemployment relief fund now totals $5,321.62.

Mr. Arthur McGie is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. Alex. Gordon spent yesterday in Peterborough where he attended a musical performance.

If the players of the Belleville intermediate hockey team are not in the pink of condition this season it will not be the fault of Jimmie Hay, who is their trainer. Among those who have turned out for training are the following: Vern Wels, Bouncer Holway, Daw Whalen, Gunner Ansell, Percy Noland, Soup George and Al. Swayze. A part of the workout is a run at the Hatchmer Institute and return after which the boys swim at the Y.M.C.A. and have a brisk rub down.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Whyte after spending a few days in Portland, Oregon, have returned to their home on Coleman Street. A number of their old friends called on them recently and presented them with a liberal supply of canned fruit.

The school shed for the Canadian Northern Railway is completed and two freight cars with goods for the city have arrived over the line. In the near future freight trains will be arriving daily.

Messrs. Thomas Thomson and D. D. Clarke have been appointed city auditors at a yearly salary of $300.00.

A new bridge is to be built at Frankford at an estimated cost of $20,000.

Mr. J. S. McKeown is in Toronto on business.

Mr. Charles O. Bunnett, son of Mr. Ed. Bunnett, will leave shortly for Kindersley, Sask., where he has accepted a position.

Municipal reform is a popular cry in the city and a meeting of influential citizens was held in the rooms of the Conservative Club at which it was decided to place carefully selected candidates in the field for election as aldermen at the coming municipal election. W. C. Mikel occupied the chair and the following were among those present: W. B. Lewis, J. J. Thomson, W. B. Deacon, J. A. McFee, Silas B. Lazier, Silas Wiley, J. W. London, T. Blackburn, Ed. Lear, George Walbridge, Charles F. Allen, A. J. McCrodan, Charles Clapp, Harry Bryant, Arthur B. Wallbridge, John Fenn, J. F. Wills, G. W. Bennett, Fred D. Diamond, Rev. Dr. Galbraith, R. H. McKeown and Ald. Panter. The opinion of the meeting was that the affairs of the city could be much better managed, and the following were appointed a committee to call on certain citizens and request them to offer themselves for election, backed by the support of citizens in favor of municipal reform: J. Cummins, J. A. McFee, W. B. Deacon, W. C. Mikel, Charles F. Clarke and J. W. London.

FROM ALL OVER

Well we have all sorts of interesting goodies in the mail today from town and country and even one from Nice which is down on the French Riviera and where we would all rather be.

* * *

The one from the country is from R. Wellington Reid and he says some pretty harsh things about White Leghorns, the subject chosen in my heart and wallet at the moment.

"I have to dampen your ardor," says Walter, dampening it, "but by now you will have noticed that the Leghorns are lousy little scarers. Flighties hen ever hatched out of an egg. They are afraid of their own shadow and any little noise or movement will set them off squawking and flying blindly around.

"But a New Hampshire or Rhode Island Red—now, there's a hen with plenty of gumption. You can walk in among a flock of them and they will walk all over you but their calm assurance will make you have for them."

Look, Walter, I've raised fewer birds I would have got eagles. It took me a long time to get nerve enough to buy six dozen of the White Leghorns and I have no intention of blotting it out with any Rhode Island Red, I'll tell you.

* * *

The letter from Nice is from a woman who does not want her name used. I can't imagine why not, but that is pleasant note and the boy in Prince George who gets my exotic stamps will be happy with these, to Baudelaire, the other a Rimbaud.

"Since you like to bring little stories from other lands, I'm going to people in their travels, here's what happened to us the other day at the market in Nice.

"One fine afternoon we parked our Hillman Minx in a row of cars on the Quai Church in a very lovely part of the city. We did not have far walking to the Quai, after a long promenade through Rue Faubourg St. Honore we returned to the car and on the windshield which read as follows:

"Please observe traffic signals. The light on the lamp post in front of your car means "No Parking." No summons this time. / Yours, 10278, assistant Chief Inspector."

"It seemed to us a most friendly attitude," the lady writes, "especially since, having observed our license plates, the officer had written it in English."

From Nice and Paris we go now to New York and the office of one Lolita Brown who speaks for the editors of Times Magazine.

Recently in this pillar, I wrote as my opinion that Time was one of the minor forces of war because of its peculiar way of interpreting the news. A Miss S. A. Sinclair sent this column to Time, since it copyrighted the material and back came the defense from Timothy Foote, Editor and Author.

"Mr. Scott makes some sweeping generalizations about news reporting which sub-set, we feel, the indisputable truths he holds them to be.

"He says, for example, that all newsmen from cub to intelligent publisher hold that news is an impartial account of events. Do all newsmen agree on this point?

"Christian Science Monitor Editor Erwin D. Canham, in an article on newspaper problems, recently wrote, 'Mere skill to print news will not suffice for a modern newspaper. Newspapers must tell the meaning of the news.' This is a very bit of useful tissue from the throat—that we should comprehend.

The attempt to remove the entire tonsil, I say, it is only an amputation, and it usually is not done successful. In the majority of cases more or less part of the tissue remains in the throat after radical tonsillectomy, no matter who conducts the operation. Recently, I say, How any doctor or specialist can regard surgical procedure as successful when the atrocious, when the patient has irreparable damage done to more than I can understand, unless it be that the doctor or specialist is not conversant with therapeutic developments.

I have also received material the reader that her "rheumatoid condition" will clear up if she gets rid of her tonsils. Needless to say, I am not qualified to express an opinion, however, it is impartial or it is suspect.

Which is always suspect, in my opinion, because it uses the facts to prove a conclusion—as, for example, the Chicago Tribune Presidence Peace Treaty conference to "prove" that the west had secured a victory when, in fact, many thinking men believe it was a degrading defeat.

A final note from a Mrs. J. R. Ivett, Belleville, who writes, "especially since, having observed our license plates, the officer had written it in English."

Congress of United States Orders Many Tax Reductions

(Minneapolis Morning Tribune)

If you look closely at the public utilities bill there is a tax charge that went into effect Nov. 11 you'll notice that some of the new rates are lower than the old ones. If you're in the market for a football, an electric heating pad, a vacuum cleaner, or a ticket to a civic concert, you can now save your hard earnings.

The markdowns are not typographical errors. The 82nd Congress authorized them.

Strange as it may seem, the bill intended to raise 3.2 billion dollars additional tax revenue also deals out tax relief to the tune of about three quarters or a billion dollars.

Five items account for most of the relief:

One is the exemption from capital gains taxation of profits realized on the sale of homes when the owner is simply switching from one residence to another. This will save taxpayers $112,000,000 in lost revenue.

A second is repeal of the 3½ per cent tax on sale of electricity. This tax was passed on to the consumer and, in most cases, also, as a matter what his income. Its abolition saves users of electricity $104,000,000.

A third liberalizes "depletion allowances" in tax returns of oil and mining companies. This takes cognizance of the fact that oil and minerals are irreplaceable treasures from the earth and that to stay in business a company has to discover new deposits to replace the new deposits. Estimated loss of revenue: $100,000,000.

A fourth law involves adjustments in the excess profits tax to permit certain corporations to save $120,000,000.

The fifth liberalizes taxation of family partnerships. Income is divided equally among the partners, thus pulling each share into a lower tax bracket. Estimated loss of revenue: $100,000,000.

In addition relief is provided taxpayers and coal mine owners by defining breeding livestock and timber as capital assets rather than as stock in trade.

THE PACKSACK
By GREGORY CLARK

In the days of big hats among the ladies, hats requiring hat-pins that were ten inches long, there were seldom cases of the fair sex being molested or disturbed by males. A lady with a ten inch hat-pin was more dangerous than a porcupine.

When, I was a boy, we had a school teacher who was famous among us for having stuck a hat-pin into a marauder who tried to snatch her purse. She really stuck it in; for the rascal developed peritonitis from the jab and very nearly died. As I recall it, no action was taken against the lady, since hat-pins could not legally be defined as offensive weapons.

There are still modest-sized hat-pins to be seen nowadays, and for all we can tell, they serve as deterrents to offensive males. The law does not allow girls to carry pistols, knives or brass knuckles; but there is nothing to prevent a girl carrying a good long steel pin, with a fancy bead or knob on it for a grip. Ir she wears it in her lapel, having no hat, what is the law? Also, is it legal to carry a hat-pin in the expectation of wearing a hat? We have always been embarrassed by the ladies. It doubtless still is.

To the male mind, a long hat-pin is a peculiarly intimidating weapon. Toughs who have no fear of blows will evidently be thought of being jabbed with a pin. The point of this is the modernist needle. How often do you see great big men faint, in an army inoculation line-up, at the mere proximity of the nasty little syringe?

Whenever the fair sex becomes disturbed by an outbreak of molestation, all they have to do is buy hats that need hat-pins, or wear a hat-pin in the lapel, and deterrents to offensive males. Detect the baleful eye of the drunk by the molester on them. The baleful eye will be hastily averted. Men have a deep, instinctive horror of needles and pins.

CONSERVATIVE TREATMENT FOR INFECTED TONSILS

Reader who says she is 42 mentions recent medical history (1) secondary anemia, (3). tonsillitis as streptococcic sore throat cause (2), rheumatoid condition, (4) several months ago a bladder infection. In each instance the doctor has urged her to have her tonsils removed. One doctor assured her that her "rheumatoid condition" will clear up if she gets rid of her infected tonsils. All of her ills, the doctors say, are due to the infected tonsils.

Well?

The reader told the doctor she is afraid to have her tonsils removed. The doctor assured her there is no danger in her case. Why not? Because she is thin. She says she doesn't get it. Neither do I—but then, that's only one of many strange things about radical tonsillectomy — the attempt to remove every bit of useful tissue from the throat—that we should comprehend.

The attempt to remove the entire tonsil, I say, it is only an amputation, and it usually is not done successful. In the majority of cases more or less part of the tissue remains in the throat after radical tonsillectomy, no matter who conducts the operation. In Rotterdam, Holland, General Eisenhower received the first Canadian troops to arrive in Europe under the North Atlantic treaty. Welcoming the contingent, General Eisenhower said Canada was not only contributing to defence of Europe with product of factories, but had now sent troops to the area where there is danger." The general took the salute as the Canadians marched before leaving for Hanover in five special trains. — Central Press Canadian.

Iran Will Sell To Soviet if West Will Not Buy

Tehran, Nov. 27—(Reuters) — Iran will sell her oil to the Soviet bloc if the west will not buy it, Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's right-hand man, Hussein Fatemi said today.

Fatemi accompanied Mossadegh, so his unsuccessful trip to the United States to try to get oil contracts.

In a statement, Fatemi said Mossadegh is willing to make a personal appearance before the world court at The Hague when it hears Britain's case against Iran for nationalizing the formerly British-owned oilfields.

A petition challenging the competence of the court is being prepared here, he said.

The court has not yet given a decision on its competence to deal with the case, made out May 26, though it has ordered a freeze in nationalization until the issue is decided.

Meanwhile, fighting broke out again today in Tehran's schools when 500 police pulled up in patrol wagons to arrest students suspected of taking part in last night's clashes which injured 100 persons.

Students poured out of the schools in thousands to grapple with the officers. Some of them shouted "down with Mossadegh" and others: "long live Mossadegh."

Total injured and arrested was not disclosed.

Last night's fighting, which resulted in the resignation of Gen. Mansour Moazyeni, Tehran's police chief, started when police struggled with Nurbakhsh, Girls' high school students who struck in sympathy with seven girls expelled for communist activities.

Albert College boys joined the men who were doused from fire hoses.

TEACHER DEPORTED

Chicago, Nov. 27 — (AP) — A Canadian school teacher and his paramour, ordered deported Nov. 19, will leave Chicago for Toronto today.

They are Alfred P. Greene, 39, former Toronto high school teacher, and Mrs. Beatrice Reason, 32, who had been living with Greene at St. Louis, Mo., since shortly after their disappearance from Toronto Aug. 9, 1950.

At the deportation hearing in Chicago, Greene said he left his wife and four children because it was hard to support them on his $60-a-week salary.

Police Seeking Two Workers For Questioning

Matheson, Ont., Nov. 27—(CP) —Police today sought two construction workers believed to have supplied liquor to 4 teenagers prior to the death of two of the young persons in an old automobile near here Sunday.

They also checked the possibility the group visited a bootlegger in the nearby Kenogami-Ramore district.

Three men held as material witnesses in the death of Viola Durham, 18, and Robert Ford, 17, were released yesterday after police took written statements from them. The men, all from east northern Ontario sawmills-mining district, are Howard MacIntyre, 28, Harold Dillman, 34; and Roy Peltier, 25.

Barbara Smith, whose age was first reported at 14 but who said yesterday she is 17, told police she and Miss Durham, Ford and another youth, Carlyle Wilson, were given liquor in a Ramore restaurant by two men who said they were employed on a construction project.

Wilson, ill from taking the substance blamed for the death of Miss Durham and Ford, is recovering.

Coroner W. J. Grummett said last night Dr. William A. Burr, Toronto pathologist, will conduct an autopsy on the bodies Tuesday.

REFUSE TO HANDLE CARGO

New York, Nov. 27 (AP) — CIO cargo handlers refused last night to unload a 16-bale shipment of furs they believed to be Russian which arrived from London on a Pan American World Airways plane. A spokesman for the Transport Workers' Union said the shipment, in unmarked burlap bags, resembled earlier ones of Russian furs that were similarly boycotted. President Truman has banned the importing of luxury furs from Russia.

FINED BY COURT

At the deportation hearing in Chicago, Greene said he left his wife and four children because it was hard to support them on his $60-a-week salary.

Peel County Votes To Repeal Canada Temperance Act

Brampton, Ont., Nov. 27—(CP) —Peel County voted yesterday to repeal the Canada Temperance Act.

Thus it comes under provisions of the Ontario Liquor Control Act.

Returns from 77 of the 84 polls were: for revocation of the Canada Temperance Act, 11,141; against, 8,553.

Officials said liquor stores and beer-wine warehouses can be opened immediately in Toronto Township, Toronto Gore Township, Streetsville and Port Credit.

The rest of the county immediately to the west and north-west of Toronto is under local municipal option and another vote will be required before liquor outlets can be established elsewhere.

Under the Canada Temperance Act it is illegal to sell beer or liquor; to keep them for sale, or to transport them into the county for personal use. But the act contains no provision for prohibiting drinking in public places or prosecuting for drunkenness.

The C. T. A. came into force in Peel County early in 1915. An effort to have it evoked in 1947 was defeated by 357 votes.

Within a few months of the 1947 vote, the provincial government passed an amendment to the Liquor Control Act which made it inactive in areas—the counties of Peel, Perth, Huron and Manitoulin Island—where the older C. T. A. applied.

Now only Huron and Perth remain under the C. T. A.

DREW DEMANDS

by prisoners are permitted to visit their homes from time to time.

The question now arose, Mr. Drew suggested, as to whether the department should have the full authority to Meyer to visit his home at regular intervals in this way.

Mr. Campney noted that the National Defence Act sets out that prisoners undergoing punishment within its provisions shall be dealt with in the same manner as other inmates in their place of confinement.

The department had made inquiries as to the rules at Werl prison in Germany, where Meyer now is being detained, and would pass the information as soon as it was obtained.

Mr. Drew said the circumstances of the Meyer case are "very harrowing" to many Canadian families. He was either guilty or he was not guilty. There should be "no intermediate stage". Extenuation here.

He expressed surprise that the government had sent Meyer to a prison whose rules it did not know. If he was to get the same treatment as others, Mr. Drew wondered whether he would be released if the British government decided to grant a general amnesty to others imprisoned with him.

"Most certainly, if there was one man above all others who should be the appropriate restraint for life—if that is the penalty it is the man who was responsible for the death of young Canadians, and most probably though should be no easy treatment for a man who is guilty of that offence, and guilty under the circumstances that were accepted as evidence at the trial."

Mr. Pickersgill said that if Meyer was found guilty of murdering Canadians, then by no stretch of the imagination, so far as I am concerned, should he be permitted to spend a weekend visiting his wife, anybody else's wife, or anyone else.

Julian Ferguson (PC-Simcoe North), who also served overseas in the First World War, said that young Canadians had been taken prisoner "and murdered by a man who was given a sentence that the people of Canada did not believe was quite long enough."

"It is a crime and it is a slur on the people of Canada who fought in the last war—to think that our government would permit this to happen."

TRY TO SAVE DEER

Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 27. (AP) —Medical science and loving care were used unsparingly today in a fight to save the life of a pet Japanese deer—an expectant mother—which was felled by a hunter's bullet. One neighborhood youngster slept with "Lambie's" last night to keep it warm and calm. She's had penicillin, tetanus shots and a blood transfusion. "Lambie's" fawn is expected about Christmas Day.

WANTS PLANE REMOVED

Oklahoma City, Nov. 27 (AP) — Mrs. Joseph Wullich wants the man who left an airplane in her back yard to take it away. The plane landed Saturday and its pilot, carrying a rifle, walked away without so much as a good morning to Mrs. Wullich. She learned later that he explained to a neighbor he was here on a hunting trip and became lost.

Floods Create "Dead Cities"

This airview of the city of Adria graphically illustrates how destructive floods have completely inundated the entire city, causing death and forcing thousands of inhabitants to flee for their lives. Once a city of 25,000, it has now become a "dead city." The Italian government has clamped down a censorship on the death toll figures. Hundreds of thousands of acres of rich farmland are still under water throughout the district. — Central Press Canadian.

U.S. Dollars Waiting as Winter Fishing Starts on Manitoba Lakes

Winnipeg, Nov. 27—(CP)—By sites, especially the whitefish tractor train, railway, truck and worm which lower grades and aircraft, thousands of pounds of prolific, a sudden freeze-up on the fish are moving from Manitoba's lakes this fall smashes boats and frozen lakes as the 1951 winter nets and endangered lives. season gets under way.

For the last three weeks commercial fishermen using heavy nets have been dragging in 13 species of fish including the aristocratic whitefish, goldeye, pickerel, tree whitefish and a meeny-maker called saugeye.

With the fish come millions of potential United States dollars.

Since 1882, when the steamer Lady Ellen first cast out in Lake Winnipeg, 90 per cent of the province's fish catch has gone to America, consumers. With no restricting tariffs, with high prices and strong demand, Manitoba freshwater fishermen have found American markets wide open.

Production of fish in Manitoba averages 25,000,000 to 30,000,000 pounds a year with an all-time record of 40,000,000 pounds. In the 1949-50 season, production was more than 29,000,000 pounds with a market value of almost $5,000,000. Figures for last season have not been released.

Prospects for the 1951-52 season are excellent and may establish a record. Fisheries officials estimate 7,500,000 pounds of fish were taken from Manitoba lakes and rivers in the six week fall season alone.

Host of Obstacles

Principal waters fished are Lakes Winnipeg, Winnipegosis and Manitoba. Northern Manitoba contains 60-odd smaller lakes, many of them fished commercially for the first time last year.

Fishermen have to contend with a host of obstacles that make the business risky. There are para-

Urgent Need For Large Reserve Of Blood Plasma

Toronto, Nov. 27—(CP)—Vernon Hale, newly-appointed president of the Red Cross National Blood Donors Committee, today said there is urgent need for large reserves stocks of blood plasma.

In an address prepared for delivery at the semi-annual meeting of the society's central council, he said that in view of the continued unsettled international situation, "plasma stores must be made adequate for any emergency and this means still larger panels of blood donors and a further increase in blood donations."

The Red Cross had already supplied more than 5,000 bottles of plasma to the national defence department for use in the armed forces both in Korea and at home. At the same time more than 53,000 hospital patients had benefitted from the society's free civilian blood transfusion service.

The Canadian Junior Red Cross Society, continuing its help to needy children in other lands, during the summer shipped overseas 142,220 in aid. The juniors have a membership of 2900, 946 in 33,503 school room branches.

The Red Cross disaster service assisted 2,719 victims of 355 disasters all over Canada in the first six months of 1951. Nine or three disasters were of the major nature affecting a whole area of countryside.

New Health Tests Show One in Four Has Danger Signs

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

New York, Nov. 27 (AP) — A new survey here disclosed that in a multi-test clinic conducted in Richmond, Va., four in every four persons found something wrong with their health. Most of them had not previously suspected anything was wrong.

The ratio of 25 per cent with danger signals, established in a screening of 40,000 persons over a period of seven months, may well apply to people in other areas.

The main findings were high blood pressure, anemia, overweight and underweight, eye troubles, too much sugar in the urine, tuberculosis and heart trouble, in that order.

The multi-test clinic checks people for two to 10 or more chronic illnesses at a time, in a 10 to 15 minute series of tests. The idea is new but is spreading rapidly. Multi-test clinics, giving a few or many tests, have been staged so far in cities and states from California to Massachusetts.

This kind of clinic doesn't diagnose diseases. It gives blood tests, X-rays and other tests to spot people who may have something wrong. The results are referred to the person's own physician, who then can give the real verdict and any needed treatments. The purpose is to catch chronic diseases early, when they are most easily curable or controlled.

To learn how effective the multi-test clinic is, and to find facts to guide health officials elsewhere, the Richmond Clinic was studied by the Health Information Foundation, an organization that gathers and distributes basic information about health. Sperry Treatment

To many of the 10,000, the report of possible trouble was really news. Having suspicions that something might be wrong apparently wasn't a main factor, or even a very strong influence, in making people visit the clinic.

The clinic experience apparently encouraged many people to see doctors. Some 15 per cent went to doctors they had never visited before. About two-thirds of the visitors later saw doctors or attended other clinics for health checkups. This, said the foundation, may mean the multi-test clinic helps make people more health conscious.

The location of the clinic is important, the survey finds. About half of the time, the clinic was located in downtown department stores, and a high percentage of visitors then were women shoppers. By trailer, the clinic visited factories, companies, colleges, and other institutions.

Doctors interviewed were described about whether the clinic was effective medically. Some were concerned that a negative report on the clinic tests might lead people to think they didn't have any kind of ailments at all.

Some Facts Regarding Christian Science

Christian Science is Christianity. It is based on the teachings of Jesus as recorded in the Bible.

Christian Science is scientific. Spiritually logical and unfailingly consistent, its prayers affirm and demonstrate man's true nature to be in accordance with God's perfection.

Christian Science is demonstrable. It supplies the needed answers and the needed evidence to the sincere seeker. A thoughtful study of the Christian Science textbook

SCIENCE and HEALTH
WITH KEY TO THE SCRIPTURES
by Mary Baker Eddy

gives convincing assurance that this great Science of Christ is indeed the Comforter promised by Jesus.

WEDDINGS

ORMOND—McKAY

A pretty, but quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday, November 24th, at 4:30 p.m., in the parsonage of Bridge Street United church, when Rev. Wm. Severend Duncan McDavid, united in marriage, Grace Alfreda McKay, of Belleville, and Mr. Mar, and Mrs. Alfred McKay, to Ronald George Ormond, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. William George Ormond.

The bride was becomingly attired in a deep blue gown of taffeta, brocaded in silver, fashioned with molded bodice having elbow length sleeves / and "V" neckline. The skirt of ankle length and gracefully full. She wore a matching velvet hat and corsage of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Alfred Aitkens, of Belleville, attended the bride, wearing a street length dress of green, with matching hat and corsage of American Beauty roses.

Mr. Wm. Aitkens attended the bridegroom.

The ceremony was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aitkens, where the bridegroom's mother, wearied the corge with black matching wine colored hat, received the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Ormond will reside in Belleville.

C.G.I.T. Vesper Service To Be Held In Bridge St. Church

As Christmas season draws near, Canadian Girls in Training from one end of this great dominion to the other, are making plans for their annual Vesper Services.

The Vesper Service program has been prepared by the National Canadian Girls in Training committee. This committee is made up of representatives of each denominations and its function is to plan national policy and program for the C. G. I. T. movement.

The offering which is received at the Vesper Service is used to pay the expenses of the National Girls' Work secretary.

Same Service

In many villages with only one small group of C. G. I. T. girls, or in larger centres where a number of groups may unite the service is the same. The girls themselves conduct the worship, usher, receive the offering and serve as choir. Many adults who look forward to this annual Vesper Service think it is one of the most impressive of the Christmas church services.

In Belleville, this year, the C. G. I. T. groups of the city are uniting to present the Vesper Service in Bridge St. Church at the evening service on December 9th. The parents and friends of Canadian Girls in Training will wish to be present with the girls at this lovely service.

Miss E. Bothwell Visits Quintena Lodge

Last Tuesday evening Quintena Rebekah lodge No. 133 was honored by a visit from Miss Emma Bothwell, of Ottawa, warden of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario.

In the evening a banquet was held, under the convenership of Mrs. Annie Rose and Mrs. Beatrice Kerr, in the upper hall at the Oddfellows' Temple.

The banquet tables were prettily arranged with purple and yellow blooms with contrasting pink and green tapers centring the well-laden boards of delicious fare.

The regular lodge meeting opened with a drill, meeting the officers, after which the assembly warden, Miss Bothwell, was introduced by Junior P.N.G., Mrs. M. Large the D.D.P. Mrs. Phyllis Burley was introduced by P.N.G. Mrs. S. Mitchell.

The Acting Noble Grand, Miss Helen Miller, graciously welcomed both assembly officers, after which they were escorted through a guard of honor and seated on the platform.

52,000 Members

At the close of the regular business, Miss Bothwell gave an address on the founding and progress of the Rebekah degree, enjoyed by all the members. This is the Centennial year of the order and Miss Bothwell pointed out the good work which had been accomplished in that time and its members live up to the charges of the Rebekah degree. The membership of the order has now reached the grand total of approximately 52,000 members.

The active Vice Grand, Mrs. Al. Cooper, Recording Sec. and Jr. P.N.G. Mrs. M. Large presented a gift to Miss Bothwell, who expressed her appreciation in a few words.

Miss Burley, D.D.P., gave a short address and was presented with a gift from the lodge by Mrs. L. Reino and Mrs. V. Oliphant. She was also the recipient of a gift from the installed staff presented by Mrs. R. Mitchell and Mrs. A. Rose, to which Mrs. Burley made appreciative reply.

Flag Presented

A colorful ceremony took place when the members of the Four Square Club presented Quintena Lodge with a beautiful Rebekah flag, the members of the club acting as a guard of honor while the flag was carried to the centre of the floor by a past president of the club, Mrs. Annie Webb.

The president, Mrs. Vera Wyrcod and vice-president Mrs. Zella White, acted as escorts for the flag. Mrs. Mary Plimpton made the presentation to the Assembly Warden who dedicated the flag and presented it to the lodge.

An appropriate rendition of a solo, especially composed for the occasion was given by Mrs. Dorothy Webb, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Dorothy Hayes, P.N.G.

Following the close of the meeting, the members and visitors retired to the banquet hall where refreshments were served under the convenership of Mrs. Vera Wyrcott and Mrs. Orris Adams.

Much appreciation was tendered the club in the accomplishment of such a fine project.

Are You a Rangette Operator?

By MARY MOORE

The operation of a plug-in rangette would even tax the ingenuity of the man who invented the thing, I suppose a man invented it. No woman would ever spend her precious time on such a baffling gadget.

Imagine! When the oven is lit you can't cook on the surface burner, or if the surface burners are being used you can't turn on the oven. Why it's enough to drive a woman to canned heat.

Business is good in this column though, for already I have received another request — this time from one of the members of the newspaper staff. She wants to know how to make dinner look like dinner even when it is cooked after she gets home from the office — on a rangette.

Since I invited you to ask questions, and said I would try to answer them I had better come through on this one.

Actually all one has to work with on a rangette is one surface element turned on full or the oven alone.

Rangette Dinners for Two

The secret is to make your preliminary preparations after dinner one night, for dinner the following evening. I did this for years so it is no untried theory.

My questioner did not stipulate economy — strange as that may seem.

Casserole Dinners—

(1) Make up Somerville Meat Loaf (below) and shape it into an oblong and place in centre of greased baking dish. Surround with chunks of carrot and quartered potatoes, and if possible one or 4 peeled onions. This requires from 50 to 60 minutes at 400 deg. Fahr.

SOMERVILLE MEAT LOAF

(These quantities are sufficient for two meals as this is delicious sliced cold.) One and one - half lbs. lean beef and 1 oz. ground suet or 1½ lbs. hamburg, 1 grated onion, 2 cups soft bread crumbs, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 eggs, 3 tablespoons horseradish, ½ teaspoon dry mustard, if on hand 2 tablespoons finely chopped green pepper, 2 tablespoons Worcestershire Sauce and 1-3 cup catsup. Mix all ingredients but catsup. Shape into loaf and pour catsup over. Bake as directed above.

Casserole Dinner No. 2—

Baked Liver and Onions: Saute 3-4 lb. sliced beef liver, which has been dredged with flour, salt and pepper in 2 tablespoons hot butter or margarine until lightly golden on both sides. Transfer to baking dish. Rinse out the frying pan with ½ cup water and pour this over the liver. Add 6 small cooking onions and 2 potatoes cut in quarters — both of which vegetables have been parboiled for 15 minutes the night before. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cover and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes.

Both of the above dishes may be prepared and put into the casserole and kept in refrigerator until ready to bake.

Double Boiler Dinners—

Chicken Hollandaise is made in the top of double boiler while under it cooks a small broken up cauliflower.

CHICKEN HOLLANDAISE:

(This should be clipped for your file — it is a peach): Cook gently together 1¼ tablespoons butter or margarine and 1 tea-

Mrs. L. Gooch, of George Street was hostess to the Women's Evening Auxiliary for the November meeting.

"The Lord's Kingdom," was the theme of the devotional period by Mrs. W. Cowles.

During the lengthy business meeting, Mrs. Irvine, the president, read the new slate of officers for 1952 which is as follows: president, Mrs. W. Cowles; vice president, Mrs. R. Shane; secretary, Miss E. Horton; treasurer, Mrs. W. Dougherty; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Yunn; press reporter, Mrs. C. Bailey; Christian stewardship, Mrs. Miller; temperance, Mrs. Lockyer; associate helper, Mrs. J. Irvine; community friendship, Mrs. Matthews; supplies, Mrs. Johnston; birthday box, Mrs. Matthews; pianist, Miss Horton; telephone, Mrs. Eakins and Mrs. Pettifor.

Have Prayer Needed

Mrs. Lockyer gave a short address on "Temperance" and "Eligible Girls of Year," followed by an inspiring account of Dr. Hollingshead's address she gave recently at Shannonville. Mrs. Lockyer also told true stories of Incidents she experienced in India and it was strongly stressed that the ministeries needed not only more missionaries and money,, but prayer as well, that the Christians back home to help them in their great mission.

Mrs. Miller was in charge of the study period, and gave a good account of her Christian work in finding its way into many distant and remote districts in this country by books, radios and ministers for a few months each year.

At the close of the meeting, Mrs. J. Carlisle who was until recently a member of the W.E.A., was presented with a wedding gift from the group by Mrs. Irvine.

This was followed by refreshments served by Mrs. Nunn and Mrs. Shane.

Nurse Lack Hits Other Countries Besides Canada

Toronto (CP) — Canada isn't the only country with a shortage of trained nurses.

Turkey has enough hospitals but not enough nurses. Syria needs more public health nurses.

Egypt is short of general nursing staff and Norway, despite improvement since the war, still needs more nurses.

This was the report given by four nurses from these different countries who now are taking post-graduate work at the University of Toronto. They are part of a group of 13 nurses from many foreign lands in the country now as sponsored by the world health organization of the United Nations.

Turkish Women Free

Lebide Erizna of Istanbul, said that women in her country were educated in the same manner as many other professions when the veil was abolished in 1923. The first medical school was built in 1925 by the Red Crescent — the Turkish equivalent of the Red Cross, and 800 nurses have been graduated since then.

"We have lots of hospitals in Turkey," she says, "but not enough nurses. We are trying to encourage more young women to go into the profession.

Hatifa Kandyi of Damascus intends to go back to her home in Syria to train nurses in public health, nursing and midwifery school. She said that only about 50 nurses are in Syria now and are trained in Syrian hospitals.

Health Work Necessary

"Public health is very necessary now with all the refugees coming in," she said.

Egyptian women like nursing, said Sofia Hanna, of Cairo, but few schools have enough staff. Nurses in Egypt take a five-year course, the fifth year being devoted to midwifery.

Randi Barlindhaugh, of Bodo Hospital, Norway, told of her hospital that is financed jointly by the Norwegian Women's Health Association and the government.

Women in Norway have also set up a school for administration, sociology and nurse education, operated by the Norwegian Nurses' Association and financed with government health.

Good Manners Count When Dining Out

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

With the "most" season about to begin here's a tip for he who will be dining with the bulging with friends—keep your food fancies to yourself.

The general who got the most repeat invitations usually is one who eats everything put before him—and behaves as if it were ambrosia to his palate.

Unless a serious condition makes it necessary, leave your diet chart at home. Nobody cares with a strange food don't turn up your nose and say you don't want any. Try it. Who knows—it may be your favorite dish.

Experience taught one woman the truth of this. Not long ago while dining with friends conversation turned to food and milady proceeded to discuss her favorite dishes, particularly noting that she is a bear more all-Canadian with-curry in it. She just couldn't eat anything with curry, she said. The woman continued to eat every bit of a delicious salad set before her. Several times she told her friends how much she was enjoying it.

You're right. It was curried chicken.

Food Flights

Food connoisseurs say it's an exciting adventure to discover new tastes. A well-known food authority says that if there are more good cooks in France than in England, it is solely because there are more persons who take an intelligent interest in what they eat and drink, whose taste in more highly trained, and whose critical appreciation is more articulate.

Possibly the same could be said of Canada. So know—maybe if more people began seeking new tastes, Canada might be able to boast more all-Canadian dishes.

Incidentally, they might find their food bills dropping. For instance, there are a lot of foods,

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Problem with a Hopeful Outlook

So many people write me about problems which seem to have no clear solution. Here's a happy day when I get a letter about a problem that seems to have just one outstanding answer, and that a hopeful one.

Here's the let'er — and the solution — which makes today cheerful:

"My wife and I were married seven years ago. I am 27 and she is 25. We have three children, two girls, six and a half years and four months old, and one boy, five.

"We were quite happy until a year and a half ago, when she went to work to help pay the bills. I worked days and she worked nights. One day I found out through a girl friend of hers that she was seeing another man. I tried to see if she was the sandle, and she admitted it. She said she didn't get a divorce. Of course you realize this was in a fit of anger. Well, she got the divorce.

"Now the truth is, that I love my wife very much and she loves me. But we both have too much pride that neither of us would admit it. I'm afraid I've failed to forget my love for her by going with another girl, but I don't love this girl. I'll never see her again unless it's back to my wife.

"About six months after our divorce I got hurt in an accident. My wife came to see me, and she cried and asked me to forgive her for ruining our lives and to take her and the three children back. She said that she had made a bad mistake and wanted another chance to prove that I was better and wouldn't hurt me again."

Make No Angry Decisions

It is always a mistake to make any important decision when one is angry and emotionally upset. In this case, the husband let his emotions so dictate to him that he brushed aside the seven years of devotion, loyalty and hard work his wife had given him, and the forty over her one mistake. Now he repents, and gives her credit. "By the time she was nineteen," he says, "we had our three children. She always was a good wife. She cleaned and cooked and baked like any good housewife and I'm afraid I neglected our children."

If he had only waited to cool off, he might have added up the things in her favor and tried to understand the reasons why she slipped. Now he asks: "Do you think she might have been looking for the excitement she missed when all her girl friends were having dates?"

And now that his wife wants to come back, and he knows he wants to take her back, what is keeping them apart? It is the husband's father, to whom they went after his marriage broke up, and who is now trying to persuade his son that it is for his own good that he remain with him and not return to the wife who failed him once.

"Should I," the troubled husband and father asks, "take back my wife and hurt my Dad, or should I tell my wife that she had one once, and should have kept me then?"

I think he should do the former and take a chance on having his Dad gradually adjust himself to the changed situation. If he lets his father dictate his course of action now, he almost certainly in time will resent the interference, and the relationship between them will suffer irreparable damage. On the other hand, if he chooses his wife, and she is tactful and patient, she may eventually succeed in winning over the father and making everybody happy. It is important, of course that she bear her father-in-law no grudge, but try to understand his point of view.

If these two people remarry, and use the experience they have gained by their trouble, they should have every chance for happiness again. But let the husband remember that his wife is young, and needs gaiety and pleasure to offset her heavy home responsibilities, and let him see that she gets it in a legitimate way. And let her reward him for a forgiving and loving heart by remaining always true and faithful to him in future.

Care of Hair After Shampoo

A lovely girl has a big hair to brush, says Movie-star Vera-Ellen. Use it after a shampoo to keep hair lustrous and lovely.

By HELEN FOLLETT

Some cute little tricks, who does them, keep their hair looking glorious halo-rough. If they won't do anything to keep the growth healthy and in glowing condition, they can at least stop abusing it. We have in mind the combined use of hair shampoo. Impatient to get out the marls, the delicate shafts are yanked out by the roots, or broken away.

Sometimes a tight permanent wave will make the strands so brittz as the stuffing of a mattress. Just out of the shampoo bowl, they are a tangled mass. There are right and wrong ways to treat hair then.

Pick up a small strand at a time, go through it gently with the coarse teeth of the comb. It is best to start at the ends, work toward the roots, and with just the order if you are to make pin curls. When making these little circles, begin the coil at the ends of the you no end!

British Tailors Soon Will Give Mah-about-town Clothing Lessons

By MURIEL NARRAWAY — (Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London. (CP)—Britain's tailoring trade is out to give the well-shod-town some lessons on the style, trend and quality of the clothes he should be wearing. The result: British peacocks for the men only.

First of this series, using men as mannequins, was staged at a well-known department store in the Strand—chosen for its proximity to the city and the West End.

Similar shows will be given in many cities of Britain in the hope of stimulating interest in points of fashion. For some time now, the clothing trade has felt that too little publicity is given new trends in men's fashions.

Women Better Informed

"Thanks to seasonal mannequin parades, women know a great deal about fabrics, prices and values," said one manufacturer. "So far men know only what individual salesmen tell them."

Four prominent manufacturers are combining to show their wares throughout the country. Factories have agreed to co-operate in promoting a better knowledge of points of style and value.

"As a rule it takes two years for the general trade in manufactured clothes to accept fashions that Savile Row have already accepted," said John Taylor, editor of the trade magazine Tailor and Cutter.

On this reasoning, suits with the narrower trouser base, longer "skirted" jackets and slim shoulder-line should vault into fashion's frontline.

New Slender Lines

The new slendering line has already been adopted to a lesser degree. Softer shoulders and fitted jackets have steadily ousted the squared, over-developed look of wartime days.

Styles on parade include factory-made jackets with single or double vents and watch pockets. Cloths include Glen checks, herringbone, gun club checks, dogs' tooth and the quiet monotones.

For color interest, British men take to "exotic" in having yellows and pinks with fancy buttons, or striped shirts with more than the jazzy ties favored in North America.

Coat manufacturers are showing blended, as well as all-wool, materials in even the co-operative garments. They say that men show a liking for the crease-resistance of blended materials.

Fashion Flashes

COLLECTORS or skirts, blouses and sweaters are adding belts to their treasures, too, for the new offerings are both versatile and handsome. Leopard is used for a medium belt with an unbroken line that is achieved by a gilt metal hook from closing rather than the usual buckle.

THERE'S GLITTER to spare in new items designed for busy evenings. Midnight blue sequins trim a black lace stole in an intricate swirl motif. A net apron does right up by ya simple dress, for it is gathered onto a sequin-embroidered velvet waistband.

TO HAVE and to hold are those big handbags of finely polished, wide-marked alligator, done in such tones as rich honey, new shades of grey and a deep blue the color of the Pacific on a calm day.

GOOD AFTERNOON dresses in fine black fabrics are again important — big "little" dresses if it were. Black silk barathea makes a dress with a circular skirt that has a divided panel effect in back. The snug top has below-elbow, tight sleeves and a deep oval lattice yoke of black net shaped with black sequins and jet embroidery.

TOPPING some of newest suits is the cape. One cape of black broadcloth has a wide velvet collar ending in loops on the shoulders. This is worn over a black suit with braid frogs at the jacket closing, and also over a plain black velvet suit.

IT'S NICE, after all the jewelled and other sparkling trim on dresses, to see pretty flower-trimmed model again. Many of the newest hats are trimmed with a large, colorful rose in velvet or satin, placed to accent the profile line or give added height and importance to a small, snug shape.

PIONEER LINE

Canada's first electric railway from Windsor to Walkerville in southwestern Ontario was completed in 1886.

GOOD MANNERS

Please Join the Crusade to Write "Christmas" — Not "Xmas"

Please write "Christmas" — not "Xmas"—in your Christmas messages. Please write "Christmas" — not "Xmas" — on the cards you enclose with your Christmas presents. Please don't write "Christmas card with "Xmas" printed or engraved on it — either on the cover or in the verse.

It's good news, very good news, that there's a determined crusade against the use of the abbreviation "Xmas." This crusade has been going on for the past several years, and this year there is a marvellously sharp decline in the number of cards with "Xmas" on them. And there are fewer cards to be enclosed with presents, fewer gift-tags, fewer wrapping papers carrying the abbreviation.

Most of the publishers of Christmas greeting cards have joined the crusade against using the abbreviation "Xmas," either in the design or in the message. Surely all of us — writers, editors, printers, writers, all who sell and all who buy — will have to give full honor to this good and great word — Christmas. The word is Christmas and the beautiful, endearing, inspiring word Christmas.

Write Messages on Christmas Cards in Care of Parents' Friends Pasted on New Address.

Dear Mrs. Beekman—

We've just bought a new ranch-type home and a baby, and we don't expect to move in just before Christmas. Would it be proper for me to write a note on our Christmas cards telling this new address? If not, what would you please suggest a wording for this "information"?

—Doris D.

A good idea for telling the good news—either property and personality practical. I'm all for writing personal news-items on the Christmas cards — as against the warm-hearted Christmas letters, even more welcome. You might write: "Phil and I send you and Bill dearest Christmas greetings, and every good wish for a happy New Year. We hope to spend Christmas in our new home! Our new address is — (give the new telephone number too, if possible) — and we hope to greet you there very soon."

A Nice Thing About Christmas Cards — It's Proper to Send Them Even to Acquaintances

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

Last summer on my vacation I met a very nice fellow. Now that so happened, lives in my aunt's home city. We had several dates, dancing, movies and so forth. And though he mentioned correspondence, he has not written to me, nor have I written to him. What would you think about my sending him a Christmas card?

—Lorna G.

I think it would be a good idea! That's one of the nice things about Christmas cards — they may properly be sent even to those whose paths have crossed only once briefly, but pleasantly. The idea is to choose cards that are suitable for these casual acquaintanceships. Choose a conservative card, then sign it with Christmas wrote "Christmas greetings" inside, sign your name — and certainly this couldn't be criticized!

BEAUTY

Egg shampoos

Considering the price of eggs, we hesitate to recommend them as cleaning agents for the hair, especially to girls who have to keep a weather eye on the beauty budget. But these are times when no other agent will do a good job. We refer to locks that have been over-bleached—sadly run from them. The water of a duck's back; can't get a tobaccocured locks that have been laundered so carelessly that soap scum has formed a permanent coating on the hair. Egg shampoos are frequently called upon to reconditionhair that has been all but ruined by inexperienced home shampooing. It may come from the bowl several shades lighter, more lustrous and silky, after a practical treatment.

Even short hair cannot be made clean with two or three eggs. At least a half dozen are necessary. If the growth is shoulder-length and heavy, eight or nine may be required.

The eggs should not be brought to a foam with a beater, but broken into a pint jar that has a lip from which the eggs can be poured. They should then be completely beaten to a mixture of as with a fork and a little water added.

Begin with a running rinsing with a bath spray so the hair will be moist when the eggs are applied. Put on one half of them, being careful that they don't run through the fingers. To get better friction, going over the entire scalp so that there will be complete distribution .Treat the hair at the temples and along the napeline with circular movements of the fingers. Spread on fingers and thumbs and move the scalp about so as to stimulate the blood streams, bringing warmth to the teeth. If the shafts carry fatty deposits, chances are there is some soap on the scalp. This is not good, since the soap helps in the formation of dandruff, and dandruff is a perfect tenement for bacteria.

Do not spare elbow grease. Turn on the spray; let the water be fairly warm. If it is hot some of the egg white may cling to the hair. Should this happen, don't fret about it; the brush will remove it.

Put on the rest of the eggs this second application will be light and foamy. Use the spray again, having a strong force of water. The rinsing takes a better job than the shower, because it is more direct. The shower pounds on the top of the head, does not rinse the hair along the sides and back.

Fill a washbowl with warm water and add three tablespoonfuls of cider vinegar. Pour the water over your head with a cup, lifting the strands so it will reach every part of the growth.

The egg shampoo, combined with the vinegar rinse, has a favorable effect upon blond hair. It brings out the golden lights.

Then it's an ounce!

Ninety-three years ago, Queen's University, Kingston, gave a medal to its first graduate in chemistry. The medal was made of aluminium—which then cost $17.00 an ounce.

Today aluminum costs only slightly over one cent an ounce.

The price has been brought down by mass production in huge plants using the electrolytic process discovered twenty-eight years after the Queen's medal was presented.

By developing some of Canada's waterpower, previously running to waste, Alcan has succeeded in making this country the world's most efficient producer of aluminum, giving employment to many thousands of Canadians and through exports of "packaged power" aiding Canadians in acquiring the imports needed here. ## Canadiens Are Victims of Ninth Straight Loss on Toronto Ice

A dull moment had no chance to exist amid the brilliance, speed and bodily contact as demonstrated above by Leafs' Gus Mortson, seen barging into Goalie Gerry McNeil, in Saturday night's game between Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens in Toronto. It was the best all-round game of the N.H.L. season at the Gardens, and its sustained action at times held the threat of a flare-up between the bitter rivals. Ted Kennedy, Cal Gardner and Bob Solinger were the goalgetters who provided Leafs with their first Saturday win at home after four losses and two ties, while the mighty Rocket Richard and veteran Elmer Lach counted for Canadiens, who now have lost nine straight league games on Toronto ice. — Central Press Canadian.

Record Number Seeking Office In Picton

Picton—A record number of candidates are offering themselves for municipal office in Picton. There are 15 candidates for six council seats, four for deputy reeve and five for the three school trustee seats. Mayor Harvey McFarland and Reeve Horace S. Colliver were given acclamations. Many other municipalities in Prince Edward also have contests.

Seeking the Picton deputy reeveship are Carmen Scott, Donald Ward, Russell Attersley and Alfred King. For councillors are Mary Dunkley, who has been a member the past year, L. B. Calnan, Woodrow Blakely, Bernard Hepburn, Finlay MacArthur, Nesbitt McKibbon, Ernest Ward, Charles Lewis, Donald Thomas, Herbert Hyatt, Clare Scott, Frank McKee, Ernest Franklin, Randolph Clapp Ralph Gibson. For school trustee are Russell Gardiner, Mrs. Mason, Clealan Blakely, Lionel Hicks and Leonard Tripp.

H. B. Tully was given an acclamation as utilities commissioner.

In Ameliasburg township, Norris Whitney, elected as M.L.A. for Prince Edward-Lennox, retires as reeve and is succeeded by Melvin Pulver. William Nightingale becomes deputy reeve. Councillors are Harmon Montgomery, William McDougall and Clifford Smith. It is the ninth time this township has successfully chosen a council by acclamation.

In Athol township, Earl Brummell and Clinton Green contest the reeveship. Councillors by acclamation are Leo Bannon, Gordon Demore, David Leavitt and Melvin McDougall.

Sophiasburgh township has a reeveship contest between Harold Barker and Lee Allison. Councillors by acclamation are Leland Dorgan, Arthur McDermaid, Harold Robinson and John I. Thompson.

South Marysburg township gave acclamations to Reeve Carmen Scott, Councillors Donald Walker, Harry P. Johnston and A. C. Platt were returned in Wellington.

Bloomfield village has a contest between Sherman McQuaid and Hugh Thomas for reeve. The four councillor seats are Lee Allison, W. A. Arkett, Charles Howard, Thomas Jackson, Harry Leavens and George Fyke.

Hallowell contest gave acclamations to Reeve Clarence Hicks and Deputy Reeve Clifford Wilson. The three council seats are Bruce Hyatt, Elberne Carson, Clarence Wilson, William Armstrong and Russell Kleinsteuber.

Hillier township has a contest for reeveship between Norman Foster and Lewis Wight. Seven council seats are Sam Danford, Murray Parks, Kenneth Conley and Fred Tice.

Acclamations have been the rule in most Prince Edward municipalities. The election are believed to denote renewed interest in municipal affairs. Interest is running high and a record vote is forecast.

MARMORA

Eight Qualify As Candidates For Council

Marmora—Municipal voters of the village of Marmora will go to the polls on Monday, December 10 to decide the personnel of the council for the coming year. The eight men nominated at Friday's meeting have qualified as candidates. They are, Ritchie Wells, Fred Johnston, John Reynolds, Arnold Walker, William Lavender, Carl Heath, Harold Price and Arthur Park.

The electors will also decide between J. F. Ashton and Fred Ward who is to be the Hydro Commissioner for the next two year. Reeve Victor Bird received acclamation as Reeve for 1952 at Friday's meeting.

BANCROFT

Public School H-S Association Holds Meeting

Bancroft — Committee and delegates reports filled the main agenda at the program at the regular monthly meeting of Bancroft Public School Home and School Association on Thursday night.

The report of the school nurse, Mrs. Hilda Vardy, read by the principal, J. W. C. Hutton, showed that considerable dental work is necessary to check the spread of impetigo and parasitosis in the school. This was shown from a recent three-day check of the 317 pupils in the ten rooms of the school. In an open discussion on the subject, many of the members expressed the opinion that a county health unit for Hastings was necessary in order that a number of public health nurses could work full time in all the schools of the county.

Good Receipts

Mrs. Doreen Watson reported that the recent rummage sale netted a profit of $61.20 and Mrs. Louise Hutton reported a profit of $76.85 from the teachers' banquet catered to by the association. These were two special projects given by the Home and Sponsors in order to raise funds for the nursing program sponsored by the Home and School Association.

Short resumes of their impressions of the recent regional conference in Peterborough were given by the delegates, Mrs. C. White, Mrs. E. Bruce, Mrs. A. Hewitt, Mrs. C. A. Stringer, Mrs. Ivan Vardy, Mrs. J. W. C. Hutton, Mrs. A. Loney, Mrs. G. Andrews and Mrs. J. N. Brown.

Plans for renovating the village public library were given to the meeting by Mrs. J. W. C. Hutton, secretary-treasurer of Bancroft Public Library, in a brief address she told how funds were obtained from the province, the county, the municipality, and the members. She asked all to be active supporters of the organization and thus insure better reading material for their children.

The president, Mrs. J. N. Brown, occupied the chair. Refreshments were served by the social committee consisting of Mrs. Harold Watson, convener, assisted by Mrs. George Andrews, Mrs. J. N. Brown, Mrs. A. Freiburger and Mrs. A. Hewitt.

Two Members Want Pensions Paid at 65

Ottawa, Nov. 26 (CP) — Two members—one a Liberal and the other a CCF—said today in the Commons that government pensions should be paid to Canadians at age 65 instead of 70.

The suggestion was made by Leon Crestohl (L-Montreal Cartier) and Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) during debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne.

The discussion also touched on a Social Credit motion of non-confidence in the government. The motion, moved earlier in the debate, criticized the government for "failing" to increase war veterans' allowances.

Mr. Crestohl said two measures aimed at providing security for the aged were passed by parliament this year. Under one, pensions of $40 a month will be paid to all 70 and over, regardless of means. Under the second, the federal government will share the cost of similar pensions to those between 65 and 69 who can prove their need of assistance.

The means test, he said, should be removed for those in the 65-69 age group. There were some people 70 and over who would not apply for a pension because they did not need it. On the other hand, there were people 65 and over who needed a pension but would not apply for it because of the means test.

The two groups would balance each other and would not cost much more to make the pensions available to all at age 65.

Mr. Knowles supported Mr. Crestohl's demands and then went on to urge that the government increase all this session war veterans' allowances paid to veterans prematurely aged by war service.

He supported demands that the allowances be increased to $55 a month from $40 for single veterans and to $100 from $70 for married veterans.

Out of Circulation for Next Four Years

Harry Green (above), 51-year-old protege of the notorious John "Jake the Barber" Factor, U.S. ace swindler, was nabbed by Britain's Scotland Yard in London because he liked to be smooth-shaven. Yard Superintendent Arthur Thorp happened to be in the same barber shop, right next door to Scotland Yard, when Green came in to get his shave. Thorp, as a young detective, played a large part in exposing the fabulous Factor. He recognized Green as Factor's former secretary and a man with several convictions for fraud. Scotland Yard's officials, however, were red-faced with embarrassment when it was discovered that Green was living in the apartment above the barber shop right next door to the Yard. When detectives paid an official call on their next-door neighbor they found that he was once again floating bogus companies and selling the gullible public for a ride. They sent him to jail for the next four years. — Central Press Canadian.

Mixed Commercial Bowling League

Short Circuits, K.V.A., Symons, Sets, Sun Rays and Smashers each took seven points on Monday night from Marketeers, Egg Heads, Whiz Bangs, High Livers, Hy Rollers and Power Pins in the Mixed Commercial Bowling League while Bombers took two games and the odd point for total from Live Wires in the only other contest played.

Symons pot only raised their high triple score for the year to 3836 but had a stranglehold on individual scores as well.

"Lefty" Reid of Symons topped the men with another high for the year, rolling 344 (336) for three games. His nearest competitor was Ken Peoples who had 743 (311) followed by Art Stewart 700, Bruce Jones 723, Jack Fitzgerald 721, Bill Brown 711 (321), Art Whalen 705, and Dave Batchelor 705.

Several of the ladies rolled well including Dorothy Bone 733, "Babe" Hardwick 707, Doris McLean 703, Nora MacDonald 665, Barb Young 653, Georgina Bell 646, Doris Mansfield 637, and Marg Fairbairn 617.

Top team standings remained unchanged with Short Circuits, K.V.A. and Symons being grouped in that order.

Boyce's, Trudeau's Play to Draw

Boyce's Garage and Trudeau's Motors battled to a four-all tie in an Owl League game at the Memorial Arena last night.

Trudeau's took a one goal lead in the first period when Pastynica and Garvin scored with Burshaw cutting the margin with a goal for Boyce's near the period end.

Boyce's outscored the motormen 3-2 in the second period with Cannon getting two and Hitchon one with Cameron and Boivin being the snipers for the garagemen. B. Cook and J. Repino were the officials.

The Teams:

Trudeau's: Goal Wright; defence, Pastynica, Badgley; centre, Woods; wings, Garvin, Cameron; subs, Sweetman, Jury, Boivin.

Boyce's—Goal, Wemmig; defence, Hair, Burkholder; centre, Cannon; wings, Hitchon, Burshaw; subs, Lucas, Boivin, Cardinal.

CAMPBELLFORD

Council Changes Election Date To December 3rd

Campbellford— The date for forthcoming Campbellford municipal election was changed at a special meeting of the town council here on Friday evening. Elections in the town have previously been held on New Year's Day, but in order to place the town on a standard with other towns, and to seek a time when many of the inhabitants were not away on a holiday, the town fathers decided some time ago that something should be done about the situation. The election this year will be held on Dec. 3rd, with the nomination held on Nov. 26.

Deputy Reeve Oscar Mason presented the by-law, which received its third and final reading. The election this year calls for a mayor, six councillors, a reeve and deputy reeve, two commissioners to the public utilities board, elected for a period of two years, and three school trustees, elected for a three-year-period.

In view of the fact the council meeting next month falls on election day, the date set for the next regular meeting is Monday December 10th.

Clerk J. F. McGregor told council that there were 1,883 names on the municipal voters' list this year, made up of 536 names in Ward 1, 448 names in Ward 2, 466 names in Ward 3 and 410 names in Ward 4. As no individual poll may exceed 450 names under the election act, wards 1 and 3 of town must be split up into four subdivisions.

The question of rental allowance for voting premises came up for discussion, and Reeve Ralph Locke suggested that the amount be increased to $8. But Councillor Wm. Nicholas thought however, that the amount should be $6 and council agreed on this. The rate was formerly $6. The rates of pay of DRO's and poll clerks, formerly $6 and $5 respectively, were raised to $8 and $6 respectively.

In the absence of Mayor J. E. Aylnart, Reeve Ralph J. Locke was named to take the chair. Councillors Kingston and Ruth, reform were also absent from the meeting.

Men's Commercial Bowling League

Team standings in the Men's Commercial Bowling League remained virtually unchanged after last week's bowling as Moose Lodge's Boxtaks and Star Welding, the three top teams, all took five point wins. Gourley Motors, Balys Brothers and Welding Gases were on the other end of the scores.

Alemite, O'Neil Sales and Stephens-Adamson did manage to pick up a couple of points on the leaders by sweeping all seven points from Rockets, Legionnaires and Mead Johnson.

Vince Sagriff of Gourleys rolled high triple for the night with 811, followed by Bob Soaft 799, George Bell 774, E. Lynch 768, Art Whelan 755, Harold Thrasher 691, Joe Valchar 691 and Stew Hill 689.

League standing still finds Moose Lodge in 1st place with 68 points, with Boxtaks the nearest rival with 60. Behind them are Star Welding 58, Gourley Motors 46, Rockets 45, O'Neil Sales 45, Welding Gases 40, Alemite 37, Stephen-Adamson 36, Balys Bros. 29, Mead Johnson 25, and Legionnaires trailing the field with 20 points.

TO STUDY PROBLEMS

London, Nov. 27 — (Reuters) — Oliver Lyttelton, colonial secretary, left by plane last night for a three-week flying tour of Malaya, Singapore and Hong Kong. Lyttelton said he was going to study the problems in Southeast Asia.

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

OSHA ANNUAL, SATURDAY

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association which "annuals" next Saturday morning in the King Edward Hotel, has reason enough to smile in the chief seat as it looks ahead and back for a first well-operated pats. A distinct tribute to its efficiency and mode of operation is seen in the fact that this year, not one of its many members have forwarded a single amendment to its constitution or regulations.

Dispelling any ideas of a lethargic condition is the fact that no less than twelve hockey enthusiasts have been nominated for the seven-man executive committee. Of these seven are new nominees. Tribute enough, is itself.

Although no amendments were submitted by teams, the executive committee will make a number of suggestions for rule alterations with a view to improving enforcement or clarification of existing rules.

Delegates will be asked to limit the players in the C and D series to not more than two teams. Last season some lads played on hardsome, midget and juvenile teams in their town and this, the executive feels, is too heavy a strain on the youngsters. Players in the A and B series are already restricted to one team.

A double-barrelled amendment to the protest procedure will be placed before the assembly. The first suggestion calls for, to include in the protest the statement that a copy has been mailed to the protested club which will nullify the age-old excuse "we didn't receive the protest" Second suggestion calls for to eliminate the right of the protest committee to refund the protest fee o any club which submits, but fails to substantiate, a protest. In the past such refunds have been optional to the committee.

The appointment of a hometown linesman to work with the visiting referee will be sought. This was the case last year, but was unofficial. The policy, inaugurated two years ago, of issuing permits to managers and coaches has proven successful. This year the policy will continue and the rule extended with the provision that all except permit holders be barred from the players' bench.

The executive will also seek a strengthening of the restrictions rule to bar players being transported from one centre to another merely for hockey purposes.

The annual convention, which starts at 10 a.m. Saturday next in the "King Eddy" is expected to be the largest in the history of the association. Delegates will attend a luncheon at the hotel and be guests of the association at the National League Hockey game that evening.

BASKETBALL SCHEDULE OUT.

Four teams will form the Eastern Ontario Amateur Basketball Association Bay of Quinte Intermediate "A" group in this district including the Belleville Glen Roys, Peterborough Marines, Trenton RCAF Flyers and the Picton Athletics. The teams will play a double schedule starting November 29th and running through February 14th. Playoff series will be played between the teams finishing first and second and third in the best-of-three games.

While the relative strength of the other three teams is not known at present, the Glen Rhys should count one of the most powerful aggregations to represent the city in some time. Many former outstanding players are signed with the Glens who under the coaching of Bill Spafford have been going through strenuous practice grinds for the past month or so. Spafford thinks highly of his squad and feels confident they will be hovering around the top when playoff time rolls around. Manager of the team is Robert Allen.

The first part of the schedule sees Picton playing Flyers in the group opener on Thursday night of this week while the Glens travel to Peterborough on Saturday night to take on the Marines. The following week on Thursday, Dec. 6th Glen Flyers, also away on Tuesday, December 11th. They will not have any home games until after the New Year when courts here will be available.

Kingston Trims Eagles 9-7

Kingston established itself as a definite threat in the senior "B" hockey race last night, defeating the Peterborough Eagles in Kingston by a 9-7 score. The victory was the first for the homesters in three starts, and prevented the Eagles from tying the Belleville Hawks for first place in the group standing.

Stan Scrutton's Kingston crew will be here tomorrow night as guests of the Hawks in what should be an jealane thriller.

Dempsey Needs Heavyweights? Hockey's Sock Exchange Might Provide Some Prospects

New York, Nov. 27 (AP) — Hockey's sock exchange has turned bullish—and even that former Lady Bruger, Edgar Laprade of the New York Rangers, has got into the act.

Laprade, noted for his clean play in the National League, for the Rangers, turned tiger the other night and sagged in his first fistic duel on the Madison Square Garden ice against 3,895-pound Gus Kyle of Boston Bruins.

Obviously Kyle, a former Ranger, never expected the gentle Fort William player to throw a punch because he had never witnessed such an event before. The right cross landed high on Kyle's cheek and snapped his head back.

Was Provoked Kyle

"I do not care to be high-sticked," Laprade said. "I was provoked—not once, but twice. The first time I was in a face-off, and he came charging at me with his elbows and knees. I never liked Kyle even when he was a teammate." Reminded that the ensuing fracas led to ruling that chances of regaining the Lady Byng trophy had been dealt a lethal blow, Laprade shrugged:

"Who can think about the Lady Byng trophy when there is a stick in your face?"

Laprade's feature with Sid Abel, Detroit Red Wing's captain, who had observed recently that the Byng jockey was becoming tame.

"It it as rough as ever," Laprade said, "except that there is less checking into the boards. Who wants Byng?"

Since Abel raised his complaint, Montreal's Maurice Richard flattened Toronto's Bill Juzda with one punch. And there have been other four-star gangs in every other National Hockey League game. The players have taken to ruling the fighters.

In the top bracket are Harry Watson and Fernie Flaman of Toronto, Jack McCartan of Chicago, Jack Evans of New York, Gordie Howe of Detroit and Richard, in the lighter class are such tigers as Bill Ezinicki of Boston and Ted Lindsay of Detroit.

"He hasn't picked on my man (Gordie Howe) in four years," says Terrible Ted. "Or ever since Gordie did a paint job on his face."

N.H.L. Governors Must Decide On Overtime

Montreal, Nov. 27—CP—President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said today any question of establishing overtime play to break the games must be dealt with by the league's governors.

Campbell, back in town after a weekend on the road, was commenting on a request by General Manager Art Ross of Boston Bruins last Friday that a telegraphic vote be taken on starting sudden-death overtime play not to exceed 10 minutes.

Campbell said he has taken no telegraphic vote and he has also talked to Ross.

Campbell said anything so important in rule changes must be dealt with by a governor's meeting. Such a meeting could be called on request of three member clubs of the six-club circuit. He has had no request for a meeting. Two other clubs, New York and Chicago, have been reported favorable to overtime.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Bill Fry, "Fancy" of the first Canadian east-west intermediate football final, yesterday announced at Toronto that the big game will be held Saturday in Hamilton's Civic Stadium instead of at Toronto.

Hamilton Panthers were originally scheduled to meet the west's St. Boniface-Norwood Legionnaires at suburban East York Stadium, but a last-minute request from Hamilton brought about the change.

Fans who bought tickets for the game at Toronto's East York Stadium can either get their money back or use the tickets in Hamilton.

Boston Bruins last night announced the loan of veteran wing Vic Lynn and option of rookie centre Ray Barry to make room for three youngsters put from their Hershey, Pa., American Hockey League farm club.

Lynn goes to Providence in the A.H.L. while Barry returns to Hershey. The others arrived from Hershey are centre Dave Creighton, wing Jack McIntyre and defenceman Bob Morrison.

At Milwaukee, Detroit Red Wings, spurred on by Fred Glover's three goals within one minute in the second period, beat Chicago Black Hawks 7-5 in a National Hockey League exhibition here last night.

The St. Thomas Intercounty Baseball League team franchise is for sale. Held by the local Canadian Legion for the past three years, the franchise was first offered for sale at the clore of the 1951 season. A group of business and professional men has been interested in purchasing it at that time.

A meeting to discuss the future of baseball in St. Thomas will be held some time in December.

It became official yesterday: Stanford versus Illinois in the 38th renewal of the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Calif., on New Year's Day.

Unbeaten Illinois, with only a scoreless tie with Ohio State to blemish its nine-game season, was chosen in Chicago yesterday by unanimous vote of Big Ten faculty representatives. Once-beaten Stanford, which bowed California, 20-7, in the season final Saturday, was named by similar process later in the day by the coast conference.

Powerful Tennessee rolled up the largest vote of any season yesterday in strengthening its hold on the No. 1 position in the Associated Press football poll. The Volunteers were so impressive in smashing Kentucky 28-0 Saturday that they received first place on 27 of the 168 ballots cast by sports writers and broadcasters across the nation. The announcement was made at New York.

Michigan State won convincingly over Illinois 28-20 to just managed to protect its No. 3 position in the Associated Press football poll.

At Chicago, the United States Professional Golfers Association of yesterday received a bid from the Canadian PGA for an international match between the top 10 stars of each country at Montreal in June, the electric golf ball

At Toronto, Lee Gratian Barr, owned by Neil McNeil of Port Elgin, Ont., and Miller Gratian, owned by J. Hall of Fairmore, N.Y., divided fifth-race honors yesterday at the trots at Toronto's Dufferin Park.

In the first heat Miller Gratian won in a driving finish over the pacemaker, Lee Gratian Barr. In the final heat Lee Gratian Barr won handily over Amos Pointer. The latter finished second. Miller Gratian made a break in the middle and lost out completely in this heat.

Browns, Braves Angle Offers To Marty Marion

St. Louis, Nov. 27—(AP)—Ousted Friday as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, Marty Marion was wavering today between offers made him by the Boston Braves and St. Louis Browns.

Both the Braves and Browns desperately need a shortstop, and both clubs were understood to have made combination player-coach bids to Marion, with the Braves dangling a $10,000 bonus for signing.

"I'm being offered more than I am worth, but it is a great opportunity, and I'm going to take my time and figure out things carefully," Marion said after talking by telephone today with John Quinn, general manager of the Braves.

Marion, one of baseball's best shortstops before he was sidelined by a knee injury in 1950, conferred last night with owner Bill Veeck of the Browns. The Browns are understood to have offered him about $15,000 as a coach and nearly double that amount if he can play.

Quinn has improved on Veeck's offer, Marion said. The ousted Cardinal manager, who will be 34 years old next month, said that he preferred to remain in St. Louis if possible.

Marion said two other National League clubs have made bids for his services. He refused to identify them.

Soccer Champs Receive Trophy

Presentation of trophies featured the banquet of the Bay of Quinte Soccer League held in the Grange Hall, Church Street on Saturday night.

Frank Follwell, M.P. Hastings Prince Edward, presented Follwell Trophy to the Belleville junior soccer team, league champions through its match Bill Ross.

Mr. William Harvey, presented the trophy named after him and donated by him, to Russ Phillips, Queen Mary School to be held for future presentation.

Another feature of the banquet was the detailed history of the Bafawa soccer club outlined by Tony Machala.

Sing songs with Jack Winstanley at the piano and entertainment rounded out an enjoyable evening. Red Wells acted as chairman while toasts were proposed by Mr. Harvey, and Thomas Bartley with Boyd Findlay responding.

Riotous Welcome Given Champions By Victory-Happy Ottawa Citizens

Ottawa, Nov. 27—(CP)—Jubilant Ottawa fans yesterday greeted their victorious Rough Riders with a tremendous ovation as the Grey Cup winners rode through town in a motorcade.

At one-inch downfall kept color to the scene as the motorcade bearing the Riders moved through the main streets and Ottawa fans lined the sidewalks four and five deep. Thousands of school children were given extra time off to participate in the celebration.

At Confederation Square, where a special stand had been set up for presentation of the cup, the crowd almost got out of hand until Mayor Charlotte Whitton made a personal appeal to Ottawans to behave themselves.

His excellency the governor-general, Viscount Alexander, who had been delayed by the bad driving weather, made a last-spot plunge behind the inclosure of foot policemen to get to the stand at all.

When he finally made it, he presented the Grey Cup to Bill Stanley and Doc Leahy, co-captains of the Ottawa team, with brief remarks.

"I was there," he said, "and it certainly was a wonderful game.

"Also," he added, passing the helps easy to the captains, "a wonderful thing to win."

The two-hour parade had included trucks carrying effigies of the Saskatoon Regina players, and one contained a coffin to denote the downfall of the western champs.

After the presentation, the crowd took over. They screamed for Basil Karpuk to take off his shirt, and the Ukrainian fullback was gained shoulder high by his teammates. Then Karpuk and other members of the team got the same treatment.

In the House of Commons two Liberal members broke the rules to extend congratulations to the Rough Riders.

Jean Richard (L—Ottawa East) said he wished to congratulate the Rough Riders on their victory.

He got no further when Speaker Rene MacDonald reminded him that the Commons had unanimously decided last year against permitting members to congratulate home teams on their victories.

Mr. Richard said his remarks were simply a preface to a question. He wanted to know if the government would now consider erecting a sports stadium in Ottawa such as recommended by the the Massey Commission on arts and science, where future Grey Cup games could be played.

"You have had your last one," interjected Bill Wylie (SC—Medicine Hat) a Regina supporter.

Works Minister Fournier said he had given the matter of a sports stadium much thought. Then, amid shouts of ordel, he said he was elated when he heard that Ottawa had won the Grey Cup.

The question of a stadium would be brought to the attention of the cabinet.

"When a decision is reached, it will be announced," he said.

Rookie, Veteran Tied for Lead American League

New York, Nov. 27 — (AP) — Rookie Real Chevrilis of Hershey and veteran Jack Stoddard of Providence are tied for the lead in the American Hockey League's scoring race today.

Chevrilis, the leader a week ago, has scored 13 goals and 14 assists for 27 points. Stoddard has 11 goals and 16 assists. Chevrilis also is tied with Cleveland's Steve Wochy for the lead in goal-getting.

Buddy O'Connor of Cincinnati is the league's top playmaker with 19 assists.

Goalie Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh is the loop's leading net-minder.

Mayer has allowed 49 goals in 19 games for a 2.11 average. Emil Francis of Cincinnati has posted the most shutouts—two. Defenseman Pete Durbano of Indianapolis is the league's most-penalized player with 77 minutes in the score.

The leading scorers:

| Player and club | G | A | Pts |
|---|---|---|---|
| Chevrilis, Hershey | 13 | 14 | 27 |
| Stoddard, Providence | 11 | 16 | 27 |

Grid Coaches' President Hits Back at Critics

Boston, Nov. 27—(AP)— The president of the United States Football Coaches' Association—Lloyd Jordan of Cornell—smacked back vigorously yesterday at critics of intercollegiate sports.

The veteran athletic official spoke bluntly as he told a meeting of coaches and football writers:

"I think football and athletics should be emphasized more. The critics, the senators and judges, should clean up their own yards, before looking into others".

Jordan agreed that there "are evils" in intercollegiate sports, evils which "should be de-emphasized," but added:

"Emphasis should be on college athletics. It's a part of education now. No longer is it the tail; it's a part of the main body. We need athletics".

Stanley is Rumored to Succeed Marion as Cardinals' Boss

Ed Stanley

Marty Marion

Eddie Stanley, who never before has managed a ball club, will conceivably wind up as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals next season. But, if he does, it will be only after the New York Giants have made a trade with the Cardinals for his services that will improve the Giants. A spokesman for the New York club said they would not stand in the way of Stanley improving himself, but the Giants won't give him away. The recent firing of Marty Marion as the Cards manager paved the way to rumors that Stanley is on his way again. — Central Press Canadian.

USA, Canada Golf Series Being Discussed

Chicago, Nov. 27—(AP)—An international golf series between the United States and Canada is being discussed at the annual convention of the Professional Golfers Association, or America.

The rivalry, patterned after the British-U.S. Ryder Cup matches but on a four-ball basis rather than a two-ball Scotch foursome, was proposed yesterday by John J. Hopkins of New York and Montreal.

His offer was presented by Ken Murray, Canadian P.G.A. He is president of electric boat company which recently was awarded a government contract to build an atomic submarine.

Hopkins offered to give each member of the two teams $500 for each annual match and provide transportation to the site of the tournament. He offered to underwrite these costs for three consecutive years.

Each team would be made up of 10 players. Hopkins said that Canada would reserve the right to draft players from anywhere in the British Empire.

The purpose of the series, Hopkins said, would be to further "good fellowship, better understanding and high level sporting relationships between Canada and the United States.

Seagram TELLS THE WORLD ABOUT Canada

This advertisement was designed by The House of Seagram to tell the people of other lands about Canada and things exclusively Canadian.

Many people in Latin America, Asia, Europe and other parts of the world are not fully aware of the richness of Canada's natural resources, wild life, scenic beauty and cultural traditions. The more the peoples of other lands know about our country, the greater will be their interest in Canada and Canadian products.

The House of Seagram feels that the horizon of industry does not terminate at the boundary of its plants; it has a broader horizon, a further view—a view dedicated to the development of Canada's stature in every land of the globe.

The Kibitzer

A male sowing circle broke up in a row the other night. All because east failed to bid in answer to his partner's takeout double.

East held this hand:

♠3 ♡ 9 7 4
♡7 3
♢ 8 5 7
♣10 6 4 3 ♣

Both sides were vulnerable. South opened with one diamond and west doubled. North passed. East is now forced to bid. The fact that east has nothing but a smch of rags does not let him out.

His first choice of bids is any suhid major suit with four or more cards. He has such a suit in spades. He hasn't bid the spade even if he thought the west would fall in him.

But after some deliberation, east passed instead of bidding one spade. South also passed, but there it was at a doubled contract of one diamond with south as declarer.

East reraged any bid he made in that spot might be doubled for a serious penalty. He knew that one diamond doubled was a bad game. So he did not see how much harm could come to his side if he let them play.

South made the one doubled diamond bid. He threw extra tricks. That paid 40 points for one diamond contract, 50 for half trilling and 300 points for each of the three overtricks. Which gave south and west 390 points.

West had a powerful hand. If east had raised in spades, his side could have made a game in that suit. Which would have paid 120 points for four spades and 200 points for the rubber, total 620 points.

Then when east passed, his side paid 690 instead of collecting 620. That was a swing of 1,310 poured down a rathole. Even it figured in HP measurements, it's quite a loss.

Naturally, west put up quite a howl. He was given a detailed list of reasons why a player with such judgment should never use any.

Finally, he jumped east with this question: "Where did you learn?" East started "I thought" and was interrupted with "I thought what." That broke up the game.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 27 — (AP)— Eugene Denis McNulty, better known as Dennis Day, portrays a dim-witted character on the Jack Benny radio show. If Day is dumb, many people think, his personality would like to have the same brand of ignorance.

Here are some examples of Day's dumbness:

After years of biding his time, he landed himself a fat movie contract with 20th Century - Fox and is the only Benny player who has television rights.

He just signed a TV contract with NBC after bidding by that network and CBS.

Day, who looks like a normal human being and not the breathless, half-baked character he plays on the radio, indicated that he doesn't believe in rushing into things. He had many movie offers but not until a couple of years ago did he sign for one picture a year at Fox. The deal kept him a free agent for TV, while most other movie contract players were prohibited from the new medium.

The tenor is at present working in "The Girl Next Door" and will play a whimsical ax murderer in his next film. He has another film to follow that one, and so his TV show may not make its debut until the fall of 1952.

Day indicated that he would concentrate on getting good writing for his TV show. The trouble with a lot of the writing on TV today is that the writers are still thinking in terms of radio technique. Fortunately there are a lot of new young writers coming who realize that TV depends on sight, not gags.""

His own radio program is off the air and he said he might be giving up radio altogether.

"Jack (Benny) may drop his air show after this season," he reported. "Jack was very happy with his last TV show and thinks he has found the formula that will work for him in TV. And I think he's right. He was playing the real Jack Benny and people loved him."

CAMPBELLFORD

Cobourg Mayor Urges Stronger Legion Branch

Campbellford — Mayor Jack Burnett of Cobourg urged a stronger Legion at Campbellford when he spoke here at the annual banquet of branch 163 of the Canadian Legion, BESL. Mr. Burnett is district commander and referred to "One Army, Still Living But Dead" and of the obligations of legion members to the dependents of those who paid the supreme sacrifice, and to those, who could not be self supporting owing to permanent disabilities suffered during the war.

Mr. Burnett was lated and to the point in his message to the Comrades of the local branch. As district commander, he stated his job was to criticize. "But I have no criticism of this branch; your co-operation has been beyond reproach," he said. He" complimented the branch on their recent formation of a ladies' auxiliary, and also for the invitation extended to the Silver Cross mothers to be present at the annual event.

Given Honor Spot

The Silver Cross mothers those who have lost sons in or as a result of battle, sat in an honored spot at the head table. The local branch of the Legion makes guests of honor of these mothers at their annual banquet each year.

Speaking more generally, Mayor Burnett stressed the need for a larger number of members at the district rally next summer. With about 56 branches in the district, his ambition was to see a parade of some 2,000 Legionnaires assembled for the next rally.

All the legislation for veterans and their dependents passed by our governments has been the result of the existence and activities of the Canadian Legion. We must keep the Legion strong in numbers, therefore, for our own well-being, and in order to have powers that we cannot be ignored in government circles. We must keep up our membership." He said he was sure the Legion would never wrongfully use its power.

President Alex. MacDonald, on behalf of his fellow comrades, expressed the sincere thanks of all to Mr. Burnett. He was introduced to the group by Zone Commander "Scottie" Broughton.

Comrade Ken Hazell proposed a toast to the King. Comrade Morley Horseman gave the toast to the Silver Cross mothers paying tribute to these ladies whose sons had died in the cause of freedom. Mrs. Ernest Abernethy graciously replied on behalf of the mothers present.

The newly-renovated Legion hall was packed for the occasion and the diners were catered to by the ladies auxiliary, a recently formed group who looked after the catering duties in fine style.

Comedian Fred Pallister acted as MC, supported by genial Geo. Nicholls at the piano, and their entertainment and witty banter provided the crowd with many laughs.

The group enjoyed a sing-song at the close of the meeting.

Psychiatrist Says Man Not Capable Of Making Will

Kitchener, Nov. 27 — (CP) — Psychiatrist Dr. A. L. Mackinnon yesterday told a court that the late Alexander Bauman was not capable of making a will.

Dr. Mackinnon, on the staff of Guelph's Homewood Sanatorium, said the 80-year-old father of Waterloo mayor Vernon Bauman was suffering from hardening of the vitories which in turn produced a condition of mental confusion. He died last April.

Two of Bauman's sons and a daughter are contesting the will which left all of the potsession, from her father after he went to worth between $3,000 and $4,000, to another daughter, Mrs. Helen Taylor. The contestants are Mayor Bauman, his brother, Wilfred, and their sister, Mrs. Laura Snider.

The three allege undue influence and fraud in seeking to nullify the will, while they also claim Mrs. Taylor received $7,500 live with her last January.

Mrs. Taylor in turn says her brothers and sister received their share of the estate before her father died in April. His will was dated Jan. 16.

AT THE BELLE — Ezio Pinza and Janet Leigh co-stars in MGM's "Strictly Dishonorable," a romantic comedy with songs. Ethel Barrymore and Maurice Evans head a distinguished cast in MGM's new feature, "Kind Lady," an exciting experience in screen suspense.

AT THE CAPITOL — Tom Drake, Jane Nigh and Michael Dryhen occupy starring roles in "Disc Jockey," Allied Artists' romantic comedy set to music, showing today and Wednesday at the Capitol Theatre. Song star Ginny Simms adds to the tuneful plot of the picture, which introduces a host of well known disc jockeys to the screen. On the same program "I Was An American Spy," starring Ann Dvorak and Gene Evans. Both hits are first showings.

AT THE McCARTHY — Beautiful Moira Lister fearfully feeds a horribly disfigured patient in the new and terrible world of a general hospital, where as a student nurse she learns about the dark side of a world the public never sees. Fearlessly revealing the lives and loves of doctors and nurses, "White Corridors," a new J. Arthur Rank presentation, will shock you, yet make you stir to its daring, courage and reality, now playing at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Second feature presents Paulette Goddard in "The Torch."

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

For Wednesday, November 28

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—A very solid, bountiful day for useful activity, matters of concern to the home, business and work. Good day.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Venus not very stimulating but most other aspects are very auspicious. It should be a day for achievement, perhaps unusual gain in some ways.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Keen mentality, alertness in judgment highly sponsored now. Students, teachers, you in medicine, the military among top favored.

June 22 to July 22—(Cancer)—Reconsulting inspiring influences now. Let no unpleasant thoughts or doubt hinder you from accomplishing all you wish.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Your Sun's aspect here warns against unnecessary changes in well established and profitably running interests. Day is progressive benefic, and you can advance.

August 23 to September 22—(Virgo)—Should be peak day for you, your Mercury and Jupiter and Saturn all in promising positions. Vigorous activities, hard physical work equally favored with the mental.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Perhaps you will find extra credits, unexpected results from efforts in other than your daily endeavor. But don't neglect your true work. Day benefic all told.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Sturdy indications and things of useful nature top spotlighted. You in trades, handling tools, machinery, the armed forces share helpful aspects.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)— Have high hopes, sound ambitions this generous day, but be constructive, conscientious withal. Show the real worth of a true Sagittarius!

December 22 to January 21—(Capricorn—Fine Saturn rays plus friendly ones from other planets say don't be sidetracked from doing a good job, whatever your occupation. Home, family tasks favored too.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Today and balance of month invite your best efforts; much can be accomplished. Plan carefully for next month's main interests.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Extra care suggested in all activities of confidential nature, also handling chemicals, oils, medicines. Day is encouraging for benefits, business and personal interests.

YOU BORN TODAY: Agility of mind, bright, winning personality prominent. Strong willed, purposeful, but generous and reasonable as a rule. Usually careful in planning; you do some quiet thinking about important moves, ventures. Can go far in a profession, trade or other activity as home-maker if you apply yourself rightly. Great talents in Sagittarians—cultivate and use them daily.

Birthdate: Percy Bysshe Blake, poet, painter; Anton Rubenstein, composer, pianist.

ALL TO BE REGISTERED

London, Nov. 26—(Reuters)—All privately owned small-craft in Britain—many of which played heroic parts at Dunkerque in 1940—are to be registered by the admiralty. In wartime they would be used as examination vessels for contraband control and similar examination duties.

MET 50 MILES FROM HOME

Waukegan, Ill., Nov. 26—(AP)—Six Milwaukee motorists literally bumped into each other yesterday some 50 miles from home. The six south-bound autos were involved in a chain traffic accident on an overpass on a slippery highway when one car skidded. None of the drivers or passengers required hospital care.

WHY WE SAY

BEE LINE FOR HOME

The wild bee

We use the expression, "Making a bee line for home" today to describe quick movement directly for home without stopping on the way. The expression alludes to the bee which gets its supply of honey and heads straight for home with the greatest care. (Thanks to Mr. A. B. Barlee of Ingolf, Ontario).

RAWDON

Laurel Rebekah Lodge Sponsors Fine Bazaar and Afternoon Tea

Rawdon—On Friday afternoon the ladies from Rawdon and Sidney townships and the village of Stirling attended the afternoon tea and bazaar sponsored by the members of Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 411 in Stirling community hall. Almost 170 people enjoyed the affair and many filled a few seat forms.

The guests were graciously welcomed at the door by Noble Grand Mrs. A. Wells and Vice Grand, Mrs. John Good, and then they moved along to the financial table where Mrs. Hal Demorest, treasurer, took charge of the questions.

The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Mabel Meggitson and Mrs. Mary Vandervoort.

Delightful Meals

Delightful plaue music was in charge of Mrs. Ralph Hillman, Mrs. Harry Morrow, Mrs. Ray Shortt and Mrs. Roscoe Vanderwater, and added to the pleasure of the enjoyment of the afternoon.

Chairs were placed in convenient spots for those who wished to sit awhile and chat and many did just that.

A beautiful flowering cherry tree was the centre piece of decoration placed on a fern table with silkwoy cloth and a cluster of red Christmas bells cascading to the floor.

Touch and Take

The "Touch and Take" booth was centred with a huge bouquet of poinsettias and two sets of Santa and his reindeer. The gifts varied from correspondence cards, novelties, jars of Jams and jellies, wrapped packages and odds and ends and sold at various prices. Mrs. Roy Eggleton and Miss G. Spry convened this department and readily sold their wares.

The Country Store filled a whole corner and was attractively decorated with hand made flowers in delicate pastel shades of pinks, blues, yellow, mauve and tinted shades. These beautiful gifts found eager buyers and with grace many a home this winter to bring a ray of cheer on a stormy day.

On one of the counters, guesses were sold on the weight of a Christmas cake and some one will be lucky before Dec. 25th. The beautiful white confectionary mum graced another corner of this store and Mrs. Gordon Lohaw won this on the draws at 8 p.m.

The store had an abundance of yellow and rosy red apples, potatoes, carrots, parsnips, citrons, a dressed chicken, luscious peaches in a sealer, jars of pickles, jellies, jams, tins of cookies in boxed cake, cans of peas, corn, tomatoes, fruit juices, fresh country eggs (which sold like hot cakes); wee potted plants of all kinds, knitted articles of every description, and a host of other articles usually sold in a country store. The conveners were Mrs. Morley Barlow, Mrs. Louis Rodgers, Mrs. Harry Vanderwater, Mrs. Mervin Lamb, Mrs. Sarl Clancy and Mrs. Douglas Clancy with their assistants.

Homebaking

The homebake table was a picture of loveliness and the large array of food was all sold by five p.m.

Their were mouth-watering pies,—cherry, raisin, pumpkin, apple with two crusts, lemon tart with berry and fatty with criss-cross trim, homemade buns of several varieties, date loaves, individual Christmas puddings, bottles of maple syrup, tarts of a dozen varieties and trimmed with berry and fatty the most popular, drop cakes of every kind some decorated with maraschino cherries, others with nuts and seed, all sorts of cup cakes iced in delightful patterns and macaroons fashioned out of shortbread, cereals and other ingredients and all of them with eye appeal.

There were chocolate squares and layer cakes dripping with icing, a large white cake with a rainbow icing and another with a sticky coco nut icing that looked a picture of sweetness, oatmeal cookies, Chinese chews, jam filled cookies and nervy cookies with a cherry filling and many other items of cooking. Mrs. W. Warren, Mrs. J. Whitehead, Mrs. Bob Patterson, Mrs. H. Mumby, Mrs. Allan Morrison and their assistants were kept busy parcelling up the goodies.

The Christmas Card Table was in charge of Mrs. Fred Campbell, Mrs. Harry Coulter and Mrs. Fred McDonnell and they disposed of several packages of pretty cards.

Fancy Work Booth

The large booth of fancy work was a busy place all afternoon. A decorated Christmas tree on the corner of the centre counter was laden with gifts and the lower branches hung a child's knitted mitts, a little apron, dish towels and cloths, and a variety of small articles. At the far end a decoration of Christmas greetings made from handkerchiefs added beauty to the booth. There was an array of silver foil decoration suitable for Christmas, plastic travelling bags containing soap and washcloth, tea towels of linen and cotton with fancy edges of embroidery, shoe bags of crotonne in autumn colors, crocheted sets in buffet or dresser scarves and a variety of crocheted doilies in pure white and colors for embroidery in various shapes, spool holders of ... ivy pretty shades, a pink silk handkerchief case, and a large array of small novelties of silk and crochet made up in a pleasing variety, pot holders of all makes and materials, a child's pretty plaid dress, a large set of white knitted mitts in pastel colors for baby and articles of color for every dozens of them in flowered plastic, green apple print, pretty pink flowered print, yellow broadcloth, some small tea aprons style and others made covered and dozens of other articles that had been fashioned by busy fingers. Mrs. Guy Bradshaw, Mrs. Kenneth Belcour, Mrs. Sheldon McMullen and Mrs. Gordon Jeffry were in charge of this department of the bazaar and with their assistants were pleased with their success in disposing of their wares.

Candy Booth

As usual this booth did a rearing business and were soon out of material. There were dozens of assorted candy weighed on the scales to make sure the purchaser gained a half pound, decorated paper cups filled with toothsome sweets, popcorn balls, paper candy and all the usual fudge, cream, candied cherries and dates. Mrs. Bill Broadworth, Mrs. Earl Fox, Mrs. Hugh Jorge, Mrs. Everett Ketchenson and Mrs. Kenneth Demorest were in charge of this corner.

All of the tables were decorated with Christmas roping, garlands of red and green, and wreaths, deep fringes of red crepe paper, pretty table covers and various decorations in keeping with Christmas.

Tea Room

The tea room was enclosed with potted Christmas pines and balsam trees translucined from its woods and their tangy odor added to the attractiveness of the setting. They were electrically lighted. A decorative Christmas bouquet graced the piano and the white lighted gate made an attractive entry.

Miss Dawn Woods spent the past week with Miss Helen Hart.

The Outsiders

By Jane Abbott

John said "thanks, I'll appreciate any boost you can give me."

Dave Wilson rebelled at being last in the hospital. "Who's going to pay for it?" he growled.

"I'm still," John said it sternly. "—Don't you worry about it. I'll stop in on my home and tell your wife."

Annie was cooking something on the stove when John entered. "Where's Dave?" she asked, keen to help advise.

He told her why Dave had remained at the hospital and that both Dr. Cook and he thought that there was considerable hope of saving one leg, the full use of the injured hand.

"Oh!" Annie breathed gratefully. "And that man—that manager—didn't like it, your taking Dave to Crawford's."

"Tom says he discharged you for it!" Annie's eyes blazed, "You aren't the only one, Streeter" exploded a man at the window. "He's laid off the crew from the heater!"

John saw their faces set in grimness.

Outside he met a tall young fellow whom he recognized as one of the heater crew.

"I'm Loren Matthews. I just went to say, Streeter, we're with you! And a lot of us'd like to be in on the fishing."

John thought the other referred to his discharge. "I'm afraid all I can do is put my grievance in my pocket and forget it."

Then it flashed in on John that it was something concerning Marilyn and Culbert that was in the other man's mind.

He found her in bed propped up against two pillows. Her hair was brushed to a gloss and tied back with a blue ribbon.

He stopped at the door of the room. "How's the ankle?" he said.

"I don't know. It haven't tried to walk on it. I did just as you said."

"I'll fix something to eat."

"Let her go to Culbert," he thought, "if that's what she wants. You don't love her any more. Go in there and tell her she can go!"

If it were any man but Culbert! He held the pathetic little hand, his hand closed hard on it. Culbert'd throw her off and get a woman who richest his predatory fancy and then what!

He carried the tray in to her, and sat down at the foot of the bed. "Lyn I've been going over in my mind what's the best thing for us to do, you and me."

Marilyn's head flew up and her fork slipped out of her fingers.

"We can't go on together—not ar things are. But I don't want to see you do anything that you'll regret afterwards. I want you to be sure of your own mind. I angered you to give you time for a while. Then, if Culbert still wants you and you want him—"

"I haven't any aunt, John. That was all lies I told you. I didn't want you to know that he I-didn't have anyone."

John's hands closed on the footboard of the bed, as pity and revulsion fought together in him. She'd lied without any doubt. A cheat. His lips shaped it and at the same time he was thinking, "poor kid."

"John, I'll go to Kingston with you. Remember you said you wanted to go and start a practice there?"

John let go of the footboard. "I'm staying here. I was fired from the mill this morning, but I'm staying here."

Marilyn leaned forward toward him. "He—fired you? To get even with me!"

John's lips twisted a little though it was far from a smile. "As it happens I'm glad he did. It gives me a score of my own to settle. Yours—if you have one —you must settle for yourself."

He picked up the tray and went with it to the kitchen. He sat down at the table, propped his head into his hands.

Whenever two or more of the mill men met, late for the manager boiled up and over. Their grievances against him had begun to accumulate before old Elisha's going.

The younger men were more outraged by the story Loren Matthews had told around. "Sam him there's a hole in the bottom of our the valley, the skunk. He'll be after one of ours next!"

That was said in a chorus in Tom Matthews' kitchen. Mostly they gathered there. Tom's dark eyes flashed, and their bushy brows but he shook his head. "Mighty's one to in times past but 'tisn't the way now."

One of the men suggested that they go to Elisa herself, talk plain to her. A half-dozen voices answered him. "Her! She's thick as molasses with him!"

George Culbert was not unaware of the mounting ill-feeling toward him. But it did not concern him. "Wait 'til they hear that the whole valley is sold out from under them, the mill and their homes with it!"

He was not going to tell Eliza about the meeting he'd arranged with the Bendley people until the day before—she wouldn't have time, then, to trump up any sentimental opposition to it.

He did not think of Marilyn except to tell himself he was pretty smart to fire her husband. With no practice and no job he'd have to get out of the New Interval and good riddance to the two of them.

Because of her wrenched ankle Marilyn was not going out of the house. She limped around the kitchen, getting the meals together and between meals she read stories in old magazines she had saved. John wasn't home much — twice he'd driven to see that man was getting on all right and where he was other times he did not know.

She was still frightened. Whenever John came in her heart beat hard, expecting him to say he had thought of some other place to put her.

Jeremy Penny hated the bright sunshine pouring through the window of the schoolroom. She wished there were dark shades which she could pull down to shut it out. She hated the children in the seats before her, the smaller ones in the front, and the bigger ones in the back.

Selfish. The word burned in her ears. In her heart, deeper in her heart. He'd said that to her!

"Miss Penny, ain't we going to have any spelling?" asked a little girl from one of the desks. She dismissed the class curtly.

One of the older girls stopped at Jeremy's desk. "Are you sick, Miss Penny?"

"No, I'm not sick."

"I heard you tell pa that Mrs. Abel said you were awful peaked, that you weren't eating much. I'll tell her you looked to her like you had consumption. My aunt had it. Sure you're not sick Miss Penny?"

"I'm quite sure."

Then, as the schoolhouse, went out to the road, looked up and down it to see if anyone was coming. There was nowhere in sight.

At home she took off her dress, put on a kimono, lay down flat on her bed. She thought of herself laid out in a casket, Ronald Kendall, her brother, beside the casket, his head and shoulders bowed under remorse and grief. Chris Cameron there, too. She made a picture of Chris alone by the side of the body. She let her hands against her thin chest. Perhaps she did hurry. Perhaps she did hurry. Perhaps she did hurry

4 CHILDREN DIE IN FIRE NORTH OF KINGSTON

GROUND FIGHTING COMES TO END IN KOREA

Field Dispatches Says U.N. Forces Keeping on Alert

Chinese Soldiers Play Ball In View of U.S. Soldiers

By JOHN RANDOLPH

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 28 — (AP) — Field dispatches based on Allied officers' reports said ground fighting in Korea came to a complete stop today, with only the official announcement lacking to proclaim a cease-fire.

Troops of the United Nations last night and early today remained ordered not to fire at the enemy unless attacked, field dispatches said.

By mid-afternoon apparently well aware of the gentleman's agreement Chinese soldiers played volley ball in full view of nearby shooting American troops.

When darkness fell, the reds abandoned their 18-month blackout and the twinkling of communist bonfires and the glow of cigarets marked out the silent 155-mile front.

All quiet was reported from the western front that he had seen an order from U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters to stop fighting.

Eighth Army headquarters denied that it issued the order.

Only Artillery Active

Farnell said the Allies stopped fighting immediately the order was received.

Only a few rounds of red artillery, possibly from uninformed gunners, broke the unnatural stillness.

Patrols roamed the quiet front under orders to take no offensive action. And in many cases they made no contact.

The Eighth Army issued warning statement that said "there is, as of this date, 28 November, 1951, no cease-fire in Korea."

This statement was directly contrary to the report in the hands known to tens of thousands of soldiers and to scores of war correspondents at the front and at headquarters.

The facts were that for the time being, unless the communists attack, there is a ground truce along the front that amounts to a cessation of hostilities on the ground.

Warned Not to Relax

Farnell quoted a U. S. Third Division officer that Allied ground forces have stopped advancing at the communists "for all practical purposes."

(Presumably the order also applied to troops of the 1st Commonwealth Division, made up of Canadian and other Commonwealth units, and United Nations formations of other nationalities.)

The officer said all frontline units have been warned not to relax and that the war is not over.

"We are not authorized to accept any more than reconnaissance patrols," he said. "Their mission is just to report, not to attack."

He said the order also prohibited offensive air strikes against red positions on the front.

The order restricted artillery to counter-battery fire.

"Our men in the companies have been told not to expose themselves unnecessarily," the officer said. "But they have orders to defend themselves against any communist attack.

'Will be Honorable'

"We will be honorable about this affair," he said, "and we hope the communists will act toe same way."

The order said the Allies would hold down patrolling on the ground during the 30-day period "clearly demonstrate the Allied ingredient to an agreement while preparing for offensive action if negotiations are unsuccessfully delayed."

The order instructed that present main lines "be defended to the maximum." This meant Allies would counter-attack only to regain any positions lost to the reds.

FIVE INJURED

Port Credit, Nov. 28 (CP) — Five Windsor residents were injured today and their car demolished when it crashed into a pole after the brakes locked.

Injured are: Lawrence Clare, with head injuries; Charles Kett, possible broken leg; Rez Barnes, head cuts; Willie Hutchinson, bruises; Fred Raby, lacerations and shock.

WOMEN TO SERVE ALONGSIDE MEN IN HOME GUARD

British Commons Scene Of Long, Heated Session

London, Nov. 28—(CP)—Women may serve alongside men in Britain's reconstituted home guard, the House of Commons decided today after a 31-hour, all-night session marked by angry clashes.

Members of the six-week-old parliament left for home at 11 a.m. after a gruelling session that saw one left-wing Labor member suspended for five days.

Labor members attacked the home guard bill—rebuilding the part-time volunteer home-defence army—on the ground that the force is being built up at the expense of men who will be freed from the already-oppressive defence program.

Opposition members forced 13 votes on the bill's three clauses, attacking detail after detail and reducing progress to a snail's pace.

Silverman Suspended

Most dramatic incident of the night was the suspension of Labor member Sidney Silverman for disobeying the authority of the deputy speaker. Silverman challenged the chair's acceptance of a government motion to close the debate.

A motion to suspend him was passed by 194 votes to 161. He was then ordered formally to get out.

It means he will not be able to sit in parliament for five days.

The sitting was frequently in an uproar.

Angriest man in the chamber was Emanuel Shinwell, former defence minister, who spent then night feuding with Sir Desmond Heaton-Ellis over an offensive opponent after another.

Even Deputy Speaker Sir Reginald Manningham-Buller, the solicitor-general, of being "too cavalierly to repeat an offensive remark."

And when Shinwell remarked that a visit to the barber after the late sitting was unfortunate, another Conservative shouted: "Tell him to cut your throat."

The left withdrew this remark on Labor protests.

But the session was not without its humorous side.

Shinwell's Amendment

Shinwell, moving an amendment (later carried) that all Canadian units be created first, suggested that women might occasionally accompany their husbands in home guard units.

A Conservative member asked: "Is that an amendment?"

or to the husbands. But it may well remove apprehension from the minds of some wives.

The home guard, first recruited in the dire days of 1940 when Britain fought for survival, holds a special place in British heart. But in early days the force left much was more noted for its enthusiasm then its prowess under arms—which occasionally included wee pons as rudimentary as pikes and pitchforks.

DREW CHARGES BUDGET SURPLUS ESTIMATE WRONG

Says Finance Minister Made Gross Error

Ottawa, Nov. 28 —(CP) — George Drew yesterday charged Finance Minister Abbott with making so gross an error in his budgetary surplus estimate that every man, woman and child in Canada has been over-taxed by $43 in the first six months of this fiscal year.

The Progressive Conservative leader made that statement in the Commons as the chamber approved in principle a bill to consolidate the laws dealing with the government's financial administration, the audit of public accounts and financial control over Crown companies.

Later, as the House resumed study of railway legislation, the Progressive Conservatives tried to block a federal government move to boost salaries for the Board of Transport Commissioners. They lost on a formal vote of 104 to 27.

Members gave second reading to the government's bill to equalize freight rates across Canada, with Prairie members hailing it as bringing a "better deal" to the west.

Mr. Drew, criticizing the government's fiscal policies, said the over-taxation resulted because Mr. Abbott was "so grossly and outrageously" in error in his surplus estimate.

He was budgeting for a $20,000,000 surplus for the fiscal year ending March 31 next, and in the first six months the surplus was 20 times that amount touching $400,000,000. At that rate by the end of the year, the minister "will have guessed wrong by 40 times."

Estimate Goes Farther

Mr. Drew said his estimate of $43 a person went farther. A child, for instance, could not be considered a taxpayer and many people paid only a limited amount of taxes.

In a family of five, the average size in Canada, the head man was over-taxed by $215.

The charge was made in Mr. Abbott's absence. The finance minister is attending a North Atlantic meeting in Rome. His parliamentary assistant, Walter Harris, said it was difficult during the fiscal year to estimate expenditures and revenues.

There had been the same trouble in the United States and the United Kingdom. The U.S. government had budgeted for a $5,000,000 deficit this year, but now was showing a $7,000,000,000 surplus.

At the House opening, Prime Minister St. Laurent said he hoped it would be possible to distribute at least a part of the $7,100,000 voted at the last session as federal aid to education. The grants will be made to aid universities.

Five Sailormen Lose Lives In Fierce Atlantic Storm; Many Ships Are Damaged

Halifax, Nov. 28 (CP) —Three more vessels were added to the list of distress today on the North Atlantic seaboard but a moderating sea brought relief to battered shipping. Salvage and rescue operations continued.

Here is a recapitulation of havoc caused by a two-day southeaster that took five lives and battered many ships—most of them fishermen and coasters:

1. The 300-ton Yarmouth, N.S., coaster Vagabond Prince went aground at Colroy on the southwest tip of Newfoundland in heavy seas and during a snowstorm. Her crew is safe and they will try to refloat her later today.

2. A freighter, believed to be the 2,000-ton Italian ship Carla Maria G., struck at Mont Louis, near the northeast extremity of the Gaspe peninsula of Quebec after parting her cables. She was hard aground and asking for assistance to refloat.

3. The Gloucester dragger Mary M. crashed ashore at Cutbyhunk, Mass., taking five men to death. One survivor told how the crew had tried to swim the relatively short distance to shore but they were battered by the angry seas.

4. The 260-ton Newfoundland coaster Ice Hunter rammed breakwater on Madam Island at the Atlantic mouth of the Strait of Canso. A tug was expected to start salvage operations later today.

5. The Gloucester trawler Ronald and Mary Jane, with her crew still working the pumps and hand bailing with buckets, was under tow and making good time off Lunenburg, N.S.

6. A navy launch, recalled from the Ronald and Mary Jane with her crew still working the pumps and hand bailing with buckets, was under tow and making good time off Lunenburg, N.S.

Officers of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment conducted as a successful "frontal attack" on the "brigade" of regulars in the Church Street Armouries mess last night.

Heavy "shelling" took place preparatory to the repast which was enjoyed by a company of officers from Trenton, Picton, Bancroft, Madoc as well as those from Belleville headquarters.

Jimmy Correll provided piano music during the evening.

Old Lighthouse Base in Harbor Is Taken Out

Deemed a hazard to Bay of Quinte navigation and pleasure cruisers for a number of years, the base of the old harbor lighthouse is no more.

The base of the old lighthouse which at the time of its erection stood itself up above the surface of the bay has been completely removed with close to 12 feet of water covering the site of the former structure. The government dredge which has been operating in the local harbor in recent weeks, removed the old base.

Frank S. Follwell, M.P. for Hastings South, stated the government dredge came to Belleville to take out the old sunken wooden pier immediately to the west of the government dock. However, an extension was made to the contract to allow taking out the base of the old lighthouse. The dredge is now working at the entrance to the inner harbor along the Schuster coal dock.

Completion of the dredging operations now underway will allow vessels of deep draught using unloading docks along the Belleville waterfront. It would also permit oil boats to get up as far as the Imperial Oil storage tanks.

Also scheduled by the Department of Public Works are dredging operations at the Point Anne dock. To carry out the planned work the dredge will remain in the harbor all winter.

History of Negro Spirituals Theme Of Talk to Club

Rev. Keith Daniel, minister of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, addressed the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon in the Kiwanis Centre on Tuesday in the song several Negro spirituals.

"Negro Spirituals" was the subject of the address in which Mr. Daniel traced the origin of the spirituals from both Africa and the United States.

The spirituals are uncomposed, stated the speaker, and have no melody or harmony but have concentrated on rhythm.

Included among the several spirituals rendered by Mr. Daniel were "Joshua Fit the Battle of Jericho," "Roll Jordan River," "Wading in the Water," "The Resurrection," "The Cross," and "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord." As he sang, Mr. Daniel suggested the origin behind the song and offered his own interpretations.

Two Classifications

The speaker explained that spirituals had traditionally become divided into two classifications, the slow and sorrowful and the jubilee songs. Today's modern jazz stems directly from the former group, stated Mr. Daniel, but the latter is a perfect example. In explaining the difference, Mr. Daniel stated that the slow songs began because of a feeling of wanting to dance whereas the religious songs brought about the use of the hands and body more than the feet.

The speaker was introduced by Rev. S. E. Lambert and extended the thanks of the Kiwanis Club by I. L. Moore.

Two new members, Doug Sinclair and Dick Kuntze, were inducted into the club and installed by Taylor Franklin. Norman Gates, who transferred from the Geneva club, was welcomed.

Doug Sinclair, introduced by Jack Allen, was born and educated in Glasgow, Scotland, coming to Canada in 1928. He is employed for the Robert Simpson Co. until recently when he became vice-president in charge of sales with Dercon Brothers.

Dick Kuntze was born in Toronto but educated in Belleville. He was the charter president of the Belleville Jaycee Club, and is presently employed with the National Cash Register Company of Canada in this city.

Educated in Manitoba, Mr. Gates has spent practically all his entire career, with the exception of seven years under service, connected with collection agencies. He is the manager of the Belleville Credit Bureau.

Asks Assistance

Ross David, speaking as a director of the Chamber of Commerce asked the assistance of the Kiwanis Club in helping the Retail Merchants' Association with the Christmas parade planned for December 5, in the armouries.

President Everett Fairman announced that an inter-service club banquet would be held in Madoc on December 4, honoring Dr. William A. McIntosh. He added that the Belleville club send a good representation.

Weston's Defeat Bonn Motors 11-2

Paced by the five-goal misfire of Bill Jackson, Weston's defeated Bonns Motors 11-2 in an Owl League game in Memorial Arena last night.

Other goal-getters for the winners were Kennedy, 2; Irish, Mathews, Foster and Desjardins, four; Scherer and Bob Foster, scored for the losers.

Weston's lead at the end of the second period by a score of 5-1 and added a half dozen in the second period. The score does not indicate the difference in the teams. Bonn's will definitely improve as the season progresses.

The teams:

Weston's: goal, Brown; defence, Irish, Skinkle; centre, Jackson; wings, Kennedy, Desjardin; subs, Mathew, Ferguson, Barriage, Wickett.

Bonn's: goal, Hamilton; defence, Heiv, Coverley; centre, Totton; wings, Coulter, Allen; subs, Williams, Farmer.

Couple Will Be Brought Back Under Escort

Toronto, Nov. 28 — (CP) School teacher Alfred Greene and Mrs. Beatrice Reason will arrive here Wednesday night with a police escort.

Chicago immigration authorities ordered the Toronto couple deported so authorities here could take up charges against that began more than a year ago when Greene's blood spattered car was found in a mid-town ravine.

Inspector Archie McCathie said charges laid against Greene probably will be causing a public mischief and deserting minors."

Toronto police have no charges awaiting Mrs. Reason.

Green and Mrs. Reason, united the same Brent, lived in St. Louis, Mo., since their disappearance Aug. 9, 1950. Greene was employed there by an advertising agency. He told immigration authorities he left his wife and four children here because he could not support them on his $80-a-week high school teacher's salary.

Mrs. Reason had a pupil of Greene's in his night-school public speaking class in Toronto.

Last Seven Cars On Passenger Train Off Rails

Albany, N.Y., Nov. 28 (AP) — The last seven cars of a 10-car New York Central express eastbound today lurched from the rails at 75 miles an hour but remained upright.

Only one person—a crew member—was hurt, he suffered minor bruises.

The Eastern-er, bound from Chicago to New York, was derailed by automatic emergency brakes near Stuyvesant, 19 miles south of Albany at 1.30 a.m.

The express apparently hit a defective rail, officials said.

The 86 passengers aboard—30 of them in the train's two sleepers—continued on.

The wreck blocked the Central's main line between Albany and Poughkeepsie. The line is double-tracked at the scene.

NAMED ACTING HEAD

Paris, Nov. 28 (AP)— Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today was named acting head of the United States delegation to the United Nations pending the ambassador Warren Austin, who is ill.

Austin entered hospital last night for treatment of a chest condition. He is expected to be laid up for a week or five days.

Mrs. Roosevelt has served on the delegation for six years.

HIGHWAY BURIED

Eureka, Calif., Nov. 28 — (AP) — Tons of rain-soaked earth and rocks rumbled down a mountainside last night and buried 400 feet of the Redwood highway 40 miles south of here. First reports said no autos were trapped in the avalanche.

Family Spent Night in Station

Hamilton, Nov. 28 (CP)— Robert Patterson, his wife and their two small children spent Tuesday night in Central Police Station. They had nowhere else to go.

Twelve months ago the family arrived in Canada from Scotland to settle in Selkirk, near Winnipeg. There Mr. Patterson followed his trade as a baker until his health failed.

The family arrived here last Saturday. Mr. Patterson started to look for work.

Tuesday night their money was gone. They walked the streets until past midnight and then spent the night on a bench in the women's rest room at the police station.

This morning, on a tip from a police officer, Mr. Patterson went to a warehouse to ask for a job.

"If I can once get working, I'm sure we'll make out all right," he said.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 28—(CP)—Early afternoon stock market prices climbed steadily today. Industrials opened firmly and pushed upward for the third consecutive session.

Papers, utilities and miscellaneous industrials drew most support.

A scattered list of speculative mining issues showed large turnovers. Eureka was again a standout as more than 250,000 shares changed hands within the first three hours.

Market leaders such as International Nickel, Noranda, Quemont and United Keno Hill added fractions. Calliman Flin Flon, Eureka, Normetal, Montauban, Quebec Labrador and Sherritt-Gordon climbed pennies. Anacon Lead, Barvue, Mindamar and Minda-Scotia weakened.

Western Oils made little headway. Alas petroleum, Del Rio, Devon-Leduc, National Petroleum, Central Explorers, Royalite, Security Free and United Oil strengthened. Anglo-Canadian and Scurry eased.

Senior golds were mixed. Holding companies turned downward.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Nov. 28 (CP) —Cattle prices at the Ontario stock yards today were steady at the week's decline. Receipts: Cattle 280, calves 40, hogs 200, sheep and lamb 250. The holdover from Tuesday was 2,100 cattle.

Common to medium light steers and heifers sold from $23-$33 with a few good heifers selling at $33. Medium to good cows brought $24.50-$28. Common light bulls sold mostly $20-$25 with a few good bulls selling $26.50-$27. Choice fed yearlings were from $30-$36 with medium selling down to $31. Common to medium stockers brought $23-$32.50 with a few bringing up to $34.

Veal calves were steady at $36-$38 for choice and $26-$35 for common to medium. Grassers

Govts. Reach Agreement On Power Plan

Ottawa, Nov. 28 — (CP) — An agreement has been reached between the Ontario and federal governments for the development of power on the international section of the St. Lawrence River, it was disclosed today.

Transport Minister Chevrier placed on the Commons order paper legislation calling for parliamentary ratification of the new agreement. Details of the agreement will be given when the legislation is introduced in the Commons.

The power development is linked with construction by Canada of the St. Lawrence navigation project.

Legislation providing for the establishment of a Canadian Crown agency to handle the navigation project may be introduced in the Commons later this week.

Before work can start on the power project the United States government must authorize the State of New York to participate with Ontario in the joint development.

for slaughter sold $18-$22.

Hogs were steady at $28 for grade A with sows $23 dressed.

Lambs sold steady at $32.25 for good ewes and wethers with bucks selling at $1 discount. Medium to good light sheep brought $18-$23 with common downward to $10.

REPORTER HOW SCORES

The Canadian Press, which is the co-operative agency owned by Canada's daily newspapers for gathering and distributing news, has "spilled the beans" again. Or perhaps it would be more accurate, in this case, to say The Canadian Press has discovered that someone has let the cat out of the bag.

One of the correspondents which The Canadian Press maintains in Europe to gather news of interest to Canada, Douglas How by name, has been at a German town or city called Offenben, near where Canadian troops are now stationed.

Mr. How learned that Offenben was the home town of General Kurt Meyer, who was sentenced to life imprisonment at the end of the war for having been responsible for the shooting of at least 18 Canadians who were prisoners of war. General Meyer, it will be recalled, was first incarcerated in a Canadian prison in New Brunswick, but later, for some unknown reason, was moved to a prison in Germany. People who expressed curiosity at this transfer were told at the time that General Meyer was still "under Canadian control," and that he was still going to serve his life sentence.

While nosing around in Offenben, Mr. How learned that General Meyer's mother was still living in that community. Mr. How decided to call upon the worthy Frau Meyer, perhaps to inquire how things had been going with her since the downfall of the Third Reich. When he arrived at the Meyer domicile, (we may be sure that his arrival was unannounced), Mr. How found not only Frau Meyer, but General Kurt Meyer himself, engaged, as Mr. How later described it, "in romping with three of his five children."

In the cosy interview which followed, Mr. How learned, from Meyer that he had not been released from his term of life imprisonment but was merely enjoying a weekly leave, "under a system which allows prisoners of war to go home from time to time." General Meyer also disclosed that he was pleased at being in a German prison, among his "comrades," rather than at Dorchester, N.B., where he was confined for three years after the end of the war. General Meyer also informed Mr. How that he had been improving his spare time lately by studying English.

After this interview was ended, we may be sure that an express rider charter like Mr. How had no time to lose on the way to the nearest telegraph office. We may be sure also that he did not make any effort to keep down the cable tolls. In any event, his dispatch about the touching scene of domestic felicity in the Meyer household reached Canada and was published from one end of the country to the other before anyone had time to do anything about it.

Since the publication of Mr. How's dispatch, questions have been asked in the Canadian House of Commons about General Kurt Meyer and the terms of his imprisonment. Ralph Campney, parliamentary assistant to Hon. Brooke Claxton, minister of defence, said that "an inquiry will be made as to the status of the German prisoner" to which General Meyer is supposed to be serving his life sentence.

Whatever information may emerge from the inquiry which Mr. Campney is making, one fact is already clear — the German prisoner in Belleville, General Meyer is going to be spending his time in somewhat more free and easy in its rules and regulations than most prisons in this country.

FOLLOWING MUSSOLINI'S ADVICE

Quebec newspapers have noted that more moose are being shot in Quebec this fall than last and that the total bag for the season is likely to be considerably higher than it was for last year.

It is well known that there was a closed season on moose in this province last year, except north of the Canadian National Railroad's northern line.

If more moose are being killed in Quebec while there is a closed season in Ontario, it must be assumed that moose are crossing the boundary from Ontario into Quebec. The moose, apparently, are following the advice which the late Signor Mussolini gave Italian youth: "live dangerously."

—In years gone by, the same curious disregard for their own welfare was displayed by the wolves in both Manitoba and Quebec. Whenever the bounty on these animals was higher in Ontario than in Manitoba and Quebec, which it usually was, moose in Manitoba and Quebec forgot the warnings which has been attributed to all wolves since the dawn of history and crossed into Ontario in large numbers to get snared, shot, or trapped.

A NEW EXPLANATION

THE RESTFUL MIND

He needs not fret who does the right
And clings to what is best;
For when he goes to bed at night
Untroubled he will rest.

There is with an ill-gotten gain
The ever present fear
That hidden it will not remain
And shame is drawing near.

Though some the moral code may scorn,
At night they toss about
Knowing that there may come the morn
When friends have found it out.

They only know unfroubled sleep
And peace of mind at night
Who have no secret shame to keep Forever out of sight.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO

Nov. 30th., 1921

The old spring which for years bubbled from the familiar "lime-rock" on the upper end of Front Street, and which was later dignified by a marble basin, has at last dried up or it may be the stream has been diverted into some other subterranean channel. Yesterday the fountain which was fed by it was found to be quite void of water and will be stored until next spring when the stream may be found for it.

Rev. Dr. Bishop of Albert College spent yesterday in Peterborough.

Dr. J. H. Blackburn and wife of Boston, Mass., are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Blackburn, Charles Street.

Messrs. Leonard Reid and Ivor Butler have returned home from Toronto where they attended a milk distributors convention.

Mayor George A. Reid went to Toronto today.

Mr. Jack Ferris has returned home after spending two weeks with friends in Ottawa.

The Salvation Army band has been practising his profession in Trenton, but has now returned to the city to reside.

30 YEARS AGO

Nov. 28th., 1921

Mayor Hanna has decided that the recital of the Royal Humane Society, which was awarded to Fred Reader, will be presented to him at the Capitol Theatre on Wednesday evening. Reader is the brave young Belleville boy who dived in the Bay and brought into the icy waters of the Moira River near Tweddle's mill William Palmateer, who had fallen into the water and would have drowned had it not been for the courageous action of young Reader. Palmateer, the boy's mother, will be present and take part in the presentation ceremony.

Dr. Cronk has been appointed Medical Health Officer for this city to succeed the late Dr. Yeomans. Dr. Cronk has been active as medical officer for some time.

40 YEARS AGO

Nov. 28th., 1911

At a meeting of the city council Ald. Clarke introduced a motion to the effect that a bylaw be passed disqualifying electors who have not paid their taxes. No action will be taken in the matter this year.

St. Michael's Church was filled to overflow when the congregation bade farewell to their beloved parish priest, Rev. Father Spratt, who has been appointed to the office of Vicar Bishop of the Diocese of Kingston.

Addresses were read expressing regret and congratulations and a purse of $1000. was presented by Mr. Archibald Meagher. The ladies of the congregation also presented to the new Archbishop a gold chalice and a fully attended a milk distributors convention.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DO WHAT YOU CAN — HAPPILY

When we look out upon the great panorama of life we take it for granted that almost all influenced mankind, and helped to make it a better world for all. But we are not to think that our small efforts mean nothing—but it's the small efforts that lead to the big ones, and always have.

We must be inspired by the thought that we must do our best with what we have as endowed us. Said the great Pasteur: "Whether our efforts are, or not, favored by life, let us be able to say, when our time come near to the great goal, 'I have done what I could'."

Among the great of this earth are the humble—those who did the best in hand, with joy and satisfaction. The simplest workman may become an artist in his own right, if he does his God-given best. He then establishes himself as an example, and there is a halo of influence about him. Do what you can—happily.

Abraham Lincoln once said: "I have been driven to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go. My own wisdom, and that of all about me, seemed insufficient for the day." After all we must manage to get down on our knees in doing what we can, leaving the result to God's unfolding.

One of the most inspiring examples of a man doing the thing that he most wanted to do is that of Albert Schweitzer, who gave up a brilliant career in Europe as musician, philosopher, theologian and physician, to go to the jungle of Africa and establish a hospital that has brought endless good to a strange, primitive folk. Through that sacrificial work, and through his writings, he has been acclaimed as "the greatest man in the world!" He himself, however, is one of the humblest of men.

Many of us may become discouraged and unhappy over the doing of what may appear to us, at times, as menial tasks, but it all fits into the pattern of our lives, and all performance should have its own satisfaction, glow and hope and happiness. Even the doing of the difficult things.

THE FATAL LEAP

I know how if will be next Sunday.

There will be a small, gentle slope referred to (but not by me) as "the beginners hill." I will stand upon the summit of this modest mound, my skis together my professionally, my slightly ahead of the other. I will be leaning easily on my poles, flexing the steel tentatively. By controlling my breath from the upward herring-bone climb and shooting the fresh winter beauty of the landscape.

I will be rather conscious of the impressive picture I am making and will try not to posture before the envious glances of the beginners about me. A fleeting look or utter contempt and pity will cross my features when those of the snow, 'Clumsy clod!" I will say to myself.

Looking down the slope I will plot my run and, indeed, will see the whole thing performed in my imagination.

That small bit free down there, for example. I will do a graceful Christiana about it, causing gasps of admiration from the crowd of the spectators as the powder snow showers under my gleaming skis.

Then, while they are still transfixed, I will leap into a jump turn, beautifully executed, of course. I will run the last of the slope fearlessly, straight down, while the students look at me in crisp snow and the wind rushing past my face makes their own, breathless melody.

Then at the bottom I will skate effortlessly, shushing through the trees, laughing with the sheer joy of the performance, while all secretly admire. I will make a graceful turn and say to each other, "That was good, Olympic champion."

Having plotted all this I will shove off from the top of the slope, feeling confident of how it will begin to part; A look of utter terror will come upon my face and I will realize that I am in a spin. Then, once more, they will be digging my remains out of the snow.

It has been this way now for three, two, then years in a row that I jumped 39 feet on skis. That was when the illusions of grandeur caught me in their death grip.

Nowadays people won't believe that I once leaped 39 feet, especially if they have seen me take off at the air and screaming girlishly on the beginners hill.

I did, though, and it was all because of a man named "Nip" Stone, my first and most enduring hero. Oh, what a Greek god that man was on skis! When he'd start off the big jump, silhouetted against the cold sky, leaning far out over the points of his heavy jumping planks, his arms outstretched and behind him like an eagle in flight, I wanted nothing more in life than to be in his ski tracks.

Each weekend, over and over, I'd practise leaping from ski jumps of my own making. Sometimes, after a competition, I would be accorded the honor of giving "Nip" Stone a rub-down with Sloan's Liniment (the sharp aroma of that preparation still reminds me of him) and I would listen to him describe each of his jumps.

It was this that inspired me to enter my name next year in the junior jumping competition. The juniors jumped on a slope known as "B" hill, right alongside the big jump and, from below, it looked like a childish affair, but much higher than my own modest efforts.

It did, at any rate, until the day I found myself at the top of it, "Nip" Stone and the rest of the chaps below to launch me into glory. The spectators down there, spectators all, were a blurred mass. My heart beating a samba in my throat and then, for a glorious moment, I was flying.

They measured it carefully, from the take-off to the great, gouging hole my body made on landing. It was the last time I jumped, but I never forgot it and I don't believe anybody else forgot it.

Just A Wish

This has been my approach to skiing every year since that distant day. Here is the death struggle of a middle-aged man to prove by proof that there is no such thing as a fountain of youth in this most joyful of sports.

Year after year, standing there on the crest of the hill, the sound of the head of some baby slope, I feel the surging of an idiot confidence that this year will be the one when the old heart and lungs churns through my imagination will happen in fact when the trouble begins. Just for the moment is the knowledge that I frequently lose my balance and have to resort to arm-co-ordination runs amok the instant it seems ski wax.

Then, when I am at my maximum inept, one moment the poised athlete, the next moment (and for the remainder of the winter) a flailing, floundering figure garnished with open mouth by small children and little old ladies who glide serenely by my horizontal, broken body.

MYSTERY OF THE WELL BALANCED DIET

"Most of us get about all the vitamins we need from an ordinary well-balanced diet."

Some quick trick specialist first made this assertion about 20 years ago when our knowledge of vitamins was so new persons in a position to question an "eminent specialist" or a big shot pleased to make on the subject—as Willie Self-constituted authorities made some pretty bold assertions.

The hackneyed line above quoted appeared only the other day in the newspapers as the opinion of a medical writer.

Originally, to the best of my knowledge, a "well-balanced" diet was one that included protein (such as lean meat, cheese, egg white), fat and carbohydrate (starch and sugar) in the proportions of, say 3, 2 and 14 or more ounces, respectively. The original contention was that a diet of, of course, had no reference to vitamins, and so far as minerals were concerned they were largely ignored or only casually considered as "salts". So the chartists who cater such banalities as the one above quoted are merely confusing their customers when they do so well enough to suit the requirements of a lot of paying customers.

Has any self-constituted medical authority from the best advertised "clinic" or from the Stalwen Institution ever really told and predicted how much carbohydrate food and in what form it should be eaten by any man, woman or child, for a "well-balanced diet"?

Come to think of it, the answer to my question is maybe yes. Often I asked this question and several years ago I received an answer that had me muttering in my beard. Some correspondent sent me an elaborate chart he or she had apparently shorted from many centigrams of this, that and the other food item furnishing so many units or milligrams of this, that and the other vitamin, mineral, protein, fat, sugar or starch. The author assured me that the quantities of the foods listed, if eaten daily, supplied all known essentials of a well-balanced diet. I never did venture to dispute the allegation. I dropped algebra after a dismal year or two of it in high school (not that I ever grasped it) and puzzling over this elaborate chart the nutritionist submitted gave me a headache. I do know that I could not respond like that again.

Doctors who don't think much of the intelligence of their patients have the neatest way of evading embarrassing questions about the well balanced diet — questions they are asked often. They parry such questions just as they do questions about what actually ails the patient; they pretend has a bad "cold"—they say or imply that every body knows what that means, and their customers pursue the matter no further because they're afraid they will show their ignorance.

If the medical mountebanks who prate about well-balanced diet would just specify what kind of bread or breakfast one should eat, if any—but, shucks, they don't—and for that matter I don't tell you why they don't.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Dextrie Arrows

Before I stopped taking a daily dose of digitalis and began taking an optimal daily ration of vitamin B complex instead, I handed your booklet to our physician and asked what he thought of it. He said he'd read it and tell me later. Next day he called me to say that he agreed with you and that I should switch to B complex just as you suggest. I have been taking it for nearly a year and never in my life have I felt better, according to the doctor, had better heart action . (E. W.)

Thank you kindly. Any reader who, poor geek, imagines a daily dose of digitalis essential to keep his heart going, may send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for the booklet C. V. D. Please show it to your doctor—it may help him have, according to the doctor, had better heart action . (E. W.)

Water, Water

Firm believer in "8 glasses of water daily," but our water is sulfur water and I wonder if the chemicals used in a desulfuring installation are harmful to health? (Mrs. N. R. S.)

Answer—No, neither is the sulfur—removing chemical in your water. In my opinion three glasses or 18 glasses of water daily are all sufficient and I am depending entirely on whether one is thirsty or not.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

There is no class distinction in Canada, it says here. But it is not true. Not quite true. How often do you have truck drivers and bank managers to dinner? If you are a doctor, how many times a month do you invite skilled mechanics or grocery store keepers in for the evening? The great majority of us seem to live in fairly strictly within certain limits in choosing our friends according to income.

Those limits are not set by income, nor by education per by social standing, but by the social firm that by examining your own personality, by the various factors have something to do with it. We certainly have class distinctions in Canada. But they are intangible.

Professional men, such as doctors, lawyers, managers of business, seem to prefer one another's company, and oddly enough, so do their wives. In such groups you will find the full range in incomes from deeply-in-debt up to very-well-off; and they all get along fine together. Educationally, they have little in common; the doctor may be an ignoramus in everything save medicine; the lawyer may be a bore on the subject of politics; they have come up from the machine shop, quit school at grade eight, or have been to one of the best, still is the life of the party. In the same way the typical professional-social group may consist of men born on poor farms, parents of which can't read or write, wealthy distillers.

The skilled mechanic group are no less choosey. Teachers, branch bank managers and telephone girls sometimes form a salesmen bunk in together. No class could be more exclusive than the general laborers. But comfort in each other's society that defines the social group or class. And mutual interest in our livelihood and the way of life it imposes on us, and oddly enough, source of that comfort for most of us. Most men in this paper could spend any leisure with people whose interests are either far above or far below our own.

The $100 Grant To Cheese Banquet Industries

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I have noticed in your "City council news" last week a mention of a $100 gift to the new cheese industries for a celebration banquet. It strikes me as very interesting that one of the wealthy industries in Belleville should need financial assistance from the citizens. Surely, aside from their financial status, I should like to know whether the city intends to continue this new established precedent. Under such circumstances I should be able to presume that any new or expanding business may expect to receive grants from the city. It is most important that present and future Belleville business men should know about this as it will naturally have to be figured into planned costs. I should like to know whether $100 is to be the limit, or a standard grant, or whether it will be graduated in accordance with the size of the business—or number of employees. Since most of this company's employees are residents of Belleville and consequently much of the benefit of this grant will go to the city council in their regular meetings. But, since the meetings are held in the afternoons as that most business men and their employees are unable to attend, I suggest that such discussion has gone unheard by the citizens. If your paper could arrange with some councilman or the city clerk for an explanation of the workings of this new grant and then could publish it, I am sure many businessmen would be appreciative. Incidentally you might ask whether this is to be reimbursed to the first of the year.

—A Resident of Belleville.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WE CAN MAKE OURSELVES UNHAPPY

Asked how it was that he got along so well with everybody, a little old man replied: "I never put anybody in my despisery."

Some folks have a "despisery" as commodious as the biggest deep freeze in the market, but if they put all sorts of people. There is the man who has many characteristic his classmates dislike; the minister who preaches too long; the politician who believes in the opposite party; the TV actor who tries to be funny and isn't. Many a person of promise has had his life or hers ruined by toting these items around and by reading the list over at every off moment.

We will give up this sort of thing we may have to suffer a few fools and—other things gladly but that is not too big a price to pay for peace of mind. We can be sure that our despisery list will make us a lot more unhappy than the people we despise.

There are many silly and annoying people in the world. Let us reconcile ourselves to that fact. (Maybe we are among the number.) So let us be patient with others—with life's events; above all, with ourselves.

DRUG ADDICT ACTIVE

Toronto, Nov. 28.—(CP) — An armed drug addict Monday night held up the third city drugstore to be robbed in three weeks, taking a quantity of narcotics and $50 in cash.

An hour earlier, two gunmen held up a dry-cleaning firm, blinding clerk Mrs. Margaret Morrison and escaping with $10 in cash.

Police described the drugstore bandit as "an addict desperately in need of narcotics with no other means of getting enough."

Recreational Program In Belleville

1.—The objective of the Recreation Committee is to create and maintain recreation facilities and provide leadership and supervision in their full use for all age groups in Belleville.

2.—It is the earnest desire of the Recreation Committee to work harmoniously with all organizations who use these facilities.

3.—We mean by recreation, to provide and promote, playgrounds, rinks, athletic fields, drama and music, crafts and hobbies, picnic facilities, swimming facilities and eventually many other activities.

4.—In the past the creation, maintenance and supervision has been by fincertain financial support. The Recreation Committee received this year a grant from the City Council of approximately one-half mill. However the following has been accomplished.

(a) Nine playgrounds equipped, maintained and supervised, also the supervision supplied for the C.N.R. playground. These playgrounds had a registered attendance of 1,500 children.

(b) Facilities made available for Pee Wee softball, Pee Wee and Minor hardball and Minor soccer.

(c) Five outdoor rinks for hockey and skating erected and maintained.

5—Recreation Does Not End Here

To develop an all round recreational program there should be committees formed to head each facet of the recreational facilities. It is the hope that existing groups would form the basis of these committees. Each committee would be responsible for their program and budget. It is our intention to provide a fuller program with better facilities and supervision. With the continual growth of Belleville additional playgrounds are a necessity.

In order that your Recreation Committee may be able to promote and develop an all round recreational program it is necessary they have an annual guaranteed income, and the only way this is possible is for every taxpayer to vote in favor of the by-law granting one mill for Recreation purposes. This actually means an additional half mill more than the grant we received from the City Council this past year.

WEDDINGS

STEPHENSON—McINTYRE

Tall white standards of white chrysanthemums and ferns formed a lovely setting in Victoria United Church, Victoria, on Saturday, November 3rd, at 3.30 p.m., for the marriage of Rita Rebecca McIntyre, of Amelias-burg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew McIntyre, to Joseph Paul Stephenson, of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Stephenson. The Reverend C. J. P. Henderson officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Brian Crook, rendered the wedding music and the soloist, Miss Marilyn Barber, sang before the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer" and during the ceremony "Because."

Given in marriage by her father the bride was charming in her bridal gown of white slipper satin and chantilly lace, fashioned with molded bodice, featuring a jewel neckline, long tapered sleeves, and sheath-like sleeves pointed over the hand. The bouffant skirt, with matching chantilly lace side panels, ended in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of nylon net was caught by a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of Bettertime red roses.

Miss Mary Stephenson, of Montreal, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, attractively gowned in a white satin made on similar lines to that of the bride. She wore a matching nylon cap, and carried a hand bouquet of white and yellow chrysanthemums tied with white and yellow ribbon.

Miss Minnie McIntyre, of Melville, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, becomingly attired in blue satin, fashioned similarly to that of the matron of honor's. She wore a matching headdress and carried a hand bouquet of white and pink chrysanthemums tied with white and pink ribbon.

Little Betty McIntyre, four-year-old sister of the bride, was flower girl, sweet in her floor-length yellow taffeta dress with matching halo in her dark hair, and carrying a pink rose nosegay.

Master Bobbie Marshall, of Hamilton, also a four-year-old cousin of the bride, nattily attired in grey flannel with green jacket and white carnation boutonniere, was ring bearer, carrying a white satin cushion on which reposed the two wedding rings.

Mr. William Stephenson, of Montreal, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and the ushers, Mr. John McIntyre, of Ameliasburg, brother of the bride, and Mr. Arthur Adams, also of Ameliasburg.

At the reception, which was held in the church assembly rooms, the bride's mother, received in blue crepe with navy blue accessories, and wearing a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses, received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore green crepe, with brown accessories and corsage of yellow mums.

For the wedding trip to Montreal, the bride chose a navy blue suit, with matching blue shortie coat, and red rose corsage. Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson are residing in Rossmore.

Out-of-town guests were present from Hamilton, Montreal, Belleville, Hillier, Melville, Stirling and Wreaxham.

LAVENDER—MOLLARD

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Gardener, 1236 Gladstone Ave., Windsor, was beautifully decorated with varied colored mums on Saturday, Nov. 17th, 1951, at 8 p.m. when Miss Ruth Mollard, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Horton, of Lincoln Road, Windsor, and Joseph B. Lavender, Wellington, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lavender, were united in marriage.

The bride was charming in a street length dress of sapphire blue velvet with a white lace berths collar over pink long tight sleeves, the skirt featured a front peplum and rippling side drape. A blue vevet hat of same material trimmed with pink, blue shoes, and gloves completed her costume. Her corsage was of Johannahill roses.

Mrs. Robt. Gardener, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, dressed in wine velvet made on similar lines as the bride's, with matching accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Mr. Everett Lavender, of Wellington, was best man for his father.

For a short honeymoon spent room table was artistically decorated for the occasion, centred with a four tiered wedding cake flanked by pink and white candles. A buffet supper was then served to over 70 guests.

For a short honeymoon sent in the U.S.A. the bride chose a dress of brown with brown and aqua accessories and dark teal blue coat. They will reside at the groom's home in Wellington.

REID—FREEMAN

A double ring ceremony took place in Christ Church in this city Thursday evening, Nov. 22nd at 7.30 p.m. when the Rev. Canon Wm. Wright, assisted by the curate Rev. Harry Anne Elizabeth Freeman, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thelma Reid, of Plainfield.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. James L. Alexander, was charming in a street length dress of navy blue triple sheer, fashioned in white dalotex, featuring a Chinese neckline. Her corsage was of Bettertime roses and bouvardia and her headdress was white crepe feather and net with shoulder length veil.

She was attended by Mrs. Ben Howell who wore a light blue suit and matching hat and corsage of red carnations and bouvardia.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Wallace Reid.

Mrs. Grace Leeman Calvert, organist of Christ Church, presided at the organ, the soloist was Master Jack Calnan, Christ Church boys' choir, who sang before the ceremony "O Perfect Love" and "O Happy Day" and the setting of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, during the signing of the register.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. R. Alexander, 144 Station Street, who wore black chiffon velvet and corsage of red roses. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore navy blue romain crepe and corsage of red roses.

The room was daintily decorated with pink and white streamers and white wedding bells, the bride's table was centred with a three-tier wedding cake and silver candelabra with white candles; a buffet luncheon was served.

Later the happy young couple motored to Kingston for a short honeymoon, the bride visiting her sister, Miss Verna Freeman who is in Kingston General Hospital with polio.

Belleville Couple Observe Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. W. Emerson Guests of Honor at Dinner

Residents of this city for the past 35 years, Mr. and Mrs. Robt. W. Emerson, 8 Everett Street, observed the 50th anniversary of their marriage on Tuesday. The occasion was marked by an anniversary dinner at the home of their son in Parkwood Heights, when all members of the family were present.

Married at Actinolite, (then Bridgewater) just half a century ago, Mr. and Mrs. Emerson farmed for 15 years in Rawdon township before moving to the city, where for the next 20 years Mr. Emerson was employed as a machinist in the moulve power department of the C.N.R.

The groom of 50 years is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Emerson, while Mrs. Emerson is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Remington of Remington Corners in the Queens-borough area.

Mrs. Emerson was washing windows at the church at the time the first year picture husband, she recalls. The acquaintanceship strengthened, but romance was interrupted when the Emerson family decided to move to Manitoba.

But true love was not to be denied, and the future groom lost no two harvest excursions to the West and on his second trip brought his bride back home with him. Mr. Emerson has never revisited the West.

Although they have lived most of their married lives in the city both still have a liking for the place. "Put at our age I guess we would not be much use there," Mr. Emerson admits. He is 75 while Mrs. Emerson is 72.

Mr. Emerson retired from the railway ten years ago but a bit of idleness did not appeal to him and he went to the Belleau Lake Inn, operated by a grandson, remaining there until 1947. Since then he has followed the job at the Hotel Quinte.

"And I expect to stay there for some time," he says.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Emerson have remarkably good health and are regular attendants at Tabernacle United Church.

They have two children and the same number of grandchildren, all of whom were present at the anniversary dinner.

One son, Kenneth, is associate manager of the Woolworth store in Montreal where he has been for a number of years. Another son, Robert, is a member of the Belleville Fire Department and lives in the city. A daughter, Mrs. Barney Sheffield, also lives in Belleville.

Y's Menettes Club Holds Bridge, Euchre

The Y's Menettes Club held their first bridge and euchre in the Y.M.C.A. on Monday night and an enjoyable time was had by all present.

The prize winners were for bridge, high lady, Mrs. W. A. Holway; high man, Mr. L. M. McLean; low lady, Mrs Nancy Redfern; low man, Mr. Roscoe Mooney; bidden prize, Mrs. C. J. Rosendahl. For euchre, high lady, Mrs. P. Wesley; high man, Mr. J. B. Leslie; low lady, Mrs. J. Kay; low man, Mr. Morley Loveless; lady's lone hand, Mrs. K. Clarke; man's lone hand, Mr. J. B. Leslie.

The door prize, a basket of groceries, was won by Mrs. J. Boettcher.

An impromptu feature of the evening was the Chinese auction of a lovely cocoanut cake which proved to be a lot of fun and realized $3.50 for the club treasury while casting the final bidder, Mr. Harry Fuke, a fraction of that amount. This auction was the suggestion of Jack Pletch, the capable master of ceremonies.

Refreshments were served at the close of the evening by Mrs. T. Hutchinson and the social committee while Mrs. F. E. Clarke and the service committee were in charge of the card party.

Queen Mary Makes Gracious Reply to Letter

Mrs. P. B. Hamilton, of R.R. 7, Belleville, who wrote a letter to Queen Mother Mary at the time of the visit to this city of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, has received an answer from Queen Mary's secretary.

Mrs. Hamilton's letter to Queen Mary recalled the visit made to Belleville in October, 1901, of King George V and Queen Mary (then the Duke and Duchess of York). She enclosed in the letter a clipping from the "50 years ago" column of the Ontario Intelligencer.

The letter from Queen Mary informed Mrs. Hamilton that she well remembered her own visit to Canada and that she was pleased at the reception being given (when the letter was written) to Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Dr. Austin Smith Addresses Women's Canadian Club On 'Medical Care in Future'

Dr. Austin Smith, M.D., C.M., M. Sc. of Chicago, distinguished editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association, noted author of several books, and native son of the city, last evening spoke to a capacity audience at the last open meeting of the season of the Women's Canadian Club, in Bridge Street Church Sunday School room, on the topic of paramount interest to many, "Medical Care in the Future."

Dr. Smith, replying to the introductory address of the president, Mrs. E. Hickey, mentioned that it had been a long time, some 20-25 years or more since he had attended Sunday School in the familiar rooms, which revived old memories, and of his pleasure in visiting again the city of his birth and early education.

Visits European Countries

In opening his address, Dr. Smith took his audience in a quick trip to Europe, and the countries he had visited recently in his practice of that amount. This auction was the suggestion of Jack Pletch, the capable master of ceremonies.

Denmark he found was not unlike Canada or the United States. The people have a fine admiration for both countries, and are a spirited race, proud of their independence, loyal and individualistic. Their medical care has a minimum of governmental control; they dictate their own care, choose their own doctors, and have a voluntary insurance plan, which takes care of most of the bills, but the individual pays as much as he can. There is fine co-operation between the people and the medical profession. They take great pride in their hospitals which are not six hours distance by train. They have a dream hospital at Copenhagen—but it will break the city to run it.

Norway is a great country, but undeveloped. The people speak English well, and determined on freedom, but being poorer than Denmark, have socialism thrust upon them. They neither like it nor want it, and are determined to resist it with ching, up.

At Oslo, Dr. Smith visited the Kontiking home, saw the Kon Tiki raft and other interesting sights.

Sweden Fajalistic

In Sweden, Dr. Smith found the people of a different spirit, being of a fatalistic turn of mind. All were not socialistic. Here the Swedish hospital is centralized in practice where the patients are so per cent covered by insurance. The physician cannot attend the patient who enters a hospital, all he can do is temporarily turn him over to the hospital door. This is one small degree tends to separate the patient from his physician after the patient returns home.

Switzerland is a delightful land, where one is made to feel at home. Each people here are exceedingly individualistic, with strange customs. There are no club rooms, as known in Canada. They think openly, talk freely about the surrounding countries. Here the medical care system is voluntary, not governmental, and takes care of most illnesses, pay for drugs, but the system is not abused. They import 80 per cent of drugs from the United States, penicillin, streptomycin and but two, vitamins and the hormones. The tax laws make it difficult to export either of these drugs. As a whole, the people are an aggressive freedom - loving race.

1000 Drugs Manufactured

In Norway there is some control over physician and patient. Only 1,000 drugs are manufactured in Norway. A pharmacist cannot leave his store, upon his decease to his family; it becomes the property of the government.

France, he found to be a country of individualists. You are made welcome, but the Frenchman is taught to be suspicious of every proposition, every official, and every law, looking at them with a "What's wrong — with it?" attitude. Even taxis run helter-skelter. As a nation, the people are not united. They have a system called "social security" but it is different to the system as known here. They pay a great deal of money in for what they receive. Eighty per cent is paid by the social security. The patient still pays his account, then sends it to the social security bureau who reimburse him.

Depressing Country

Dr. Smith found Germany a depressing country. Judging by what one sees of the people it will be a long time before it is known which way the country is likely to go, either spiritually or socially. Ruins are attractive with vines, nothing left to teach the younger generation the horrors of war; food is plentiful, hotels, restaurants, beer gardens going in full blast.

German people are adept at reproducing but not in creating. Their main work is the manufacture of tools and cars. Germany is sick both physically, mentally, there is a disquieting attitude with resentment rife against the occupation. Medicine is inadequate to make a living. England, too, is in a sorry state from which it may not recover, financially bad, and the socialistic regime has created dire problems, and of one fantastic things.

Canada Underwriting

Here the individual can demand medical care but which is inadequate. The people wait in queues meeting in the physician's office purely for gossip. The physicians cannot turn away any who come to him not even a mere church. Nothing seems favorable, physician, pharmacists or patients who are herded like cattle for attention. The pocketbooks and banks are being drained and the Canadian people are underwriting it.

This unrealistic system was given to get votes and is a real problem. Churchill thinks to depationalize as much of it as he can by a piecemeal process to the highest bidder.

Voluntary System ?

In closing, Dr. Smith mentioned Canada and the United States, using clippings from the Ontario Intelligencer on the hospitalization theme, stating that it is beyond the average working man's ability to pay. If he can pay for a car, or a trip to Florida, he can at least save 35 cents per day for the operation that may come on. The fee charges have not increased as much as have wages, which have risen 185 per cent.

The medical care system should include physicians' care and pay as you wish by the voluntary system.

Dr. James H. Forrester tendered a vote of thanks to Dr. Smith for his authoritative and timely talk on the voluntary system versus the socialistic plan.

HOTEL FIRE PROBED

St. Thomas, Ont., Nov. 28 (CP) —Search for the body of Fergus James Ferguson, 73-year-old resident of the Hotel Talbot, unreported since fire destroyed the hotel block in a $200,000 Sunday morning blaze has started. Inspector Ray J. Simmons of the Ontario fire marshall's department, Toronto, arrived in St. Thomas Monday night and immediately opened an investigation.

ONE-PLATTER DINNER
Creamed Salmon in Mashed Potato Border
Quick-Cooked Spinach
Shoe-string Carrots
Buttery Beets
Cherry Puff Coffee
(Directions!)

This dinner is potable for its good looks. When the creamed salmon (see below) is made, turn it into a ring of hot mashed potatoes arranged at centre of large platter. Garnish with parsley.

CREAMED SALMON

For one 1-pound can salmon, pick up one cup bones. Mix the whole milk with the liquid drained from can. Mix together 2 tablespoons flour and 4 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Rubber and stir this mixture into the hot milk mixture until thick. Flake the salmon and remove bones and skin. Add to sauce. If desired add 1-2 cup cooked peas, then serve on a platter. Garnish with parsley.

CREAMED SALMON

For one 1-pound can salmon, pick up one cup bones. Mix the whole milk with the liquid drained from can. Mix together 2 tablespoons flour and 4 tablespoons melted butter or margarine. Rubber and stir this mixture into the hot milk mixture until thick. Flake the salmon and remove bones and skin. Add to sauce. If desired add 1-2 cup cooked peas, then serve on a platter. Garnish with parsley. Add salt and pepper to taste. Add salt and pepper to taste.

The shoe-string carrots could be arranged in attractive piles, alternately with the quick-cooked (1/2 wide) bright green spinach. You can imagine how attractive this would be around the mashed potato border filled with creamed salmon.

To make the shoe-string carrots, cut the raw carrots in 4 or 6 lengthwise slices. Place these flat on your chopping board and with sharp knife cut the slices into 1/4" wide strips or "shoe-strings" before they are cooked. They keep their shape very well without breaking.

CHERRY PUFF

One 20 oz. can Montmorency cherries, 2 1-4 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1-2 cup sifted cake flour, 6 tablespoons sugar, 2 egg yolks, beaten until thick and lemon-colored, 2 egg whites, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon cream of tartar. Heat canned cherries. Mix together the tapioca, sugar and salt and stir into the fruit and cook stirring one minute. Pour into greased baking dish and keep hot. Sift flour and measure. Rest sugar and yolks until light. Beat whites and salt until foamy and then add cream of tartar and beat until stiff. Fold yolk mixture into whites, sift some flour over and fold it in until all is used. Give the fruit mixture a stir before pouring the batter smoothly over it. Bake at 325 deg. fahr. for 50 minutes or until cake is baked. Serve warm.

Note: Fresh or canned peaches, blueberries or apples may be used instead of cherries.

The cherry mixture is poured over the cherries in Cherry Puff is an excellent one for individual baking dishes. You may want to double it though—if so go ahead.

Simple variations are (1) Put about 1 tablespoon of raspberry jam in bottom of buttered custard cup and cover with about 2 tablespoons of the batter and bake or (2) use marmalade or black currant jelly or (3) ice cream batter or (3) it is good with strawberry sauce which has been cooked.

In fact it is such a light and yummy little batter that you should eat this recipe out and file it away in your "Pudding" folder.

The Christmas cake recipe that I promised you will be in this column tomorrow.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

She Married Rashly — Now Regrets It

Why so many people, especially women, will rush into marriage with someone about whom they know practically nothing, is a mystery that never ceases to baffle me completely. It seems incredible that those who marry under such circumstances could ever expect the marriage to be successful. Yet they seem to take on such a matrimonial project with no idea at all that it is gambling of the most hazardous kind, and when everything turns out all wrong, they couldn't be more surprised.

You'd think such a thing could not possibly happen to anyone who had been married before, but I think that the experience of marriage would make clear to a man or woman the things that are absolutely essential for marital success, and make them wilfully shut without those things allure is practically inevitable. But no; they seem to learn nothing from a previous marital experience, as witness the following from a woman reader:

"My husband and I have been married for more than a half, and I have been terribly unhappy.

"My first husband passed away after 23 years of marriage, I had three children, and after they were all grown up and married, I was very lonely as I went to work. It was there I became acquainted with my present husband. I worked for him for three years and he was always very good to me. Finally we decided to marry.

"While going with him, I had on several occasions reasons that made me feel I couldn't trust him. That feeling has grown so big, it completely overwhelms me. I can't seem to get away from it. I seem to know so little about him. He never tells me anything about himself. I know now, he has been married twice before, and that both marriages ended in divorce, but for a long time I only knew about one wife. Then his sister happened to tell me he had had two. So many things have happened that have made me incontestably feel that I don't believe in him or trust him.

No Trust — No Happiness

"We are living in my house, which he has modernized and does many things to improve. We have everything to make us happy. I am working again, having decided to do that so I wouldn't have to keep using some money of my own for things I needed, and I thought, too, that it would keep me busy and so help me mentally, as I grieve very much about this marriage and would give anything to get away from it.

"Do you think there is any chance I can ever believe my husband, and be happy with him?"

There is nothing more certain than that this wife will never be happy with her husband until she does believe in him. Conversely, unless and until she can believe in him, she is never going to be happy with him. It is as simple as that.

The trouble with this woman, who went rashly ahead and married a man about whose character she already had doubts in advance, quite obviously was her loneliness, as she suggests. But instead of taking steps to fill her life with friends, and many interests and activities, so that she would no longer be lonely, she took what she thought would be a quick solution to her problem in the form of a second marriage.

This is, indeed, a sorry situation, for which the only remedy I know is to do what she would have done in the first place and find new interests that will take her mind off her difficulties. A job alone, which she evidently has, will not suffice. She needs most of all new friends through whom she can become interested in other people and other things. She might try this first and see of it helps. She might also, if she has not done so already, try confessing her doubts and perplexities to her husband, to see if he can explain them away. But if neither of these procedures

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON
(Mgr. Qui Vive)

Harried Mom's a Menace to Good Looks

It would seem that many women have time for everything except their own well-being. You call up an old friend and you are distressed to be told that she's laid up with nervous exhaustion. You meet another one and you haven't seen for some time and find she has developed wrinkles. Everybody going lick-ity-split.

Have Pleasant Conversation at the Dinner Table.

With some people, eating is a chore that has to be done. The more quickly it is over the better. The home-body makes herself a cup of tea and a peanut butter sandwich; too much trouble to cook anything — anyhow, she isn't interested. The career girl, intent on beating it to a special sale at something or other, settles for a soda at the fountain. And all of them belong to the grand army of beauty seekers. They expect to look lovely, stay young forever, don't beat it, can you?

Taking care of the health and sticking to correct eating habits is one way of beautifying the complexion. The skin, like every part and cell of the body, depends upon nutrition. If you do not fuel up properly, yet work like an old steam engine . . . as many women do these days . . . your skin will be pale, grey or sallow. What a price to pay for calms her mind, then she had better consider whether boldly striking out for herself, with a determination to overcome her loneliness, by the means I have suggested, might not be her wisest answer.

self-neglect.

Each meal should be a pleasant interlude in the day's activities. Food should be eaten slowly. The first processes of digestion are performed by the teeth. They are the little choppers that see that proper groceries for entrance to the stomach. Because of mastication, gastric juices are present in larger quantities. This element is necessary for assimilation.

There are three salivary glands in the mouth. They are unfavorably influenced by hurry and unpleasant emotions. Fear, worry and arguments will make them go on strike. If food is not appetizing, they refuse to function. It is true that the sight and smell of deliciously prepared foods make the mouth water. The digestive organs are, gaily, waiting for their groceries...to be delivered. The saliva contains an element known as ptyalin, necessary for the assimilation of starchy foods.

Make it a point to have pleasant conversation at the dinner table. The woman who has it in mind to start a battle with her old man, or bawl out the kids, should at least spare them at mealtime. To scold children at the table is cruel and unreasonable. Actually they shouldn't be scolded at any time; they should have their explosions by them. Nagging mothers have made thousands of husbands and children run away from home.

Fashion Flashes

JUST NOW it's the mode but for afternoon, judging from the choice of shoppers. A square, flat bag of antelope is decorated with a large, three-dimensional flower done in pearls, colored stones and gold bullion thread.

* * *

TAKEN FROM AN HOTEL lobby, recently redecorated, is a new color that is attracting attention. It is a vivid shade somewhere between purple and royal blue — not too easy to wear but quite striking.

* * *

THE BIG SENSATION of the fall world is modelled by Balenciaga smartly copied and adapted for wear here. The jacket is fitted in front, closing with a multi-buttoned single line, but in back is loose and swingy. The skirt is arrow-slim.

* * *

IDEAL for youthful dance dresses are delicate candy colors such as pale blue, pale green and light pink. Done in these shades is a charming swing dress with self cording making shoulder straps that continue down the bodice and onto the full skirt where the cording is used to give a lengthening silhouette, ruling the widely flared hem at either side into soft tucks.

* * *

STEPPING OUT with daytime clothes can suit from the alligator pump in such colors as wine, grey, red and dark green, as well as the suede. The medium heel is favored as the shoes are really for walking.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Cornelius Beekman

New Baby Tots Your? Include Birth-Announcement on Christmas Card

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

My husband has suggested that this Christmas we send cards signed with the names of each of our two young sons, and even the name of our baby daughter born last May. Would this be correct? Would including the date of our baby's birth be "just too much" on this kind of card? (I never did get around to sending birth announcements.) And I'm sure there are still many friends who live at a distance who don't know about the baby's arrival.) Should we use "Mr. and Mrs. . . ." for our signature? Will you please suggest a proper form?

Your husband's idea is excellent . . . correct, practical, pleasant! As a matter of fact, very often a baby's name (and often, too, the date-of-birth) is included on the Christmas cards, to "announce" the birth of a baby during the year preceding Christmas.

Please don't write "Mr. and Mrs." in the signature . . . no title in a signature. Write your husband's name first . . . the father's name comes first when the names of children are included in the signature. Here's a good form:

Greetings from The Bakers . . . all five!
John and Beatrice
Tommy and Dick and our new daughter Anne
(born May first, 1951)

The Parents of the Bride-to-be For These Expenses

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

Please answer two questions for me: (1) Who pays the expenses of the engagement announcement party or reception? and (2) who pays the expenses of the wedding?

Reader.

(1) The parents of the bride-to-be are the hosts of the engagement - announcement party . . . and therefore they are the ones who pay the expenses of the party. (2) And the parents of the bride-to-be are the hosts of the wedding and the wedding reception . . . and therefore they are the ones who pay the expenses of the wedding and the wedding reception.

Courtesy vs. Discourtesy in Manner of Leaving a Group

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

What would you call a person who, when someone starts to tell something, gets up and starts a conversation with another person? My friends say she is uneducated, ignorant, uncouth. What do you think?

M. S.

If you mean that this person makes a practice of doing this, of course I think she is discourteous, rude. She may not be "uneducated," and she may not be "ignorant" of what she is doing, but she most definitely lacks the grace and the tact and the consideration . . . for — other — people she should have to be regarded as a Woman of Courtesy.

However, sometimes it is important, necessary for a person in one group to go to speak to a person in another group . . . then she must wait for an opportune time, a break in the conversation, and excuse herself. "Will you kindly excuse me, please? . . . I want very much to give a special message to Mrs. Lane," and thus depart graciously rather than impolitely, abruptly.

Centenary-Aikens' H-S Association Holds Social Evening

Centenary-Aikens Home and School sponsored a most successful social evening last Friday with guests from the 4th concession community club present.

Mr. Dick Powell, of the National Film Board, presented three films, a travelogue on Africa, "A Champ of a Chimp," and "Soldiers of the Deep" which Swere enoyed by all.

Mr. C. Bain, president, moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Powell.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Hall and Mr. Keith Roblin rendered music for dancing with Mr. Cameron Bunnell, as caller for the square dancing. Prizes were given for lucky spot and a birthday dance.

The convenors for the party were Mr. and Mrs. Keg Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Slingerland and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Keary.

MORE MOTHERS AND DAUGHTERS USE FIVE ROSES

"A woman has to be practical to run my household . . . the first thing I bought my daughter was to use just one flour, for all her home-baking . . . FIVE ROSES. For cakes, cookies, buns, pies and bread, there's only FIVE ROSES 'ALL PURPOSE FLOUR' is economical, dependable and nutritious. I've used FIVE ROSES for years . . . and the quality is just as good as ever—first-class!"

MRS. CLEMENT ABBOTT,
Bonavista, Nfld.

"My mother has used FIVE ROSES ALL PURPOSE FLOUR ever since I can remember . . . used it for my home-baking, and the thing I want my daughter to use, too. I depend on FIVE ROSES to ensure me of the same fine quality for tasty, nutritious results every time!"

MRS. IVY AMESBURY,
R.R. 2, St. Rose, Nfld.

"One of the many things I owe mother is the teaching she gave me in her own kitchen when I was growing up. She taught me how to bake cakes, pies, cookies and bread with FIVE ROSES ALL PURPOSE FLOUR. And that's why so well that I never have a failure in my cooking. Both my girls now are FIVE ROSES families."

MRS. JAMES MAY,
Box 274, Lunenburg, Nova Scotia

"Mother brought our whole family up on crisp, country-fresh home-bakings from FIVE ROSES flour, so naturally I use it for all my baking, too. Like every one of my husband, he likes to see a welt to get his cooking done . . . and that means FIVE ROSES . . . and when I bake a batch of bread, it seems to be eaten up in a minute! As soon as my little girl is old enough she'll begin baking with FIVE ROSES — making three generals!"

MRS. GORDON SHEPHERD,
R.R. #1, Brigden, Ontario

Every year we receive thousands of letters telling us about the wonderful home-baked cakes, cookies, pies and breads that housewives make with this original all purpose flour! We know you will be equally pleased with FIVE ROSES — the "oven tested" flour for all home-baking.

Canadian Legion Accepts Official Scout Sponsorship

Bancroft — The local branch of the Canadian Legion accepted the official sponsorship of the Bancroft Boy Scouts at a regular Legion meeting on Friday night. Previously the troop had been operating without an official sponsor, but with the financial support of the Bancroft Lions Club and parents and friends of the organization. In order that the Scouts will have a permanent meeting place, arrangements have been made for the boys to meet in the Legion Hall on Thursday nights. At present there are 51 Scouts in town and with the establishment of a regular club room officials are confident that the number will grow in the near future.

A committee consisting of William Levalley, chairman; Murray Fox, James Maxwell, S. R. Walker, Scoutmaster Henry Phillips, and Assistant Scoutmaster Albert Stapley, was appointed to be in charge of the project.

Scoutmasters Phillips and Stapley told The Ontario Intelligencer that Apple Day for the Bancroft troop would be held on Saturday, December 15th. Due to circumstances beyond control the local boys had not been able to co-operate in the recent Apple Day held by Paudash Boy Scouts in town.

Four-Alarm Fire Under Control In Washington

Washington, Nov. 28 (AP) — A four-alarm fire last night threatened an important hotel, a department store and the government section of the capital before it was brought under control today shortly before dawn.

Firemen battling the flames in below-freezing weather confined damage to two 11th Street buildings across the street from the Washington Evening Star and around the corner from Federal Bureau of Investigation headquarters.

Fireman Andrew Goldsmith was seriously injured when an air blast from an exploding window blew him off a 40-foot ladder.

One three-storey building occupied by a dance hall, a billiard parlor and a pawnbroker exchange was gutted. A second housing a drug store, watch-repair shop and a photographer's studio was damaged.

Nearby are two large hotels—the Raleigh and the Harrington—and several department stores and government buildings, including the justice department and post office department.

A block away in the old Ford Theatre, where Abraham Lincoln was assassinated.

Woman Found Brutally Beaten About the Head

Toronto, Nov. 28—(CP)—Police yesterday found Emma Gillespie, 50, a nurse at Sunnybrook Hospital, poisoned and brutally beaten about the head, lying unconscious in her blood-spattered room.

In an adjoining room, police found Jack Riley, 47-year-old boarder semi-conscious from effects of the same poison.

Police said they found a bloody hammer in Miss Gillespie's room and a bottle of poison tablets in Riley's room. They said Riley told them he had taken six tablets.

Doctors said three would have been a lethal dose but Riley made himself sick by taking the six and weakened effects of the poison.

Both Miss Gillespie and Riley were in fair condition in hospital today. Riley was under police guard.

Youth Kills Mother, Sister Police Report

Detroit, Nov. 28 — (AP) — A shy but hot-tempered assistant accountant was sought for questioning today in the bloody hatchet and knife slaying of his mother and 11-year-old sister. No formal charge has been placed against him.

The bodies of Mrs. Daisy Maurer, 44, and her daughter, Janet, were found Monday night by the husband and father, Lawrence Maurer, 46. Their bodies were hacked and their throats cut.

The youth, 18, was last seen leaving the house early Monday. A medical examiner said the two women had been slain two to 3 hours before.

Communist Truce Negotiators Will Not Ban Military Buildups In Korea During Armistice

Munsan, Korea, Nov. 28—(AP)—Communist truce negotiators today refused to ban military buildups in Korea during an armistice or to set up joint inspection teams to police the truce.

The red stand led Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, chief negotiator for the United Nations' command to express suspicion that the reds might be planning to resume fighting after a temporary truce.

Joy told reporters "the communists came out in the open and said they were completely opposed to our principles for inspection teams and guarantees against military buildups."

"They brought up the question of withdrawal of foreign troops." Joy reported. He said that with withdrawal of foreign troops" the problem "would be settled."

"You see what we are up against" the admiral asked.

Nam Il Accuses

North Korean Lt.-Gen. Nam Il accused the allies of seeking to "perpetuate an armistice" rather than solve the Korean problem.

"The withdrawal of all foreign forces is a necessary condition for a complete and peaceful settlement of the Korean question," the North Korean said. This is to be toce at a higher level. Nam Il said that is where the building question should be settled, too.

A United Nations' command communique said the red "unwillingness to curtail a military buildup might indicate that resumption of hostilities was being considered after only a temporary cessation."

"The communists moved into the open today," the communique said, "in their opposition to any limitations on the size of military forces in Korea during the military armistice and also to any concept of joint inspection by both sides to enforce such limitations."

Communists Quoted

The communique said the reds insist "these questions are beyond the scope of the (armistice) agenda and that immediate withdrawal of all foreign troops would solve the problem."

Truce negotiators reached tentative agreement on all other points for making a cease-fire effective the communique said, and then adjourned until 11 a. m. Thursday.

/ Most of the three-hour and 25-minute session Wednesday was devoted to arguing over the U. N proposals against military buildups and for joint allied-communist inspection teams.

The communists said the ideas were "inappropriate and impractical"—"fantastic and impossible." U. N. negotiators said they were essential to preventing the resumption of the war.

Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, chief U. N. delegate, said these two provisions are the meat of the allied proposal for supervising a truce. He added:

Minimum Safeguards

"The U. N. command will not agree to any armistice that does not provide minimum safeguards against the resumption of hostilities."

Joy said North Korean Lt.-Gen. Nam Il, head of the red delegation, objected to the UU. N. proposal for prohibiting an increase in military forces, equipment, supplies and facilities as going "beyond the scope of a military armistice."

The communists proposed leaving this to be included in recommendations to belligerent governments, the final point of a proposed truce agreement.

Joy said maintaining the military status quo is a military function, and property should be included in the armistice.

Staff officers on both sides began drawing on maps the southern and northern boundaries of a 2½-mile wide demilitarized zone. This buffer zone will be astride the cease-fire line. It is to become effective when an armistice is signed

In the snow outside the Panmunjom negotiating tent, communist reporters and two allied planes flew over the allied security zone surrounding the red truce headquarters Tuesday afternoon.

Churchill Declines To Say What US Aid He Seeks

London, Nov. 28 (CP) —Prime Minister Churchill declined to say today how much U.S. dollar aid he will seek for Britain when he confers with President Truman in Washington in January.

Informed sources have guessed that Britain will seek around $200,000,000 to shore up her sagging economy and limping rearmament program.

Labor member Marcus Lipton asked Churchill in the House of Commons to tell what requests for financial aid he will make of Truman. Churchill replied:

"I do not think it would be fitting for me to make a public statement now about a question on which I hope to have confidential discussions with President Truman."

Liberal Govt. Of Newfoundland Back in Power

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 28 —(CP)— Premier Joseph Smallwood and his Liberals were back in power in Newfoundland today and incomplete returns from Monday's provincial election indicated he would have an increased majority.

When counting stopped last night Liberals had won 11 seats and were leading in four others, two of them carried by Progressive Conservatives in the last election.

One of the Liberal wins, in Ferryland, was a gain from an independent who won in the 1949 election with a healthy majority.

Liberals were conceded victory when they had 10 members elected and the pattern of returns from others showed much the same trend as in 1949 when they took 22 of the 28 seats.

Gordon Higgins, Progressive Conservative organizer, said his party had not fought the election in hopes of forming a government, but hoped to elect a strong opposition.

Former Intelligence Chief Accuses Six Newspapers Of Inaccurate Reporting

New York, Nov. 28—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur's former chief of intelligence has accused six newspaper men of "inaccurate, biased and prejudiced" reporting of the Korean war, and charged their writings gave aid and comfort to the communists.

The officer is retired Maj.-Gen. Charles A. Willoughby.

In an article in the December issue of Cosmopolitan Magazine, Willoughby named the six individual newspapermen and also criticized three news-magazines. He said they "appeared to go out of their way to create defeatist thought patterns, and to belittle the country's armed forces."

Newspaper coverage of the war, Willoughby said, may have been the major factor in President Truman's decision to fire Gen. MacArthur.

Sharp denials immediately came from the newspaper men whom Willoughby identified by name. They are:

Joseph Alsop, syndicate columnist; Hanson Baldwin, military correspondent of the New York Times; Hal Boyle, war correspondent of the New York Herald-Tribune; Hal Boyle, war correspondent and columnist of the Associated Press, Drew Pearson syndicate columnist, and Christopher Rand, former member of the Herald-Tribune's Korea staff, now resigned.

"During the most difficult days in Korea," Willoughby wrote, "these men were often inaccurate, biased, prejudiced and petulant; they confused an unhappy public. The corrosive effect of their irresponsible reporting was equal to that of calculated defeatism, even if such was not intended. Their reporting furnished aid and comfort to the enemy."

Willoughby also cited Time, Newsweek and U. S. News and World Report for "inferential, if not calculated deception of the public."

In their replies, the correspondents decided having criticized the army, as such, or the individual soldiers. They said they had criticized MacArthur, for his overall decisions, and Willoughby apparently based his strategy in Korea.

Boyle criticized American intelligence in Korea, for which Willoughby was responsible, he said:

Recommend Italy Be Admitted To United Nations

Paris, Nov. 28—(Reuters)—The United Nations' trusteeship committee today decided to ask the General Assembly to recommend the immediate admission of Italy.

The voting was 50 to 5— the communist bloc opposing. Five countries were absent.

The spokesman added the council has ordered its defence production board to study the question of production of the two types of rifle and the ammunition for them.

The U.S. has argued that though the British rifle might be technically superior, this superiority does not justify re-gearing industry for its production.

Faced with a rift on methods of supervising the proposed European army, the council today asked the six countries which will take part in the army to settle their differences in a series of talks in Paris.

Robert Schuman, French foreign minister, told correspondents the army should be born within the next two months.

The U.S., France, and the European supreme commander himself, Gen. Eisenhower went the proposed 43-division force to be controlled by a supra-national political authority.

The Benelux countries—Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—are reluctant to surrender their sovereignty to this sort of authority, especially on financial questions.

STIRLING

Warden E. Bothwell Visits Rebekahs

Stirling — A joint meeting of Oakdale Rebekah Lodge, Madoc, and Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211, Stirling, was held in the latter's lodge room on Monday evening to welcome Miss Emma Bothwell of Ottawa, Warden of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario. The occasion also marked the 21st anniversary of Laurel Lodge. Mrs. Phyllis Burley of Belleville, District Deputy President of District No. 4 was also in attendance.

Birthday Cake

Cut flowers adorned the Noble Grand's and Vice Grand's desks, while a lovely birthday cake decorated with green candles in pink holders, occupied a prominent place at the front of the hall. The cake was made by Mrs. H. Mumby of Springbrook and iced by Mrs. F. Stapley and Mrs. A. Fraser.

Introduced by Mrs. Hazel Mumby, Immediate Past Noble Grand, the Assembly Warden delivered an interesting and instructive address on "The History of the Order." Mrs. H. McGowan of Madoc, Past District President, introduced Mrs. P. Burley of Belleville, District President, who also gave a short address.

Gifts were presented to the Assembly Warden with the address being read by Mrs. Claude of Madoc and the presentation being made by Mrs. Gladys Elliott, and the District President with Mrs. H. Mumby reading the address and Mrs. Bessie Patterson making the presentation.

Mrs. Roy Brown, who is leaving shortly to reside in Peterborough, was also honored with a gift. Miss Evelyn Bailey reading the address and Mrs. Mabel Barlow making the presentation.

A short program was presented under the convenership of Mrs. Bessie Patterson, assisted by Miss Evelyn Bailey.

Community singing was enjoyed with Mrs. Mildred Morrow at the piano, followed by a reading entitled, "Pastor Malcolm," by Mrs. Hilda McGowan of Madoc. Mrs. Cora Eggleton rendered a vocal solo and Mrs. Norma Stickwood of Madoc, concluded a contest.

At the conclusion of the program the guests and the birthday cake were lighted by Mrs. M. Meggison, the first Noble Grand of Laurel Lodge, and blown out by the District Deputy President.

The honor of cutting the cake fell to the Assembly Warden after which refreshments were served. A social hour brought a pleasant and profitable evening to a close.

Oddfellows Banquet

Members of the Independent Order of Oddfellows in Madoc District No. 45 gathered at Madoc on Thursday evening last to honor Dr. McKinney of Brooklin, Ont., Grand Master, of the I.O.O.F.

Following a banquet, the Grand Master delivered an outstanding address on "Oddfellowship."

Among those from Stirling who attended were Messrs. E. D. Ketcheson, Kenneth Belcourt, Mel Tanner, Don Heath, Les McKeown, W. H. Patterson, R. H. Bush, Hugh Jones, Clarke Rodgers, Alan McDonald, Harry Vandervoort, George Carlisle, R. E. Shortt and Earl Wallace.

HALLOWAY

United Church W.A. Sponsor Successful Bazaar and Tea

Halloway — The bazaar, sponsored by the Halloway United Church W.A. on Wednesday afternoon and evening, marked a worthwhile achievement on the part of this small group of ladies.

The new basement used for the first time and while it still leaves much to be desired in the way of furnishings, this bazaar will yield needed funds to help carry out additional improvements.

Prior to the bazaar, a brief program was held in the church.

Guests were welcomed at the door by Mrs. G. H. Reed, Mrs. Ernest Wilson and Mrs. Herbert Townsend. Mrs. Lorne Weir, president of the W.A., presided and Mrs. Griffin warmly welcomed the friends and expressed, on behalf of the Halloway ladies, gratitude that the basement of the church had progressed so far that it could be used on this occasion.

Excellent Program

The program which followed was excellent. Readings were given by Mrs. John McIntyre and Mrs. Russell Sills, of West Huntingdon; Mrs. Hugh McMichael and Mrs. Maurice Clancy of Eggleton sang a duet, accompanied by Mrs. Bert Reddick. Mrs. Ross played solo for community singing.

Refreshments were also served by the ladies before the bazaar was declared officially opened by the president.

Decorated with a lighted Christmas tree, evergreen boughs and Christmas colors, the basement presented a pleasing appearance. Tables were placed around three walls and across the platform.

One of the most attractive tables, due to the universal appeal of food, was the home cooking table in charge of Mrs. Kenneth McMullen and Mrs. Embury Hough. Here large quantities of buns, doughnuts, luscious cakes, pies and cookies soon were disposed of, to eager buyers.

Farm Produce

At the country store table with Mrs. Harry McMullen and Mrs. Ernest Wilson conveners, there was a good variety of farm produce: milk, eggs, pumpkins, vegetables, (with the lowly potato proving a best seller), as well as canned products and attractive jars of pickles, jams and jellies.

Next was the potted plants table with Mrs. Coleman Town-send in charge. Here the items displayed ranged from tiny cacti in attractive containers to foliage and begonias and all sorts of unique plants. There was even a jar of potted parsley for wintertime garnishing.

Along one entire wall of the basement was stretched a clothes line displaying aprons of all colors, sizes and styles. This booth too, was a great attraction will as eager crowd admiring, tryin; on and purchasing the lovely an practical aprons. Here also were ladies' and children's clothes, men-cloth, boys' shirts and ladies' skirts. Mrs. Blake McMullen and Mrs. Herbert Townsend were the busy conveners.

Just in front of the clothes line was another booth where one could buy lovely pillow cases, dresser scarves and quantities of tea towels. There were knitted mittens, socks and bedroom slippers. This handicraft was in charge of Miss Bessie McMullen and Mrs. Ray Morgan.

Novelty Table

Mrs. Don Rose and Mrs. Kenneth Denyes had their hands full satisfying customers at the novelties and rummage table. Some attractive items were noted here and the table was constantly surrounded, there was so much to be seen on it. There were hand-decorated wastebaskets, crocheted pin cushions, crocheted turtles containing cakes of soap, covered hangers with plastic pins for hanging precious aprons and plastic bags for storing the same; pot holders of every conceivable design, and many beautiful handkerchiefs with crocheted and tatted edgings.

Papers Sells

The candy table in charge of Mrs. Earl Solder and Miss Rose Reid also was a busy place as the sweets quickly disappeared. A large quantity of popcorn balls supplied by Mrs. Ernest Reid, were much in demand. At this table also were shown Christmas cards.

A friend and former resident of Halloway, Mrs. Jake Westerhof, was in charge of another popular table. Here a beautifully dressed doll, donated by Mrs. Arthur Wilson, was waiting for some lucky person to guess her name, at a dime a guess. Mrs. Earl Solder must have had supernatural powers of divination for she guessed the correct name, "Samantha." She generously donated the doll to be auctioned off by Mrs. Don Rose and as a most gratifying sum of money was realized from this item. Mrs. Ralph Smith became the possessor and some wee girl will be mighty happy come Christmas morning.

Beautiful Quilts

Across the platform had been strung a wire for ladies displaying the quilts in charge of Mrs. Lorne Wellman. This year the quilts were especially beautiful, five being shown for sale. There was an appliqued tulip quilt on white and a Dresden Plate on yellow. Mrs. I. Snell, Bowmanville, wife of a former pastor, had donated an appliqued pansy quilt top and this had been completed by the group. The beautiful needlework, both on the top and in the quilting was much admired.

Toys on the mantel and filled stockings at the fireplace left no doubt that Santa Claus could find a good assortment of toys at the toy display in charge of Mrs. Ralph Smith and Mrs. Ed. Enserink. Here were plushy elephants and squirrels, felt giraffes and pinto ponies, even Sandy Rooster in felt. There were knitted Santa Clauses, one rotund and one with modern streamlined figure; and a woolly Boston bulldog. There was a cute doll in complete crocheted outfit; painted spools and tin can sets for even the youngest members of the family.

Last, but by no means least, was a table convened by Miss Nora Wellman, proceeds of which were for the Mission Band. Nora had an attractive table with an excellent assortment of candy, popcorn, dolls, cradle, doll clothes — in fact, a miscellaneous selection which proved very popular.

The third annual bazaar is over, and the ladies all feel that it has been well worth all the time and effort expended. Thanks are expressed to all who patronized the bazaar, to the president and conveners who worked so hard to make this bazaar such a huge success.

MARMORA

Marmora — Miss Marjorie Brownlie, student nurse at Kingston General Hospital, spent Friday with her parents, Canon and Mrs. J. M. Brownlie.

DIES OF INJURIES

Rouyn, Que., Nov. 23 — (CP) — Theresa Matieau, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Matieau, died Monday as a result of injuries received when she was struck by a truck driven by Real Fairy a few hours earlier.

The child became panicky as she crossed the slippery highway, started to run and then stopped. The truck hit her as she started to run back.

Where Six Died

Two airmen guard the twisted wreckage of an R.C.A.F. aircraft in which six died in a crash on fog-shrouded Mount Bruno, 25 miles southeast of Montreal last Friday. One man survived the crash. The aircraft plowed headlong into the heavily- wooded mountain 13 minutes after taking off from nearby St. Hubert air base. — (CP Photo.)

BANCROFT

Evening Auxiliary Holds Attractive Bazaar, Tea

Bancroft — The Evening Auxiliary of the Women's Association held its annual bazaar on Saturday afternoon in the basement of St. Paul's United Church, Bancroft.

The first vice-president, Mrs. C. A. Eddy, was hostess in the absence of the president, Mrs. F. Mather.

On every table were Christmas decorations, Centering the fancywork table was a small frosted Christmas tree, trimmed with felt tree decorations which may also be used as sachets when Christmas is over. Mrs. J. P. Brown, Mrs. F. Hibbard, and Mrs. J. Vardy were in charge of this table which featured aprons, tea towels, dainty ribboned cushions, crocheted articles and novelties.

The home-baking table offered jellied salads in addition to pies, cakes, bread, rolls and cookies. Mrs. J. Young, Mrs. P. Labarge and Mrs. S. Burgess were assistants at this table.

Lapel Ornaments

Two girls' groups of the church the Explorers and the C.G.I.T., with their leaders, Mrs. Renaud and Mrs. A. W. Smith, had separate tables at which they sold their handiwork. Besides the ever-popular candy, the girls displayed felt articles, colorful Christmas lapel ornaments made of cedar sprays, cones and ribbon, birchbark napkin rings, pot-holders and hot-dish pads.

The tea table was presided over by Mrs. A. Towle. Assisting in serving guests were Mrs. K. Cutten, Mrs. Ben French, Mrs. Vance and Mrs. G. Hayton.

A popular feature each year is the Post Office and Mrs. K. G. Ellerbeck and Mrs. Andrews were soon sold out of parcels.

Window and door sprays of evergreen decorated for the Christmas season were made by Mrs. Ben French, who drew attractive additions to the bazaar tables.

Baseball Executive Council Clears Path For Third Major League

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARYER, Sports Editor

SHOULD BE A DELUY!

If you want to go into some wacky statistical "dope" the score here tonight following the Kingston SAC's - Belleville Hawks game will be 9-8. For didn't these unpredictable Kingston fans spend last period pelting the Frankenstein Eagles by a 9-7 score in Kingston Monday night while last Friday the host the Hawks could do was flatter pucs or lose helplessly, as far as scoring was concerned, against the Eagles, who, with merry a peak, endured the test.

All of which points to a flaming senior "B" bauble in Memorial Arena tonight when the victory-hungry Kingstonians tangle with the Hawks. The SAC's have looked win blood and should they'll be gunning for some of the Maple Street alley. By the same token, the Hawks, smarting from that shutout at the claws of the Eagles the other night are in savvy titter but an amiable mood, and the feathers should fly in the hockey rampleboard when the game is over.

Meanwhile the hockey "civil war" rolls merrily on its way to something or other up in Peterborough. The keen rivalry of the past two or three years between the Petes and Eagles appears to have reached an all-time high and the boys are having right merrily on the ice, of it, and in committee and OHA conclaves. They may have to appoint a truce committee or declare George Street a buffer state, if the bewildered city fathers are to keep their sanity, something the sports bods squash are "trotting the gate" when the teams clash in the home ices.

* * *

PEACEFUL PASTIME!

If the gradual trend toward playing the man rather than the puck is hockey increases, it may not be too long before casualty lists will become as part of the necessary of a game, as the goals scored. In other words the season opened mildly enough crescendoing as it progressed and blossoming out into a few fights, with an occasional Donnybrook tossed in for good measure during the melee.

Whether it's in the air, or the urge to bash, bang and battle the opposition is an offshoot of the warlike atmosphere that seems to be encompassing the world, is not known. But the fact remains that hockey this season, and it appears to be general, started off like a house afire with the license shook troops bent on wrecking the opposition with stiff legal and illegal checks that had officials in a tizzy.

There is nothing of the penalty-sated type about the type of the game being handed out to the fans this year. In the senior "B" district, for instance, in the games between the Belleville Hawks and other teams sixty-eight, count 'em — sixty-eight penalties have been issued in five games, an average of over 13 per game. Last year 19 boys were sent to the Queen's University game played here on November 14th. We are not aware of the number of sentences issued in games between other teams of the group, but from all reports, they, are on a par with the Belleville engagements.

The previous par for the course heretofore was five and six. In these days a period with less than five players serving in the hoosegow is something for the record. But don't run away with the idea that all these penalties have been dished out because of mayhemic intent on the part of players involved. A lot of them have been of the borderline type and several more should not have been issued at all.

Mayhap the present day referees are His the Isle Bill Klaus, famous league hockey umpire who, after being fed several black looks, but no comment from a batter, suddenly said: "Tah'e out of the game",

"What for?" bellowed the now indignant slugger. "I didn't say nuthin' ".

"I know" roturied Klaus, "but I know what yah're thinkin'. Tah'e out". And he was.

From here it looks as though Ontario Hockey Association referees were under orders from the start to nip anything that resembled rough play in the bud. That they have done a remarkable job along these lines is apparent in the sentence lists handed out to-date. It is a good idea in itself for no fan wants to see a shambles on the ice, players brawling, and penalties boxes crammed for the entire sixty minutes.

Neither does he want to see an Alphonse-Gaston type of hockey with time out every five minutes for kiss-and-make-up exercises. Hockey is a physical contact game, and any form of athletics that demands this is bound to be productive of flaring tempers, the occasional fight and the odd free-for-all. It happens in the best of leagues. Heck, hockey would not be hockey unless a fight or two colored the prolonged assist program.

And it is getting to the point where fandom demands on an occasional bout of fisticuffs. At a game in Memorial Arena the other night, when play slowed up somewhat and the hoosegow had been as clean as a bride's kitchen floor for five minutes, a cheering section started to chorus "We wanna fight", "We wanna fight". They weren't disappointed. It wasn't long before a high stick clipped an opposing noggin, and the battle was on.

We may yet live to see hockey players garbed like knights of old, in shining armor and armed with swords instead of hockey sticks.

Cantor to Fight Dunn in Edmonton

Edmonton, Nov. 28 (CP) — Lightweight Sally Cantor of Toronto will fly here Monday to work out for his Dec. 8 bout with Edmonton's George Dunn, fight promoter Jack Berry announced today.

Cantor came close to winning the Canadian lightweight title now held by Armand Savoie of Montreal while Dunn, a Negro battler originally from Hartford Conn., is ranked 10th among th world's lightweights by Ring magazine.

The Toronto battler was reported unofficially to have been guaranteed close to $2,000 for the Edmonton fight.

New Method of Application Calling for 8-Club Group Must Get Big Loops Approval

By JOE REICHLER

New York, Nov. 28—(AP)—The path was cleared today for the birth of another major baseball league. At the same time, the door was closed to any individual city wishing to crash the big league.

A new method of application for major-league status was recommended by the major-league executive council. The recommendation came as the council acted on a proposal made by the special committee named to study the Pacific Coast League's classification.

It specifies that applications can be made only by a group of eight clubs mutually agreeing to all requirements, making their application.

That means that these clubs must undertake to compensate to any minor leagues infringed on.

2. The club shall present with their application full data establishing their ability to meet the requirements for advanced status including a full statement as to bank ownership, financial ability and character, both of the group and the individual members.

The prospective groups shall show an aggregate of 15,000,000 population in the eight cities.

That would mean a jump of 12,000,000 from the 3,000,000 population of the two leagues, the triple-A circuits, highest in the history. P. C. L. currently has a population of some 15,000,000 to draw from. Both the international League and the American Association have a population area of around 6,000,000.

4. Each club shall have a potential minimum of 25,000 capacity in any single park.

5. The eight clubs shall have had an average attendance of 1,500,000 over a period of prior directly preceding the application. The P. C. L. was the only circuit to approach that figure last season.

Schedule of 154 games

6. They shall provide a balance schedule of at least 154 games.

7. They will adopt the major-league minimum salary agreement with no minimum salary limitations.

The major league minimum is $5,000. The maximum is believed to be around $125,000 drawn by Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox.

8. They will become parties to the major-league agreement and the major-minor agreement.

9. They will accept the uniform major-league players' contract and agreement. This includes the $10,000 waiver-price system, draft systems, etc.

10. They will join the players pension plan or adopt a comparable plan, which ever may be acceptable at the time.

Briggs Buys Buffalo Bisons

Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 28 (AP)—Walter O. (Spike) Briggs Jr., son of the owner of the Detroit Tigers, today was named president of the Buffalo Bisons of the International League. Purchase of the local club by the Tigers was made final Sunday by the approval of the local stockholders. The purchase price was $100,000.

Chevrefils Tops AHL Scorers

New York, Nov. 28 (UP)—Buddy O'Connor, an ex-Toronto Maple Leafs star during his days with the New York Rangers, leads the pack in his bunch in the American Hockey League.

The veteran centre, farmed out to Cincinnati at the start of the season to serve more as a tutor than a player, headed the league's playmakers today with 19 assists in 18 games.

Real Chevrefils of Hershey and Jack Sloddard of Providence, shared the scoring leadership with 37 points each. Chevrefils boasted 18 goals and 19 assists; Sloddard had 11 goals and 16 assists.

Hal Tau Pabels

The council listed the qualifications as follows:

1. The eight clubs must be responsible for all territory and decisions and for all financial obligations necessary in setting up their organization, making their application.

That means that these clubs must undertake to compensate to any minor leagues infringed on.

2. The club shall present with their application full data establishing their ability to meet the requirements for advanced status including a full statement as to bank ownership, financial ability and character, both of the group and the individual members.

The prospective groups shall show an aggregate of 15,000,000 population in the eight cities.

Stamps Beaten By Royals 4-1

(By The Canadian Press)

New Westminster Royals last night boosted their lead in the Pacific Coast League by beating Calgary Stampeders 4-1 as the whitehat goaltender Cassidy swamped Victoria Cougars 10-2.

Gayle Fisher, Love, Ollie Doherty and Roberge tallied for the Royals. Cy Thomas saved Stamps from a shutout with a third-period tally.

Ed Leier, Roy Manson and Don Smith each scored twice for Vancouver. Garry Gordon, Harry Groves, Lorne Davis and Ron Plumb got one each. Jim Thornton and Andy Hebenton shared Victoria's two goals.

Weary 'Sasky' Football Fans Arrive Home

Regina Nov 28—(CP)—About 300 weary Saskatchewan Roughrider fans unloosed the last of their energy on Union Station here early yesterday, writing finish to a week of football capers.

Tired but cheerful, despite the Riders' Grey Cup defeat, the fans piled off the Green and White special from Toronto and unlimbered a few samples of what went on during their two day trip from the east.

But a week's fatigue finally caught up with them. The spirit was willing but the flesh was weak so most fans quickly departed for work or a few hours sleep.

The Thirsty Four played briefly in the station concourse and an impromptu sing-song began but petered out and drowsiness was soon over.

Saving their next outburst of energy to welcome home the Riders tonight, the fans filed out of the depot in small groups, still sporting their white stetsons and Roughrider ribbons.

An all-night dancing session aboard the trains apparently exhausted even the most exuberant fans.

Ottawa to Join Provincial Loop

Ottawa, Nov. 28 (CP) —T. P. (Tommy) Gorman today announced following negotiations with league president Albert Molinf of Montreal, that Ottawa will play Quebec Provincial League baseball next season.

However, Gorman said the Ottawa club will not take over the franchise held by Sherbrooke Athletics, reported earlier, but will absorb another club in the eight-team circuit.

Gorman said Molinf indicated that the Sherbrooke, the 1951 champions, would get a new grandstand to replace the one lost in the stadium fire, in order to retain the franchise.

The Ottawa sports promoter said the deal would also provide for the playing of Sunday road games.

The capital had a taste of International League ball last season when the New York Giants moved their Jersey City franchise to Ottawa. The Ottawa Giants finished second last in the eight-team league and attendance was in keeping with the tack-lustre showing. The New York owners have indicated they intend to seek a new location for the team.

Ottawa, Saskies Cut Grey Cup Melon Said To Be 'Juiciest' in History

Montreal, Nov. 28—(CP)—The money melon to be sliced down the middle for the benefit of the eastern and western teams in the Grey Cup football final should be the juiciest ever.

President Myer Inaky of the Canadian Rugby Union said yesterday, the exact figure is not yet known but should be "considerably more" than last year when each team received between $18,000 and $19,000.

Include Pays in Expenses

Ottawa Rough Riders, the 1951 champions, and the Saskatchewan Roughriders, losers in the big ballis last Saturday, will each receive 50 per cent of what is left after every other item has been taken care of.

These expenses include all taxes, the CRU 12½ per cent, University of Toronto's share for use of the stadium, travelling costs of the two teams and all other costs of handling the game right down to payments to ushers.

Inaky said a "substantial amount" of the 12½ per cent taken by the CRU is for promotion of junior football as well as to "keep the CRU going."

The payment for Varsity Stadium is on a sliding scale, said Inaky, around 15 to 17 per cent.

Then there's the cost of the famous Eaton Trophies — scooped probably three years—and this year's awards will be close to $3,000 and of course, there are payments to officials who handled the game.

Montreal, Nov. 28—(CP)—The Grey Cup entry from the west 'e paid all expenses for 20 men for 10 days—travelling, hotels, meals and special practice, applicable this year to Ottawa, is to allow the eastern team three days' expenses. This cost didn't apply last year with Toronto Argos in the dominion final.

Chisox, Browns Bolster Strength In Five-for-Three Player Deal

Chicago, Nov. 28 (CP)—The Chicago White Sox bolstered their matching for 1952 today, shipping five players to the St. Louis Browns for Sherman Lollar, pitcher Al Widmar and infielder Tommy Byrne.

The Browns acquired outfielder Jim Rivera, a Pacific Coast League star with Seattle this season; first baseman Gordon Goldsberry, catcher Gus Niarhos, pitcher Dick Littlefield, and infielder Joe Dramesi.

He insisted he was involved in the deal, pending since before the world series between Rogers Hornsby, taking over as Browns' manager after one year at Seattle, said that he would be playing for him again next season.

The trade was announced by White Sox General Manager Frank C. Lane.

No Cash Involved

"Injury to our catching staff, a critical problem in 1951 forced us to over-work Phil Masi and Niarhos" he said. "Our combined catching staff drove in 45 runs in 158 games, while Lollar drove in one more, 46, in 147 games.

"A few additional runs batted in would have made an indentation in the 36 games we lost by one run and could have been instrumental in the White Sox finishing higher than fourth.

Lollar was the key man in the deal. In his last three seasons he has batted .282, .292 and .301 and in 1950 he drove in 85 runs with 22 two-base hits and 12 home runs. He earlier played with Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees.

Widmar, a right-hander, was expected to strengthen the Sox pitching. He won 11 and lost 24 in the past two seasons with the last place Browns.

Rivera rushed as the most probable acquisition by the Browns. He was voted the most valuable player in the 1951 season with Seattle in 1951, and was purchased by the White Sox in August. He led the Pacific Coast League in batting with .350 and was also first in hits, two-base hits and runs.

Dramesi, a fancy fielder, hit only .202 for the White Sox, appearing in 55 games. Goldsberry was an option to Seattle, while Littlefield played for Memphis and led the Southern Association in strikeouts.

It was the second major trade of the off-season for Sox. Two weeks ago pitcher Randy Gumpert and outfielder Don Lenhardt were sent to Boston Red Sox for pitcher Charlie Stobbs and infielder Mel Hoderlein. Earlier the White Sox traded infielder Floyd Baker to Washington for shortstop Cal Ermer and a player to be named.

The White Sox, later shipped Upton to the Washington Senators for infielder Sam Dente.

Mustangs Seek Seventh Straight Hoop Title

London, Ont., Nov. 28—(CP)—The University of Western Ontario Mustangs, who are pointing for their seventh straight senior intercollegiate basketball title, open their 1951-52 season against the University of Detroit on Dec. 8 in Detroit.

The contest with the Titans is the first of a 16-game schedule for the Mustangs, which includes 10 home games to be played at Thames Hall.

Three teams, Illinois, Wesleyan, Bowling Green, and McMaster, are new to Western's schedule. The Illinois-Western game will be the first home game for the Mustangs, Jan. 4.

Western will travel to Bowling Green Jan. 26, while McMaster, making their debut in Intercollegiate senior ranks, will play home and home games with the Mustangs.

Two games will be played each with Tillsonburg, Detroit, Assumption and Wayne with a single against Niagara gane at Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Home and home games will be played with the other members of the senior intercollegiate group, Queen's, McGill and Toronto.

Western will face stiff opposition in defense of the crown. McMaster, with a veteran aggregation, enters senior coaching as a definite threat for the title.

Rift-Among-Owners Report Denied By Pittsburgh Pirates President

Pittsburgh, Nov. 28—(AP)—President John W. Galbreath of the Pittsburgh Pirates, denying reports of a rift among owners of the club, said yesterday, "We're going to sink or swim with Branch Rickey."

"The statement was made in typ ing a report that there has been a crackup among the owners over loss of $200,000 the past season. The story was that Tom Johnson and Bing Crosby, Galbreath's partners, have had enough and want to get out and that a syndicate is bidding to buy the club. "Sink or Swim"

Galbreath told the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in a telephone conversation from Columbus that it's all news to him, adding:

"We're going to sink or swim with Branch Rickey. We hired him to build up a club. He can't do it overnight but we expect to have some good results within a few years. I can't understand how any such report could start."

Johnston, secretary of the club, admitted the financial loss but said there was no trouble about it.

"We've all put up our share," he said, "and Crosby, far from wanting to get out, said there would be more from him if we needed it."

Johnston said that Rickey, the club's general manager, does not own any stock in the outfit.

Bilts Tie Marlies For Top Spot; Indians Win

(By The Canadian Press)

High-flying Guelph Biltmores moved into a first-place Ontario Hockey Association Junior A tie with Toronto Marlboro last night as they downed a determined St. Catharines Teepee crew 6-4 at Guelph. The Marlies, however, hold two games in hand on the Biltmores, New York Ranger farm club.

In O.H.A. senior play, the Stratford Indians tallied seven goals in a third-period drive at Brantford to trounce the Redmen 10-1 and move into the league leadership.

At Owen Sound, the Mercurys bowed 6-2 to Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen. The win consolidates Kitchener's hold on third place.

Up north, the league-leading Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds swamped North Bay Black Hawks 7-1 in a Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior tussle at North Bay.

Three Baseball Clubs Available In Intercounty

(By The Canadian Press)

Three Intercounty Senior Baseball League clubs now are available for sale or transfer to other western Ontario cities.

Both the Kitchener and St. Thomas Canadian Legion branches are advertising for tenders for the purchase of their respective clubs while Stratford Nationals, dormant last year, are seeking a sponsor.

Lost $3,746 Last Season

The Kitchener Legion made no decison on selling at its last general meeting, but approved an executive recommendation that the franchise be advertised for sale. Decision on the actual sale will be decided when bids are opened. The club still owes $3,746 on its 1950 operations. The club broke even in 1951.

Some members of the legion executive have suggested holding say decision until it is learned whether the neighboring Waterloo Tigers will operate in 1952. There has been rumor that the Tigers might not operate this coming summer because of financial troubles throughout 1951.

The Kitchener executive offered its franchise for sale last spring but the only offer came from Don Galsinger, the former National Hockey League star. It was for $3,000. He later became the team's playing manager.

He has intimated he is not interested in buying this time.

Adam Brown Sets NHL Record As Boston Ties NY Rangers 1-1

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Everything, it seems, happens to Walter Brown, the big amiable Irishman from Boston who dabbles in basketball teams and private soon—and takes a fiendish delight in being New York professional hockey may be added to personable Walter's woes.

He recently added the Boston franchise in the National Hockey League to his lengthy ventures in sponsoring of a pro loop club and in his suburban private mutuel race track. And look what happens.

The Bruins were riding high, right up there with Detroit Red Wings, when suddenly things took a downward turn. They reached the depths last night when only 4,962 persons showed up for the Bruins-New York Rangers get-together at the Boston Garden. It ended, 1-1.

Small Crowd

That was the second lowest NHL crowd of the year—Chicago had a gate of 4,100 odd against Toronto a few weeks ago—and the smallest for professional hockey in Boston in 17 seasons.

The previous smallest record-ed gathering in Boston was 8,-056 on Dec. 11 1934. That was the first year Boston Garden officials started keeping their own attendance figures. And right now, Brown probably figures it best that they should forget the whole thing.

Of course, the pre-game publicity wasn't the best crowd-drawing setup in the league. Bruins have won only one game, the opener, on home ice in nine games this 1951-52 season.

And for a city that wants the sudden-death overtime reinstated in the circuit, the record of five tied games wasn't particularly conducive to a big gate.

There was one saving feature to the game.

Boston winger Adam Brown equalled an NHL record when he scored after only 15 seconds of play in the first period. This matched the speed mark set by Dick Irvin, now of Chicago Black Hawks, in his first game for Toronto in 1943.

Mick Mikowski evened matters in the second with only 32 seconds remaining when his shaaot was deflected past goalkeeper Jim Henry after a wild scrimmage.

DRYOCOPUS PILEATUS
(Northern Pileated Woodpecker)

The Pileated Woodpecker is a startling bird. So spectacular is his appearance that he has long been a target for guns in the hands of thoughtless persons. As a result he is becoming rare in many sections of Canada.

He should be protected. Besides being highly decorative and the largest Canadian woodpecker the Pileated is extremely valuable. He destroys millions of wood insects and provides nesting sites for tree-dwelling ducks.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When you bear at a forcing bid, your first of it as a signal that forces partner to bid. But it does not mean that alone. Its full meaning is that it forces partner to keep the bidding open.

To keep the bidding open means to give partner another chance to bid. Thus, a forcing bid tells partner: "Tell me something about your hand. In any case, give me another chance to bid."

When would partner fail to get a chance to bid again. When there are three accepts passed after his last bid. He gets a chance to bid again only when some other player says something besides pass.

If an opponent bids after he does, partner will get a chance to bid again. Or if you bid something, your partner will get a chance to bid again.

If an opponent bids something, your partner will get a chance to bid again even if you pass. So, if partner makes a forcing bid and the next opponent does not pass, you may pass.

So we arrive at this rule: A forcing bid does not force partner to bid if an opponent has bid intervene. And since partner is then not forced to bid, any bid by him is known as a free bid.

Suppose south starts with an opening bid of one heart and west doubles for a takeout. This is a signal that forces east to bid if north does not intervene with a bid.

If north intervenes with a bid, the bidding is kept open for west. So east may pass unless he wants to make a free bid. East should not make a free bid unless he has a strong hand.

Suppose east has this hand:

♠8 4 3
♥9 6 4
♦9 7 2
♣Q 9 7 5 2

If north bids one spade after the takeout double by west, east should pass. In answer to a takeout double, a pass after there is an intervening bid shows a weak hand.

Some experts do not agree with this. Nor still themselves from year to year.

Hollywood, Nov. 28 (AP) — Billie Burke, now a television star, today defended the gals who wear low-cut gowns on TV.

"My goodness," exclaimed the veteran actress, "isn't the secret of beauty in how to reveal and how to conceal? If a girl has something worth revealing, I don't see why she shouldn't do so, as long as she leaves something to the imagination.

"After all, there is considerable historical basis for the use of decolletage. In the 17th and 18th century, the ladies certainly went in for plunging necklines, both on the stage and off." Hedda Hopper

Miss Burke also cited her late husband, showman Florenz Ziegfeld.

"Mr. Ziegfeld certainly knew the value of revealing the female figure," she remarked, "although I must say that as his career progressed the girls in his shows wore more than they did in his earlier days."

Miss Burke, on a recent television show, had worn a fairly low-cut dress "quite by mistake." She primly applied a covering of lace before air time.

Today TV

The actress has embarked on a gruelling TV schedule which precludes her return to the stage or screen. She does a half-hour, five times a week interview and comment show.

"I had done some guest appearances in New York," she said "but that didn't seem to be the thing for me. At first I thought I might do a program of reminiscences, but I realized that can be deadly. So we came up with the idea of just playing myself at Rona and having guests to interview.

"After the first few programs, I began to enjoy it and now it's fairly easy work."

Gavilan, Bratton Fight Tonight

Chicago, Nov. 28—AP—Johnny Bratton, the perennial comeback-er, and welterweight champion Kid Gavilan, the flashy Cuban, meet in a non-title ten rounder in Chicago Stadium tonight.

The match will be televised nationally (10 p.m. EST), is expected to attract fewer than 7,000 spectators with a gate of about $25,000.

Gavilan dethroned Bratton in Madison Square Garden last June after the 24-year-old Chicago Negro had won the N.B.A. welterweight crown 65 days. The champion will receive 30 per cent of the net gate plus $1,250 from television, and Bratton proceeds and $1,500 for expenses.

Bratton is due, for 25 per cent of the net plus $1,250 from TV-radio receipts.

Counterpoint Named Champion Three-Year-Old

New York, Nov. 28—(CP)—C. V. Whitney's Counterpoint today was unanimously voted the American champion race horse of 1951 in three-year-old champion colt by 19 secretaries representing thoroughbred racing associations from throughout the United States.

The chestnut son of Count Fleet-Jabot, winner over Hill Prince in two sensational New York races this fall, was retired for the season after beating Hill of Fame in the Empire City handicap. The colt suffered a slight crack in the hoof, but has recovered and now is in California awaiting the opening of the Santa Anita meeting next month.

A total of 38 votes were cast, one for each T.R.A. track operating. The secretary-handicappers also gave unanimous votes to Mrs. Elizabeth Arden Graham's Rose Jet, champion two-year-old filly, and Mrs. Ogden Phipps' Cadjuja, steeplechase champion. Cadjuja was 1950 champion jumper.

In other divisions the champions named are:

Two-year-old colt—The Greentree Stable's Tom Fool.

Three-year-old filly—Walter M. Jeffords' Kiss Me Kate.

Handicap champ—Horses, colts and geldings—C. T. Chenery's Hill Prince.

Handicap mare or filly—Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Bed O' Roses.

Last year Hill Prince was named American champion and boss of the three-year-olds.

COME APART EARLY

Stockholm, Nov. 28—(Reuters)—"Stalin" slippers produced by a Latvian shoe factory, the Latvian communist party organ Cina complains, come apart after a week's wear. "The leather is bad, the sole is crack and the uppers burst open," the paper said, adding that no one checks the factory's production. Workers of this factory, Cina said, "show neither love for work nor any spirit of socialist competition."

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Montreal Canadiens announced last night that defenceman Dollard St. Laurent will be called up on lend-lease basis from the Montreal Senior Royals and will play against Toronto Maple Leafs here Thursday night.

He has scored five goals and counted 11 assists in 15 games with Royals, of the Quebec Senior League, this season. He is fourth leading scorer on Royals club.

Earlier yesterday it was announced that forwards Paul Masnick and Johnny McCormack have been farmed out to Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League and Gerry Couture and Calum MacKay recalled.

Pentti Lund, Boston Bruins winger, will be out of National Hockey League action indefinitely but no longer is in danger of losing the sight in his right eye, Dr. Thomas Kelley, the team physician, said last night at Boston. Lund was struck on the right eye accidentally by Chicago Black Hawk Clare Martin's stick in a game here two weeks ago.

Sam Manson, head of the group of Hamilton sportsmen stirring up interest for Saturday's Canadian International Football final between Hamilton Panthers and St. Boniface-Norwood Legionnaires, said last night if plans work out the east-west intermediate final will become an annual affair for Hamilton.

Manson said that since Toronto gets the Grey Cup final each year "it's only right that we should have the intermediate."

The group has been successful in getting permission from the Canadian Rugby Union to use its $12,000 tarpaulin to cover the Civic Stadium gridiron before the game.

At Mexico City, four Canadians were far down the list among 150 competitors from nine countries in the 16-day Vuelta Al Centro Bimbo Race. At the end of the third leg Monday Pat Murphy of Delhi, Ont., was in 101st place followed by Arnold Digby of Toronto, 114th; Ronald Thorne, Montreal, 131st; and Gaston Langlois, Montreal, 136th.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON Jr.

New York, Nov. 28—(AP)—Ray Dumont, the guy with the gimmicks in baseball is taking a chance on blowing $132,000 of National Baseball Congress dough — but not a very big chance . . . Ray's latest stunt was to mail 12,000 gift certificates, each good for 11 tickets to the N. B. C. tournament in Wichita, Kan., business firms . . . The idea is that the recipient will be so pleased with the event that some of his problems solved that he'll eventually send in the money . . . Embarrassing moment: Before the Cleveland-Syracuse American hockey League game a week ago, Jerry Reid of the Cleveland Barons was presented with a trophy for sportsmanship conduct. A few minutes later he tangled with Sammy Cazzolo and received a five-minute penalty, one minute more than he received all last season . . . It's a shame Reid already has decided to discontinue the award . . . .

One-Minute Sports Page

. . . Reports that schoolboy Rowe would be back in baseball roomie, Charley Gehringer, as a coach with the Tigers apparently were premature. Seems Rowe has decided Sctoolie could do Detroit more good by sticking to his job in Williamsport, Pa. manager . . .

Latest publication from the Hoorcrest bowling association is "Home Life of the Race Horse." . . . It's a stable life, of course . . . Couple of good pitchers, Vic Raschi of the Yanks and Princeton's Dick Kazmaier of football fame are to appear on the "We, The People" program, Friday . . . .

Dots All, Brothers

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, November 29

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Your chart shows excellent configurations. However there are keen competition and some obstacles to counteract. Day demands alertness shrewd management.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Use your best effort and talents today to bring better-than-average results. Be especially good rays for personal matters.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Use particular care dealing with superiors and those under you, strive for harmony and you can turn in a most commendable day. News may help.

June 22 to July 22—(Cancer)—Don't allow interruptions to bother sound purpose. Your Mercury sponsors a grand, full day for use of those bright, quick-witted ideas to best advantage. Work without worry.

July 24 to August 23—(Leo)—Your aspects call for better use of imagination and creative power, and where they will do most good. Of course, investigate well and advance with reasonable enthusiasm. Smile!

August 24 to September 22—(Virgo)—Look beyond today. Capitalize on good openings and your ability to put through things. Your stars say "go", what's keeping you back? Appreciate how fortunate you are; be cheery.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Don't be overanxious or fretful. Day is never so bad that a little ardent effort, smart action and a smile won't help. Start systematically to avoid rush and errors later.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Your panel's position suggests more caution and carefulness than usual. Be your natural self, practical, keen, and ready to grasp the right answer or plan.

November 22 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Encouraging results from worthy efforts on due matters. Have some restraint for tendency to overdo or allow others to expect more than they should.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Rather dull from some points of view, but from others good prospects possible. It's much up to you to select right course and proper method to achieve rewards. Get going early.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—A little more outward vim required. You have talent, don't allow it to be dormant, unexpressed. Forward without fear, honest endeavor can win.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Fine vibrations for good efforts. Business, professions distinctly favored; also government problems, trading, investments, commercial matters in general.

YOU BORN TODAY have strong characteristics, under a Sign indicating a variety of abilities. This wealth of attributes properly applied can lead to great credit, friends even fame. If you neglect the proper teachings, you can get into needless trouble. Usually active, at times you'll overdo. Watch this, keep ideas, plans under control and you can reap a healthy harvest. You could be successful salesman, teacher, banker, promoter, statesman among many.

Birthdate: Amos Bronson Alcott, educator; his daughter Louisa May Alcott, author.

Annual Grant of One Mill for Recreation Purposes

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that upon the Third day of December, A.D., 1951, there will be submitted to the Municipal Election for the City of Belleville the following By-law which will be submitted to a Vote of the Electors qualified to vote on such by-laws:

"Are you in favor of the passing of a By-law authorizing the Council of the Corporation of the City of Belleville to grant annually a sum not to exceed the amount to be raised by a rate of one mill on the dollar on the assessment of the rateable property of the Corporation of the City of Belleville."

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that the Mayor of the Corporation of the City of Belleville or a member of the Council will attend at the City Hall for the purpose aforesaid at the Mayor's Office in the said City of Belleville on the 30th day of November, A.D., 1951, at the hour of 10 o'clock in the forenoon and will attend at such time and place for the purpose aforesaid by him two persons to attend the final summing up of the votes for and against the Question, and one person to attend at each polling place on behalf of the persons interested in and desirous of promoting the affirmative thereof, and one for the affirmative thereof, and a like number on behalf of the persons interested in and desirous of promoting the proposed Question and voting in the negative thereof.

TAKE NOTICE that the foregoing is a correct copy of the proposed By-law to be submitted to the Electors of the City of Belleville at the Annual Municipal Election to be held on Monday, the 3rd day of December, A.D., 1951.

Dated this 6th day of November, A.D., 1951.

PUBLIC NOTICE

ADVANCE POLL
AND MUNICIPAL ELECTION

In accordance with By-law 2214 and under the authority of Statutes in that behalf:

A Poll will be opened at the rooms of the Y.M.C.A. on Bridge Street, Station Street, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 29th, 30th and December 1st, for the purpose of receiving the vote of all railway employees, commercial travellers, transport drivers and members of the Militia, Naval and Air Forces of Canada, who, on Polling Day, will not permit them to be in the City of Belleville during the hours of polling at the election, viz: Monday, December 3rd, 1951.

J. WILFRED HOLMES,
Returning Officer.

WHY WE SAY

November is a delicate month. It is the equivalent of the ninth month of the year. The reason is because until 153 B.C., a year began with the month of March instead of January as we have it today.

Britain, U.S. Show New Military Planes

Two new military planes revealed by the U.S. and British authorities are the U.S. XB-1, left, and the Avro 707a Delta. Both planes came off the secret list recently but details of their performance have not been revealed. The XB-1, a three-jet power house, can climb almost straight up. The Delta looking like a flying wing, powered by one jet engine, is said to be one of the most manoeuvrable of all fighting aircraft. — Central Press Canadian.

Says 38 Radio Stations Owned By Newspapers

Ottawa, Nov. 28—(CP)—T. J. Allard, general manager of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, said he believes that 36 radio stations in Canada are owned wholly or in part by newspapers.

He made the statement in testimony before the Commons committee on radio. He was questioned on a 180,000-word brief submitted to the committee by the C.A.B., whose membership includes 104 of the 123 privately-owned stations in Canada.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, asked how many stations are owned by the Thomson interests. Mr. Allard said that speaking from memory they own four Ontario stations—North Bay, Timmins, Kirkland Lake and Kingston.

John Diefenbaker (PC—Lake Centre) noted the C.A.B. was asking for a regulatory body to replace the CBC to administer private broadcasting in Canada. He said he favored a semi-judicial body similar to the Board of Transport Commissioners. He asked for specific instances where the CBC has dealt unfairly with private stations.

Committee Votes Against Probe Of Profit Margins

Ottawa, Nov. 28 (CP) — Parliament's special committee on resale price maintenance Tuesday voted 21 to 9 to reverse a decision taken yesterday to investigate manufacturing costs and margins of profit on consumer goods that are price maintained and those which are not.

Committee Chairman James Sinclair (L—Vancouver North) brought the issue to a head when he stated that the 10-man steering committee had discussed the decision in private late yesterday and decided it is not feasible to make the investigation.

E. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) charged that the government had made the committee only an "adding machine" and a "rubber stamp."

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) said the committee has become a "hollow farce."

The vote was mainly on party lines but the two C.C.F. members on the committee split on the issue. Angus MacInnis (C.C.F.—Moose Jaw) voted for the investigation, but Angus MacInnis (CCF—Vancouver East) voted against.

Stepinac May Be Released Within Month

Belgrade, Nov. 28 —(AP) — Premier Marshal Tito indicated last night that Archbishop Aloysius Stepinac might be released from prison within a month.

He did not specifically refer to "release" but said the "question" of the imprisoned Roman Catholic leader of Yugoslavia's 7,000,000 Roman Catholics would be "solved within one month."

His statement was printed in the issue of Borba, voice of the Yugoslav communist party, to be published tomorrow. It is a reply to a letter from Drew Pearson, American newspaper and radio columnist.

Tito did not say whether the Catholic prelate would be given a pardon or a parole.

He said bluntly, however: "I am going to tell you we will solve the question of Stepinac, even without the consent of the Vatican.

He added that "it is clear that he (Stepinac) cannot in our country fulfill his function as a high church leader."

The 53-year-old prelate entered a prison cell nearly five years ago after conviction on charges of wartime collaboration with the Germans.

Several months ago, he was offered freedom if he would agree to leave the country. He was turned down by the Vatican.

In his letter to Pearson, Tito said the Vatican "did not wish Stepinac to come out of prison, but to make a martyr of him."

As Vishinsky Denounced Western Arms Reduction Plan

Fists clenched, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky (second from right foreground) is shown as he bitterly denounced the Western Three-powers' gradual disarmament plan "in its present form," before the United Nations' Security Council in Paris. He blasted the plan as an attempt to "cover up aggression plans by disarmament talk." The speech by Vishinsky was apparently delayed several days so that it could be delivered at the same time as the NATO meeting in Rome. Others in the photo present a variety of expressions as they listen to the red delegate's fiery address. From left to right are: Philip Jessup, U.S. delegate (second from left foreground); Warren Austin, U.S. permanent delegate, seated directly behind Jessup; Selwyn Lloyd of the U.K., with eyes closed (centre foreground), and Jacob Malik, Soviet U.N. delegate, two seats behind Vishinsky. — Central Press Canadian.

Even Santa Needs a Little Briefing

Not one, but twelve Santa Clauses are enough to dazzle the eyes of any youngster, so when this group of Santa Kringles appeared on streets or New York City, bedlam prevailed. Santa Sergeant Mike Walsh stands in front of his bewhiskered brigade as he gives them final instructions before turning them loose for the big annual fund drive for the Volunteers of America. — Central Press Canadian.

11 First Prizes, 3 Championships For Canadians

Chicago, Nov. 28—(AP)—Canadian sheep and cattle breeders showed their prize stock at the International Livestock Exposition yesterday and came up with 11 first prizes and three championships.

But the exposition's highest award — grand champion steer — went to a shiny jet black Aberdeen Angus named Toby, bred by Iowa State College. The 1,240-pound junior yearling calf was reserve grand champion in 1950.

The reserve grand championship this year was won by the University of Idaho on a short-horn senior calf named Formation.

Jess C. Andrew, president of the International, said Toby's victory was the first time since the International started in 1900 that a steer had won the second place award and then returned the next year to take the grand championship.

Don Head Farms of Richmond Hill, Ont., set the pace among the Canadians showing both sheep and Angus cattle. The big breeders won five first prizes and three championships—the ram and ewe crowns in the breeding southdown division and the reserve female Angus title.

Don Head Farms have an extensive layout on gentle, rolling hills about 12 miles north of Toronto. They probably are the best known Canadian exhibitors on the international level, having shown at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto, at the Chicago International and at western Canada fair for years.

CRASH - LANDED

Marseilles, France, Nov. 29 — (Reuters)—A secret experimental French supersonic jet fighter, the Leduc-01, crash-landed near here yesterday after the engine cut out on the approach. The 91 was launched from a four-engined bomber. The jet was damaged and the pilot badly bruised.

Atomic-Weapons Tests Conducted 'Very Useful'

Washington, Nov. 28—(AP) — Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission said today the atomic-weapons conducted recently in Nevada proved "very useful" in development of United States military might.

Dean's guarded statement to reporters was his first public comment on the latest series of tests. Six explosions have been conducted in the area which started Oct. 22, ranging from what was apparently a baby A-bomb to mountain-shaking weapons.

Dean was asked whether the tests so far had been generally satisfactory.

"Let me put it this way," Dean replied. "I don't think there has been anything in the Nevada 'shoot' (tests) that has ever displeased us."

He added that "one of the best things that has happened to us" was the creation of what he termed "the continental testing grounds" in Nevada. Most earlier tests were held in the Pacific at Bikini and Eniwetok.

Dean also was asked whether the latest series of Nevada tests had been completed.

He said that rather than answer directly, he preferred to say the commission would announce the conclusion of the tests—when the time comes.

Dean and other members of the commission spent more than two hours behind closed doors yesterday with the Senate-House Committee on defence production.

A committee report said the session dealt almost entirely with a progress report on construction of a huge hydrogen-bomb plant near Aiken, S.C.

SENT TO TRIAL

Cornwall, Ont., Nov. 28—(CP) — Elias Meek, 61-year-old Harrison Corner's farmhand, was committed Tuesday to stand trial for the Sept. 28 murder of Mrs. Mary Aiguire, 39-year-old wife of Meek's employer.

Magistrate F. C. Bergeron committed Meek after testimony by 18 Crown witnesses, called to testify about circumstances surrounding the knife and hammer slaying on the Aiguire farm. Mrs. Aiguire was mother of four children.

Magistrate Bergeron denied a motion or defence counsel asking that Meek be taken to a mental institution for examination.

MARRIAGE POPULAR

Washington, Nov. 28 — (AP)— Marriage is more popular than ever in the United States. The census bureau yesterday said: Only 19 per cent of women over 14 are single today, compared with 28 per cent in 1940 and 34 per cent in 1890; about 26 per cent of the men are single, compared with 35 per cent in 1940 and 44 per cent in 1890.

ACCEPTED CHALLENGE

Aberystwyth, Wales, Nov. 28— (Reuters)— David Rednoss, 23, died yesterday after fighting a professional boxer at a meet-all-comers sideshow. He had accepted a challenge from the pro and was injured in the second round of a three-round contest.

The Outsiders

By Jane Abbott

Eliza told Tod of old Carl Friedman, of drinking tea with him in his shabby studio, the frame rattling over the cobbled street outside. "I don't know what happened to him through the war. I haven't heard from him since. . . ." Not since Altemont; she could not make herself go to his studio after that.

She was saying it all to Tod as if she felt the intentness of Chris' listening.

"One winter he had 'flu and afterwards he let me teach his beginning pupils, to help him," she said, on a sudden impulse, "Tod, I wish you'd let me give you piano lessons! It would help you with your violin."

"Gee! I'd like that," said Tod, eagerly. Then his mouth took a sullen set. "Nothing doing. I'm starting in the mill next week."

"Oh, no, Tod. . ." began Eliza and stopped as she felt Chris' elbow nudge her arm, very gently. She said, instead "there are the evenings; I'll send for some books of exercises and when they come, I'll let you know. You will have to practice up here —we'll arrange that, too."

Chris got up from the carriage block. "Thanks for a very pleasant afternoon. He put his hand out to Eliza. He did this each time he left her but today there was something different in the way he held hers.

Hogseth said at supper "your grandfather'd like it for you to teach the boy. He used to go there, to Annie's, times, and listen to him play. Annie's told me of it."

Annie's dreams for Tod, Eliza remembered.

Chris' inclination the next morning was to go to Eliza as soon as he finished breakfast. But a glance at the clock showed him it was only a little after seven. He must wait—until afternoon, when Eliza would be expecting him. He set himself to what small chores had to be done.

He did not think ahead, but rather back in the years. He had caught the betraying note of loneliness in Eliza's voice when she told of her life. A great tenderness swept through him, a yearning to make up to that young girl for what she must have suffered in disillusionment.

Then a thought struck him like a blow. He was drawing a bucket of water up from the well with such abruptness that half of it spilled out. In all honesty he must tell Eliza that he had been at Altemont. She had asked him that day, if they could have met before—a shadow of a memory of it had come to her as it had to him. It might shape up wholly in her mind at any moment, as it had in his. She might not forgive it, his not speaking of it before.

Restless in his apprehension, he set out for a walk. Three miles along the road he saw John Streeter's old car coming toward him.

John stopped. "Want a lift back?"

Chris opened the door and got in.

"I've just come from the hospital. We did some work on Wilson's hand yesterday. We think we've every reason to hope it'll be as good as ever."

"Fine," said Chris.

"We did quite a bit of sewing. We agreed he should stay in the hospital another week." John smiled. "I'm going to get some satisfaction in breaking the news to Culbert tomorrow."

"You anticipate he may object to the expense?"

"If he runs true to form he'll grouse. He'll be a fool though—feeling against him is running pretty high and hard just now."

Chris felt as if he had come back to New Interval from a considerable stay away. "I know of course, that they haven't liked Culbert so well," he said.

"They're suspicious of Culbert" John remarked. "Some think he is crooked and has been from the start but couldn't get away with anything while the old man was alive. But they're gunning for him—there's no doubt of that."

This inside information, given with such positiveness, suggested considerable intimacy on the doctor's part with the mill men. Chris gave him a quick, interested look. What the other was telling him made him deeply concerned for Eliza ,but not to the exclusion of curiosity.

John Streeter read his glance. He laughed, reddened a little. "I suppose I've been accepted here. Annie Wilson's championing of me, maybe, for what I did for Dave, which really wasn't much more than first-aid. Old Tom Matthews' grandson's wife came to me yesterday—she's going to have a baby and she wants me to deliver it."

Chris laughed. "Congratulations!" Then he asked, "How's Marilyn?" As if it had been weeks since he had seen either her or John.

"Gave her ankle a pretty bad wrench a week ago." There was some constraint in John's voice now and he returned with some abruptness to their first topic of talk. "Some of the men have it figured out that Culbert's deliberately letting the mill go to pot. You know, slowing down production, turning down orders. In a small plant like that it wouldn't take long to work it. I can't see his motive and I don't know that they can prove it—though old Tim is a pretty shrewd man and I rather think he knows the paper business as well as Culbert."

"Why don't the men go to Miss Forrestal?" asked Chris.

"They don't trust her. They think Culbert has her eating out of his hand."

"Nonsense!" said Chris sharply.

"He's pretty smooth—he could take advantage easily of her inexperience. He's very attentive to her, some of the men have noticed. Walks out to her car with her, puts her in, hangs on to the door—that sort of thing. He brought her down to Marilyn's party, remember."

"Well, I took Jeremy Penny! That doesn't mean—"

John interrupted him. "Say speaking of Miss Penny—I'm some concerned over her. She came to my office a few evenings ago. She'd got the idea something pretty serious was the matter with her. I gave her as thorough an examination as I could, short of going to a hospital and I couldn't find a symptom of anything—it's all in her head I believe and that's out of my line."

They had reached the lane leading up to Chris' place and John had stopped the car while he was speaking, but Chris made no move to get out. Jeremy—he had not thought of her once in these last several days.

"What did you prescribe —if anything?"

"More exercise—a lot of fresh air. She looks as if she had lived under a plank. I suggested that she go somewhere on the shore, soon as school closes."

Chris remembered he had said that to Jeremy—and more. Evidently his bitter-tasting medicine had not helped her.

He could not tell John Streeter the truth of Jeremy's case. It was, in a way, a confidence Jeremy had given him. "I think, as you do, that it's in her head, whatever ails her. She's lonely, here too—alone, by choice, but lonely, nevertheless. Couldn't Marilyn get her out?" He opened the door.

"Marilyn doesn't find her very lively company." The constraint was in John's voice again. "I'll say something to her."

"And I'll speak to Eliza." But Chris said that to himself as he climbed the lane to the camp.

He was troubled over what Streeter had said of the mood of the mill men, troubled over Jeremy, and a little guilty for his negligence of her. And at the same time, he was naturally and vastly impatient that it had all come to his knowledge just now. Certainly, now was only one thing he wanted to talk to Eliza about this afternoon.

Chris saw Eliza sitting on the carriage block, the sun bright on her, and for a moment, he had the crazy thought that she had been sitting just so all the time since he had left her there, the afternoon before. Waiting. At his step on the gravel she turned and he saw a glad shining in her eyes.

Britain Discloses Offer to Remove Troops from Suez

Proposal Made in April White Paper Discloses

43-Division European Army Wanted by U.S.

Rome, Nov. 29 (AP) — The United States today threw its full diplomatic weight behind efforts to push forward plans for a 43-division European army.

High officials who attended the "national Council meetings" ended here yesterday—said the U.S. is ready and eager to have a treaty outlining precise plans for this international force ready for the next council meeting opening in Lisbon next Feb. 2.

They feel this is urgent because:

1. The European countries will be presenting their 1953 budgets just after the turn of the year. Unless appropriations for European army forces are made, the six-country effort to build up a force will be delayed again.

2. If negotiations drag on, West Germany is expected to show increasingly less interest in participating.

Officials do not minimize the difficulties lying ahead. Little progress has been made in "these very hard problems" at the N.A.T.O. meeting, they say, except to lay the groundwork squarely before the member governments and open the powers to swift consideration of them.

The basic problems ahead are:

1. Establishment of a long-range plan to restore a high degree of security to the free world West Germany, thus assuring her co-operation.

2. Achievement of a French-German agreement on the form the German forces will take.

3. To reconcile the French desire for a supra-national European army with a single top boss and the Benelux countries' desire for the powers of any supra-national authority.

Deserted Navy To Join Army

Ottawa, Nov. 29 (CP) —Navy and army officials today pieced together the story of a Winnipeg sailor who took a day off from his ship and fought with Canadian infantry troops in Korea for a month.

The sailor, Able Seaman Jack Duff, 24, was in Yokohama, Japan when he "jumped" it Sept. 11 and hitch-hiked an airlift ride to Korea.

Duff made his way to the front lines, picking up bits of information on the way. By the time he arrived at the Royal Canadian Regiment, he was convinced Canada can issue pants, Canadian boots and shirt and start carrying an American carbine.

For a time the Canadian absconded Duff into their unit, and tipped him off when a patrol was scheduled. While the action Duff kept out of sight of the officers.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 29 (CP) —Synopsis: Daily surges of mild Pacific air carried eastward behind weak storms are bringing warm to western Alberta and move eastward through northern Ontario have set off the southern flurry of Arctic air at least for a few days. Temperatures will be mild or air vary according to the amount of cloudiness, the quantity of snow and rain that falls and whether the wind is on or near shore. In general, temperatures will become milder today and tomorrow with Friday's temperatures ranging from the low 30s in the southern sections to the low 40s in the north. There will be cloudy spells in all sections but also a good deal of sunshine before the end of tomorrow. Some or rain is forecast for northwestern regions on Friday.

London, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Britain disclosed today it had offered to withdraw British troops from the Suez Canal zone by 1956 if Egypt will permit them to return in time of war or threat of war.

In a 20,000-word White Paper laid before parliament, the Foreign Office detailed the history of the Anglo-Egyptian dispute over guarding the canal zone and the future of the Sudan.

The offer to withdraw British forces from the canal zone was made last April 11. It was the last solely British proposal made to Egypt. Oct. 20, the United States, France and Turkey joined Britain in offering Egypt a plan for a five-power Middle East defence command.

Terms of Treaty

The British proposal of April 11 would have ended the 20-year Anglo-Egyptian Treaty of Alliance of 1936 by including:

1. Withdrawing British bases in the Suez Canal zone to the Egyptian mainland forces would be at all control of them under an Anglo-Egyptian control board.

2. Setting up a co-ordinated Anglo-Egyptian air defence system.

3. The return of British forces and the forces of its allies to Egypt "in the event of war, imminent menace of war or appreciated deterioration in international security."

At the same time, Britain told Egypt that the question of the Sudan is a separate matter. Britain added, however, it "would be prepared to discuss the question of the Sudan if the Egyptian government think this would be useful."

Egyptian Demands

Egypt replied:

1. British troops should be evacuated in one year.

2. The armed forces should be handed over to the Egyptian armed forces immediately after the withdrawal was completed.

3. Egypt should have a special priority in the arms and equipment from Britain.

4. That unity of Egypt and the Sudan under the Egyptian crown and self-government for the Sudan be established within two years.

5. To conclude an agreement with Britain for return of British troops to Egypt to assist in defending Egypt "as the result of the United Kingdom's being involved in war" as the result of unprovoked aggression on the Arab countries adjacent to Egypt."

The Egyptian reply said a warning to Egypt that refusal to join the Middle East Defence Command would lay the Nile kingdom open to a double invasion by air-borne troops from the northeast and by the western powers to expel the aggressors.

SYRIAN ARMY SAYS POPULIST PARTY STIRS UNREST

Radio Report Claims Military in Control

Damascus, Nov. 29 — (CP) — The Syrian Army today announced for the fourth time in three years, arresting cabinet ministers of a civilian government formed less than 24 hours before.

The announcement was broadcast a communique announcing the army had taken over control of all security forces to prevent "continued instability in the country."

The coup was led by Col. Adib Shishekly, master of staff who ousted premier-for-a-night Maurouf Dawalbi, leader of the populist party.

Col. Shishekly issued a declaration saying the army's powers to be the tool for fulfilling imperialistic aims by conclusions that the populist party does not represent the people.

Shishekly accused the populists of "instigating the people against the army" and working against Syria's interests.

Yesterday Maarof Dawalbi formed a government of seven Populists, two independents and Lieutenant-Colonel Mohsen Barazi, school — ending a three - week political crisis. The previous government resigned after Dawalbi broke up on differences over the in-clusion of Colonel Barazi and Anglo-Egyptian control board.

The Setting up a co-ordinated Anglo-Egyptian air defence system.

Shishekly Hassan Hakim said he resigned because his foreign minister, Fayzi Atassi, military critic ched western defence without consulting parliamentary supporting their policies have been arrested. The Populists are the largest party in parliament, but they do not have a majority.

Shishekly's coup prevailed throughout Syria on the heels of the announcement in Damascus. There was no violence and no opposition published opposition.

The army's action ended a series of tighter Arab-Soviet ties — succeeded in forming a coalition government in April after four previous attempts had failed.

Shishekly said army leaders have long opposed a plan fostered by populist leaders for a union of Syria and Iraq, which he Hashemite dynasty rules.

Correspondent Says Order For Cease-Fire in Korea Came From 'Highest Sources'

Editor's Note: What was the real origin of the order passed along to front-line commanders in Korea yesterday that led to the strange quiet along the 145-mile frozen battlefront?

John Randolph, Associated Press war correspondent, yesterday reported that the order came from the "highest sources, possibly from the White House itself" and his report was passed by censorship. Joseph Short, White House press secretary, at a press conference at Key West said "The statement by Mr. Randolph seems to me to be correct."

In the accompanying dispatch, Randolph reports on the background situation leading to his original story and describes, from a front-line vantage point, the speculation as to the possible sources and details on the ground-fighting

By JOHN RANDOLPH

Seoul, Korea Nov. 29 — (AP) — White House signals that it ordered a halt in the United Nations ground action in Korea did notify today by the highest possible of where the instructions came from.

Despite official denials, they are known to exist at the Eighth Army level where they were first classified as "top secret."

Army officers, alarmed at the forces the new order would have Washington and elsewhere, refused to talk any more.

But the facts of military life are so well known that it is possible to make some deductions.

First, calling a halt to allied offensive action in Korea is not entirely a military decision. Like every major decision, it involves political policy.

Consequently it is logical to assume that the orders did not originate at Gen. James A. Van Fleet's Eighth Army headquarters.

The next higher command is Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Far Eastern headquarters in Tokyo. Even at that level is it stretching belief too far to think that Ridgway would act on his own.

The only higher headquarters that Ridgway answers to are defence headquarters in Washington and the president as commander-in-chief. The Washington mind and by the White House press secretary, Joseph Short, said there was no "cease fire" in Korea.

Strictly speaking that is true. There is firing from both sides, although extremely little by normal standards. But the denials did not deny that a damper had been put on offensive ground action.

Milo Farnell, Associated Press correspondent, saw one copy of the orders in black and white. Reyes Beech, correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, heard one officer paraphrase the orders he had from a coded telephone message.

Some officers explained the action by a reasonable desire not to guarantee immunity to the front from communists by publishing the allied plans for retraining in the fighting.

But the fact is that allied offensive action could, of course, be resumed on short notice order from the same source of the "cease fire" order could start the forces moving again.

Editor's note: Randolph's dispatch, held up by censorship, was written before today's resumption of sporadic fighting.)

Ottawa, Nov. 29 — (CP) — The Commons was much evidence and too many witnesses to explain away the fact that two senior allied officers called off their ground attack against the communists in Korea on the day the war began June 25, 1950.

(Bill Boss, with Canadian troops in Korea, reported in a dispatch last night that Brig. J. M. Rockingham was ordered that "during the remainder of the armistice negotiations every effort will be made to avoid casualties and demonstrate our willingness to boost peace-talks." Rockingham is commander of the 25th Canadian Brigade, a unit of the 1st Commonwealth Division.)

Watchdog Group Says U.S. Production of Defence Items 'Dangerously Behind Schedule'

Washington, Nov. 29—(AP)—Production of defence items has "fallen dangerously behind schedule," a Senate labor committee reported last night. It recommended that the government "take a greater bite out of civilian production."

Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (Dem. Tex.), chairman of the armed services sub-committee set up to keep watch on the national preparedness program, said in a statement accompanying the report:

"Under any circumstances we will have to have more steel later. But somebody is going to have to decide how much butter and how many guns. The question of that decision will have to be made in terms of the national defense, instead of the national appetite."

In a critical 10,000-word report, the group accused the Pentagon of defence hard goods — planes, tanks, ships and guns — have fallen dangerously behind schedule.

The sub-committee suggested the government "take over management car" with broad powers within the defence department.

The report said that, after meeting all needs to reach production goals, any other resources should be used:

"1. To expand the industrial base so that the future needs come we will have the industrial capacity necessary to produce the enormous quantities of weapons and goods required by a total war.

"2. To assure an adequate supply of critical war materials for the growing wartime population.

"3. To maintain as healthy a civilian economy at as high a rate of civilian production as possible in view of the more compelling demands upon our resources."

Such officials as mobilization director Charles E. Wilson have publicly taken a less pessimistic view of the situation.

The sub-committee provided more than $110,000,000,000 in defence funds and contract short, let promptly, the sub-committee said, deliveries of aircraft, guided missiles, tanks and electronics lagged seriously behind initial estimates.

The group said it could not give details of secret military reports. But it listed this production data for the April-June quarter this year: aircraft 34 per cent short; guided missiles 70 per cent; tanks 40 per cent; electronics 30 per cent.

It said shortages of steel, aluminum, copper, machine tools and plants were the chief bottlenecks.

Badman Bill Cook Comes to Trail's End With Death Sentence for Murder

El Centro, Calif., Nov. 29—(AP)—The savage criminal career of William Edward Cook, a 23-year-old pistol-packing killer who kidnapped nine persons and killed six of them, has been halted.

Cook, product of warped environment in a bleak and desolate abandoned mining section near Death Valley, Calif., was sentenced to death in San Quentin gas chamber for the murder of a Seattle cab driver, Malcolm F. Dewey.

The five-foot, four-inch badman already was under five consecutive sentences of 60 years each for the kidnap-murders of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mosser and their three children at Atwood, Ill., last summer.

The federal directors of prisons, James V. Bennett, now may order the transfer of Cook from the federal prison at Alcatraz Island to California's San Quentin. There the killer will await action of the state supreme court on his appeal for a review, automatic under hands-

If no reversible error is found by the high court, the federal authorities they may surrender technical custody, so that Cook may pay the supreme penalty.

Under a law passed by Congress last summer, Cook would have been eligible for parole from Alcatraz prison after serving only 15 years of his 300-year sentence.

Superior Judge Leray J. Mouser said he found no extenuating circumstances in the study of trial testimony or of the transcript of grand jury proceedings.

Cook pleaded the killing of Dewey as premeditated and deliberate.

Cook, when uttered feeble, almost inaudible "no's" when the court asked him if he had anything to say before sentence was pronounced. He showed no visible emotion as the court ordered the death penalty, but as sentence was delivered two of the 10 husky lawmen in the small section of the state supreme court on his appeal for a review, automatic under handcuffs.

PRIME MINISTER TAKEN TO TASK ON EXPLANATION

Winnipeg School Bd. Asks for Federal Aid

Ottawa, Nov. 29—(CP)—The Commons yesterday topped off a lively day with a lively discussion on a long-debated subject—federal aid to provincially-controlled education.

Prime Minister St. Laurent sat smiling but saying nothing as C. C. F. and Social Credit members took him to task for what they considered a new and surprising attitude on the matter.

R. R. Knight (CCF—Saskatoon) charged the prime minister is denying equality of education to Canadian children. J. W. Noseworthy (CCF—York South), a teacher for 30 years, said the prime minister should explain his attitude to the house.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said the prime minister would "live to rue the day" he gave a "no" answer to a request for federal financial help for education.

The controversy started from an answer the prime minister gave Thursday to Lorne Clark (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) who had asked if a request of the Winnipeg School Board for financial aid is being considered.

Mr. St. Laurent said that he had not heard of the request. But, as head of the government, he said Canada would have to leave provinces to join with me in requesting to consider such a request."

Pocket Agrees With P.M.

Jean Francois Pouliot (L—Temiscouata), shaking a finger across the aisle, said many people would be much happier if they had never learned to read or write. If the strike were in the province of the prime minister, they would take the same stand.

The debate on education came at the close of a short Wednesday session which produced two votes. A C.C.F. motion for reimposition of price controls and subsidies was defeated 129 to 51. A Social Credit mess voted 145 to 55 against. A Social Credit motion criticizing the government for refusal to increase war veterans allowance.

Military Orders Misinterpreted Says Van Fleet

Front-Line Troops Confused By Renewal of Shelling

By JOHN RANDOLPH

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 29—(AP)—Allied artillery opened up on the western front after officers reported receiving new orders to "shoot to kill."

The front-line report came shortly after Gen. James A. Van Fleet announced his Eighth army command had issued "certain military instructions" which some troops may have interpreted as a cease-fire order.

He said any such "misinterpretation" would be corrected.

An official Eighth Army spokesman said the original—and still secret—directive contained "completely unchanged." Any changes showing up on the front, he said, were the result of clarifications ordered by Van Fleet.

Infantry Unaffected

The spokesman's comment apparently applied to the "shoot-to-kill" orders received by artillery officers of the 3rd division. Artillerymen said apparently their new instructions do not apply to infantry troops.

The original report of an Eighth Army directive not to fire on the 1ea units unless necessary came Wednesday from a 3rd division officer.

First high official acknowledgment that the secret directive had been issued came Thursday from Van Fleet. U. N. ground commander in Korea. He said it was not a cease-fire order—but did not disclose its nature because security was involved.

He promised action to clarify the directive for those "who misinterpreted" it.

Shortly thereafter front-line dispatches from the western front reported the Allies were again firing artillery and mortars at a nearly-normal rate after a day of abnormal quiet.

Front-line troops were reported confused by the big guns opening up on the front where the day before they had watched Chinese reds play volley ball.

A 3rd-Division briefing officer said reconnaissance patrols would be sent out Thursday as usual, but with the understanding they would not look for trouble.

The change came on the same front where reports of a new "don't shoot-first" policy originated.

Van Fleet's statement did not say what directives the original Eighth Army order contained, nor did he say that troops would be ordered to resume full scale fighting along the quiet 145-mile front.

Official quarters, ranging up to the United Nations, denied issuing any cease-fire order.

A cease-fire must wait until an armistice agreement is signed by truce negotiators meeting at Panmunjom, Thursday the red delegation proposed immediate, unconditional withdrawal of foreign troops from Korea, instead of the Allied guarantee against reinforcements during a truce.

A spokesman for Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters in Tokyo said: "No order has been issued to halt general fighting in Korea . . . by the Eighth Army or anybody else."

President Truman's spokesman in Key West, Fla., denied an Associated Press report that came possibly from the White House.

AP correspondent Milo Farnell, in Seoul, said he saw the text as saw an Eighth Army order not to fire unless fired upon.

Fires blazed along the communist side of the line, breaking the 10-day quiet.

Only the occasional rumble of artillery disturbed the unwarlike quiet. No offensive action by any U.N. unit was reported either Wednesday or Thursday, except for a report that Chinese had driven of renewed U.N. artillery fire.

Indian patrols were reported even reported from the eastern front, where red communications are exceptionally poor. Firing was reported from Heartbreak Ridge in the east Thursday.

Allied officers reported six contact with the communists all day.

The only sizable fight-ing broke out Wednesday afternoon northwest of the punchbowl on the eastern front. It was over by midnight (10 a.m. EST Wednesday). In this action north Koreans launched a counter-attack and were retired.

Van Fleet's Statement

Van Fleet's statement was the first official acknowledgement of possible action on the cease fire attitude at the front He said:

"An incomplete digest of a military directive he had let to subordinate units for discussion with the commanders.

". . . certain military instructions were disseminated from this headquarters to corps and division levels. War correspondents' reports indicate that when these instructions were passed down to the front line personnel elements there was distortion of meaning in the text of these instructions.

"Action is being taken to clarify the instructions for those officers and enlisted men who misinterpreted the directive.

"I am not at liberty at dioces the contents of the instructions which are related to future operations of the Eighth Army.

"I can, definitely say, however, there is no mention made in the text of ordering a cease-fire in Korea."

Inability to Support Family, Mother Led Teacher to Plan Bizarre 'Murder'

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 29—(CP)—A story of domestic friction and the nearness of "an attractive, alluring woman" was told Wednesday in Assizes court here as Toronto school teacher who faked his own "murder" 15 months ago, pleaded guilty to theft charges in connection where he awaits arrival of his fiancee, Jeanette Reaume, described circumstances which led to his elopement in August, 1950 with Mrs. Beatrice Reaume, thrice-divorced wife of a Toronto contractor.

Detective, Australian - born Mrs. Reason is being held in Chatham jail awaiting deportation following of her re-entry into Canada. Her permission to be taken to Toronto to face trial on a charge of deserting his wife, Mary, and their children.

The suave, dark-haired school teacher said that inability to support his mother, wife and his mother on his $60-a-week salary had been responsible for his bizarre "murder." His wife resented his regular donations to his mother's support and he thought Beatrice could make no more money with a family of children.

He met Mrs. Reason several months before the elopment when she signed as a student in his night class in public speaking. They acquaintance ripened slowly. "Once or twice we had coffee together and she seemed to be a good companion—quick, witty and intelligent."

As his domestic relations grew colder, Greene thought more and more of the "tempting, alluring woman" who attracted him so strongly. "Once, jokingly, I said it would be easy for us to shake off our marital obligations and run away together."

The remark was more than a jest and the two planned to desert their spouses and flee across the border to Buffalo, N.Y. They made two previous trials, but the same line. This one took place the fateful morning of Aug. 4.

Greene said he drove his car to a ravine in Toronto's Rosedale district, where he put blood on the seat, broke his glasses and scattered his personal papers around "to make it look like a murder to Mary and anyone who reasoned."

He picked up Mrs. Reason in a car he had bought in Buffalo and the two drove across the border to Detroit. At that point Greene's station he had a ticklish moment. In the car was a $2,800 cheque he had bought while stationed at Petawawa military camp near Pembroke, Ont., and had neglected in his own name. It was not found in the cursory border check.

Greene was taken to the advertising staff of a newspaper in Peoria, Ill., at $65 a week. Within two weeks his salary was raised to $75 and he began to free lance with advertising agencies in the city.

Before long he was doing radio scripts and assisting with television shows for several agencies at the same time. This was just like boasting, but my cheque for the month from one agency was $875—better than the kind of money I used to get teaching."

Freight Traffic Manager of C.N.R. Visits City

General freight traffic manager for the entire system of the Canadian National Railways, Mr. Gordon E. Smith of Montreal, was in the city Monday evening coming from Trenton where he had spent the afternoon discussing industrial matters with Senator W. A. Fraser.

Mr. Smith had an interview with Alderman W. H. Rollins, chairman of the Belleville Industrial Commission and city solicitor R. A. Pritchard. Mr. Smith pointed out to the city officials the importance of a community keeping in close touch with the Canadian National Railways' department of the railways and particularly in Belleville with the Canadian National Railways. He was particularly interested in the Belleville Industrial area and served with a C. N. R. siding as he was one of the high C. N. R. officials present when this area was opened in 1948 by Sir Wayne D. Le Chapelle and the Hon. W. J. Pringle, then L. N. R. vice-president. Mr. Smith was fully confident that eventually this area would be completely industrialized and pointed out that patience and con'inual contact with industrial prospects was the only method of guaranteeing ultimate success.

POLICE BLOTTER

A back window, which was reported to have been left open provided easy access for night operators who last night entered Gourley Motors garage and then broke their way into the office. The proprietor later said that it did not appear that anything had been taken.

A little different on Lewis Street, however, where a resident reported a complete wheel, tire and tube were missing from his car. The car had been parked in the back yard and thieves had jacked the vehicle up, placed a block under the axle and disappeared with the wheel.

Albert Brenton, R.R. 4, complained that his foam rubber, truck seat had disappeared from his vehicle while it was parked at the rear of a local hotel.

Otherwise it was quiet in police circles, Early this morning, however, one of the patrol officers noted the awning over Woodlief's store afire. The blaze was extinguished but not before a six-inch hole was burned in the canvas. A cigarette butt was believed responsible.

Municipal Candidates Put Through 'Wringer' at Wharf St. Debating Club

By FRED HART

The forty-first annual meeting of the Wharf Street Debating Club was held in their club room, last evening, with ex-mayor George Tice in the chair.

The old edifice of free speech was jammed to the door with eager listeners and witty hecklers. It was a good and lively meeting and it must be seen to be believed. Unless an aspiring applicant for municipal honors is thick skinned and has an active sense of humor, he should not attempt to visit his views and future platform before this cosmopolitan crowd.

If a speaker fails to impress, the lads will start an audible conversation among themselves. If a candidate extols a view which does not appeal he is raucously called upon to "Shud-dup". And gales of laughter will ensue should a speaker become rattled, while sarcastic epithets are sometimes hurled at the staid type of orator.

The club's sense of humor was in evidence. Through the years Harry Knott was the "comic" of the debating society and many have shed his crown. Harry quipped not little. When he was in his palmy days he entered the club never venomous with his pointed remarks, just extremely witty. Many a time he stirred this annual talk-fest and while such a sense of humor is not extreme with the natured raillery exists, then this Canada or ours will remain in safe and sane channels.

The chairman called the meeting to order shortly after eight. Preface to the evening's fun, reading tributes to Mr. Dunlop, secretary of the club and Public Health Commissioner, who had passed on since the previous annual meeting, he asked the audience to rise and observe one minute's reverent silence in memory of those who had passed on.

In a reminiscing talk, George Tice stated that he had been a member of the club for 32 years and had never missed a meeting. He remarked that in his opinion George Reid was the most colorful mayor who held officer during the club's history. In his opinion about 430 families were taken care of during those bad depression years of '30, '31 and '32 when he himself was mayor.

The first candidate to be called upon to speak was ex-mayor Jack Allin who is seeking another term of office. Mr. Allin stated that he had attended annual club meetings for 27 years and had always been accorded a good hearing. No other affair such as Wharf Street could be found throughout Canada. He said tribute to his old friend "Bunny" Dunlop and extolled his great work as secretary of the club. Jack made no promises, but would fight for new industries for Belleville. He stated that assessment figures proved there were 195 men and 140 women unemployed in Belleville. He advocated that council meetings should be held at night and representatives of labor should be on all appointed boards, as there was insufficient information given out to the general public. The city should get rid of its unsightly and unsavory "dump". He had seen, in the north country, deep ravines filled in with refuse and covered with top soil and a thing of beauty was the ultimate result.

Alderman McLean Hale, in a quiet and reasoned speech advocated that greater publicity should be given to the Wharf Street Debating Club, the afternoon meetings of the city council were decided upon by the 1949 council and they had their advantages. He stated definitely that should he be returned to council he would promise definitely that the "dump" would be removed. Nobody was more interested than himself, and he complained: "That's no proxy." He promised, too, that no money will be spent unnecessarily, which brought a heckler to his feet with "wot about these grants for banquets?" Alderman Hale stated that the goodwill of the County Council was precious as the city and county had so much in common. He concluded with "I promise myself and I'll stand or fall on my past record while serving with three mayors."

William Argue stated that two years ago he called attention to the deplorable state of Victoria Park. Notwithstanding the splendid work done by the Parks Board in general and by Art Keegan in particular, much improvement must yet be made. He was in favor of evening meetings of council with committees meeting in the afternoon. The present council has been justified by results and has always worked for the citizens as a whole. As the Trade Fair, many industrialists were interviewed and several are interested in the possibilities of Belleville.

Harold Armstrong said that his only program is more progress. "We had not progressed sufficiently although expenditure was the indicator of expansion. Many houses have been erected." He concluded, "If my service in the past is worth anything to you—your vote is solicited."

C. Arthur Saleman remarked that it was the first time he had the honor to address the club and as he had never run for office before. With brevity he "appealed for votes."

Jack Bowe stated that he accepted the nomination because he felt that municipal affairs in which had not been done. The "dump" should be removed. The present council had done well. Remove at the four corners. If elected his motto would be "obt what I can get out of it—but what I can put into it."

Charles H. Ferrar was very brief in his remarks. If he had anything to do with it—a new instrument would be used.

K. E. Faliwell in a fighting speech stated that "as Foster Ward goes so goes the city." In the past, Foster Ward had put him over the top and he had no doubt but they would do it again. Everybody promises to do something for this ward, but it should not have the "dump" on its back forever.

Charles L. Hyde said he had and always would have a great interest in the city of Belleville. Council would have to carefully watch expenditure, but more assistance must be given to Victoria Park and Zwick's Island projects.

Art Keegan in his own breezy way said that he had given of his best as a member of the Parks Board during the past three years. The greatest thing against communism is the trust of the public and he hoped that he had deserved that trust. More houses should come before more industries. Although he would like to represent Foster Ward he promised that every ward would receive keen interest should he be elected.

Chris Leggat stated he had heard lots of candidates promise so much, and the result of their promises had been gratifyingly fair. He was strongly in favor of the ward system. Afternoon council meetings were not advocated—evening meetings were the thing for only the few of the general public would attend, whereas at evening meetings there used to be a fairly good crowd of interested persons. He supported Hale's platform and strict economy of public spending was his watchword.

Don McNevrin briefly said that if elected he would do everything in his power for the good of the city.

Ken Reid in a speech full of witticisms, archly said "to be honest I can do with the 400 bucks which taxpayers hand out to aldermen," which sally "brought down the house." At present the only means to relieve civic revenue is by taxation. He thought the Trade Fair monies should be devised. For instance Queen's Park has promised facilities to the city for meetings in Toronto of all municipal authorities to obtain financial aid. He was in favor of a new incinerator and sane civic government.

Bruce Smith was unable to attend the meeting.

Robert Temple admitted that he had no municipal experience, but generalled, if elected, to keep down expense to a minimum. His main platform would be hard work and careful planning.

Claude Tice was introduced by the chairman with: "The next speaker will be somebody of whom I should know something!" Claude stated that he had appealed to the club on three previous occasions and Foster Ward had given him its support. He requested that support again. He took responsibility for putting forward a motion to council for the installation of a new incinerator and would be glad to see fruition of his endeavor. Regarding the control of heavy traffic representations would have to be made to the government. Claude stated that a new bridge to divert much of the present day hazard. He paid tribute to excellent work done by the department of public works and stated that it is well under the financial appropriation. He always got much at home in Foster Ward and concluded with "If you feel like voting for me—thank you very much."

Expresses Thanks

George Forhan was called upon by the chairman for a few words. George said that it must make everybody proud to see such a group of aldermen and prospective aldermen present and thanked the council for the good job they had accomplished.

Art Keegan called upon acting chairman of Parks Committee, Max Mathews, to address the meeting. In a humorous, fighting speech Max paid a great tribute to former chairman, Henry Bedford-Jones, real estate promoter and he will be greatly missed by the board. And Max reminded the crowd that two years ago he had aspired to public office and every year Foster Ward listens to a bunch who promises everything, and do nothing. Parks are the greatest asset that any town or city can possess, and good parks are going to advertise a community than anything else. His slogan is "Re-creation — not recreation." Finally, don't ask somebody to do a job without giving them the wherewithal to do it.

Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P., briefly thanked the meeting for the privilege of saying a few words. He complimented all the aldermen for their citizenship, while all those aspiring for office should be heartily commended.

IN MEMORIAM

GILLS.— In loving memory of our dear son, Elton Gills, who died November 29, 1941 from injuries received in rugby game.
Looking back with memories
Of the days that are past
We bless the years we had with you
And leave the rest to God.
Lovingly remembered by Mother and Dad, Donna and LeRoy. N29

BRITTON.— In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who passed away one year ago today.
We are sad within this world of sorrow
Lonely are our hearts today.
For the one we loved so dearly
He forever been called away.
We think of her in silence,
We cry sear not our weep;
But many silent tears are shed
For one we shall never forget.
Inserted by husband, Stanley, daughters Phyllis and Audrey. N29

Palace Denies Reports Elizabeth Had to Get Re-acquainted With Son

London, Nov. 29 (Reuters) — Buckingham Palace officials were indignant today about published reports that Princess Elizabeth has demanded a vacation to get re-acquainted with her son, Prince Charles, because he did not greet her affectionately on her return from Canada. The reports were not carried by The Canadian Press.

"There is no truth in such reports," a palace spokesman said. "It is ridiculous and absolute nonsense."

The report apparently arose from television and newsreel pictures of the homecoming to London of the Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh.

At the railroad station the royal parents saw their three-year-old son for the first time in six weeks. There were no kisses or hugs for him—only a pat on the head and a few words.

The palace spokesman said "the arrival in London of the Princess and the Duke was a public one and the royal family couldn't have long, cosy chats on the railroad platform. A guard of honor was waiting to be inspected as soon as the first greetings were over."

It is a rule of British royalty that private emotions are not for display in public and must not interfere with public obligations.

The palace spokesman said Elizabeth had always intended to have a week or two free of engagements on her return from Canada.

"But there is no question of her remaining away from public functions because Prince Charles did not recognize her or greet her properly," he added.

The Princess has already attended an official home-coming reception.

The spokesman added it had also been suggested that Elizabeth was resting because her doctors were concerned about her health. But after one strenuous tour and before a second one—to Australia—lasting six months, anyone would want to rest, the spokesman said.

CHATHAM THIEVES ACTIVE

Chatham, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Thieves worked hard in this area Wednesday night.

They broke into a service station at Fraser Siding, nine miles west of here, and stole cigarets and meat, provincial police said today.

They burglarized another service station at Tupperville, 10 miles north of here, and took a flashlight and some loose change. Police also reported a car stolen Wednesday night from Tupperville. And an abandoned car found there had been stolen in London.

Factories in City Little Affected By Cut-Backs in Production

In contrast to certain other Ontario centres where production cut-backs have forced factory lay-offs and in a reduction of working hours per week, city factories almost without exception have been unaffected, it was reported today by H. H. Reed, local employment service manager.

With the exception of seasonal lay-offs at one plant, production cut-backs in the city are almost non-existent, it was stated, and factories are operating their normal five-day week.

At the present time there are approximately 400 persons in the city and district "on claim" at the local employment office, some of these being on a short time basis. Or the total roughly 190 of the persons on claim are women.

A seasonal lay-off of 90 persons, mostly women, at Corbyville, recently swelled the total of unemployed, but on the whole the employment situation in the city is about on par with that of a year ago. Some of the short-time claims at the employment office are as result of materials shortages.

Both local factories in the city are working their five-day week although at Corbins the foundry department has laid off a few workers. At the Belleville Lock Company an official stated the plant was working normal hours and expected to do so at least until the new year.

Some of the local plants are on the market for skilled workers to go to work on defence contracts.

Despite the favorable fall weather there is a comparative lull in the building trades and plasterers and carpenters are available. The plant addition at Canada Cement is the only major construction now in progress with about 110 workers employed there in two shifts.

A MERITORIOUS SUGGESTION

There is a great deal of merit in a suggestion advanced by James Carroll, of Downsview, Ontario, in the form of a letter to the editor of one of the Toronto papers.

Mr. Carroll believes that the provincial government should enact legislation which would require every vendor of Christmas trees to obtain a permit from the clerk of the municipality in which the Christmas trees are cut, granting permission to cut and sell such trees and stating the lot, concession and name of the property owner on whose premises the trees were cut. Such permits should be required, Mr. Carroll believes, even when the property owner himself is selling the trees, so as to help prevent people from selling trees cut on other persons' property.

Mr. Carroll points out that spruce trees, which are the variety most frequently chosen for Christmas trees, grow more slowly than either cedar or balsam, and are more valuable commercially. Also, he says, the spruce is becoming quite uncommon in many parts of Ontario.

As Mr. Carroll says, if municipalities and Christmas trees had to advance his permit to do so, the activities of the Christmas tree thieves would be greatly hampered.

Few farmers object to two or three little youngsters cutting a Christmas tree for themselves on farm property, but there are few farmers who do not object to Christmas trees, or any other kind of trees, being stolen in wholesale quantities for sale, as frequently happens.

Although a good many of them do not seem to understand it, farmers have a right to the same right as a foot on a farmer's property than a farmer has to walk into the urban dweller's house or apartment and make himself at home without an invitation.

The season when deer hunters were being pestered in some areas by hunters ended not long ago; the season when they are going to be pestered by the Christmas tree thieves is just beginning.

REBELS, 1951 VARIETY

Eighty-six years after the Confederate States of America were defeated in the American Civil War, the Confederate flag is enjoying a renaissance. Formerly, the "Stars and Bars" was displayed only occasionally in the southern states and in the Ladies' rights section.

Now, according to the Christian Science Monitor, its use has spread all over the United States. It is displayed on thousands of automobiles parked around the industrial plants of such cities as Detroit, Dallas and Akron. It appears on bicycle handlebars, on men's lapel pins and women's jewelry, scarves and kerchiefs.

The Republicans do not seem worried about the Confederate flag's revival, but many of the leftist followers of President Truman think the revival is significant and important the sentiments which they believe it is intended to express. They believe it is the emblem of a widespread and growing opposition to the policies which Washington has been pursuing for nearly 20 years. When this is carried out, and squarely with some reason, that the Confederate flag appears as the badge of the "Tory" Republicans wherever the Truman administration is under attack.

Perhaps the most significant incident in the whole furor over the Confederate flag's re-appearance is that the Daily Worker, organ of Communism in the United States, denounces the emblem as "iniquitous" and "tressonable."

AUSTRALIA TO "FIX" EGYPT

The government of Australia, says a report from Melbourne, has informed Egypt that Egypt is going to get no more wheat from Australia until the British-Egyptian dispute is settled. A spokesman for the Australian government in the capital of the country said that Australia is "reviewing" all export trade with Egypt and that the (Australian) cabinet has requested reports on wool, butter and flour sent to that country.

The government of Australia, it would appear, has adopted a realistic viewpoint from which to observe recent events in Egypt and is undertaking realistic methods in dealing with them.

The Egyptians, in trying to drive the British out of both the Sudan and the Sues Canal zone, have shown a reckless disregard for the legal rights of others; more than that, they have created a situation fraught with great danger to world peace.

Such a situation must be handled with kid gloves. A sudden shortage of the foodstuffs which they must import is much more likely to bring them to their senses than any number of exhortations.

The others (everyone a from)
As "members" to the staff are known.
The members (as in hives of bees)
It is the workers' task to please.
The members want the choicest steaks,
The coldest ice, the sweetest cakes.
If these the budget can't afford
They write long letters to the board.
All members know some club elsewhere
That serves more cheaply better fare;
Has grayer music, prettier flowers,
Especially for wedding showers.
Members, from soup to pie and cheese,
Are very difficult to please.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO
Nov. 29th., 1921

The Belleville unemployment relief fund has now reached the sum of $6078.06.

Miss H. C. Peck is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mrs. H. Donaldson of Trenton is visiting friends in the city.

Mr. Fraser Kelly of the C.N.R. dispatcher's office here is relieving the train despatcher at Lindsay.

Over 200 boys and girls enjoyed skating at the arena on the first Saturday morning when the rink was given over for their use.

The Orange Hall Block in Frankford in which was located the Orange Lodge quarters, Harry Parish's grocery and H. W. Rose's grocery, was destroyed by fire yesterday.

Miss Marion Lyons of Prescott is the guest of Miss Margaret Sandy, Charles Street. Miss Hardy is home from St. Hilda's College, Toronto, to spend a few days.

30 YEARS AGO
Nov. 29th., 1921

A large shipment of machinery for the Alemite Corporation of Canada has arrived here and is being installed in the commodious factory building of Graham's Leather on Pinnacle Street. Belleville is, indeed, fortunate in securing an industry which will be helpful to the town.

Mr. A. W. Robertson of Montreal has been on a short visit to his brother, Dr. J. J. Robertson.

Capt. Plunkett's world-famous "Dumbells" will present their great crossword revue "Biff, Bing, Bang" for the last time in Belleville on the evening of Dec. 5th at Griffin's Theatre.

40 YEARS AGO
Nov. 29th., 1911

A deputation will go to Burlalo to inspect the engine plant of a rotary engine concern with the idea of having a branch of the company established here. The following will make the trip: W. B. Deacon, W.C. Springer, Harry Pringle, F.W. Chesher, Harry Greenleaf and T. R. Cohoe.

Mr. George I. Thomas will be a candidate for the office of Mayor here at the coming elections.

Mr. George Boulter is spending a few days in Campbellford.

50 YEARS AGO

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Many of those who heard Prime Minister Churchill's speech over the B.B.C. shortly after his accession to power must have been furiously irritated by the echo of Churchill's person sitting quite near him as the head table who kept barking out the mutchpoked "Hyuh! Hyuh!"

This is the picturesque pronunciation of "Hyuh! Here" in Britain. Mr. Churchill's style of parliamentary speech, with timing a that of a great actor as much as his fine English, is the stuff to be filled, as all of us know who were his dedicated followers for decades during the war, with other distant cheers or deep emotional silence. This character sitting next to him at the banquet referred to, felt called upon to fill in every pause with a cheery man with this silly sollow of a "Hyuh! Hyuh!" To some of the listeners, it seemed a sorry commentary on the Tory win in Britain. Listening to the absurd boose sound, one could envisage a big, fat man in a size eighteen collar, with bulging eyes, the type Low used to draw as compulsory for Colonel Blimp. We don't want any of these clots enough to put Churchill to share the table.

As a matter of fact, this "Hyuh! Hyuh!" business is one of the less admirable features of our parliamentary system. The House of Commons has not the character required for approbation. In our Ottawa house of commons, it has a shrill, nasal sound, the way we pronounce it in Canada, whereas in the stuffier parliamentarians can get a good cheery sound to it from those Oxford Colonel Blimp. We don't want any of these clots enough to put Churchill to share the table.

The British give it that "Hyuh! or "Hyaw" sound. But there is a lot more sopranos and tenors than baritones among politicians both in Canada and Britain. Westminster can actually sound like a turkey farm when the whole house starts yelping.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL I. DOUGLASS

WITH AND WITHOUT CEMENT

The sand on the seashore is so loose that one usually sinks over his ankles in walking across it or through it. An automobile would stall if it tried to plough through any considerable extent of such sand. But many of the roads which lead up to the seashore are all made of sand—that is, sand mixed with cement, and thereafter called concrete. The sand which in its natural state is too soft to support the weight of a human being, can, when mixed with cement, support the weight of continuous traffic involving the use of tens of thousands of heavy trucks.

There are people whose characters are like the sea sand, and as there are other people having precisely the same qualities whose characters are as reliable and durable as a wide concrete highway. The difference is that the reliable person has had something mixed into his life which gives it consistency and strength.

The saint and the sinner are both made of the same thing—sand. But the sinner, who constantly yields to temptation because he has nothing in him which enables him to stand up against its enticements, is like the loose sand of the seashore. The saint is the person who has had the cement of high spiritual purpose and an abiding religious faith mixed into the qualities of his soul.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

MY NEW YORK

I see by the society pages that the Talbot-Martins, whose movements are directly as fashionable as the tides, are back from one of their regular safaris to New York City. To be absolutely candid about it, I'm a bright green with envy.

It's my hunch that the Talbot-Martins, when in Gotham, do all the things I've always yearned to do in the big town.

I mean, they probably don't spend all their visit standing in Times Square gawking a strand of straw and gawking at the Camel's sign—the one with the face that really smokes—or into the terrible canyons of steel and stone.

I picture the Talbot-Martins, followed by a faithful family retainer bearing sacks of currency, living the life of the automobile, bathed for the nonce in a bright glitter.

In the early afternoon, perhaps, one might find them—be in something conservative and double-breasted from Brox, for all I know—at the Alaska Sealskin from Bergdorf-Goodman, enjoying the lithographs of Toulouse-Lautrec in the Metropolitan Museum.

Later, perhaps, one might have a quiet cocktail in the high-in-the sky Rainbow Room gazing down upon Manhattan from the top of their suite in the Waldorf-Astoria or Park Avenue or Lexington or Madison Avenue. Or, of course, evening at the Copa, where yummy Mrs. Talbot-Martin, looks breathed in a Jacques Fath original.

Perhaps then they'd be off to the Latin Quarter for a midnight production of "Saint Joan" or to occupy two on the aisle at "Two On the Aisle" or Mert Lawrence and, afterwards, on to 21 Morocco or over to the Stork Club, where Toots Shor and Sally DeMarco and to wine and dine. Ged!

But I'm not to behave in New York. Otherwise you might just as well stay home and play pinochle.

First Visit

I envy the Talbot-Martins because my own visits to New York have been far from satisfactory. They commence with the bleak arrival in the big city of some of the duller characters of Horatio Alger.

In my four or five visits there has been not exactly a hue and cry in transit from other parts of the globe and, consequently, broke. It is pretty hard on the pocketbook on $4.85 which explains why I have seen little of New York but the Camel's sign on the overhanging from Des Moines and Fargo, North Dakota, who gather in Times Square.

I once did manage to get into the Stork Club. The head-waiter placed me at a table the size of a graphaphone record on the lower floor of the mezzanine and under tables. Far, far, far away—probably in New Jersey—was a dim, tiny figure I still like to think was Pearl Bailey, who I'd come to see. It wasn't the glorious living I'd been dreaming about.

There were no Brooke Astors in suits for the regard immigrant. I no suites in the Waldorf-Astoria. The suit I wore on my first visit, in fact, was habitual by an elderly Chinese in Georgetown, British Guiana, and would have been worn by no other man except possibly Red Skelton, for laughs.

I arrived that time on a Saturday night and there was not a hotel room available, so they said, in all New York. I knew one person in New York and can still recall searching for his name in the giant directories of Manhattan, the Bronx, Queens, Brooklyn and Staten Island. Finding out I'm lonesome are not plumbed by a man entombed alone, but by a man surrounded by twelve million strangers.

There I was, dying to see and savor the sophistication, the gaiety, the scintillating glamor, the culture of the world's greatest city, and I'm bearing for a cell in the Y.M.C.A.

The next afternoon I set out firmly for an exhibition of Raoul Duffy's paintings, but a man in an unconscious state can't appreciate lets occupied me in Times Square (I had to start out for everything from Times Square to get my bearings) and before I knew it I was seeing an Abbott and Costello movie.

I knew the man was a hawker hired by the theatre to lure suckers, but I succumbed to him because he was the only person who'd proved interested in me in 48 hours.

And Others

On my second visit to New York, returning from an assignment in England, I was met at the pier by an old friend, himself a Canadian with a head full of hayseed, Lucius Beebe, the late O. O. McIntyre, Walter Winchell and company.

Lucius, I remember, proposed to sip champagne from Talulluh Bankhead's slipper, My, how our heads throbbed every day after we got ourselves a hotel room and prepared to paint the town.

Three days later, in a darkened room, we were still gazing at the ceiling and listening to snatches of the screen of a reuted television set and had been as far as the Empire State Building on Fifth Avenue to buy some cheap California wine. That time I didn't even see the Camel's sign—the one that I have been in Scranton.

My third visit wasn't at all like the Talbot-Martins either. That one lasted just two hours and consisted of a taxi ride from Grand Central Station to a cafe, one, and all dozens of other small things, insignificant in themselves, but somehow important to the heart.

Usually, and certainly in my own case, most of these things are their daily resting place in an office desk. It's the drawer that is always full, but try as I may, I somehow am drawn to let it stay that way, for how I dislike to disturb anything that has ever entered me within. And so, like the beads to the Rosary I linger these things over again and again. Among the lot of clippings are poems and bowling things that my mother sent to me when in college, I read them over again and again, and I guess I always will.

I have visited with many a business man, and have noted his shy look as he pulled out from one of his desks some little thing of significance to him, and that he wanted me to see. It would surprise his fine children.

Your Engineer Came Up The Hard Way

By E. P. DONOHOE
(In Canadian National Magazine)

The rules of the road that a motorist must know to drive an automobile are few and simple. But the locomotive engineer's is a different matter. He must know more than 300 operating rules before he may pilot a train.

In addition to other qualifications he is required to meet, makes his job a good deal less glamorous than it used to be and people study harder of are subjected to more rigid tests before they attain their ambition. The engineer in charge of your train is among the elite of his profession for the graduates to passenger service only after he has proved his ability during many years of freight service.

To win his place behind the throttle of a giant steam or diesel locomotive, the aspiring engineer spends three years of intensive training as a fireman. In that period his spare time is devoted to the study of mechanics, safety and general operating practices.

The modern locomotive is a complex piece of machinery and before he may operate one, the engineer must not only know the function of all its parts but must be capable of making minor repairs to any one of them. His progress in this field is checked every month by tests written and oral examinations.

To assist him in his education, the C.N.R. maintains classrooms and operates instruction cars over its terminals across the system. Equipment for teaching includes cross-section models of the more vital parts of steam locomotives and projectors which operate in conjunction with audiograph machines to give instruction in the operation of the diesel-electric locomotive.

While studying mechanics, the fireman also must learn the more than 300 operating rules we mentioned earlier. At the end of his third year of firing he is tested, written as well as oral tests on rules. To pass the written test he must have the right answers for some 1,050 questions. In the oral examination he is required to show his knowledge to an instructor who has had the widest experience on the railroad.

While he has to show plenty of knowledge to pass, that is not a qualification for the man who would pilot a train. Good health and physical vigor are important assets that he must maintain throughout his career. He must pass a physical check-up every two years.

When a fireman has mastered the knowledge and skill required of him, he has the right when he joining the veteran ranks of his colleagues who handle the passenger trains.

As a graduate engineer, he is placed on the "A" or seniority list. In this class of service, he may be called on at any hour to take over on any one of a number of freight runs or terminal operations. After he has served fifteen years as an "extra" if his seniority entitles him to it, he may be offered a regular freight run. Later, again when his seniority permits, he may be assigned to a regular passenger run. The engineer, however, can decide for himself whether he is ready for such an assignment or not. For any one of a number of reasons he may decide to remain on terminal operations or some other branch of railroading more attractive to him. The mere fact that he has been offered a passenger run is sufficient evidence of his ability and qualifications.

To assist him in his education, the engineer must study how the function of all its parts but must be capable of making minor repairs to any one of them. His progress in this field is checked every month by tests written and oral examinations.

EXAMINATION JITTERS AND STAGE FRIGHT

The disturbing thought keeps recurring, that people today seldom or never tell me how to wait to get a nervous breakdown or the rheumatic from dampness or bad cold on the chest from going without a hat or lose all my teeth from neglecting to brush 'em or hardening of the arteries from drinking tap water . . . I wonder whether they have all cancelled subscriptions . . . Or worse, whether I have mellowed a bit and, heaven forbid . . .

Trivialities aside, there are three serious ailments which command all my sympathy because I have suffered from all of them and suffered alone, without the comfort and aid I can now offer for two of them. The two which are amenable to simple treatment are examination jitters and stage fright. The malady for which I have been unable to find even a palliative is nostalgia. I could tell you about spells of homesickness that would last in two or three hours of home, that would make you laugh, perhaps. But please don't write me if you are homesick—I can't stand it.

Examination jitters and stage fright are just two names for the same ailment . . . worry—nervous fear.

For the prevention of either stage fright or examination jitters one should begin say three weeks before the ordeal, taking a tablet of thiamine (B1) and quinine three times daily after food. Each tablet, designed for this purpose, contains a milligram of thiamine and 2½ grains of quinine.

Prophylactic use of quinine alone has been praised for years by persons subject to stage fright or examination jitters.

More recently it has been prewell established by experiments on various groups of students hooping the intake of B1 to the optimal level improves scholastic work — both ability to study or concentrate and the faculty of memory. Hence the addition of thiamine (vitamin B1).

Groups of students receiving an optimal daily ration of thiamine over a period of many weeks or the entire school term consistently did better than those who did not.

LITTLE KEEPSAKES OF LOVE

I daresay that it is a universal habit of millions to set aside little keepsakes of love that have at some time or another given a glow to the heart. An inexpensive gift, a newspaper clipping, a cancelled railroad or steamship ticket reminding one of an unusual and happy event, a letter of encouragement, though unsigned, a baby's picture, a foreign postcard, these are but a few of the dozens of other small things, insignificant in themselves, but somehow important to the heart.

Usually, and certainly in my own case, most of these things have their daily resting place in an office desk. # Kennedy Denies Report by Mayor Of Owen Sound

Toronto, Nov. 29 (CP) — Agriculture Minister Kennedy yesterday denied a report by Mayor Edward Sargent of Owen Sound that the Ontario government was willing to review operations of the milk board and the recently-ordered increase in consumer prices.

Mayor Sargent, president of the Ontario Mayors' and Reeves' Association, was reported as saying he was given the information in a telephone conversation with Mr. Kennedy earlier yesterday.

Mr. Kennedy said he had been talking to Mayor Sargent by telephone on the matter of complaints over increased milk prices. He said the mayor suggested "some review" take place.

Mr. Kennedy said similar suggestions had come from Toronto and Hamilton.

"I made no suggestion that it was the intention of myself or my department to hold an immediate review into the board's administration," Mr. Kennedy said.

"All I said was that when the mayors of such large municipalities made a suggestion, we had to take notice."

Mayor Sargent reported 20 to 25 mayors in the province had wired him supporting the idea of an inquiry into the operation of the milk board and the whole situation."

SOCIAL EUCHRE

Eight tables of players were in play at the weekly euchre at St. George's Hall, Station Street, on Monday evening. Planned included Mrs. Drury and Mrs. Keegan. Low hand was Mrs. Mac. Mr. G. Lucas, Mr. W. McKay and lone hand, Mr. J. Alexander.

WEDDINGS

APPLEBY—PRIDHAM

A quiet wedding was solemnized in the Wooler United Church parsonage on Saturday, November 24 at 3.00 p.m., when Greta Ida, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Pridham, of Wooler, was wedded to James Percy Appleby, of Sidney township, Rev. W. Fletcher officiating.

The bride was lovely in a navy blue suit and pink blouse, with navy accessories. She carried a bouquet of colourful carnations.

Miss Velma Pridham, sister of the bride was bridesmaid, wearing a burgundy wine suit with black accessories, and carried what was of bronze baby 'mums, and asters.

Frank Terry, friend of the groom, was groomsman. The parsonage was decorated with pink and white streamers and bells.

Following the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. J. Pridham, receiving the guests, wore a grey two-piece dress with mauve feather hat, black accessories, and corsage of carnations and 'mums. Mrs. Appleby assisted wearing a navy blue dress and hat, with grey accessories, and corsage of blue and yellow baby 'mums.

Rev. Fletcher proposed a fitting toast to the happy bride. The matron-of-honor left for points west, amid a rain of confetti. The bride wore a grey camel hair coat with a corsage of pink and blue carnations. On their return, they will reside in Frankford.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Westernton and Lake, Belleville and Frankford.

ARMSTRONG—THOMPSON

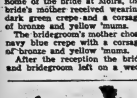
Thomasburg United Church parsonage with the Rev. and Mrs. Clarke officiating, was the setting on Saturday, November 24th at 1.30 p.m. for the marriage of Dorothy Julia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Thompson, of Moira, to William Armstrong, son of Mr. C. Jamieson of Tamworth and the late Mr. Robert Armstrong.

The bride wore a dress of teal blue French silk faille designed with a draped effect skirt, Chinese collar and elbow-length sleeves with navy accessories and a corsage of baby roses. Her only ornament was a rhinestone necklace with matching earrings the gift of the bridegroom.



She was attended by her sister, Miss Pearl Thompson, who wore a coffee-brown ensemble with a corsage of Talisman roses.

Mr. Jack Armstrong, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom acted as best man.

At the reception held at the home of the bride in Moira, the bride's mother received wearing dark green crepe and a corsage of bronze and yellow 'mums.

The bridegroom's mother chose navy blue crepe with a corsage of bronze and yellow 'mums.

After the reception the bride and bridegroom left on a week-

AND SHE SAID—

"Tell me, dear, where'did you get this delicious tea?"

"Well, one day George stopped in at his store—I had a cup of tea there—turned up his nose at curing—till I had to phone Ethel for the name. Result—Mother Parker's from now on."

"Yes—and I know another person right now who will be serving Mother Parker's from now on."

"Good—and you just try their Tea Bags. They're so convenient—and Orange Pekoe quality, too."

Kiwanis Club's Festival of Music Evokes Praise From Audience

In its second annual presentation of the choirs of the city, the Kiwanis Club brought a festival of music to the people of Belleville on Wednesday evening that was a creditable effort on the part of those who participated and of their directors and left add variety to the program several instrumental numbers were rendered which included xylophone number played by Helen Grant, Belleville, and violin and drama ity. Her mother, Mrs. W. G. Grant, was her accompanist at the piano. A trio, composed of Clifford Templeer, pianist, W. D. LaFrance, violinist, and Glen Abbott, cellist, played two selections, Goodall's "By Babylon's Wave," and "To Thee, O Lord, Do I Lift Up My Soul," Holloway and Church Choirs, who presented "Selections from Penitence, Purdon and Psalm" and Bridge Street United Church choir whose Psalm by Franck and the Lord's Prayer brought to a close a most satisfactory concert of music. The massed choirs joined voices in the national anthem. Chairman for the evening was Ken Hubbs, past president of the Kiwanis Club.

Piano accompaniments were played by Audrey Keeting, Clifford Templer, Alec Gordon and Wm. Connor, and violin accompaniments by W. D. LaFrance and L. G. Lennox.

Careful Training Obvious

It would be hard to select a particular choir for special mention, because all showed evidences of careful training and good practice, but the children had

Holloway St. United Church Holds Christmas Bazaar, Dainty Tea

Fragrant pine boughs, glistening Christmas bells and graceful loops of red and green tissue paper, lar to Jillar, all betokened that the Yuletide season was fast approaching and to emphasize this point, a tall, Christmas tree, bedecked with iridescent globes in red and silver, gold and sapphire blue intermingled with silver tinsel, stood garnished with fine and silver, gold and sapphire blue intermingled with silver tinsel, stood garnished with beauteous welcome to the many guests who came expectantly from noon to the bazaar and tea at Holloway Street United Church. Those who received were Mrs. B. Moorman, Mrs. Sidney Lerman and Mrs. F. Scott, and the treasurers, Mrs. Twiddy, Mrs. Jay White, Mrs. McKay and Mrs. C. P. Clapp, who graciously accepted the custom dues, after which the many patrons repaired their way to the various booths which were situated around the assembly room.

Myriads of Doll Dresses

The first booth visited was that of the doll emporium where myriads of tiny dresses of organdie of taffeta in rose and blue, velvet coats, knit ensembles, sun suits and dresses, cozy little bed nighties and wee pajama suits, bathing suits, house coats, evening bags, evening dresses in net over taffeta, and dolls and more dolls were on sale, for dolls dressed with brown eyes, and dark haired with blue eyes all under the guardianship of Mrs. J. Grills, Mrs. C. Lowther, Mrs. R. Dozzee, Mrs. T. Pudle and Mrs. H. O'Neill.

Mrs. crochet and knitted goods, convened by Mrs. J. Robertson, Mrs. R. Bell and assisted by Mrs. Burrows, Mrs. J. Kellough, Mrs. G. McFarlane, Mrs. C. Hubbs, displayed many fine needlework articles it was hard to choose, for here were pineapple chesterfield sets, dainty doilies with frilly crocheted edges, little baby sacques, bootees, bonnets, mittees, fancy coat hangers with pink roses, bedsides spinx knit wicker, matchbox covers, crochet lace for pillowslips, lace-edged washcloths, lace collars and black velvet cushions with pink appliqued dahlias.

Lovely Pillowslips

On the gift booth were some of the loveliest pillowslips seen in a long time, some were lace-edged and embroidered with floral baskets; others with blue birds and flowers, and still others with rainbows and lace edge and hand — hemstitched, dresser scarves in satin, tea towels, accessories, a child's lovely pink dress and colored luncheon cloths, pot-holders and hot mats. These were conversed by Mrs. F. Bailey, Mrs. A. Bell, Mrs. Hall, R. Jose, Mrs. C. Sinfield, Mrs. G. Sinfield, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. F. White.

The candy booth, attractive with its red and white trim and ornamental candy cane, was laden with cellophane bags of creams, divinity fudge, chocolates and bones and red cups filled with delicious fudge. These were soon sold out of most of these delicacies, and Mrs. D. Crotead. Miss B. Fatrman, Miss Kay Jones, Mrs. F. Moore, Mrs. N. Veldram and Miss D. Cook.

Aprons to right of them, aprons to left of them, aprons behind and aprons in front, in fact, aprons, in asterns, and one, made all by hand by a little 93-year-old lady. Miss M. Fletcher of Elmer Street, a pretty apron with orange flowers on a black basket ground, a dainty apron, and then another apron, all in crochet with red scallops and bows, and three bars of red, two narrow and one in the end, running across the bottom. Aprons in all over style, and many in half length. These are a lovely tentative gift. These were conversed by Mrs. O. Denyes, Mrs. R. Andrews, Mrs. S. Westover, Mrs. H. Murphy, Mrs. L. Adams, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. Wess and Mrs. J. Reid, who were surrounded by eager buyers.

Cherished Confections

The homecooking booth, as usual, was three or four deep, with people waiting for each other in obtaining the cherished confection, whether of cookies, tarts, pies, buns, jams or jellies, or cream puffs which were seen to be the treat before the optical illusion for on the second glance, they had disappeared.

Mrs. G. Dobbs, Mrs. M. Hick, Mrs. W. Jeffery, Mrs. E. Bush, Mrs. J. Waterman, Mrs. W. Fenwick and Mrs. Martin were in charge here.

Not by was the pantry shelf, in charge of Mrs. H. Quinsey, Mrs. L. Wilkes, Mrs. F. Bowman and Mrs. O. Wagar who were busy selling the scrumptious pickles, canned fruits and honey, jams and jellies.

In the toy section, sponsored by the Energetic Ten, Mrs. Wright was in charge of some fine blackboards in easel type, with the plain word "Welcome" on one of the alphabet, while others were painted in attractive designs with numbers and flowers.

In this room, was the lovely Christmas tree, surrounded by and around whose foot a pile of wrapped gifts were to be given by eager customers of children, young folk and those who were young in heart, if not in years. Mrs. William Anderson, Mrs. A. E. Wrightsmeyer, Mrs. Pearl Smith, Miss Beth Robertson and Mrs. J. Oran were in charge here.

Christmas Cards

The tea room was attractive with its green boughs, ropes of red and green and the unique and lovely tea table with its exquisite grape-designed Scotch lace cloth, centred with a little bit of merry England on Christmas eve when, in the garden of a happy manor house, the Christmas singers are caroling beneath the silvery lights of the oldtime snow-laden street lamp, surrounded by snow-covered trees, green trees and the glimmering light from tall ivory tapers in silver candelabra. Those inviting to the tea room were Mrs. C. Holmes and Mrs. T. Ketcheson, while those presiding at the silver services included, Mrs. R. McMurray, Mrs. W. Symons, Mrs. C. I. Frederick and Mrs. R. Andrews.

Willing Helpers

Those who served were Mrs. J. Cordes, Mrs. A. Lennox, Mrs. J. Joblin, Mrs. A. Downey, Mrs. R. Hicks, Mrs. A. Sweet, Mrs. S. Lough, Mrs. C. Walters, Mrs. E. Richards, Mrs. H. Ingerbretsen, Mrs. McFarlane, Mrs. H. Thrasher, Mrs. D. Matthews, Mrs. J. O'Neill, Mrs. H. Ingerbretsen, Mrs. T. O'Neill. Those who replenished, Mrs. Orton, Mrs. J. Canning, Mrs. W. Potter, Mrs. L. Morton, Mrs. W. Townson, Mrs. J. Jones, Mrs. H. Thompson and Mrs. G. Stickle, Mrs. R. Richards, Mrs. H. Denyes, Mrs. V. Bailey and Mrs. R. C. Moynes.

Those responsible for the delicious sandwiches were Mrs. A. Bartlett, Mrs. Wm. Connor, Mrs. F. Simpson, Mrs. T. Tucker, Mrs. G. Gibson, Mrs. F. Wilson, Mrs. F. Bayfield, Mrs. H. Townsend, Mrs. G. Wagg and Mrs. G. Deller. Those responsible for the refreshing cups of tea included Mrs. E. Moynes, Mrs. Laughlin, Mrs. A. Hitchen, Mrs. R. Post, and for the lovely decorations Mrs. W. H. Oulhant and Mrs. Garn Dobbs.

Appreciative thanks are tendered the Mayoress Mrs. Meriless and the members who were also present, Robert, James and George Patterson, and their families.

NO CONFIRMATION

Berlin, Nov. 29 — (Reuters) — West Berlin police said today they were investigating a report that 50 former members of Hitler's brown-shirted storm troopers met in a British sector home recently to found a new Nazi organization. The men were unable to confirm the report, published by the East Berlin paper News Zeit.

Fiftieth Anniversary Attended by Two Hundred Guests

Last Sunday was the occasion of a most happy event when Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Meacaro, together with the latter's four sisters and three brothers, assembled at the home of Mrs. Macaro's sister, Mrs. S. L. Clunis and Mr. Clunis, in Chatham, to honor their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Merliess, on their golden wedding day.

The many guests, numbering nearly two hundred, who came bringing congratulations and good wishes, were greeted at the door by Bob Merliess, youngest member of the family, and welcomed by the gracious bride of fifty years ago, becomingly attired in a gown of black crepe with beaded neckline and wearing a corsage of pink roses.

The dinner table was appropriately appointed with golden candles in crystal holders, while fragrant golden roses and chrysanthemums which adorned the rooms, added their beauty to the occasion.

Those who served were the six daughters of the bride and bridegroom, Mrs. S. L. Clunis, Mrs. W. J. Heyburn and Mrs. B. W. Sprague, all of Chatham; Mrs. H. Gardiner of Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. O. M. Schaefer, of Troy, Ohio, and Mrs. C. A. Macaro, of Belleville. They were assisted by the daughters-in-law, Mrs. S. W. Merliess, Mrs. R. C. Merliess and Mrs. J. E. Merliess and the two granddaughters Mrs. K. E. Carstensen, of Troy and Miss Barbara Macaro of London, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Macaro, who poured tea.

Mr. Merliess three nephews were also present, Robert, James and George Patterson, and their families.

Christmas Fruit Cake

By MARY MOORE

Have you ever been in on a belated enquiry as to plans for the church?

In 1949 we built the grand new basement of our new church building and a talent campaign, which was launched in 1770 loaned, interest-free, by two of the church stewards, helped tremendously. Our return was $3,280—which, when the original sum was paid back to our two benefactors, gave us a clear profit of over $2,900 to hand over to the church treasurer.

In our family we took a total of $15 and gained $5 more by 1) potting hyacinths and burying them outside until the end of January (this was my project—my son); making stuffed corduroy animals (by Marianne, my daughter) and selling them at the Christmas cakes (Enzen).

That was three years ago. Now a new talent campaign is rolling, and the cake customers from last time keep ringing my telephone and asking me if I will sell them my Christmas cakes this year. Whether I intended to be or not I'm in the Christmas cake-making business again, and the recipe below is the one they are happily paying me $2.50 per pound for—practical Christians that they are!

EMEN'S MEDIUM DARK FRUIT CAKE

(For Christmas 1951)

On the night before you plan to mix and bake the cake—mix 1½ tablespoons fruitex in 30-oz can crushed pineapple, 8 oz can apricot nectar, 1 cup of 2 ounces citron peel, 7 ounces cut mixed peel, one pound golden mixed raisins, one pound dates, 4 raisins (Lexias or Muscats), 1-pound cleaned and dried currants, 4 ounces blanched almonds cut in halves, 4 ounces coarsely broken walnuts. Mix well, cover and let stand overnight at room temperature. When ready to cook and bake cake, sift cake flour and measure 2 cups into sifter; add spices, cover bowl and add 1-3 of a freshly grated whole nutmeg, 1-4 teaspoon each salt, cinnamon and cloves. Sift into bowl. Add 1 cup each white and brown sugar, ½ cup each butter and lard. Beat until you have a good smooth batter. If desired this may be mixed in your electric beater at slow position. Stir this batter into the fruit mixture thoroughly. Have ready 3 average-sized loaf pans, buttered and paper-lined and buttered again. Have water pan in bottom of oven, but not so wide that it touches cake pans. Bake cakes at 275 deg. Fahr. for 3 to 4 hours. If you bake cakes in pans smaller than loaf pans, in 2 separate ones they may bake in 3 hours. If you place hot water in pan as it boils away.

When removed from oven cool to room temperature and then wrap in several thicknesses of waxed paper, and then in dry towels and keep in cool place to ripen until the Christmas festivities begin.

VARIATIONS OF FRUIT CAKE

(1) Add 1 teaspoon of powdered flavoring.

(2) Omit spices and add 2 or 3 teaspoons grated lemon rind.

(3) Use margarine instead of butter.

(4) Use 1-2 pound almonds and no walnuts, or 1-2 pound walnuts and no almonds.

Keep your eye on this column for other delicious cake, pudding, cookies and candy recipes during December.

THOMASBURG

'Crusade for Christ' Well Attended

Thomasburg — On a recent Sunday evening in Thomasburg United Church, the first service of the "Crusade for Christ" was well attended.

Rev. Morley Clarke's discourse on the theme "Salvation," was a challenge to everyone present.

Mr. and Mrs. Laimon and Mrs. Grant of West Huntingdon assisted in the service of song and in solo, duet and trio were an inspiration to all who heard them.

On the succeeding evening, Mr. Kenneth Sherret, Lansdowne addressed near capacity congregations. The increased interest as the services progressed was gratifying.

Grateful People

To the musicians who assisted the Frankford Male Quartet; Lieutenants Heron, Salvation Army, Tweed and Mr. Sherret, Metro; Mrs. Arnold Diltz, Plainfield; Mr. and Mrs. Laimon, Mr. and Mrs. Grant, West Huntingdon; Thomasburg United Church people and ladies' aid, we say,

Much credit also is due Rev. and Mrs. Clarke for their untiring efforts in furthering the crusade; by personally assisting in singing and to Mrs. Clarke for her piano accompaniment throughout.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hoskins of Oshawa were guests on Tuesday at the home of the latter's mother, Mrs. H. B. Richardson.

Presentation

On Thursday evening in the I.O.O.F. Hall, Thomasburg, a community party was held to extend congratulations to the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Robins.

An address of welcome was read and an upholstered living room chair presented with the best wishes of the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson expressed their thanks and invited the people to come to their home.

The remainder of the evening was spent in cards and dancing, after which the ladies served refreshments.

Wedding

At the Manse, Thomasburg, Saturday November 24th, Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gil Thompson, Moira, and William Armstrong of Tamworth, were united in marriage, Rev. Morley Clarke officiating. An reception was held later at the bride's home.

STIRLING

ST. PAUL'S W.A.

Stirling — The Auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society of St. Paul's Church met in the church school rooms with 28 members present. Mrs. C. Hamlin presided and Mrs. N. E. Eggleton played soft music as members gathered.

A poem and hymn opened the meeting. The corresponding secretary read copies of thank for messages of sympathy sent to bereaved ones, also letters from Hallowsy and West Huntingdon ladies inviting the women of St. Paul's to banquets, as well as communications from Presbyterial meetings.

14 Calls Made

Mrs. A. E. Good, secretary of the Community Friendship Department, reported 14 calls made since October meeting.

Mrs. V. Richardson, Temperance and Christian Citizenship secretary, drew attention to the fact that while on the tour of Canada the Princess abstained from wine at civic dinners and also commented on Prince Philip's willingness to assist in the church services each Sunday while he and Princess Elizabeth were in Canada.

Parcels of good used clothing for the spring bale for overseas relief may be left at the parsonage any time from now until spring.

Mrs. Macklin was assisted in the devotional exercises by Mrs. H. Vandervoet who read portions or scripture which were commented on by Mrs. Macklin. The second chapter of the study book, "Home Missions Working Where the Student Missionary Goes," was given by Mrs. A Armstrong.

Student Preachers

In 1950 there were 340 communities in which 234 students preached. Of this number 36 were young women. These students travel while on their fields by bicycle, old car or power boat. There are at least four children in the United Church who cannot attend any Sunday School, but now through the mail and by air, these children receive regular lessons. The "Junior Family Teacher" is a quarterly help which is sent to the parents for use in the Bible study.

In the largest Presbytery of the United Church, the Presbytery of Prince Albert, Sask., a full-time radio ministry is maintained. This Presbytery has 137 preaching places with only 14 ordained ministers full time most of the year the people go without church service.

Radio Ministry

For nearly ten years, the voice of the United Church has been regularly heard three times weekly from station CKBI, Prince Albert. Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Fyke give a children's broadcast each week with Mrs. Fyke the story teller. The program is well received and is meeting a real need where the frontiers of the church are fixing.

Then there are the fleet of four mission boats that ply up and down the west coast of British Columbia and the fleet of five boats on the Newfoundland and Labrador coast that minister to the inhabitants along those rocky outskirts of Canada.

A half hour was spent socially over a cup of tea and sandwiches.

GIVES FIRE ALARM

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Mrs. Carn Dobbs Addresses W. A.

White's District — The ladies of White's Women's Association entertained the ladies of Wesley Church, Consecon, and King Street churches on Wednesday afternoon last with about 150 attending.

The president, Mrs. Floyd Dudley, presided. Mrs. Frank Sandercock was pianist, rendering quiet music.

The devotional service was in charge of Mrs. Clifton Smith, church leader. Luke 12:16-30. Her theme was "Our Father Which Art in Heaven." "Why we must have patience and not try to crowd so much into one day. We need live one day only at a time. The Lord will provide our daily bread and our daily strength. We must live only for today; the closed gift of God not for today do I seek, but O God help me to live this day, today and now."

Mrs. Silham read "God Bless You".

Mrs. Casey Ketcheson welcomed the guests.

12-1 pound solo, consisted of a solo, "I Will Shift Thy Pilot Be", by Mrs. Cecil Hamilton, of Alkenz, accompanied by Mrs. Hiroshi Shemiliar; a duet by Mrs. Norwood Hallowell and Mrs. Harold Hancock of Centenary; a solo "Trust For Today" by Mrs. Langston of King Street Church, Trenton, accompanied by Mrs. Kidd; a reading, "Take Time" by Mrs. Roy Thrasher, of Centenary.

Guest Speaker

Mrs. Garn Dobbs, president of the Belleville Presbytery, was the guest speaker. She said there is a great thing to be a Christian. When we meet we talk about the weather and the news. Why don't we talk about our love for Jesus? She read a poem, "Why it is so hard to speak about Jesus?"

"During the War a temple in France was bombed and a statue of Jesus was damaged. When the temple was rebuilt and the statue replaced all was perfect but the hands of Jesus could not be found. One of the workmen said, 'Instead, I have no other hands but yours.' So today Jesus depends on our hands."

She told of women of the church building up their hope chest to furnishing their homes. One lady visited a family who could not speak English. She left a card with her name and address and tried to make her understand that if she needed help who was to call her. Later the little boy was badly injured and she needed help. She remembered the card and someone near a phone. The church worker came, had the little boy sent by ambulance to the hospital, and stayed with her until she knew the boy would get well.

As a result, the whole family joined the church, as well as several other families. Canadian families, and they all became good workers in the church.

In British Columbia five girls were sent by a church in a training school. They finally became full-time church workers. Children's Homes, Old People's Homes and Redemptive Homes all need help. This side of the church is symbolized by using the red side of the church envelope. There is a tendency today to keep Christ in the church. Christ went out on the highway and byways.

Mrs. Dobbs closed with a prayer we could each use "O Lord open the eyes of the blind to see with me."

Mrs. Kidd, organist of King Street Church, rendered a piano solo, "The Spinning Wheel."

Mrs. Lorne Hunt graciously thanked all for their part in the afternoon meeting and a special thank-you to Mrs. Dobbs for her fine address.

Refreshments were served by the ladies and a social time was enjoyed.

Mrs. W. Denton, of Belleville, was an overnight visitor on Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jeffery.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jeffery and Mrs. M. Denton were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ritz and family, of Thurlow.

Miss Pearl Nicolson, of Toronto, was a weekend guest of her mother, Mrs. Everett Nicolson. They called on Mr. Nicolson, who is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bowers, Donald, Marilyn and Audrey, also Mr. Sam Bowers were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bowers of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Young were Friday callers of relatives in Prince Edward.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Hunt, Bruce, John and Billie, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Hunt's mother, Mrs. Arthur Millar, of Keene.

Mr. Rowe Hunt was a Sunday visitor of his son, Mr. Doug Hunt, and Mrs. Hunt of Trenton.

Mrs. E. Mears, Raymond and Paul, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. N. Dustin of Trenton.

MUNICIPAL

Ross David appealed for support for his election as Public Utilities commissioner. He paid tribute to the late Russ Wotten who will be greatly missed. Mr. David said he was aspiring to an office in which he had no previous experience. However, he was not ashamed of his record on the Board of Education for which he had served for five years. He had no selfish interests and asked for their good will promising to do the most good for the most people.

Bill Harvey had a boisterous reception when he was called upon. He stated that he had originally intended to "hang up" his boxing gloves for ever, but he had taken them down again in an endeavor to fill the shoes of the late Russ Wotten. Bill served 18 years on the school board and 10 years as alderman. He asked for the support of the people in general and the city in particular for Public Utility commissioner.

Urbin "Sandy" Lumsden was brief. He congratulated the club and hoped they would carry on for many more. "If you don't want me, vote for me," was his closing remark, as an aspirant for P.U.C.

Percy McGuire admitted that he would not even attempt to make a speech. He paid tribute to the late Russ Wotten. Percy said he would make no promises, but their vote would be appreciated.

Maurice Callahan in an impromptu speech said he had listened in at the club meetings for about many years and through it all each successive council has been afraid to do anything for Foster Ward. It had no fire protection while the "dump" is a disgrace to the city. The traffic congestion is terrible and something drastic had to be done even if another bridge be built.

After the meeting adjourned at ten, refreshments were served by the club members.

And so ended another session of the Wharf Street Debating Club. It was a good show and it was enjoyed by all present. One of the highlights was the unscheduled appearances of "Mrs." Harry Rollins. This "lady" was beautifully gowned in a creation of red, blue and yellow taffeta with daring neck line. Above "her" sweet face was a droopy Merry Widow hat. She gave freely of a special perfume and saw to it that every speaker was properly disinfected. In a perfect contralto voice "she" led the singing with great effect. Indeed "Mrs." Harry Rollins was a real asset in keeping the crowd within ultra-respectable bounds.

WANT CONTROL ACTIVITIES

London, Nov. 29 — (Reuters) — British private detectives have drafted a bill to control the activities of untrained imposters who are damaging their profession by posing as sleuths. The British Detectives Association announced:

"There are about 500 people practising in this country as private detectives. Judges have made many scathing remarks about the activities of some of them, which we reflected on our organization."

MAY BE DEPURGED

Tokyo, Nov. 29 — (AP)—Kyodo new agency said today that Japan's Ambassador to the United States at the time of Pearl Harbor may be depurged when the treaty goes into effect because he had nothing to do with the Pacific war." The agency said former Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura is high on the list of former officers to be depurged.

Aid Small Farmers In British Guiana

Georgetown, British Guiana — (CP)—The British Guiana government is showing solicitude for the economic welfare of the peasant farmers—those who grow what are called "provisions" and fruits.

They are distinct from the comparatively small number who grow cane to supply sugar factories and the large group who concentrate on rice production.

The government has established a new $140,000 processing factory which, at the same time, is aimed to prevent waste at the government produce purchasing depot.

That there has been waste doesn't mean there were surpluses in the past over the needs of the community. The trouble arose because many persons cannot afford to buy. The trade union council, for instance, estimates there are about 75,000 unemployed here.

The wastage occurred at the government depot itself. Although established to assist farmers by buying all their produce at fixed prices, the depot lacked processing facilities.

Governor Sir Charles Woolley, opening the factory, said he hoped it would spur on private capital to similar, smaller industrial development.

He said:

In part it is a Cassava flour mill capable of a flour or starch output of 1,000 tons per annum which will not only absorb the present output of bitter cassava root surplus to our domestic needs, but will also absorb a considerable increased production from areas where the crop can be readily grown, and where an expansion of agricultural production is needed.

The factory has a corn drying department and a stockfeed mixer.

Mr. and Mrs. Murro and Keith.

Mrs. W. J. Gray spent the tea hour on Sunday with her son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Gray, at Jericho Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Morrison, Wayne and Brian of Belleville were Sunday guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bird.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Crook were Wednesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. Jones on Wednesday.

Mrs. Victor Bongard spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harold at Glenora.

Mrs. Frank Weaver of Picton spent the tea hour with his daughter, Mrs. Jerrold Bongard and Mr. Bongard on Sunday. Mr. Gerald Miller and friend of Belleville were visitors at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Salisbury and Janet were Sunday tea and evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. Cragg.

Mr. and Mrs. Theran Allan and children of Peterborough spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Allan and Myra.

Writer Declares Planning is Key For Good Family

Toronto, (CP)—The introduction to the book "Living With Our Children" says it should be read by the latest generation of mascled folks—those with "stray grains of wedding rice in the corners of their suitcases."

The present volume (Norton, New York) is a revised edition of the original of a quarter of a century ago, and author Dr. Lillian M. Gilbreth examines her earlier theories in the light of the years.

Dr. Gilbreth is popularly known as the model for the mother in the movie "Cheaper by the Dozen," an industrial psychologist and expert in scientific management who was the mother of 11 children when she wrote the book "out of her first-hand experience."

She has always found life an adventure, and so did her husband, the late Frank Gilbreth.

Understanding is Key

Young married couples, she says, should plan their future and get to understand one another's background, to learn the traits each possesses.

"It is interesting to consider one's ancestors both as members of social groups and as individuals, from the physical, mental and emotional side," she says, "and to evaluate their efficiency in both cases."

Her advice on child-rearing covers much territory. Bad habits can be established so easily. Napkins should never be tucked into the neck of a youngster's dress or suit, for instance. Later this will be regarded as bad manners. Bibs are associated with childhood but napkins should be used in the same manner as adults use them.

Parents must learn to live with their children, not for them, is her main theme.

"Make changes in your way of living, not primarily because it is best for them but because it is best for everyone."

WELLINGTON

Wellington — Mr. and Mrs. Everett Lavendar and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lavendar of Madoc returned home from Windsor and Detroit the middle of last week, where they attended the latter's daughter-Mollard wedding.

Miss Edith Ward of Gilead spent Sunday with Mrs. Alma Reid. Mrs. G. Reid was an afternoon caller at the same home.

Mrs. Howard Marland and son Kenneth are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Boyle, Hillier.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Cox accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Adams and Brenda of Hillier have left for Florida to spend the winter months.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ellis and daughter Dicie of Belleville spent the tea hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ellis.

On Friday evening a crowd chartered bus newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lavendar. They were asked in and treated to pop, candy, cigars, cigarettes, ice cream and cookies. Everyone departed wishing them every happiness.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Luffman accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Bailley on a trip to the U.S.A. returning home on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lavendar of Madoc spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lavendar and Orlene.

The W.C.S. commencement exercises were held at the school on Friday and Saturday and all are to be congratulated on their work, as was shown by the large crowds each evening.

ELDORADO

Eldorado — Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCoy and Mrs. Bert McCoy spent the weekend with friends at Oshawa and Whitby.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford Chambers of Malone were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fox.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Pigden and Judy spent the weekend in Toronto and Oshawa.

A quilting was held at the home of Mrs. George Palmer on Friday afternoon in aid of Women's Institute.

Mr. Merrick Childer of Bancroft spent the weekend at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. Art Dudgeon and family left on Saturday for their new home near Foxboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Fox were dinner hour guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fox.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Whyte are spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. William Chambers were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Blakley.

Mrs. James Fox spent Friday afternoon with Mrs. C. D. McCann.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Whyte of Oshawa were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Whyte.

ROSSMORE

SUCCESSFUL BAZAAR

Rossmore — The Ladies' Aid held a successful bazaar and tea at Rossmore Church on the afternoon of Tuesday last. A good crowd was in attendance, and enjoyed the hospitality offered by the president and members who served tea.

The booth held a variety of useful articles and during the afternoon many prizes were awarded. Mrs. Reid of Trenton won the large box of groceries, and Mrs. Barriage of Rossmore the Loblaw box of groceries. Mrs. W. Gerow of Belleville drew the lucky ticket on the box of fancy work, and Mrs. Moyer won the crocheted flower basket.

Mrs. Root has moved to Belleville for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Mitchell have moved into their new home near their store in Rossmore.

Little Michell Reddick, who has been a polio patient in the Belleville General Hospital, has returned to his parents' home. He is progressing favorably and all hope he will soon be fully recovered.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Williams of Demorestville attended the curlers in the village last Wednesday night.

Rossmore Recreation Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. J. Kropinak Monday evening.

Mrs. F. Beinap entertained the ladies of the Banquet Euchre Club at her home, Friday afternoon.

Winter Grips Mackenzie River, Isolation Reigns Until Spring

Hay River, N.W.T. (CP)—Navigation has ended for the year on the Great Mackenzie River and deep isolation, disturbed only occasionally by the drone of aircraft, has settled over the northern frontier country.

This year the freeze-up came earlier than usual—in the middle, instead of at the end, of October. The hardy men and women who spend their winters in the far north have already settled down to eight months of isolation.

During this period little goes into the vast, snow-covered region and even less comes out. This land of gold, uranium and furs looms in almost total privacy.

But from about the first week in June until the end of October the Mackenzie normally is free of ice and busy with shipping. Boats and barges move swiftly along its wide surface, carrying food, clothing, machinery and other supplies into the corridor of virgin territory extending from northern Alberta to the Arctic Ocean.

This freight, amounting to about 25,000 tons every season, keeps the life blood of the booming communities along the river's 2,000-mile channel. There are no roads or rails along the Mackenzie and in four months the boats must carry provisions enough to last through eight months of winter.

For despite its great strides, aviation has not yet advanced to where it can supply the north land. Although planes bring in passengers and emergency supplies throughout the year, air traffic is too costly and too uncertain to challenge the supremacy of the river boat.

Busy Terminus

The terminus of this Arctic communications line is Hay River, a bustling frontier town on the south shore of Great Slave Lake.

Throughout the year Hay River is every bit a boom town. In the winter it is a bulging storehouse of goods bound for the gold and uranium mines, oilfields and trapping and fishing centres to the north. Its quays are piled high with freight of every description, brought by road and rail-and-road from Edmonton, 600 miles to the south.

With the first sign of break-up, Hay River becomes as lively as a seaport. Riverboat pilots and engineers arrive in groups from winter homes in the south and half-breeds and Indians swarm in from trapplines for a season of comparatively high wages as deck hands and stevedores.

Boats and barges are repaired and cargo is loaded aboard. Everything is prepared for the big push off. This preparation is important, for with the short season there is barely time for the boats to make two trips to the Arctic Ocean.

Each trip takes nearly two months and delay often means an encounter with early storms that batter Great Slave Lake and its neighbor, Great Bear Lake, 300 miles to the north. Although Great Slave Lake and Great Bear Lake are only about half the size of Lake Michigan, the storms that sweep the inland seas are fierce and often disastrous.

Valuable Cargoes

With the break-up, the boats are on their way, loaded with machinery for the gold fields, uranium operations and oil wells; traps and rifles for the trappers in the bush; medical supplies for the Indian missions and hospitals; and, by far the most important, food for the 15,000 white, Indian and Eskimo inhabitants.

The boats, though small and shallow-bottomed, are strong and well able to carry loads up to 350 tons while towing as many as five barges, each loaded with an equal amount of cargo. The largest in the fleet, the Yellowknife Expediter, is a mere 200 feet.

Of the 30-odd boats and 80 barges operating on the Mackenzie, all but a few are operated by two major companies, Northern Transportation Company. Others are operated by mining and fur-trading concerns.

With the exception of the Expediter, the boats and barges were brought in sections by caterpillar trains when navigation was started on a big scale more than 20 years ago. The sections were welded together and launched from improvised skidways.

The Expediter was the first and only ship brought into the Mackenzie basin through the Bering Sea and upstream on the Mackenzie. It was ferried by a United States Navy infantry landing craft.

MANY RIVERS

In all its rivers, Brazil possesses 27,318 miles of navigable waterways.

Claims Approved Now $64,750

Toronto, Nov. 29 —(CP) — Claims approved yesterday brought to $64,750 the amount settled in claims arising from the collision between a Nickel Belt Coach Lines Limited bus and a Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train last Feb. 8.

Nine miners died and 29 others were injured in the accident at a fog-shrouded level-crossing at Coniston, Ont., near Sudbury. Thirty-six claims remain to be settled and the total assessed may exceed $300,000.

Mr. Justice James C. McRuer yesterday approved claims totalling $55,000 to the families of Herbert Vincent Conlon, 58, and David Louis Martin, 45, both nickel workers from Coniston who were killed in the accident.

Mrs. Lucy Conlon will receive $10,250 from the bus line and her two children will get a total of $3,750. Mrs. Dorothy Martin will receive $10,250 from the company and five of her children will share $10,750.

Last August, settlement gave Mrs. Edna Landriault of Sturgeon Falls, $7,000 and her three children $12,000. Mrs. Marie Beaupartant was awarded $8,250 and her children $3,000.

ALLAN'S MILLS

Allan's Mills—Miss Jean McInroy spent a few days with friends at Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Silles were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Seeley on Tuesday evening.

Last Rites Held at Trenton For Nursing Sister Bonter; Had Distinguished War Record

Trenton—Special—Full Legion honors were accorded former Nursing Sister Annie Mabel Bonter, Reg. N., who died at her home at 62 King Street on Saturday. The funeral was under the auspices of Trenton Branch 119, Canadian Legion.

Services in the chapel and at the graveside on Tuesday afternoon were conducted by Padre A. E. McConnell, M.B.E., and the Rev. C. Grier, Ross Burtt, N. Sprague, O. G. Alyea and F. Fairmas.

Trenton—Special—Full Legion honors were accorded former Nursing Sister Annie Mabel Bonter, Reg. N., who died at her home at 62 King Street on Saturday. The funeral was under the auspices of Trenton Branch 119, Canadian Legion.

Services in the chapel and at the graveside on Tuesday afternoon were conducted by Padre A. E. McConnell, M.B.E., and the Rev. C. Grier, Ross Burtt, N. Sprague, O. G. Alyea and F. Fairmas.

The Last Post and Reveille were sounded by Trumpeter Jack Hector of the RCAF.

Overseas for five years in the First World War, Nursing Sister Bonter served in England, France, Belgium, Egypt and Germany. She was awarded the Royal Red Cross Medal, the highest decoration for nurses in the war. She was mentioned in dispatches.

In 1915 Miss Bonter graduated from Kingston General Hospital. That same year she joined the No. 8 Stationary Hospital Unit of Queen's University and went overseas. Later she served with the No. 7 Canadian General Hospital Unit. She returned to Canada from duty in Germany in 1920.

Born in Prince Edward county, Miss Bonter was the youngest daughter of Jacob Randall Bonter and Victoria Orser. She attended public school at Amelisburg and high school at Trenton. She went to training for a nurse in 1912.

In 1924 Miss Bonter joined the staff of the Kingston General Hospital acting as supervisor until 1941 when she was compelled to retire on account of illness. She has lived in Trenton and Prince Edward county since. She was a member of King Street United Church, Trenton.

Surviving are one sister, Mcta Bonter, a brother, Gershom Bonter both of Trenton; two nieces, Mrs. W. C. Meredith, (Shirley Bonter) of Ottawa, Mrs. Eula Bonter, of Burlington, and a nephew, Elmer Bonter, of Trenton.

The bearers were veterans of the First World War, Don Fraser, C. Orser, Ross Burtt, N. Sprague, O. G. Alyea and F. Fairmas.

$150,000 Damage In Cornwall Fire

Cornwall, Ont., Nov. 29—(CP)—Fire early today did $150,000 damage to the Ed Warner garage and service station. At least 12 cars and trucks were destroyed and hundreds of gallons of anti-freeze and oil consumed.

Some 30 firemen attending the Eastern Ontario Firefighters School augmented the local brigade. Six instructors from the Ontario Fire Marshal's office, here to conduct the week-long course, directed fire fighting.

All 110 guests in the nearby Cornwallis Hotel were evacuated but firemen confined the blaze to the garage.

Fire Chief Cory Moore, who suffered a cut hand, was the only man injured.

The fire was thought to have started from an over-heated furnace in the basement.

PRIME MINISTER

The second motion expressing non-confidence in the government, was introduced earlier by Victor Quelch (SC—Acadia). It charged the government has "failed to compensate the recipients of war veterans allowance for the increase in the cost of living by an appropriate increase."

Vote Expected Monday

Rejection of the Social Credit motion, first in the Commons with one other non-confidence motion to be considered in the lengthy throne speech debate. This is a Progressive Conservative amendment asking the government to take "adequate steps" to combat inflation. Vote on this is expected Monday.

Rodney Adamson (PC—York West) advocated establishment of security-loyalty boards in Canada to hear cases of personnel dismissed on security grounds from Canadian defence industries. He said Canada's present security laws, allowing no right of appeal to the individual, were simply an "act of dictatorship."

Ray Thomas (SC—Wetaskiwin) urged that German General Kurt Meyer, sentenced to life imprisonment for war crimes and now in a German prison, be brought back to Canada to serve his sentence "where the government can keep an eye on him."

Raymond Anderson (L—Norfolk) said the high price of Canadian cigarets—mainly because of taxes—had led to an increase in the smuggling of American cigarets into the country.

He hoped the question of cigaret taxes would be given favorable consideration in the next budget in April.

He also warned that Canada's dairying industry was on the wane. Milk, butter and cheese production was declining while Canada's population was increasing. The time might come when Canada, an agricultural country, would have to import all her butter and now all her milk for direct consumption.

SYRIAN ARMY SAYS

(Reports reaching Beirut, Lebanon, said the Syrian army occupied all important centres in Damascus after seizing power. ed)

(Special guards were put on the presidential palace and the army seized all offices of the Populist party.

(Shishekly went to the palace and tore up decrees signed by President Hasem El Atasi and then ordered the arrest of the government.)

Recent Syrian coups:

1. In March, 1949, Gen. Husni El Zaim, army commander-in-chief, proclaimed himself dictator and set up a military regime.

2. In August, 1949, Zaim was overthrown and executed by Sami Hennawi, then army chief of staff.

3. In December, 1949, Shishekly took over and arrested Hennawi, his brother-in-law.

NEW BOARD

Washington, Nov. 29 — (AP)— The railroad and airline wage board today extended application to the government's cost-of-living policy and other wage- and salary-stabilization rules to an estimated 1,650,000 railroad and airline employees. The board is a new one which Congress ordered this year as a separate stabilization agency for workers covered under the Railway Labor Act.

Rev. L. Arthur Page Inducted Into Rectorate of Shannonville By Ontario's Archbishop Lyons

Rev. L. Arthur Page was inducted into the rectorate of the parish of Shannonville, Wednesday night. The induction ceremony, held at the Church of St. Margaret's-in-the-Hill, was conducted by Most Rev. John Lyons, of Kingston, Archbishop of Ontario.

Mr. Page came to this district from Sudbury during last year, he has been at Roslin. He came from England originally. The parish of Shannonville includes churches at Shannonville and Point Anne as well as St. Margaret's On-The-Hill.

Assisting Archbishop Lyons in the induction ceremony was Venerable F. Arthur Smith, Archdeacon of Ontario and rector of St. Thomas' Church, Belleville.

Rev. F. Payne Preaches Sermon

Rev. Kenneth Blatchford, of Deseronto read the licence issued by the archbishop to Mr. Page. Rev. Fred Payne of Prescott preached the induction sermon. Rev. H. C. Seelaer of Stirling was the archbishop's chaplain.

Rev. E. Wrighton of Marysburg and Rev. Everett Smith of Bellaville read the admonition at the font. Rev. V. C. Besser, of Carrying Place, gave the admonition at the lectern.

Rev. C. P. Heaven of Wellington read the admonition at the pulpit. Archdeacon Smith and Canon J. B. Creeggan of Belleville read the admonition at the altar.

The keys of St. Margaret's On-The-Hill were presented to the new rector by the two wardens of the church, J. D. Godwin and Donald Leaning.

The organist was Frank Moore, Pat Blaker was the choir leader. The choir sang "Brother James' Air." In addition to those already mentioned, other Church of England clergymen who attended the ceremony were: Rev. Fred Downing of Tweed; Rev. R. N. Savary, of Ygondiaga, and Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne of Picton.

Women Arrange Reception

The reception which followed the induction ceremony was arranged by Mrs. John Godwin and convened by Mrs. Dalton Kaye, assisted by Mrs. James Ritchie. The servers were: Mrs. F. R. Clarke, Mrs. Arthur Woodson, Mrs. Robert Davis, Lois Bollins, Mrs. D. R. A. Allen, Joan White, Mrs. Sidney Sillitoe, Mrs. A. E. Paradis, Mrs. R. F. Lawrence, Mrs. F. Moore, Mrs. N. L. Brettingham, Mrs. G. W. Spring, Mrs. D. Leaning, Hilda Means and Mrs. C. D. Blaker.

Among those present at the reception was one of the senior members of the congregation, John Exley, who formed the first and when St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill was built, three years ago.

In a brief address which preceded the reception, Archbishop Lyons expressed pleasure at the size of the gathering, which nearly filled the auditorium. He was pleased also, the archbishop said, to see so many clergymen from the district present. The archbishop then bestowed his blessing upon the congregation.

45 Years in Church

Archbishop Lyons recalled that it would be 45 years next May since he had been ordained. "The progress which this congregation has made has been marked," said Archbishop Lyons.

"I can well remember when this building was not nearly so complete as it is today. I cannot express too strongly my congratulations to your choir. I look forward to a great future for this congregation. I am glad to be with you tonight, and I hope to be able to meet you all."

Mr. Page stated that "a great challenge" faced the parish of Shannonville. "We must build up our parish", he said. "In the near future, I expect to be working on many doors." Mr. Page promised he would give his best endeavors to forwarding the church's work. He then expressed his thanks to those who had participated in the induction service.

Godwin Welcomes Guests

Warden J. D. Godwin welcomed members of the congregation and their guests to St. Margaret's-On-the-Hill. S. B. Fitzgerald, a prominent member of the congregation, also spoke briefly.

"Let us remember that it is possible, through Jesus Christ, to make a new beginning, even after a hundred mistakes and failures," said Mr. Payne, during the induction service. "Let us remember that our church, the Church of England, is Catholic and evangelical. We must give guidance to the doubtful and bring the blessings which our church can bring to those souls which are now outside its influence."

At another point, Mr. Payne declared that, if people come to the church and do not receive the "living bread" which their souls need, then the church was no true church. He added: "Remember also that what kind of church you are going to have depends upon the people as well as upon your rector."

Mr. Payne stated that he saw a message of hope for the church in the disillusionment and despair which were in evidence in so many quarters today. "Let us bear in mind," he said, "that the New Testament church changed many who previously had no religion except a vague kind of fatalism.

"This is no time to talk of despair, no time to speak of defeatism," he continued. He quoted St. Paul, adding: "For he knew better than St. Paul that the civilization which he lived was denounced ridden."

Mr. Payne declared that the church must fight the feeling of complacency which was so common today. "Complacency," he said, "is God's greatest enemy. The disillusionment which afflicts so many people today can be used as the raw material from which we can create a new opportunity."

DESERONTO

United Church Holds Gratifying Bazaar

Deseronto—The annual United Church bazaar was held on Wednesday last in the Sunday school rooms. All the different booths being well patronized with a good crowd of town people.

Chief Editor Bremen Paper Killed by Bomb

Bremen, Germany, Nov. 29 — (Reuters)—Adolf Wolfard, chief editor of the Bremen daily newspaper Nachrichten, was killed today by a bomb in a parcel sent through the post. The bomb exploded when he opened the package.

Werner Wien, another editor of the independent paper, was injured seriously.

An instruction on the package said it should be opened only by the addressee.

Police said only that the package was sent from Goettingen and that an investigation was continuing.

Women's Guild Studies Report On 'Arts, Letters and Science'

The recent Massey commission report on Arts, Letters and Science in Canada was the topic of study and discussion by the Women's Guild at their regular meeting on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. M. P. Bock, Chatham St.

"A nation is an association of reasonable beings united in a peaceful sharing of the things they cherish. Therefore to determine the quality of the nation you must consider what those things are."

This quotation from Saint Augustine (354-430 A.D.), said Mrs. A. S. Archibald, leader of the program, shows what Canada has been just getting at, in this report.

Wide Powers Given

In 1949 the Privy Council of Canada appointed the members of the commission under Vincent Massey, chairman, giving them wide powers.

The printed report of 517 pages has been widely reviewed abroad. It is remarkably easy reading and has become a best seller to such an extent that it is now out of print and can be read only in libraries, not taken out. Vincent Massey himself, considers this report his greatest achievement.

Its two parts deal with the findings of the commissioned and their recommendations.

In it 'Culture' is defined as "that part of education which enriches the mind and refines the taste It is the development of the intelligence through Arts, Letters and Science. Formal education belongs to the provinces, but the culture of general education is a matter of federal and international interest."

Cultural Mediums

The mechanism by which cultural ideas and ideals are diffused' such as Canadian Press, Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, National Film Board, National Gallery, were dealth with by Miss F. Sullivan, who also pointed out the important force of the geographical nearness to the United States.

Education for culture was dealt with by Mrs. Edna Emery, who quoted, "Power has become cultivated in education." The desire to succeed has been uppermost, whereas the aim to strengthen character has been receiving less attention. The most important factor in education is the teacher, not the school. Large numbers and high standards are not compatible."

Recommendations

The report recommends financial aid to universities, federal scholarships, aid for art, and music and a "Canada Council" of 15 members to represent the varied regions of Canada.

Mrs. Archibald then dealt with the recommendations concerning the National Gallery, the National Museum, the National Archives, the Library of Parliament and Historic Sites and Monuments.

Many volunteer societies are commended and should have more aid.

Unknown Country

Canada is still largely "The Unknown Country" abroad. International service to project Canada but also to central injurious and greatly exaggerated advertising are recommended.

The report has been accepted as "a guide in future legislation."

The meeting was in charge of the president Mrs. George Wishart. A suitable worship service, led by Mrs. S. D. Scripture, preceded the program.

Orchestra Walks Out of Pit

Chicago, Nov. 29 — (AP) — The orchestra for the opera "Carmen" walked out of the pit last night at the bid of James Petrillo, musician's union boss, who decided the orchestra's dignity had been brulsed. The performance was delayed 15 minutes.

Petrillo said Alfred Broening, New York violinist, had complained that after the New York City Opera Company's performance of "Madame Butterfly" last Saturday, he was hit by a baton thrown by Conductor Lazslo Halasz.

A letter from a Mother Superior in an orphanage in India was read, expressing thanks for three parcels sent via CARE in June and telling of the extreme poverty and starvation in their area.

Lean, Meaty Canadian Hogs Coming Into Their Own In International Competition

Chicago, Nov. 29—(CP)—Canadian hogs may soon be able to compete for top honors in the United States at the International Livestock Exposition.

The dominion's porkers—famous the world over for their lean bacon—have not been shown at the International because the accent has been on larger, fatter corn-fed variety.

But this year the trend has been reversed. The grand championship went to a Poland China Barrow, bred by Oscar Anderson of Leland, Ill., which caught the judges' eyes because of its lack of excess fat.

American hogs have always been lardy—as anyone who has eaten bacon in the U. S. can testify—because of the breeding and the fat-producing corn diet.

Allan Williams of Cedar Rapids, Ia., superintendent of the exposition's swine show, said the tendency in recent years has been toward a lighter, meatier hog with good balance of body.

That is just where Canadian hogs shine.

Williams said the packers today are finding it increasingly difficult to market lard, because of intense competition from vegetable oils. Consequently, he said, hog breeders are being encouraged to produce a lighter-type animal with more meat and less lard.

To encourage this trend, competitive weight classes at the International were cut by 15 to 20 pounds this year. Minimum weight in the lightweight division was dropped from 200 to 180; the heavyweight minimum fell from 220 to 200.

Combined with the problem of marketing excess lard, hog raisers are finding that meat and meat American housewives are demanding—and which is lean and not mostly lard.

So with the trend towards meat, Canada's Yorkshire—renowned for their Wiltshire sides—along with Tamworths and Berkshires may soon be on a competitive level with the royalty of American porkers.

Ming Sung Ships Told Not to Fly Canadian Flag

Ottawa, Nov. 29 (CP) —Prime Minister St. Laurent said yesterday that the Ming Sung Company has been told that seven Canadian built and Canadian registered ships they have been operating in Asiatic waters will no longer be allowed to "carry on under Canadian registry."

In reply to questions by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader in the Commons the prime minister said however that the order-in-council allowing the ships to fly the Canadian flag has not been revoked.

The ships have not returned from recent runs from the port of Hong Kong to Macao and Canton. The government does not know where they are at the moment.

The banks which gave a $12,000,000 government backed loan for construction of the ships by the Ming Sung Company of Canada, have instituted legal proceedings following failure of the company to meet interest payments.

Since the start of these legal proceedings, the prime minister said, the Ming Sung Company has been advised that the ships cannot carry on under Canadian registry.

Negotiations were going on with the Ming Sung Company looking to the transfer of registry of the ships where there also could be transfer of the mortgages against them.

Activities of the ships were first brought up by Maj.-Gen. George Pearkes, V.C., (PC-Nanaimo) who charged that they were carrying contraband from Hong Kong to Red China Ports.

A recent dispatch from Hong Kong said the ships are lying rusting in the Whangpo River.

WILL PATROL CITY

Hamilton, Nov. 29 — (CP) — A loudspeaker, mounted on a police cruiser, will be used to embarrass careless motorists and jay-walkers into safe habits. Motorists who drive astride the white line will be politely told to drive in the proper lane.

Quebec Member Invited to Visit Korean Front

West Sechor, Korea, Nov. 29 — (CP) — The Canadian command-er in Korea announced today that a Quebec Member of Parliament will visit the fighting zone to see for himself that there is no discrimination against French - speaking Canadian troops.

The member, P. E. Gagnon, independent member for Chicoutimi said in the House of Commons Nov. 13 that until an investigation is made he will not withdraw his charge that French-speaking Canadian soldiers in Korea are forced to serve in most exposed positions and given most unpleasant fatigue duties.

There is strong resentment in the 25th Canadian Brigade area over Gagnon's refusal to withdraw. His business on an investigation was read by the troops today in the forces edition of the Canadian Daily Republican newspaper published in Tokyo.

"Why doesn't he come and investigate personally?" asked Brig. J. M. Rockingham, commander of the 25th. "I'll give him a jeep and turn him loose. He can go wherever he wants."

Lt.-Col. J. A. Dextraze of Montreal, commander of the brigade's French - speaking battalion, the Royal 22nd, said: "The man is obviously misinformed — to put it kindly."

The Ottawa News issue containing Gagnon's statement arrived at the front just after the Van Doos had been involved in a five - day defensive stand on a barren mountain 10 miles north of Seoul — a stand described as one of the great actions of the Korean campaign.

GRAVES NOT DISTURBED

Toronto, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Water mains and sewers are being laid through a section that marks old Fort York but the historic graves of the old fort's burial ground are not to be disturbed. Many of the graves, now minus headstones, are those of British soldiers garrisoned here until 1870.

PUPILS HELP

Wolverton, Ont., Nov. 29 — (CP) — Pupils of the public school here scotched an old fable when they pitched in to put out a fire in the school before it did any extensive damage. The Drumbo fire brigade was called but the children and a passing farmer had the blaze out before the brigade arrived.

Humane Inspector Got Wise To Dogs in German Breaks

Victoria, B.C. (CP)—Ben Robert Maggs, newly-appointed S. P. C. A. inspector here, inherited a fondness for dogs and thinks nothing of getting up in the middle of the night to tend a sick dog or cat.

The 43-year-old former pilot in the Battle of Britain has had a lifetime experience with wild animals in zoos, and this served him well on one of his two escapes from German prison camps in the last war.

When he and three comrades escaped from one camp, nazi guards set savage dogs on their trail. The men were freed in a forest. As the dogs barged at his feet, Maggs spoke soothingly, inched down the tree and made friends.

The three dogs came all the way home with him, trotting beside the wheels as he and his companions pedalled stolen bicycles to Calais. Ben and dogs scrambled aboard a "borrowed" motorboat. ("Where do you want to return that boat, but never got around to it," says Maggs).

They chugged two-thirds of the way across the channel and rowed home when the gas gave out.

Moving to the United States from his native England, he went to work in the San Diego zoo when 18. Later he went to Belle Island zoo in Detroit in charge of carnivorous animals, and from there to Hollywood as humane inspector charged with preventing cruelty to animals used in movies.

"Generally speaking, nowhere in the world do animals get better treatment than they do in Hollywood," he says.

Five years ago he came to Victoria where he married.

He will never "get to sleep" any animal if it can be kept alive and happy.

"I represent the animals in this town," he says. "They can't speak for themselves so I'm going around speaking for them."

Murray Cotterill Out of Position With Congress

Toronto, Nov. 29 (CP) —The Globe and Mail says today that Murray Cotterill has been relieved of his position as national political action director of the Canadian Congress of Labor, an office he has held since 1942. It says it has learned his resignation was accepted by the CCL executive council at a meeting Oct. 29.

(Questioned directly, Mr. Cotterill, on loan to the CCL from the United Steelworkers of America (CCL-CIO) in which he is political action director and public relations director, said that each year, as a matter of course, he submits his resignation to the incoming CCL executive after the CCL convention. He said he has received no communication indicating that the executive council has dealt with his latest offer of resignation.)

The paper's newspaper story says:

"The decision (by the executive council) predates the (Nov. 23) Ontario election by at least three weeks but was kept secret because of the provincial campaign. An announcement that Mr. Cotterill had resigned was planned for next week from Ottawa.

In Ottawa, a CCL official said the "story is substantially correct" but did not enlarge on this statement. He added that a CCL statement on the question "will be issued—probably soon."

30 Die in Streets In Cloud Burst And Hail Storm

Buenos Aires, Nov. 29—(Reuters)—Thirty people died in the streets of Tandil Tuesday in a cloud burst and hail storm which brought eight inches of rain in half an hour. Fourteen bodies have been recovered—seven of them children.

Tandil is a city of 30,000 about 200 miles south of here. First details of the tremendous downpour reached here from the stricken city Wednesday night.

Search parties hunted through the swamped city, for many other persons still unaccounted for.

Two children were swept to death as they tried to make their way home along roads flooded within minutes with up to 10 feet of water. Two other youngsters were carried away with furniture and household goods on a raging torrent cascading down from the surrounding hills into the hollow in which the city lies.

After the rain, Tandil was bombarded with huge hailstones which crushed some areas with several inches of ice.

FIVE WORKERS FREED

Vancouver, Nov. 29 (CP) — Rescuers freed five workmen late yesterday after they were imprisoned in a tunnel for six hours at the $10,000,000 Jones Lake power development east of Chilliwack, B.C. They were unhurt.

Flight of the men was discovered when a worker went to the tunnel to call them for lunch.

The men were trapped when logs slid down the shaft and jammed the entrance.

Fifteen of 17-Man Crew Perish When Tanker Smashes Into Stern of Small Trawler

Boston, Nov. 29—(AP)—Fifteen fishermen of a 17-man crew perished last night when the 10,000-ton tanker Ventura smashed into the stern of the 176-ton trawler Lynn in Boston harbor.

None of the 50 crew members on the Texas Oil Company tanker was injured.

The sea was calm and the night clear at the crash scene—a 500-yard-wide channel six miles from the Boston fish pier.

Coast guard observers said 12 of the victims went down with the trawler, "trapped in its steel hull like sardines in a can," while eating their evening meal or working in the engine room.

The other four were plucked from the water by one of several boats in the vicinity. Two died later.

Capt. J. Carl McNamara, 41, of Medford, one of the survivors, said the crash came with such little warning that he hadn't time to give an abandon-ship order.

Fireman John J. King, 40, of Winthrop, the other survivor, said the Lynn went down in about a minute "the ship flipped over like a fish on the starboard side," he said.

S. O. Pederson of Port Arthur, Tex., skipper of the tanker, told the Coast Guard the fishing vessel "cut across our bow . . . and we crushed her."

Both vessels were outward bounds—the Lynn for Georges Bank, 180 miles east of Boston, and the Ventura for Philadelphia after discharging gasoline here.

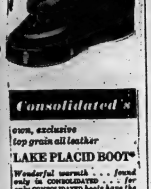
Communist Cells Operating Say Victoria Chinese

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 29—(CP)—A prominent local Chinese said last night that communist cells operation in every Chinese community in Canada are providing the information on which the reds base their extortion demands.

Letters to Chinese Canadians are demanding money to guarantee the safety of relatives and families in China.

The Chinese—who asked that his name be withheld—estimated that $18,000 in extortion money has been paid from Victoria.

When bank accounts have been drained the communist "fingerman" signs the death warrants of the victim's relatives by reporting to his superiors in China, he said.



R. C. M. P. said they know little about the activities of Chinese reds in the province. "The other Chinese are just deathly afraid to come to us," one official said.

LOWER FIGURE REPORTED

London, Nov. 29 — (Reuters)— About 2,225,000 workers were members of British trade unions at the end of 1950, the official ministry of labor Gazette reported yesterday. The figure is about 30,000 lower than that of 1949, and 80,000 less than at the end of 1948.

Communists Hurl 350 MIG Jets Into Battle

Fifth Air Force, Korea, May 29 — (AP) — The communists hurled at least 350 MIG jets into the battle for supremacy of the skies over northern Korea today as the ground front remained unusually quiet.

Never before have the reds put so many fighters aloft in a single day, Fifth Air Force headquarters said.

Twenty-two American Sabre jets tangled with 175 MIGS in a blazing 20-minute battle over MIG alley this afternoon. The air force said three Sabres were slightly damaged but all landed safely.

One red plane was damaged. Nine Sabres spotted about 50 MIGs streaking north from Pyongyang, the North Korean capital. Neither side opened fire, the air force said.

At least 225 MIGs were spotted in the afternoon. A fifth air force briefing officer said "there was no chance of duplication."

He said the reds made little effort to interfere with fighter bombers attacking targets south of Sinanju and Jam in northwest Korea.

One Allied F-51 Mustang was shot down by enemy ground fire while on a rail-cutting mission.

IVANHOE

Rev. Robert Gray Gives Inspiring Message at W.M.S.

Ivanhoe — The November meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.S., West Huntingdon, was held at the church on Monday evening last, and was conducted by Rev. Robert Gray, of Alliance Tabernacle, Belleville.

The meeting opened by congregational singing of "All Hail the Power" and "Tell Me the Old Old Story," followed by prayer. The singing was led by a quartet composed of 1st tenor, Bob Brown; 2nd tenor, Rev. Robert Gray; 1st bass, Russell Perkins; 2nd bass, Gordon Rivers.

Numbers given were: "He Whispers Sweet Peace to Me," "He is So Precious to Me," "Just a Little While," "Jesus Will Come Again," and a whistle solo "Beyond the Sunset" by Mr. Gordon Brown.

Wonderful Opportunities

Mr. Gray delivered a stirring and thought-provoking address on "Things God Does Not Know."

People have always thought of God as 'omnipotent' and 'omnipresent,' wonder what could possibly be said of "What God Does Not Know."

In speaking of man's knowledge, Mr. Gray mentioned the wonderful opportunities and advantages the young have today when higher education is made possible and accessible for them. When one thinks of the wonderful inventions and discoveries of man, the speed of the jet planes, the power of the atomic bomb, it would seem as though the tremendous knowledge of man was at its acme of perfection, yet man does not know the secrets of electricity, the secrets of the wind or the weather. Man cannot count the stars in the sky, number the sands on the shore, or number the hairs on his head. God can do all these things.

Four Things God Cannot Do

"God does not know a perfect man. For all have sinned;

"God does not know where confessed sins are. He has promised if we confess our sins He will blot them out and remember them no more. As far as the East is from the West so far will He remove our transgressions from us.

"God does not know another way of escape. Heb. 2, 2: 'How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?' By Grace ye are saved. Christ is He the hope of glory.

"God does not know how to reject a repentant sinner. 'He that cometh unto Me, I will not cast out.'"

A request solo, "The Love of God," was given by Mr. Gray, and the quartet sang, "He is So Precious to Me," and "Just Outside the Door."

Mrs. Morley Haggerty, on behalf of W.M.S. members, expressed grateful thanks and appreciation to Mr. Gray for his message, and the quartet and to Mrs. Perkins, pianist, for their message in song.

Rev. W. H. V. Walker also spoke in appreciation to the group, expressing the hope that all would be inspired and helped by this service.

LOSES JUICE

Wellington, N. Z. — (CP) — Housewives who buy old cabbages might just as well throw them away, said H. C. Hudson, a leading caterer. He told a women's meeting that green vegetables lose about 15 per cent of their vitamin C content every day they are stored.

6TH SIDNEY

6th Sidney — Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Silas were Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Richardson and Susan, also Mrs. Vera Silas; Mr. and Mrs. Ross Potts and children, of Stirling; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mardill, of Frankford and Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bird, 4th Sidney.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dafoe also Mr. and Mrs. Norman Frost attended Stone Church anniversary on Sunday and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Gray.

Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lott were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Clarke, of Shannonville, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sherman, of Reighton, and Mr. and Mrs. George Armstrong, of Hilton. Afternoon callers were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elliott of Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. Morley Sine, Grenville, Elden and Verna were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Sine, Springbrook.

Mr. Ward White of Roslin was a Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Dodds.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Sine, Carmen and Betty were Sunday guests of Mrs. B. Morton, Belleville.

Little Joan Rose spent a couple of days in Frankford with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sine.

Mr. and Mrs. Edison Sine and daughters were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. Morley, of Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rose and daughter spent Sunday in Trenton with Mr. and Mrs. G. Benns.

Canadian Troops in Hameln, Famed in Legend, Folklore As Pied Piper's Headquarters

By DOUGLAS HOW

Hameln, Germany, Nov. 27 (CP)—The Canadians have arrived in the Pied Piper's town and found that the piper is far from dead. The tourist trade has brought him back to life.

They've found, too, that this city of 50,000, nestling in the valley of the Weser River with rolling hills nearby, is the sort of place that is right into the backplace that fits right into the backabout the lean and magic man who rid Hameln of its rats in 1284 and then, unrewarded for his achievement, rid it of its children too.

The 27th brigade's engineer squadron under Maj. R. W. (Sammy) Potts, D.S.O., 29, of Saskatoon, is based right in the city in large, permanent German barracks shared by British engineers. The rural countryside nearby is such that, all in all, it is admirable area for soldiers' training—as well as for catching up on childhood memories.

Next summer the Canadians will be able to watch a daily reenactment of the ancient legend, with a piper, dressed in keeping with his antiquated, luring away children dressed as rats one day and children dressed as children the next.

For Hameln tumbled some years ago to the fact that ancient legend can be converted into tourist trade and now people come many miles to see this mediaseval pageant in streets which still bear the mediaseval touch.

One building is a museum, hundreds of years old. Another is the rattenfangerhaus, oldest building in Hameln and reputed to be the house where the rattenfanger or rat-catcher slept on the eve of his miserable deed.

The rattenfangerhaus was originally built in the 1200s and has survived 1600 and for 36 years it has been an inn, a quaint and pleasing place where you can pay for 75 cents a steak dinner that would cost three times that in Montreal.

As for the authenticity of the piper legend, Hameln's chief proprietor of the rattenfangerhaus, says it is true that a man rid Hameln of its rats in 1284 but that the children angle is pure fiction. Today in Hameln there are many children and many, many rats. Hameln is, in fact, probably the only place in the world where the rat is a prized commodity. They make them in candy, in cookies, in wood and sell them all over town as tourists's souvenirs.

Left Because He Was Fed Up With Teaching

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 28—(CP)—Alfred Greene said Tuesday night that he left his wife and four children in Toronto, faked his own murder and ran away with a thrice-divorced woman because he was "fed up with school teaching." He decided to go back into newspaper work.

Greene, 38, and his paramour, Mrs. Beatrice Reason, 33, were taken into custody in Chicago two weeks ago. They were brought to Detroit and were to be turned over today to Windsor police who hold a warrant for Greene for deserting his wife and children. No charge has been laid against Mrs. Reason.

At a deportation hearing in Chicago, Greene said he tried to make his disappearance look like murder. When he left Toronto Aug. 9, 1950, He left his motorcar, the seats smeared with blood, in a north end ravine. He left his broken glasses and personal papers in the car.

Greene told a reporter that when he left Toronto, he went directly to St. Louis, Mo., where he "had no trouble getting employment selling advertising for a newspaper."

The "evidence" left behind started a short-lived police search for his body. However, a few days after the disappearance, police learned of Mrs Reason's departure and it was decided that the two had run away together after concocting the 'murder,' Mrs. Reason had been a student in one of Greene's night classes.

The whereabouts of the couple was unknown until a few weeks ago when Mrs. Reason wrote her husband and asked him to meet her in Chicago to discuss divorce "so I can marry Alf Greene."

In Toronto, Mrs. Greene has said that she won't take back her husband.

Danish Navy Depot Blast Kills 16

Danish firemen and rescue workers are seen digging into the wreckage of the Danish navy's Copenhagen harbor arsenal seeking the bodies of 16 persons reportedly killed when the depot exploded. Navy investigators are baffled as to cause of fire, which started at the naval station, that set off the explosion. Seventy-five persons were injured in the blast and thousands of windows in the area were shattered. — Central Press Canadian.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

STILL ON TOP!

Last night's officiating at the Hawks-Kingston game was another strong argument in favor of giving linesmen authority to issue penalties. Referee Herb. Payne whose work with the whistle was never popular with Belleville fans did not add to his popularity with his issuance of what appeared to be borderline sentences while other offences went unpenalized.

His major misconduct penalty to playing Coach "Red" Doran was perhaps merited, but the minor penalty which started the argumentative fracas did not appear to be warranted, at least from the press box.

We are not condoning Doran's vehement argument following the sentence. His persistence in protesting the minor got him the match misconduct. Attempting to argue with a referee is the most futile thing in the world, and all a player gets is trouble and six-bits sentences. However Doran could scarcely be blamed for "blowing that red top".

Don Dougall came up with a sparkling performance in the Kingston nets and after the first few minutes of the second period he was practically invincible. The Hawks could not get that inside-the-blueline passing clicking and when they did, Dougall filled the breach very effectively. The HAC's defence was tough and their forwards checked hard and seldom missed opportunities to break away. The Hawks were caught too far up on occasions. Then again when close in they missed not a few chances with Dougall out of position, either hitting the post or missing the goal by inches.

The Hawks appeared to have the game well in hand in the first period. They had fly far the territorial play and should have scored a half dozen goals. But they reckoned not with the Sacs. Kingston struck back savagely in the opening minutes of the second period and before the customers had settled down the count was tied.

They repeated the performance after the Hawks had taken another two-goal lead, and after that the homesters did everything but park the puck behind Dougall.

The victory was the second in a row for Kingston since they hoisted off the victorious wallop. Eagles 9-7 in a furious third-period splurge in Kingston Monday night. They now have four points which pars them with the Earles in second slot while the Hawks still retain their two-point margin at the top of the heap. It's going to be a merry old group before the end of the trail heaves in sight.

* * *

TRAGEDY!

Everywhere sportsmen gather, one topic is always good for an argument. That is, are the athletes of today better than those of the olden times. While these points can never be proven, the records speak for themselves.

Take the case of Jim Thorpe, famous American athlete, whose feats still stand as a proud monument to the prowess of one who was and is considered, one of the greatest of all time.

There's stark tragedy in the Thorpe story. The other day press despatches revealed that the famous Indian athlete was broke and had undergone an operation for cancer. A far cry from the day when he was toasted the hero of the athletic world, a superman of sport, which he assuredly was. There was no better competitor anywhere than Jim Thorpe.

The records say he proved it against the Harvard crimson for his teammates Carlisle Indians in 1911. Harvard was a proud unbeaten national champion of the year before, almost intact. Carlisle coach Pol Warner had a football squad of only 16 men. But one of them was Thorpe. On that day Jim hobbled about on one leg, the other encased in bandages because the team that Carlisle had played the previous week had ganged up on him and tried to twist it off its hinges. However, Thorpe on one leg was better than any All-American on two.

Harvard was three-deep in manpower against the pitifully thin line of Carlisle. The second-string team started and quickly scored a touchdown. Then Thorpe swung into action.

He kicked a 22-yard field goal. He kicked a 43-yard field goal. He kicked a 37-yard field goal, and proud Harvard trailed 9-7 at the half.

In the second half the Crimson scored a quick down and field-goal for a 15-9 advantage.

"Gimme the ball" snapped Thorpe to his quarterback. On every play Harvard knew he would carry but the did them no good. The big Indian slashed the Crimson line to shreds. Nine times he carried and the ninth was over the goal-line. Thorpe had marched 70 yards to tie the score. He booted the extra point.

By the time the teams moved into the fourth quarter they were reeling and groggy. The punishment they handed out was awesome, Even the mighty Thorpe couldn't gain.

Harvard was willing to settle for a tie; Carlisle a moral victory. But not Thorpe. Painstakingly the Indians had moved up to the foe's 43-yard line with only a couple of minutes to play.

"Set up the ball" barked Thorpe. "I'll kick it".

"But you've kicked three already," objected the quarterback.

"Then I'll kick another", said Jim grimly.

A silence settled over the Harvard Stadium as Thorpe made ready for his fourth field goal from just inside the midfield stripe. A 50-yard kick? Impossible! Yet everyone in the stands seemed to accept the theory that the impossible was always within Thorpe's reach and that he'd make it. Harvard had scored 15 points, Thorpe 12.

Against Army a year later he scored 22 points of a 27-point Carlisle total. His threw six passes to a team-mate for another score. His vicious tackling shook loose the ball for three Army fumbles. His booming 50- and 70-yard punts kept the cadets perpetually bottled up.

But the irony of it all. Hollywood made a movie of his life that couldn't begin to do justice to him. Jim Thorpe saw the picture in Oklahoma City. He paid 65 cents at the box office to see it.

McGregor Scores 4 as SAC's Overcome 2-Goal Lead Twice In Boisterous Senior 'B' Game

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

Roaring from behind twice, the Kingston SAC's defeated the Belleville Hawks 9-5 here last night in a boisterous senior "B" hockey battle that vaulted them into a second place tie in the group standings.

Backed by a hard-hitting defence and close-checking forward lines plus the near-sensational work of Don Dougall in the nets, the SAC's trailing 3-1 going into the second period, quickly tied the score and breaking quickly from Hawk ganging attacks drove home five goals to the Hawks' pair to take a 6-5 lead.

Forays Paid Off

Their sudden forays again paid off in the third period when they successfully held the Hawks at bay and in plays two of which saw shots on the clear changed home three goals while holding the Hawks scoreless to take the victory. It was the second straight win for the victors.

For the second time in a row the spectators, 1109 this time, showed their disapproval of the officiating. The game was halted for several minutes in the third period as Referee Payne quelled the ice following a match misconduct penalty given to playing coach Red Doran of the Hawks by Referee Herb Payne of Peterborough.

The crowd roared its disapproval when Doran was given what appeared to be a cheap sentence, and when he argued the decision Payne gave him a major. Doran's insistent protest changed that to a match misconduct.

It was hard-checking hockey all through with penalties dispensed by the official, eight going to the Hawks. The home team had a clear margin in territorial play in the first and second periods but the SAC's were much more effective in front of the goal. Dougall at times was uncanny with his array of hard-driven close-in shots.

McGregor Scores Four

McGregor was the hero of the piece for the visitors, counting four goal. He was closely followed by Aiken with three with White and Tinkess getting the remainder. Murray was outstanding being credited with four assists Larmer, Tinkess and White also stood out for the winners.

Peter Jewitt, Gerry Gregory, Jerry Desjardins and Maurice Lefort were the best for the Hawks with those scoring counting a half dozen. Goyer got another picture goal and Desjardins and Moher accounted for the remaining pair.

The Hawks had a definite edge in the first period, narrowly missing on several occasions before Jones took Desjardins' pass mid-way to open the scoring while Bender was serving a penalty. Bateo fired the Hawks' second counter five minutes later on a neat passing play with MacDonald and Moher. The latter got the gate for boarding and McGregor swooped in for the first Kingston goal alone but Peter Jones got that one back on the period end. The goal was hotly disputed by Dougall who claimed the puck did not go over the line and the goal-judge was changed.

Shrank Quickly

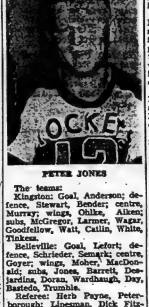
Kingston struck quickly in the second period scoring two goals from White and McGregor to tie the score after two minutes of play. Desjardins put the Hawks in the lead shortly afterwards and big Vern Goyer broke into the clear, raced in on Dougall and scored the prettiest goal of the night. But Dougall then settled cleanly. The Hawks were two men short vi the line.



For the second time in the period the SAC's roared from behind to not only knot the count but to take a one-goal lead. McGregor got his third goal of the game and 40 seconds later Aiken tied the score. Tinkess gave the SAC's the lead with a minute to go when he fired home Wagar's pass from well out.

Aiken scored the "clincher" a minute after the third period opened and from then to the 17 minute mark the Sacs successfully held off the Hawk attacks. At that point McGregor and Tinkes broke away with one man back and the former rammed home his fourth goal with minutes to go. Aiken got his third when he fired a loose puck from well out that was screened all the way.

Lefort in the Hawks' nets came up with some dazzling stops from SAC forwards who raced in on him on breakaways. The Hawks defence was porous at times and they caught out of position on dangerous enemy sorties.

Royals Triumph Over Flyers 4-2

(By The Canadian Press)

The league-leading New Westminster Royals drubbed Edmonton's slipping Flyers 4-2 in a lackluster Pacific Coast Hockey League game before 5,500 fans in Edmonton, however, in Seattle the ironmen had to fight to a finish to hold off the Vancouver Canucks to take a 5-3 win.

Gordon Fashoway paced New Westminster with two goals while Ollie Doroboy and Bobby Love had one each. The Edmonton scorers were Colin Kilburn and Howie Cox.

Walt Samaniuk, Jim Fairbrother, Ray Cervenka, Dutch Del Monte and Don Maxwell tallied five of the six Seattle goals, Ray Manson, Bill Hagen, Hugh Currie, Ron Plumb and Don Smith scored for the Canucks.

Top-Slot Hornets Drub Barons 9-6 In Goal Marathon

(By The Canadian Press)

Pittsburgh Hornets kept their hold on first place of the American Hockey League, swamping a scoring marathon over Cleveland Barons, 9-6, last night before 7,805 fans.

Hershey Bears leaders of the eastern division of the loop shut out Indianapolis 4-0 maintaining their lead.

At Cleveland, the Hornets' Bob Hassard, Tim Horton and George Armstrong scored two goals each while Ray Timgren, Charley Blair and Phil Maloney had one each, Paul Gladu had two for Cleveland and Ken Schultz, Phil Samis, Joe Lund and Dre Hildebrand scored one each. St. Kate Scored

At Hershey, Norm Corcoran, Bob Armstrong, Arnie Kullman and Leo Labine looked after the scoring for the Bears.

The St. Louis Flyers moved into second place in the western division by blasting Syracuse 6-2 before 3,626 spectators on hand ice.

However, the Flyers suffered heavy losses during the third period of the game as George Gilligan, Steve Black and Al Baccari were sidelined with knee injuries.

In addition, a fourth Flyer, Brent McNabb, suffered a three-stitch cut on the forehead in the first period while sitting in the penalty box. The dim flow off the ice and hit him while he was serving a major after Injuring Bronco Horvath while forced checking.

Steve Brymnak led the St Louis attack with a pair of goals and Baccari, Harry Taylor, Jack Hamilton and Ernie Dickens had one each.

At Providence, the Reds rallied for four goals in the second period and went on to defeat Buffalo Bisons 7-3 before 4,000 fans.

Huge Increase In Track Betting

Ottawa, Nov. 29—(CP)—Race track customers loosened their clutch on bankrolls in Canada's 1951 season, feeding into the pari-mutuel machines almost $7,000,000 more than last year.

Parimutuel betting on the horses increased to a record $85,284,287, the federal agriculture department reported today, from $53,469,033 wagered in 1950.

There were 30 meets totalling 359 days at the tracks against 31 meets and 356 days in 1950.

Purses raised as a result of winning horses also went up, increasing by $164,435 from $3,009,014 to $3,153,449.

More than half the money that went into the machines was wagered in Ontario, in that province's 148 racing days, fans sent $37,606,-139 through the windows, nearly $4,700,000 more than last year's $32,925,119.

Each of the six reporting provinces had a higher pari-mutuel take than last year, British Columbia patrons contributed the second most, wagering $8,719,313 compared to $8,037,005 last year.

The heaviest amount laid on the line at any meet was at the spring meeting of the Ontario Jockey Club at Woodbine Park, Toronto, where $2,552,411 was bet.

Bratton's Pile-Driving Assault Earns Popular Draw With Gavilan

Chicago, Nov. 29—(AP)—Johnny Bratton, Chicago's unpredictable welterweight, charmed a Chicago Stadium crowd last night with a piledriving assault that earned him a draw with champion Kid Gavilan.

The end of the non-title 10-round bout, which was televised nationally, found the 7,397 spectators on their feet, cheering the unpredictable "Brat."

Then ,when the verdict was announced—the referee for Boston, one Judge for Gavilan, the other calling it a standoff—the crowd cheered even more.

Probably never before had the Brat been so popular with his home-towners.

Was 3-1 Underdog

He went into the bout scaling an over-the-limit 149 pounds, as did Gavilan, the Cuban Kid. Bratton was a 3-1 underdog.

Supporters worried last Bratton prove ring-shy after suffering jaw bone breaks in three losing battles—to Gavilan last May, to Ike Williams in 1950 and to Beau Jack in 1949.

But Bratton was a changed man last night. At no time did he give evidence that he was worried about another bout in the jaw. On the contrary, he weather Gavilan's ferocious flurries and came out of them swinging—and connecting.

Ringside observers were agreed the Brat fought the most impressive battle of his major career.

He stole the crowd at the start. In the first round, one of the champion's cutting left hooks opened a cut on the 24-year-old challenger's left cheek, near the eye, and in the second the Cuban Kid gashed Bratton's nose.

Both times Bratton made a gallant stand, exchanging blows with the white-robed Cuban and finishing strongly.

Bratton filed throughout the fight, with Gavilan's punishing swings opening the wounds perfectly. But the Brat, who held the 147-pound title for 65 days before dropping it to Gavilan last May 15, held his own.

It was Bratton's finish in the last two rounds that gave him a draw. In both rounds Gavilan tried for an early kill, flailing relentlessly at the Brat, but both times Bratton clearly outboxed the champion.

Rangers Score Three in Third To Defeat Chicago Hawks 6-3

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Frank Boucher, that astute critic from Pembroke, Ont., who has been making Broadway his stamping grounds these many years, had a few comments to make before the 1951-52 National Hockey League season opened. Among them was a note that his Rangers were not the playoff's "for sure" this time.

It's a little early to go along with the one-time great poke-check artist—the Hawks have been acting like doormats since the season started. But as of last night they suddenly showed signs that the bottom rung is a most unsavory spot.

The Broadway Blues, playing it cleanly (only two penalties) as Frank insists they should play, walloped over Chicago Black Hawks 6-3 to move into a three-way tie for third place. That isn't playoff money in the least but it means nearly every N. H. L. club has been fattening its averages against the Hawks in the first few years, but it did show the Rangers can come up with goals when they count most.

Score Three in Third

It wasn't the victory that hoisted the Rangers into a tie with Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings that cheered the 8,135 fans. It was the way they did it after being held to a 3-3 deadlock into the final period.

The Rangers' three scorers in the final 20 minutes were something new to New York fans. They've been accustomed the last few years to watching the club bank on Allan Stanley and fall to come through with the sorely-needed goals.

The 19,000 fan season was a case in point when Rangers set an N. H. L. record with 31 that never. Beyond their first-string line, they didn't have enough scoring power to turn those into two-point victories.

Another cheering note about last night's decision was that the New York goals were distributed around.

Dutchesman Allan Stanley and Ivy Bailey each got one. The others went to forwards Edgar Laprade, Nick Mickowski, Reggie Sinclair and Herb Dickenson.

Chicago opened the scoring at 6:41 of the first period on a goal by Bep Guidolin. Markham put Dickenson and Bailey gave Rangers a 2-1 first-period lead. This was wiped out at 2:41 of the second when Bill Mosienko netted for the Hawks but Mickowski notched his at 8:36 and Bill Gadsby made it 3-3 within three minutes.

The fans were resigned to another tie (it would have been the sixth for Rangers this season) until Laprade broke the deadlock at 10:10 of the third frame.

There'll probably be some shuffling around the third-place rung tonight when the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs play at Montreal and Boston travels to Detroit.

Mercurys Trim Dutchmen 6-4, Snap Loss Streak

(By The Canadian Press)

Whether Owen Sound Mercurys marry Montreal Junior Canadiens or horseshoes last night wasn't made known, but the Ontario Hockey Association senior team was lucky enough to snap a six-game losing streak. Mercurys beat Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 6-4, with Ray McCallum scoring the winning goal.

In other senior encounters, Hamilton Tigers downed Sarnia Sailors, 4-3, and Stratford Indians turned back Brantford Redmen 8-2.

OHA junior action saw Galt Black Hawks trounce Windsor Spitfires 11-8 and Toronto St. Michael's hand Barrie Flyers a 6-3 lacing. Valleyfield Hurricanes edged Oshawa Generals 7-5 in a overtime.

Sudbury Wolves improved their second-place standing in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior circuit by edging Sudbury Cubs 4-3. Harry Marrison got the winning tally late in the third period and Maurice Lemaire, Bruno Rondina and Darrell McLaughlin were also marksmen. Cubs' scorers, Scotty Saunders got two for the Miners and linemate Paul Thetkeld added the other.

Stratford's victory, at home, protected its half-game lead in the senior loop and moved the second reverse for Brantford in two nights. Billy Flick scored three goals for Stratford, Mickey Roth and Ken Ducharme got two each and Ted Lindsay banged in Bill Walsh added the others. Brantford's tallies were by Ken Stemmler, Bob Hewson and Bob Wrightsell.

McKenzie Can Play For University

Toronto, Nov. 28—(CP)— Jack McKenzie, who was suspended from the Ontario Hockey Association last week, can still play for the University of Toronto team.

J. F. Lonsmore, secretary of athletics at U. of T., said yesterday that the intercollegiate hockey body is not affiliated with either the O.H.A. or the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and McKenzie is welcome to play for Varsity.

McKenzie, a third-year physical education student, was suspended because he signed a card to play for the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen and then decided "commuting like that all winter was going to hurt my work at Varsity. So I just quit and decided to play in Toronto."

Ed. Stankiewicz Leading Sniper In Senior Loop

Toronto, Nov. 28 (CP) —Eddie Stankiewicz, 22-year-old forward with Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen, is currently a torrid pace in Ontario Hockey Association senior A circuit.

League statistics show the Kitchener product has 17 goals and 12 assists, both runs in the loop, for a total of 33 points. The statistics do not include last night games.

Stratford's Mickey Roth holds second place with 29 points. Third, four points behind Roth, is Frank Liscombe of Hamilton Tigers.

Tommy Burlington, Owen Sound Mercurys centre who led the league in the opening weeks dropped to fourth place, tied with Dinny Flanagan and Jack White of Stratford. Each has 24 points.

Stratford's Bruce Dale leads in the penalties department, having accumulated 24 pucks in 18 games, for a 2.32 average.

Eddie Stanky Certain to Succeed Marty Marion as Cards' Manager

By JOE REICHLER

New York, Nov. 29 (AP) —Eddie Stanky virtually is certain of succeeding Marty Marion as manager of St. Louis Cardinals.

No definite agreement has been reached, but presidents Horace Stoneham of New York Giants and Fred M. Saigh of the Cardinals will meet within the next few days with the hope of closing the deal, brewing since the World Series.

The transaction may not be announced until the minor league baseball convention in Columbus next week.

The Cards will be asked to turn over pitcher Max Lanier and outfielder Chuck Diering for Stanky, who will then sign as a player-manager for two years at $35,000 per season.

Although Saigh has been quoted as saying that he had three men in mind for the job, he has not seriously considered anybody but Stanky.

Stoneham Agreeable

The only question was Stoneham's willingness to part with the Giants' scrappy second baseman, the spark that drove the team to the National League flag last season.

Stoneham is agreeable to the transaction only because he does not want to be accused of "blocking Stanky's chance of realizing his dream"—managing a big league club.

Saigh, who had rejected an earlier New York request for

OHA to Reopen Nylons Case

Toronto, Nov. 29 (CP) —The Ontario Hockey Association announced yesterday that a recent meeting of the OHA sub-committee affidavits were read from personnel of the Kingston Nylon Senior. In 1950-51 hockey season, suspended Oct. 10 for alleged "shopping" of a playoff series between Nylons and Peterborough.

The matter will be brought up again at the Dec. 7 meeting of the executive.

Enos Slaughter and Harry Breechen, is equally reluctant to part with Lanier.

In Stanky, Saigh is getting the kind of manager he always has yearned for—an aggressive fire-brand bound to install fight and hustle into the club.

Saigh's criticism of Marion was that Marty wasn't aggressive enough and didn't devote as much time as he should have to running the club.

That is a fault he won't find with Stanky, who talks and thinks baseball around the hour.

Reached in his home at Fall River, Mass., Stanky refused to discuss the matter until it was made official. However, he did say he was definitely interested in managing a big-league club.

"I feel I am now ready to handle a job as a major-league manager," he said. "However, I have not talked to Mr. Saigh."

Stanky played in 145 games last season, batting .268 and leading 247 but played a splendid game at second. He threw a brunkful of walks, scored 88 runs and slammed 14 homers.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

The Boston Red Sox yesterday traded catcher Lee Moss and outfielder Tom Wright to the St. Louis Browns for Ray Coleman, strong throwing outfielder, and Gus Niarhos, a smooth working backstop and top ranged catcher. A Sox spokesman said no cash was involved.

Moss came from the Browns to Boston early last season. Wright is a good hitting outfielder who spent most of last season with Louisville.

Niarhos became St. Louis property only Wednesday when he figured in an eight-man swap between the Browns and the Chicago White Sox.

At Philadelphia, Nick Llotta, star football guard for Villanova College and a top-ranking all-American candidate, was found dead yesterday in the basement of his dormitory.

Police reported that a call of telephone wire was twisted about Llotta's neck and that his body, clad only in the top part of his pajamas, lay beneath a trip of piping.

The 22-year-old Llotta, a resident of Everett, Mass., already had been chosen on the Football Writers' Association all-American team selected for Look magazine and on The Associated Press all-Pennsylvania team.

Friends reported he had seemed despondent after Villanova lost, 20-13, to Boston College two weeks ago. They said his depression increased when Villanova was defeated 40-7 by Louisiana State last Saturday.

At Hamilton, Scotland, police have arrested one man in connection with an attempt to bribe a Scottish League soccer player to lose a game. Joseph McCuddon, a baker, appeared in court here yesterday and was bound over until Friday.

Three bribery attempts were reported by Scottish players last week.

At Miami, Fla., Fitzie Pruden, 147, of St. Catharines, tonight scored a split 10-round decision over Marcel (Rocky) Brisebois, 148 of Montreal with a strong rally in the last six rounds. Brisebois took the early rounds but Pruden came on in the fifth and scored the only knockdown of the fight when Brisebois took a nine count. From then on Pruden had a slight edge.

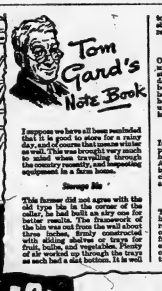
Broken Jaw Costs Conference Two Grid Teams

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 29 — (AP) — Johnny Bright's broken jaw has lost the Missouri Valley Football Conference two of its most influential members.

Bradley University of Peoria walked out last night, following Tuesday's withdrawal by Drake University of Des Moines.

Both schools said the reason for quitting was the much-publicized "Bright case."

Johnny Bright, Drake's star halfback, wound up in the hospital after a few clashes with Wilbanks Smith in an Oct. 20 game with Oklahoma A & M.



Drake charged Bright was deliberately slugged by Smith. They demanded discipline by the Conference. Conference officials refused. Drake left the eight-team loop Tuesday night and Bradley followed. "Decision was fed (the Drake position) to be morally right."

Tom Gard's Note Book

If suppose we have all been reminded that it is great to store for a rainy day, and of course that means winter as well. This may be brought much to mind when travelling through the country and seeing the unexpected equipment in a farm home.

Storage Bin

This farmer did not agree with the old type bin in the corner of the cellar, he had built an airy one for better results. The framework of the bin was cut from the wall about three inches from the ceiling and with sliding shelves or trays. Fruit, bulky vegetables. Plenty of air worked up through the trays as each had a slat bottom. It is well to keep in mind that the rotten apple is the root and fly for the rascals, and free from frost.

Stove-pipes for Stakes

Over in another corner of the cellar I spied a stack of stove-pipe for stakes. These had been used for the tomatoes, some of them as low and others of cedar. Stove-pipes had been fastened to the wall with heavy wire, and the stakes stood upright to prevent them from falling all over the place.

Protection for Cheese

Invited to partake of a little hospitality, I was interested to note how the cheese had been stored. It was a flower-pot had been soaked in water, then placed over the cheese to keep it from drying out, and to protect it from flies.

Small Tool Chest

The principal of a school nearby invited me into the manual training room. One of the junior pupils had constructed a very neat tool box for the use of his father. Given a little extra touch this could have been converted into a fine box for gloves, ties or handkerchiefs.

You'll find many other interesting and helpful suggestions like these in the booklet "Around the Home Again." Write for your copy to Tom Gard, c/o MOLSON'S (ONTARIO) LIMITED, P.O. Box 205, Adelaide St. Postal Station, Toronto.

The Kibitzer

Bridge is made up of a series of logical steps. Every step leads to the next in understanding. Each step is thus a revealing signal that explains itself by the logic of the situation.

A double for a takeout is a forcing signal. A forcing signal orders partner to keep the bidding open. To keep the bidding open, partner of the doubler must bid if there is no intervening bid. But, if there is an intervening bid, the bidding is kept alive for the doubler even if the doubler's partner passes. So, with a weak hand, the doubler's partner would pass.

Now, if the doubler's partner may pass after an intervening bid, any bid he makes in that spot is a free bid. So, a free bid in that spot is a signal for showing a strong hand.

South starts with an opening bid of one heart. Your partner in west-of dogface for bitcoot. North opponent bids two clubs. You have this east hand:

♠Q J 9 3
♥8
♦J K 9 8
♣6 4 3 2

With a weak hand, you would have passed after an intervening bid. A free bid, however, would show a strong hand. And your hand is strong enough for a free response. Your bid here is two spades.

Your partner knows you could have passed with a weak hand after the intervening bid. So your free bid of two spades tells him your hand contains strength. Even if he did not know this logic would tell him this.

Experts are now experimenting with a different policy. In fact, they are trying out the opposite to this logic. And they give you an argument that sounds as if they had something.

When there is an intervening bid after a double, they pass with a strong hand and bid with a weak hand. They think that will throw a monkey-wrench into the bidding machinery of their opponents.

Illogical methods do not stand the test of time. After a few years they change back to Horse Sense.

Movie Column

(By BOB THOMAS)

Hollywood, Nov. 29—(AP)—Budd Boetticher, rising young film director, has this advice for budding actors: work on your biceps as well as your histrionics.

Boetticher (pronounced Beticker) is making a name for himself as a director of action pictures. He has actors doing the darndest things and what's more, they like it.

"I think the kids are getting too smart about pictures," the director argued. "They know what scenes are faked and when doubles are used. They can feel almost when things don't look like the real McCoy. That's why I think it pays for actors to do as many of their own stunts as possible.

But Within Reason

"I don't mean that you should endanger your actors; it would be pretty expensive if they were hurt. But I don't see any reason why they shouldn't take a few chances. It certainly helps the realism of a picture and their fans realize the actors are real men."

Such performers are Burt Lancaster, Alan Ladd and John Wayne have done their own stunts. Boetticher advises other players to spend their spare time in gymnasiums and get in shape for the rugged stuff.

The director worked out his theories in his first major film, "The Bullfighter and the Lady". Robert Stack did his own scenes of practicing with capes, even though he wasn't exposed to the danger of the bulls.

For a shot in "Bronco Busters", he wanted Chill Wills to roll barrels at a Brahma bull, who would toss them aside with his horns. Boetticher rolled a couple for practice and then Chill volunteered to try it.

"I must have been plumb crazy to do a stunt like that," Chill said the next day.

Boetticher said, knocking on wood:

"I've been lucky so far. I haven't lost an actor yet."

Milton Brough New President Of Hockey Club

BANCROFT

Bancroft—(Special)— Bancroft Pontiacs, champions of the Hastings-Addington Hockey League in 1950-51, started their plans for the coming season at a pre-season organization meeting in the Legion Hall on Monday night. Officials elected were Milton Brough, president; Brian Murray, secretary-treasurer; Bernard Shapiro, manager, Harold Watson, trainer; Earl Hawley, chairman of the finance committee and Cliff Broad, chairman of the transportation committee.

One big spot that is still vacant is that of a successor to coach Don Simpson who moved to Ottawa in September. A board of strategy, consisting of Milton Brough, Bernard Shapiro, Earl McAlpine and Stewart Siringer, was given the job of locating a coach.

As the finances of the club are now at a fine ebb, with a bank balance of just less than sixty dollars, there was quite a discussion on this subject.

The consensus of the gathering was that the share of the gates received from the community recreation commission should be raised to fifty per cent. Last season the split was sixty per cent for the commission and forty for the club.

Since there has been a vacant seat on the commission since Don Simpson moved the hockey association recommended that this place be filled by President Brough.

Jock's Comeback Rivals That Of Ben Hogan

Boyle, Md., Nov. 29—(AP)—"The Darling in Silks" completed his 1951 riding campaign at Bowie Racetrack this week—ten years and eight months after turfmen said he'd never mount another race horse again.

In many ways the comeback of the 37-year-old Jockey Bobby Permane parallels that of golfer Ben Hogan.

Both athletes came off hospital beds to resume competition in the face of pessimistic predictions.

The little New Jersey jockey suffered a horribly crushed leg in a spill at Gulf Stream Park March 24, 1949.

Doctors worked to save the leg from amputation. After nine operations and nine months in bed, it was decided Bobby could keep it.

"If I walk again, I'll ride again," Permane said.

Ann in a few months he became a familiar figure at New York race-tracks, walking with a scuffling limp, looking for morning exercise jobs.

He began his comeback on New York tracks, but was only an occasional winner. This fall he shifted his business to the Jersey-Maryland circuit.

The results are a matter of record. Permane was leading rider at Garden State Park, and was tied for honors when he quit riding at Bowie.

He rode in more than 400 races this year, and was in the winner's circle 61 times.

Bobby earned the title of "The Darling in Silks" in 1944, the year he assured himself a place in turf posterity by riding five winners a day for three consecutive days.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

For Friday, November 30

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—There's never a day in which some good cannot be achieved, so—though today may not appeal to you—check your own attitude and try to find way to success.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Don't overdo, don't expect more than the reasonable, and your day should bring rewards. Go about duties unruffled. Say "I will"—and see difficulties dissolve.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Some fine influences for wise investments, science, general business. Be tactful, truthful, plan action first, then step into it with resolute desire and, you will win.

June 22 to July 22—(Cancer)—Eliminate ways, things that waste time, energy. Extra caution in new endeavors. Heart interests can be pleasant.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Some indications excellent, others so-so. Be able to differentiate smartly. Benefit through loved ones; be open to suggestions, receive gifts in proper manner.

August 23 to September 23—(Virgo)—You may receive certain advice that may bring you good results, loss work or costs, if you listen and respond. Investigate new matters with utmost care.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Same sort of favorable day as Virgo has to work with. Be accurate; avoid heated arguments, impatience. You function very efficiently when cool, deliberate, cheerful.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio) — Many advantages, ways to gain credit, progress in favorite work, profession, or outside activity. Don't reach for too much, fret over mistakes.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Be guided in thought and action by needs of your family, position, pocketbook, work expecting of you. Not too easy a day perhaps but you can make it pleasant.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—"A little with contentment is great gain," said an old sage. If you make even small progress after doing your best, it will be worth while. Faith, hope, humor!

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—No hurry or worry needed; with steady, serene manner you will make headway over lasting gain, fewer errors. You should have much today for which to be thankful.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Excellent outlook in all good, sound undertakings. Reconsider what others do unless they interfere with your effort. Carry on in your naturally sensible manner.

YOU BORN TODAY are a native of Sagittarius: Instantly frank, open-hearted sincere. You may have a special wit; like to talk, but don't always listen. You speak the truth and expect truthfulness from others. Could succeed in science, humanity's problems. Can handle well large concern, business, financial proposition. Many judges, lawyers, bankers, doctors, clergymen, statesmen born in this Sign. Don't worry over health, but protect it.

Birthdate: Mark Twain (Sam'l Clemens), great humorist; Winston Churchill, Prime Minister of Gr. Britain; Jonathan Swift, famous wit; Sir. Philip Sidney, poet, statesman, soldier.

Free From Rheumatic Pain, Backache, Praises Syntona

Condition Followed Several Years' Trouble with Stomach Disorders. Got Dizzy Spells, Nervous, Couldn't Sleep. Tells of Grand Relief.

MRS. LILLIAN ANDREES

Time and again people have said: "Syntona helped me when I needed it most" or "it is the first medicine that ever gave me any real relief." And that is the experience of Mrs. Lillian Andrees, 6 Kenneth Avenue, London, Ontario, as told in a recent report.

Mrs. Andrees says: "I used to suffer from backache, being unable to bring up large quantities of gas with bloating, indigestion. I could hardly relish or eat my meals. I often couldn't eat my meals, became extremely nervous and couldn't sleep.

"Then I became worried when I noticed I began to suffer from a severe backache and rheumatic pains in my hands, joints and muscles. I would be so tense and sore that many days I didn't see how I could do my work. I took a box of Syntona and I was so happy to see my Syntona medicine begin to help me. Then I ran with the results I have had. . . I am now free of the aches and pains, backache has gone, my nerves are strengthened, tension is relieved, I sleep well and my appetite is splendid."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST. Find out how it can help you, too.

The Outsiders

By Jane Abbott

"Well? I've come . . ."

In answer she lifted her head. She never had done that before. He took it, pressed it hard, held it.

"Enough words you're sorry for now? Well on it out here—a couple of blankets. We can bring a table out."

"That sounds very inviting. But—not right away!"

"No, not right away!" Elisa opened over the carriage blanket in invitation for him to sit down. But Chris did not sit down. She was wearing the brown shoes and brown blouse she had worn that afternoon he first had seen her. He said "why don't we go up to the big rock? We haven't been there since . . ."

Elisa's voice deepened a little. But she got up from the carriage block and moved ahead of him toward the trail.

They sat side by side on the rock, so they had before, the sun warm on them and on the rock and the valley far below them enwrapped in its quiet.

Elisa heaved her breath. "I went down to see Annie Wilson this morning. About Tod's business. I want him to begin them right away." Her voice had the bell note. "You were right. It is going to make up to Annie for working in that picking shed. Though she mustn't do that much longer. Not after Dave's hand is wholly well. The doctor's feel certain it will be all right again. Did you know? Annie told me . . . She didn't know? It's all because of Doctor Streeter. I brought back some of her patents slips, too. Hespeth and I are going to turn a bed for them there by the kitchen door."

"They'll grow— there's something pathetic about Annie's flowers." He added, "about the way she gives them, too."

"Yes," said Elisa, smiling a little. "She tells you they're temperamental."

The little undertone of loneliness in her voice. Chris put his hand over hers where hers clasped her knees. "Elisa, I love you."

She did not start or move her hands from his or turn her head to speak. He heard a quick indrawing of her breath but that was all for a long moment; then she said, so low that he had to lean toward her to hear it, "I don't know—I mean, I thought we were just very good friends. I never have had a close friend —one to whom I could tell everything and trust." She turned to him, her eyes deeply blue in her seriousness. "But I don't know if that is love?"

"Trust—I'm deeply grateful for that, my dearest." Chris' voice was husky with feeling. "For the rest—I want you to be sure of your heart, though I'm sure of all my own to bear you say it. I want you to be sure. I'm unclaimed her hands, lifted one to his lips and kissed its palm. "I'm grateful it's away, caught it to her other hand. The color burned on her face for an instant and then left it white. "Don't . . ." she cried sharply. "That fellow had probably kissed her hand often and she was remembering. "You're thinking —of Altemont?"

The question was wrong from him and he knew instantly it was a mistake. Her eyes came slowly to him, cold and guarded. "What do you know of—Altemont?"

"I was there—I was the man sitting at the little table across from yours. I'm afraid it was rude the way I watched you all the time."

"I've known . . ." Her voice was stinging. "You've known all the time. That is why you think you can . . ."

"Stop, Elisa," put in Chris, quickly. "Listen to me." But she would not let him go on. She sprang to her feet. "If you won't go away at once, I'll go. I don't want ever to speak to you again —so go now!"

Chris was on his feet. He caught her by the shoulders and held her all shrewd Elisa. If you're thinking—it was in Altemont I fell in love with you! It had nothing to do with your being there—as you were! It was you!"

But she jerked back from his hands, jumped from the rock and walked swiftly out of his sight down the trail.

Not wanting to pass the house he went on up the trail. It was a five mile climb over the hill and then into the valley by an old lumber road, and halfway on it Chris stopped out of his gloom. He wouldn't let that be the last word between them —he'd make her listen, make her believe him!

It was after six when he got back into the valley, Pete Smead hailed him from the door of the store.

"Been telephonin' for you all afternoon—long distance. Step in and get Operator three at Cranford."

Operator Three's voice said "Indianapolis calling. Are you Christopher Cameron? Hold the line, please, Indianapolis!"

His uncle, Chris knew. But it was a woman's voice that came revoltingly over the wire. "Christopher Cameron? Your uncle is very ill. A cerebral condition. If you can come at once . . ."

"Did never!" asked Pete as Chris hung up the receiver.

Chris nodded his head. "Know anything about any plane out of Cranford?"

"One at nine-thirty. Picks up the mail," Pete said it with much importance. "I'll get you over there being it's Sunday evening. They have room and I'll stop by your place for you."

"Give me a half-hour to change and pack." Chris was walking out as he spoke.

He was slimmed. On his last visit his uncle had appeared to be in very good health. A gentle old man, spending most of his time, now, in his library with his books. He was his uncle's closest of kin, a one to him, in every sense but fact.

He changed his clothes, packed a few things into a bag. Closing the bag, he gave a long look around the living room. Should his uncle pull through this attack, it was more than likely that he would ask him to stay with him. It would be hard to refuse. And, facing the possibility, he realized how much this place he had made for himself meant to him, the valley and its people.

He remembered, then, what Streeter had said of the valley men. He had meant to warn Elisa, this afternoon, of impending trouble. Relied her in Jeremy's behalf too.

He heard the rattle of Pete's car coming toward the Notch. He crossed to the table that served him as a desk, sat down and wrote a sheet of paper and then a pencil.

But before anything else Elisa must know he was coming back. That he was not going to let go as it stood between them. He wrote "I've been called to Indianapolis—leaving in a few minutes. But I am coming back. And you must listen to me. I've been blinded imperatively from the road. He finished". . . and believe what I love you."

He took the letter, slipped it in an inside pocket of the Sunday suit he was wearing.

"Mr. Cameron couldn't stay," said Elisa to Hespeth in the kitchen.

"Now that's too bad! I was going to make some johnnycakes. Not much sense to if it's just you and me. Or lugging the victuals outside. We'll eat here at the table like do right along."

"I'm really pleased," declared Elisa. "I've quite a few things I want to do." She went on, then, out of the kitchen, delving with a purposeful manner as though on her way to those things she had not do.

She went into the study, shut the door behind her.

But it wasn't safe sanctuary. She sat down at the desk, covered her eyes with her hands, but Peter was there across from her, the fresh the small table in the corner of that dining room of the pension in Altemont. He was saying, "It would be spoiled darling. If we dragged it out. Think down, to too much repetition of the theme and you know what that does to a symphony. We'll have the memory of this week . . . No, we'd better not see each other again. Truth is going to South America as soon as I can get passage. The letter I got the other day was about some concerts there. . ."

Big 4 Will Hold Secret Sessions On Disarmament

Vishinsky Says Russia Wants A-Weapons Banned

Paris, Nov. 30 (AP) — The United Nations political committee voted unanimously today to suspend debate on rival cease-fire disarmament plans pending efforts by the Big Four to seek agreement in secret talks.

The discussions among Britain, France, the Soviet Union and the United States are expected to get under way immediately behind closed doors. The committee asked them to report on their progress by Dec. 10.

The committee acted after Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky agreed to participate in such talks. Britain, France and the United States agreed previously to do so.

Under terms of a resolution submitted by Iraq, Pakistan and Syria the Big Four plus Assembly President Nasrollah Entezam of Mexico constitute a subcommittee. They were instructed to try to reconcile rival disarmament plans put forward by Russia on one side and by the western powers on the other.

Three Demands

In agreeing to discuss disarmament in secret talks with the west, Russia still demanded immediate banning of atomic bombs.

Vishinsky, in his long-awaited speech to the political committee, said Russia is prepared to accept international control of atomic weapons but he said the Soviet insists on these steps, to be taken more or less simultaneously.

1. A resolution by the General Assembly outlawing the use and manufacture of atomic weapons;

2. An international control organ to insure the prohibition of atomic weapons plants and insure that the ban is put into effect.

He said control of atomic weapons should be under the UN security council, but should be free from the threat of veto in its supervision.

The proposals came in Vishinsky's formal acceptance of a proposal by Pakistan, Iraq and Syria that Russia and the three western Big Three behind closed doors in an effort to reconcile rival arms plan differences.

Agreement by the Big Four to try secret talks appeared that the political committee will suspend its disarmament discussion for a week to 10 days. The group is expected to insist on such a limit.

The key to the western disarmament plan is step-by-step disclosure of weapons secrets and atomic bombs—under a foolproof international system of verification.

Soviet amendments would substitute a less elaborate system plus a one-third reduction of conventional arms and armed forces without any "spying by international agents."

Vishinsky's acceptance of an Asian-Arab plan came at the end of a long speech devoted to a slashing attack on proposals in previous sessions by U. S. ambassador-Philip C. Jessup, the British Minister of State, Selwyn Lloyd, and Jules Moch, former French minister of the interior.

Vishinsky said he agreed to the talks because "the Soviet delegation takes into account the situation characterized by the substantial differences in the international position of the Soviet Union on the one hand, and the U. S., the United Kingdom, and France, on the other."

"The western powers, he said, did put forward a disarmament plan which actually would permit them to keep on rearming. And John Foster Dulles, in a speech in Detroit, had proved the aggressive character of "the North Atlantic bloc" by calling for maintenance of "shock forces" around the Soviet Union. This, Vishinsky said, gives the lie to U. S. speeches in the general assembly urging reduction of international tensions.

Order Directs Continuance Of Hostilities

Key West, Fla., Nov. 30 (AP) — The White House quoted today from a hitherto unpublished secret document to show that the Eighth Army issued orders Monday directing the continuance of hostilities "until the signing of the armistice agreement."

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short read from the document at a press conference in which he denied that ground fighting had been brought to a halt over the Korean battlefront and challenged the accuracy of an Associated Press dispatch from Korea.

Short also took issue with a statement issued by The Associated Press that the Eighth was defending the 38th story, and declared:

"This statement The Associated Press issued is designed to confuse the American people."

Short quoted from what he said was a secret letter of instructions from the Eighth Army Nov. 27, Korean time, to subordinate commands:

"Steps will be initiated to insure that every United States, United Nations and Republic of Korea soldier is fully cognizant that hostilities will continue until signing of the armistice agreement."

Short said the secret letter was delivered to the president Wednesday by Gen. John E. Hull, vice-chief-of-staff of the army.

Prisoner Throws Book at Judge

Manchester, England, Nov. 30— (Reuters)—Normal court procedure was thrown completely haywire when a man charged with murder threw the book at the judge.

Prisoner Peter Manning was being sworn in on the witness stand. Instead of taking the Bible at Judge Sir George Justin Lynskey.

The startled judge caught the book in the air. It spilled a glass of water and splashed his gown and papers.

Manning charged the struggling Bradley out of court and the judge declared a recess.

When the hearing resumed, a medical officer testified that Bradley was "in a highly overwrought emotional condition."

The judge stopped the trial, discharged the jury and ordered a new trial. He said the present jury would likely be prejudiced.

Fog of Confusion Over Status of War, Prospects for Peace Somewhat Lifted

Washington, Nov. 30 (AP) — The fog of confusion over the status of war and the prospects for peace in Korea lifted somewhat today. In the estimate of responsible authorities here, several points now stand out clearly.

1. The fighting can be expected to go on but not, for the time being, with the same intensity as before the present conditional agreement on a cease-fire line.

2. Ground action by United Nations' forces presumably will be limited in the main to artillery pressure, reconnaissance patrols, and limited attacks if needed to knock any suspicious communist concentrations off balance.

3. Naval and air action will continue full tilt; in fact, air combat may well be stepped up.

4. U.N. ground forces are not expected to try to advance their line since such areas would be given up should truce negotiations be successful within the 30-day limit.

5. The explanation in Washington is that these negotiations will be successful if the enemy command agrees (1) to prompt and complete release of all allied troops held as prisoners, and (2) to some type of inspection of forces during the armistice.

6. If truce negotiations drag on during the 30-day period ending Dec. 27, but if there appears to be a good chance for completing the negotiations, an extension of the date would seem to be possible.

The conflict of news reports and official statements issued during the last two days is attributed by some authorities here to a miscalculation, or to a lack

10 RED PLANES DESTROYED BY ALLIED JETS

Greatest Korean Air Victory Ever Reported

Seoul, Korea, Nov. 30 — (AP) — American jet pilots today reported they shot down 10 communist planes, probably five and probably destroyed another in the greatest air victory of the Korean War.

Nine of the destroyed planes were bombers, the first to venture en masse across the Yalu River into MIG alley.

The Fifth Air Force said no Allied planes were lost.

Thirty-one American Sabre jets pounced on the flight of 30 red bombers and their escort of 15 MIG-15 jets. The Sabres streaked through the lumbering bombers, swooped up and then executed flight of red jets in half, then raced down onto the bombers.

The Sabres did it all in one long deadly curve that sent nine bombers on one MIG fumbling down toward the mouth of the Yalu River.

Three other bombers were reported damaged. All were Russian-type Ilyushin-28 bombers. Twin-engined TU-2s and single-engined YAK fighter-bombers. The red formation had just crossed the Yalu River boundary from Manchuria's supposed-can a being fight.

The 30-minute battle was the fourth air fight of the day and the biggest of any type — jet or propeller plane — fought in the Korean War. The earlier fights accounted for 13 probable and five fourth damaged red.

Good Four-day Total

The four-day total mounted to 18 red jet planes reported destroyed, probably destroyed and 13 damaged, against one U. S. plane shot down and three damaged.

Earlier the Fifth Air Force had studied films of Wednesday's fight and found one more MIG-15 was shot down than first reported. That had reported.

Friday's great battle climaxed a week of increasing red jet flights into North Korea and an astounding leap in communist highway traffic to the front lines.

Hundreds of trucks and tanks were spotted last night racing toward the quiet forward lines with the lights blazing.

Flare - dropping Allied planes combed at least 1,200 miles of the Fifth Air Force reported Friday. The figure is nearly double the previous high of 8,150, and the Fifth Air Force re-count indicates it may be incomplete.

RINGO BIGGER ATTRACTION

Toronto, Nov. 30 (CP) —Civic election note: More than 300 persons gathered in the hearing room, second floor room of the westerly end of Orange Hall last night to hear Ringo. It had two full slates of candidates were beseeching voters to take a more active part in Toronto elections. Third floor attendance: 50.

Korean War Begins Grinding To An End the Result Of Pressure on Gen. Ridgway

By ROBERT EUNSON

Tokyo, Nov. 30—(AP) —This week the war in Korea began grinding to an inconclusive end.

Fighting might break out again from time to time on a small scale, but there was every indication that United Nations troops heading into North Korea had come to the end of the trail.

Thousands of casualties every month had taught the Chinese and North Korean communists that without more planes and tanks they had no hope of ever again cracking U.N. defences.

Despite denial from everyone in the long chain of command—from the White House right on downas order had gone out to front-line soldiers advising them to take it easy.

"No more aggressive patrolling and don't fire unless you're fired upon."

That was the essence of the order. It went into effect at midnight Nov. 27. It coincided with establishment of a temporary cease-fire-line along the front which had been established one day by U.N. and communist delegates to the armistice talks at Panmunjom.

All the denials said no ceasefire had been ordered. But nobody said there was a cease-fire. There was an order to halt aggressive action. This was good as a de facto cease-fire, which is a ceasefire without the necessity of signing documents.

The cease-fire was exactly what U.N. armistice negotiators had been saying all along they wouldn't stand for.

Pressure Causes Change

Then what caused the sudden change in policy?

Pressure.

The folks at home were putting pressure on their congressmen. The pressure groups were putting pressure on Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the commander of all United Nations forces in Korea.

"You don't know how much pressure is being put on Ridgway," a highly-placed officer at this headquarters said. "And it isn't coming from the front lines. It's home, Britain, France, and other U.N. countries whose troops are fighting here. They are putting pressure on the state department too."

There has been a feeling for a long time that the war could never come to a conclusive end. U.N. forces could attack tomorrow, and with heavy casualties plow a slow steady path northward to the Yalu. Hammering the communists completely out of North Korea would force Russia into supplying the Chinese with more tanks and planes.

Neither side wants the Korean war to raise the curtain of world War III.

Winston Churchill Still Busy With Multitudinous Activities At Beginning of 78th Year

Six Are Killed In Explosion At Korean Arsenal

Pusan, Korea, Nov. 30 (AP)— The Korean government arsenal here was rocked by a series of awesome blasts that spread damage across an area four miles wide.

United States soldiers housed in the general area escaped injury but U.S. army authorities said six Koreans were killed and at least 50 injured.

Korean authorities said 48 homes were destroyed, 100 others damaged. Some 500 were badly damaged to some degree. They estimated total damage at $30,000,000.

Civilian and army rescue workers labored into the night searching for more victims.

Col. Lee Hong Chong, chief of police said it was not known whether sabotage or accident touched off the blasts.

However, a fire of mysterious origin destroyed the U.S. embassy building in Pusan Monday.

The arsenal manufactured hand grenades. Large amounts of ammunition also were stored there. The building, about a quarter-mile long, was destroyed.

GIVEN BIG FUNERAL

Denver, Nov. 30 — (AP) Fred Schmitt buried his 15-year-old dog yesterday with a funeral that would have done credit to Fido. "I don't care what it costs," Schmitt said. "That dog was my whole life." The dog, Pal, died Monday after a short illness. Dozens of friends and neighbors attended the funeral, where Pal lay in state in a mahogany casket.

AWARDED $700 ALIMONY

New York, Nov. 30 — (AP) Eleanor Holm today was awarded $700 weekly temporary alimony from her husband, showman Billy Rose. The award, believed the highest ever granted in Manhattan Supreme Court, was made by Justice Rodrigo Quinn after he permitted to remain in her present abode," the Rose Beekman Place House, Miss Holm is suing for a separation.

FREIGHT RATES OVERSHADOW ALL BUSINESS

Rate-Equalization Bill Ready for Presentation

Ottawa, Nov. 30—(CP)—Freight rates, the capital's current threestring attraction, are overshadowing all other government business these days.

As the federal government's historic rate-equalization bill heads towards final passage in the Commons, the rate issue is under debate in two other forums on and about Parliament Hill.

The equalization measure—implementing recommendations of the royal commission on transportation for levelling the burden of freight charges across the country—went through the next-to-last stage of passage in the Commons last night.

Today, it is due to come up for third and final reading, preparatory to its start through the Senate.

Meanwhile, freight rates were under debate before the Senate's transport committee studying the equalization bill in advance of its reaching the upper chamber. Sessions yesterday were adjourned to next week.

A couple of hundred yards from parliament's centre block where these double-barrelled moves were under way, the board of transport commissioners is studying the latest railway application for a freight rate increase. The railways panies are looking for a 10-per-cent hike.

The Commons last night virtually cleaned up the government's emotional-laden progress debate on the royal commission report. Besides setting up the equalization bill for third reading, it gave final passage to two subsidiary measures embodying lesser recommendations of the commission.

West Gets Back

The equalization measure will provide, in a measure, for the smoothing down of humps in the rate structure across the country, probably knocking up Ontario-Quebec rates to line the west with better break. The Maritimes, long favored with the lowest rate level, are somewhat excluded from the move by a special protective clause. However, the senate committee and approved by the Commons yesterday.

Final passage of the bill is a $7,000,000-a-year subsidy to the railways to reduce the burden on freight moving between the east and the west.

Prime Controversial value in the measure—which was fought until the measure went through committee last night—gives the interior of the west part of the benefits of the low transcontinental freight charge between the east and the British Columbia coast. Prairie MPs, however, have always fought the provision, contending it might result in the eventual loss of the Crowsnest Pass rates. Alberta members backed it.

Leader Believed To Be Robber Who Escaped Jail

Noon Hold-up Carried Out in Four Minutes

Toronto, Nov. 30 — (CP) — A six-man gang of bandits, working like a precision-drill team, used a Sten gun today to cow 30 persons while they snatched $30,000 from a suburban bank branch and fled in a fast car.

The robbery, just before noon at the Royal Bank office on Laird Avenue in Leaside, was carried out in four minutes.

The loot was money on hand to cash month-end payroll cheques for employees of big Leaside industries.

One shot was fired—newspaperman could not learn whether it was by a holdup man or a bank employee—but no one was hurt.

Police said they believe some of the men were those who held up a Toronto bank Nov. 20.

No Waste Motion

Bank employees said the men carried out today's holdup without a waste motion. The escape car was found later, abandoned in a side street, a short distance from the bank.

Police said a description of the bandits who escaped and pushed into retail establishments after the price dropped from 99 a case to nothing.

It started when one dealer raised the milk price from $3.50 to $3.75 a case last week. A competitive cut to $3.25, scarcely what it costs to ship the beverage to Alaska plus taxes.

Last night the Southside Liquor Market started giving it away. The proprietor, noting that many couldn't get in, started delivering it to downtown hotels. Police were called to break up a traffic jam.

But beer was still free. One market owner said he was going to make it even cheaper — he didn't explain how.

POLICE DROP PROBE

New York, Nov. 30 — (AP)— The police department today dropped its investigation of the Josephine Baker - Stork Club incident. The department had investigated charges that the Negro entertainer had been discriminated against at the swank restaurant. A report said police and officials of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People had "agreed that the facts disclosed were insufficient to proceed against the Stork Club management in a criminal court."

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 30 (CP) —Synopsis: Mild weather prevails over most of Ontario with temperatures running between 10 and 15 degrees above normal values for this season of the year.

A deep low pressure area centred this morning in mid Hudson Bay north of Moosonee is responsible for a strong southwesterly flow of warm air. This trend is expected to last for at least another 24 to 48 hours.

Merchants' War Drives Beer Price to Zero

Fairbanks, Alaska, Nov. 30 — (AP)— A merchants' war drove the price of beer down to zero hour here today. One dealer even delivered it free.

Streets were jammed with Eskimos who squeezed and pushed into retail establishments after the price dropped from 90 a case to nothing.

It started when one dealer slashed his prices from $4.50 to $3.75 a case last week. A competitive cut to $3.25, scarcely what it costs to ship the beverage to Alaska plus taxes.

Last night the Southside Liquor Market started giving it away. The proprietor, noting that many couldn't get in, started delivering it to downtown hotels. Police were called to break up a traffic jam.

Friends Say N.O. Forest Ranger 'Shoeless Hillbilly' Who Hoaxed Army

Sudbury, Ont., Nov. 30 — (CP) The apparent perpetrator of a huge hoax on the Canadian army is a man being held here today on a charge of vagrancy. He's Peter Ernest John Grainger, 35-year-old Northern Ontario forest ranger.

Provincial police said he was the "shoeless hillbilly," the man who claimed to have seen, and one woman in his life, who joined the U. S. army in Texas on Nov. 3 and later deserted.

The army claimed at the time they gave him a medical under the name of Peter Grainger, his second name of his life after re walked bare-foot out of the mountains to join up. Before he disappeared he was interviewed, photographed, shown automobiles and given a taste of night spots in San Antonio.

Grainger was found Wednesday walking along the highway between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie. A tourist agency operator called police because the man's behavior was strange.

Friends said after his arrest that he was the Texas Grainger. Sgt. Tom Crawford of the Sudbury detachment of Ontario Provincial Police said there was no doubt he was the same man. They based their identification on newspaper photographs. Like the man in the photo, Grainger has the index finger of his left hand missing.

In court yesterday he was remanded a week on a charge of vagrancy. Dr. Lorne Cecil Dixon, psychiatrist at the mental health clinic here, examined Grainger and recommended sending him to hospital for treatment of a head injury suffered in the Second World War.

The man who enlisted in Texas claimed he grew lean and lanky on a steady diet of goats' milk. He told recruiting officers he left his New Mexico mountain cabin

Game and Fish Club Protests Hunting South of Highway 7

Major Ray Young, president of the Picton Rod and Gun Club, and delegate of Zone 4 Lakeside Federation of Anglers and Hunters, addressed a meeting of the Belleville and District Games and Fish Protective Association held on Thursday night. He spoke on the formation and activities of the Picton Club.

The Picton Rod and Gun Club actually began because of an over-abundance of rabbits in Prince Edward County, said Major Young. "Everyone got together to eliminate their menace and as a result, the present organization was formed with the idea of keeping all of the hunters working together."

As the club progressed, continued the speaker, other activities were organized. Fox, pheasant and waterfowl were hunted in organized groups throughout the winter months.

To keep the club together during the summer months, other activities were organized, he added, and such as boating, fishing parties, social evenings, and more recently the trap-shooting rifle shoot has been sponsored.

Major Young stated that the executive of the Picton Club have not left the work to one man or one group of men, and have rotated their officers with the thought of getting new blood into the executive every year.

Have Rich Zone

Speaking about the zone organization, Major Young said "we have the richest zone in the Province of Ontario with woods of some four provide the best of hunting and fishing to be found anywhere in Ontario." He urged that this heritage should be preserved as it is very much so for future generations in the same condition.

In conclusion, Major Young stated that he was against a government ban of shot to prohibit deer hunting with the aid of dogs and lent his support to the movement for Sunday hunting.

Major Young was introduced and thanked by Col. W. Davern who was in charge of entertainment for the evening. Mr. Davern dedicated the meeting to Hunters.

Bruce Smith, president of the Belleville and District Game and Fish Protective Association, offered congratulations to Joe Sherritt and Ken Bird, elected third vice-president of zone four, Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, at the recent meeting held in Kingston.

Waste Area Restricted

Jack Wellman of the Marmora district spoke briefly and protested the restriction on deer in the area south of No. 7 Highway. He urged that a resolution be forwarded to the zone headquarters urging the Department of Game and Fish to restrict this area. A resolution to that effect was made by Bob Scott and seconded by Sandy Lummiss.

Bill Hancock, M.L.A., spoke briefly, in support of the resolution and stated that he would do everything in his power to see that this area is closed to hunting next year.

Dr. V. Blaiklee was commended highly by Col. W. Davern for the work done in restocking the lakes of this area.

Transfer Completed

It was announced by secretary Joe Sherritt that the transfer of trout fingerlings from the Glenora Fish Hatchery to the pens had been completed. He added that the Department of Game and Fisheries planned to hatch 3,000,000 speckled trout and 300,000 brown trout during the coming year.

Four short films supplied by the association were enjoyed by the seventy present throughout the course of the evening. Included were films on "Australia", "On the Wing", "Battling Bass", and "Indian Canoemen."

Bob Hagerty, Lummiss and Fred Croft were delegated to the meeting to be held tomorrow for the January meeting at which will be held the election of officers for next year.

Expect Entry Of 200 Cheese At Dairy Show

There will be an entry of about 200 cheese in the British Empire Dairy Show which is being held in the city next week it was confirmed today by J. L. Irwin, honorary secretary of the exhibition.

The annual cheese show is being held at the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association's new warehouse and cheese storage on Wills Street.

The cheese show is being held in conjunction with the annual convention of the Central Ontario Cheese Makers' Association on December 5th and 6th and the general public is cordially invited to attend the show and inspect the display of cheese. There is no admission charge.

The official opening of the Cheese Producers' new cheese storage is scheduled for Friday afternoon, December 7th and the display of cheese will be left until after the opening.

Three films on "Australia," "On the Wing", "Battling Bass", and "Indian Canoemen."

There are still a few tickets available for the cheese makers' banquet to be held Thursday evening at the Bell Hotel. Guest speaker is Rev. Dr. W. J. Johnston, of Eglinton United Church, Toronto. Tickets are available from Mr. Irwin or from any cheese maker.

18 Cases Listed For County Court

A total of 18 cases, including three criminal charges; six jury actions and the non-jury cases, are entered for trial at the General Sessions of the Peace and Jury Sittings of the County Court to commence at the county court buildings next week. The sessions will commence at 10 a.m. before His Honor Judge J. G. Anderson, county judge for Hastings.

The criminal cases include a charge of dangerous driving against Carl Simpson of Marmora, the charge arising out of a fatal accident on No. 7 highway near Marmora. The other criminal cases include a charge of indecent assault against Fred Johnston of Madoc, and a charge of incest against Stanley Parks, also of Madoc.

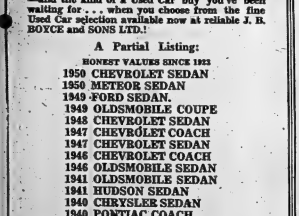
TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Weak, irregular support today held easily afternoon stock market prices mixed and trendless.

Industrials showed slightly lower but recovered most losses within the first hour. Papers, refining oils and banks attracted most support to post a scattered list of fractional advances. Steels were firm while agriculturals, constructions, liquors, manufacturing companies and miscellaneous industrials held gains and losses in balance. Utilities and textiles weakened while foods dipped sharply.

Leading industrials changed hands slowly. Speculative mining issues, principally penny golds, drew moderate interest. Volume for the first three hours was 1,468,000 shares.



Base metals strengthened—Hudson Bay, Sherritt-Gordon and Quebec Copper among others. Eurekz, Mackeno and Tungsten weakened.

Western oils drew firm support. Calmont, Central - Leduc, Commonwealth Petroleum, Devon-Leduc, Pacific Petroleum and Western Homestead posted gains ranging to about 15 cents. Ajax Petroleum, Canadian Atlantic Central Explorers, Sapphire and Selcourn dipped slightly.

Senior golds showed four advances against one decline. Junior issues climbed strongly.

$8,300 Medical Bill Slashed To $700

Montreal, Nov. 30 — (CP) — A doctor's bill for $8,300 was slashed Thursday to $700 by Mr. Justice Joseph Archambault.

The $8,300 represented $100 a day for visits the Superior Court judgment found, to a patient who most of the time was not ill and went out almost daily with an attendant.

The $8,300 claim, which the court said grossly exorbitant, was made by Dr. J. D. Fieldman against Ernest Evans. In May, 1950, Evans engaged quarters in a convalescent home of which the doctor was president and his wife manager or superintendent.

At that time, evidence showed, Evans was not ill but required a place to stay where he could have medical supervision and care if necessary.

Took Meals Outside

His lordship noted that Evans regularly took his meals outside the institution and nearly every day went for a taxi drive with an attendant.

For a period of about 14 days Evans suffered an attack of pneumonia and a heart ailment, when Dr. Fieldman attended him, but otherwise his health for the most part was good.

An attendant said some of the doctor's visits were merely "social calls," often only a "how are you?" from the doctor.

His lordship said that, although not pertinent in the case, it was shown that Evans paid some $3,500 for accommodation at the home at the rate of $20 a day.

In deciding the disputed medical bill his lordship said that in view of absence of any pre-arrangement between the parties he had absolute discretion to fix a fair amount. His judgments of other courts, his lordship took a number of factors into consideration.

Mr. Justice Archambault found Dr. Fieldman a rather confused witness, particularly when he "made the extraordinary statement that he had charged for the case as a whole."

It was not a question of visits, said the court, but of "the case."

Motion to Make Cut-Throat Price-Cutting and Loss-Leader Selling Illegal Introduced

Ottawa, Nov. 30—(CP)—A move was initiated yesterday to block the possibility of widespread price wars in the event that parliament bans resale price-maintenance policies.

David Croll (L—Toronto Spadina) a lawyer, placed before parliament's retail price-fixing committee notice of a motion to make cut-throat price-cutting and loss-leader selling illegal.

This move came at the end of a stormy session in which charges of "rigging" and using "delaying tactics" were made.

It likely will eliminate a big segment of opposition to the government's proposal to make price maintenance illegal and enable the committee to finish work in time to allow Justice Minister Garson to place legislation before parliament at the current session, expected to end about Dec. 19.

Mr. Croll's notice of motion goes to the steering or advisory group of the main committee for consideration.

Under Mr. Croll's proposal no dealer will be allowed to sell "directly or indirectly" and commodity—with certain exceptions—at a price less than five per cent above cost.

Exceptions Made

Excepted from the loss-leader ban would be sales of goods:

1. Damaged, or sold because they are the balance of a line being discontinued or out of season.

2. For charitable purposes or resale agencies.

3. Which are perishable and must be sold promptly to prevent deterioration and consequent loss.

4. Sold in clearance sales, provided in advertisements and marketing, if it is made clear that they are bona fide clearance sales.

5. On final liquidation of a business.

6. Under the bankruptcy or winding-up acts or by judicial order.

The MacQuarrie committee, which had recommended the government to eliminate price maintenance, has also criticized the use of loss leaders by which merchants sold quality goods at below cost to attract customers.

T. D. Fulton (PC—Kamloops) charged chairman James Sinclair (L—Coast Capilano) with trying to "gag" him on the basis that when the committee members to prevent full investigation into resale price maintenance.

Mr. Croll countered that certain members were deliberately using "delaying tactics" to prolong the committee's work.

The exchange was sparked by an attempt by Ross Thatcher (CCF—Moose Jaw) to have the committee reverse a decision taken previously not to probe manufacturing costs and margins of profits on proprietary goods. He was voted down 19 to 9.

FOUND WANDERING

Belfast, Me., Nov. 30 — (AP)— A 91-year-old man was found early today after wandering 15 hours in chilled woodlands here. Nelson Wight was numb with cold but otherwise unharmed.

PROTEST ECONOMY MOVE

North Bay, Ont., Nov. 30 — (CP) — The North Bay Railway Mail Clerks Association has protested an "economy move" which will eliminate a postal car now operating on two Canadian Pacific Railway trains between Montreal and Sudbury.

A letter signed by H. S. McCann, association president, was sent to Postmaster General Bertret. A copy went to North Bay Chamber of Commerce.

NUDE BODY FOUND

St. Louis, Nov. 30 — (AP) — The nude body of an unidentified elderly man — shot, hanged and stabbed — was found in a St. Louis county cemetery yesterday. The body was hanging by a sash cord from a tree limb. A stab wound was in the throat and shotgun pellets were found in the abdomen and legs.

LEFT PAY BANK ACCOUNT

New York, Nov. 30 — (AP) — The woman known by neighbors as "Frugal Annie" died yesterday near her 25-month flat in Brooklyn. Anna Lampa, 70, was a pathetic figure for years, rummaging through trash cans for whatever she could find. After her death police discovered bank books showing deposits of about $16,000.

Special Instructions To Municipal Electors

POLLS ARE OPEN FROM 9.00 A.M. to 7.00 P.M.

For Mayor, Aldermen and Public Utility Commissioner all persons whose names appear on the Voters' List may vote.

Electors can vote for any number of Aldermen up to SEVEN. Any ballot marked for more than seven Aldermen is to be treated as a spoiled ballot and not counted.

BY-LAW

Annual Grant to the Recreation Commission — One Mill on the Assessment.

Only those who appear on the Voters' List as property owners designated with the letter "O" may vote on this by-law. Property owners may vote once in each ward in which they own property, NOT once in each sub-division of the ward.

If a man and his wife are marked on the List as joint owners, they each have a vote on this By-law. If the husband or wife only is marked with an "O" the other party cannot vote on the By-law.

THE DANGER OF FIRE

The fire which took the lives of four children in the Kingston area a few days ago points up that this is the season when such tragedies occur, in one part of the country or another, all too frequently.

Canada's cold climate, which is perhaps the country's greatest handicap, necessitates artificial heat during a large part of the year, certainly for several months during the winter. All homes are not fire-resistant, and no heating system is foolproof, if indeed any is.

The children who lost their lives in the fire in the Kingston district had not been left alone. Both the father and the mother were in the house, and the father made several efforts to rescue the youngsters.

In many such cases, however, newspaper accounts of such parts

Junior Farmers Hold One-Day Training School

The type of program to create and foster interest for junior farmers and the proper manner in which to carry programs out, was the order of discussion at a Junior Farmers' leadership training school held in the city Thursday at Shire Hall.

Approximately 50 junior farmer boys and girls, representing six counties in Central Ontario attended the one day session which was presided over by provincial Department of Agriculture extension heads.

Leaders reported a very successful day with juniors entering enthusiastically into discussions regarding the right type of projects to undertake to create interest. Club leaders were shown how to carry programs out and how to conduct meetings and get them underway on time.

Mr. T. R. Hilliard, associate director of extension for the department of agriculture and secretary of the Ontario Junior Farmers, and Miss Florence F. Radie, director of junior extension for the Women's Institute branch, were in charge of the meeting. Assisting were Miss Eleanor Saracuse of Norfolk County, president of the Ontario Junior Farmers, and David Pelletierie, Peel County, vice-president.

Ten individual clubs in the Central Ontario district were represented at the training course, club members coming from Hastings, Prince Edward, Durham, and Northumberland, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac counties.

This was the fifth of eight such meetings planned for different sections of Ontario this year.

New Blood Pump Pulses Like Heart

New York, Nov. 30 — (AP) — A new blood pump, pulsing like a heart, can give you a pint of blood in 90 seconds.

The usual transfusion time is 40 minutes, when blood is dripped into a vein. The pump is intended for emergencies when people need a lot of blood quickly.

The blood pump squeezes or milks the tube carrying blood from the bottle to the person's arm. Each squeeze squirts along a pulse of blood under pressure, as the heart does. The pump turns by hand, so the speed of giving blood, plasma, or other fluids is easily controlled.

The pump was developed by the American Optical Company, Southbridge, Mass.

CHURCHILL

There are recurrent rumors that once Churchill gets his narrowly-balanced government on a firm foundation he may step down in favour of Foreign Minister Anthony Eden. The political chatterers say his health may force the move.

But Churchill shows no sign of taking his ease soon.

An empire-building soldier and an empire-boosting politician for more than half a turbulent century, Churchill still is a man of quick action and quick wit.

Party Tonight

The wisecrack and the laughing memory are sure to flow around the dinner table tonight as the old man-of-war with his wife their son Randolph, two of their daughters, some nieces, nephews and old friends.

There is a 75-pound birthday cake—shaped like the high-crowned derby which is his favorite headgear for formal daytime wear—to mark the centre of the table.

It is decorated with 200 leaves, each bearing a phrase marking the honors and incidents in his up-and-down career in war and politics. On the top layer is plaque reminds:

". . . and in the darkness of 1940 he dared to tell history: 'This is our finest hour.'"

NEW WORKING AGREEMENT

Goderich, Nov. 30—(CP)— A new working agreement has been signed with the Goderich Manufacturing Company and the Goderich Organ Company, it was announced yesterday by F. J. Macaulay, recording secretary of the International Union of Operating Engineers. The agreement provides for a basic wage increase scaling down from 10 cents to five cents per hour, seven paid holidays and a standard working week of 40 hours.

COAL CENTRE

Coal-mining in the big coalfields near Swansea, Wales, started as early as the 13th century.

Mayoralty Race 3-Way Fight In Toronto

Toronto, Nov. 30—(CP)—This city's second civic election in a year Dec. 3 will draw voters to the polls to decide the winner of a three-way mayoralty race and the outcome of the few lukewarm contests.

At no point has this campaign reached the interest of last Jan. 2 when 170,000 cast ballots—the largest number in city history—to record approval of Sunday sports.

The same time they voted in favor of December elections which explains this one.

Although 367,400 are eligible to vote, lack of major issues may lower interest. Hiram E. McCallum —mayor since 1948—has tossed his hat into the ring for a fourth session. In his campaign speeches Mayor McCallum has spent time explaining his reasons for favoring amalgamation of surrounding municipalities.

He also has been on the defensive against broadsides fired by his 2 opponents, alderman Nathan Phillips and former controller Allan Lamport. Mr. Lamport opposed Mayor McCallum in the last election and was defeated by 1,500 votes.

Alderman Phillips has attacked both Mr. Lamport and the mayor. At one meeting he described himself as "a lone voice crying in the wilderness" of city council against proposed increases in Toronto Transportation Commission fees.

On the other hand Mr. Lamport charges the current civic administration with creating unnecessary expenses.

TOURIST RECORDS BROKEN

Toronto, Nov. 30—(CP)— All previous tourist records have been broken during the first 10 months of 1951 in Ontario, The Ontario Department of Travel and Publicity said yesterday. 4,900,000 tourists have crossed the border since January. This figure is 9.2 per cent ahead of 1950.

4TH SIDNEY

4th Sidney — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tucker accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Woods, 2nd of Sidney, returned Friday night after spending the week at New York City and other points of interest in the New York state.

Mr. George Read is convalescing at her home after two weeks' in Belleville General Hospital. Everyone hopes she will soon be feeling much better.

Stone Church held their 90th anniversary services on Sunday. Rev. C. W. Neelands was in charge of the morning service and the choir sang two selections. At the evening service Rev. A. E. Baker of Stirling was the guest speaker.

The Junior Farmers' choir with Mrs. Baker as accompanist gave several selections including a solo by Mrs. Margaret Haggarty. There was a large crowd at both services.

Guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Detlor were Mr. and Mrs. S. Prest and daughter, of Ivanhoe, Mr. and Mrs. G. Detlor, of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Lane entertained Mr. and Mrs. H. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fisher, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bird on Friday night.

Mrs. Willis Jeffrey spent a few days recently with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jeffrey, Valleyfield, Quebec.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Phillips were Mr. and Mrs. 'Bob' Redner, Mrs. A. R. Woods, Mrs. Vera Lough, Beverley, Mrs. E. Hubbs.

Recreational Program In Belleville

1—The objective of the Recreation Committee is to create and maintain recreation facilities and provide leadership and supervision in their full use for all age groups in Belleville.

2—It is the earnest desire of the Recreation Committee to work harmoniously with all organizations who use these facilities.

3—We mean by recreation, to provide and promote, playgrounds, rinks, athletic fields, drama and music, crafts and hobbies, picnic facilities, swimming facilities and eventually many other activities.

4—In the past the creation, maintenance and supervision has been by uncertain financial support. The Recreation Committee received this year a grant from the City Council of approximately ons-half mill. However the following has been accomplished.

(a) Nine playgrounds equipped, maintained and supervised, also the supervision supplied for the C.N.R. playground. These playgrounds had a registered attendance of 1,500 children.

(b) Facilities made available for Fee Wee softball, Pee Wee and Minor hardball and Minor soccer.

(c) Five outdoor rinks for hockey and skating erected and maintained.

5—Recreation Does Not End Here

To develop an all round recreational program there should be committees formed to head each facet of the recreational facilities. It is the hope that existing groups would form the basis of these committees. Each committee would be responsible for their program and budget. It is our intention to provide a fuller program with better facilities and supervision. With the continual growth of Belleville additional playgrounds are a necessity.

In order that your Recreation Committee may be able to promote and develop an all round recreational program it is necessary they have an annual guaranteed income, and the only way this is possible is for every taxpayer to vote in favor of the by-law granting one mill for Recreation purposes. This actually means an additional half mill more than the grant we received from the City Council this past year.

WEDDINGS

BRADLEY—WOOD

On Saturday, November 24th, at 1.30 p.m. before an altar banked with standards of white Chrysanthemums and ferns, a pretty wedding was solemnized by the Reverend H. Hunter Hillis in Tabernacle United Church, Belleville, when Lois Hazel Mae, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen H. Wood, became the bride of Leo Godfrey Peter Bradley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Bradley, of Belleville, formerly of Montreal, Quebec.

Mr. Harold McNish, church organist, provided the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of white, allover satin, cut lace, fashioned with sweetheart neckline and long tapered sleeves. The bouffant skirt was fashioned with a front and back panel of satin with lace inserts, interspersed with satin bands ran from waist to hem over the hips. Her Swiss illusion veil of finger-tip length was held in place by a halo of pearls sprinkled with seed pearls. She wore silver slippers and carried a cascade bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Barbara Jean Wood, sister, of the bride, was maid of honor, wearing an attractive gown of nile green nylon sheer with slightly off-shoulder yoke and bouffant matching nylon sheer. Her headdress of matching net with rhinestone ornament was tied under the chin with matching velvet ribbon. She carried nosegay of tiny time roses and bronze mums with yellow satin ribbon.

Miss Marilyn Rose Wood, also sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, gowned in nasture satin fashioned on lines similar to that of the maid of honor and wearing a net headdress with rhinestone ornament and velvet ties. She carried a nosegay of yellow tea-time roses and mauve mums with mauve satin ribbon.

Mr. Roger Cornell, of Belleville attended the bridegroom, and Mr. William Wood, of Belleville, cousin of the bride, acted as usher.

For the reception, which was held at the home of the bride, the bride's mother, gowned in burgundy crepe and lace with black accessories and corsage of Talisman roses, received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore a gown of sandstone brown and lace, with black accessories and corsage of Talisman roses.

Following the reception, the young couple left for Kingston and Watertown, N.Y., the bride travelling in navy blue crepe dress with accessories and matching topcoat. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Bradley will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Montreal, Que., Deerborn, Michigan; Niagara Falls, Ontario, King and Picton.

YOUNG—DESHANE

Marmora — A quiet wedding was celebrated at St. Andrew's United Church on November 26, by the Rev. G. D. Young, when Lavina E. Deshane of Deloro was united in marriage to Claude Young of Sulphide, Ontario. They will reside at Valleyfield, Quebec.

French Fashion Expert Alwyn Brings London Women Advice

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London (CP)—Latest member of the French court of fashion to make a play for the British market is youthful fashion dictator Alwyn, who prefers to be called just that.

Alwyn brings to London lots of advice and four basically simple outfits that would lend enchantment to most figures. He defends this simple approach by saying that women must learn to control their "silly tendencies."

An impulsive desire for something gay, feminine and giddy with color must be confided to the "little bits" of nonsense, he says—the big bow at the neck, the little bright hat or the flower—but always the basic style must be correctly tailored."

Lisle Minimum

Alwyn, a friendly-faced Frenchman, lists this "minimum" for the well-dressed woman — a black suit, a dark grey flannel suit, a tailored shirt dress perhaps in neutral tones, a cocktail dress in black silk and two evening gowns—one black, one white.

Shoes and handbags should be black, hats and the "little bits of nonsense" supplying the color interest.

Alwyn says there is one great difference between the English woman and the French woman—that, he said, French women like to emphasize this by much seaming, stiff petersham, important belts and good girdles. English women prefer to leave the waist to nature.

Here are the four basic lines that Alwyn offers the English market:

A little black wool "all day" dress, with bell fullness to the skirt, a cross-over diagonal neckline, tiny belt and long narrow sleeves. A diagonal panel in the wide skirt and the corresponding curve to the neckline are emphasized by black velvet trimming and graduated buttons.

Tailored Dress Suitable

A tailored dress suitable for office work or smart afternoon wear has a narrow line set off by diagonal tiers rising from low on the skirt to the cross-cut diagonal neckline. Again the sleeve is long and narrow, cut in one with the bodice.

For special occasions a crinkled taffeta theatre dress is carnival with cap sleeves, its plunging neckline emphasized by one deep cuff. The straight line of the skirt is broken by a side panel of fullness that continues the flowing line of the waist-deep neckline.

For evening a billowing froth of tulle dotted with pearls. In several shades of coral and christened "Tour d'Argent," perhaps in honor of a famous Parisian restaurant, this strapless dress sweeps the floor and a full pointed apron front lends to its cloudy appeal.

"Simple dresses must always be long," said Alwyn. "Otherwise they look like a chemise."

One final tip: Flowers must be real.

Princess Elizabeth Sets Style By Free Use of Velvet

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London (CP)—For smart girls who follow the royal trend in fashion, the fabric of the moment is velvet.

Not only did Princess Elizabeth's Canadian wardrobe include velvet outfits, but back home the queen and Princess Margaret were showing marked favor for the same fabric, mostly for day wear.

When Princess Margaret visited the Canadian Red Cross Hospital at Taplow this month, she wore matching velvet coat and hat. The coat had princess lines, high-buttoned bodice and roll collar. At the wedding of the Marquess of Blandford, she chose a ruby-red velvet coat with waist-deep lapels and matching bonnet trimmed with sequins.

Queen's Outfit.

At the same wedding, the queen chose an edge-to-edge coat with cuffed front, its three-quarter sleeves trimmed with deep, muff-shaped mink cuffs. Her matching hat with arched brim had a peacock-blue feather rising in feathers, giving a softly-waving cloud effect.

With several of her velvet outfits, Princess Margaret has favored close-fitting high-crowned bonnet hats with feather trimmings.

A sapphire blue velvet coat was combined with close-fitting helmet hat having large feathered butterfly winging up the left side.

At the recent wedding of Robin Pinnket, brother-of Lord Plunket, one of Margaret's escorts, the princess wore a velvet tost with matching tier-crowned bonnet highlighted by winged feather mount.

The royal emphasis on velvet has had a marked effect on smart women shooting Christmas outfits. For those who can't afford the beautiful velvet relivets that stand up to wintry weather and are the favorite royal choice, there are warm woollens with interesting velvet insets.

Swagger Coats Popular

Smart outfit for a winter tramp is a loose, swinging swagger coat in honey gold, grey or sage green with big cuffs and cape collar in black velvet. Combine this with black suede gloves, bag and shoes and tiny velvet cap with feathers or pom-poms and you are ready for any big date.

Little Light wool dresses at modest prices with interesting buttoned necklines and cuffs are effectively contrasted by inserts of velvet emphasizing the curve of the cross-over neckline, the height of the collar or the chic panelling of hidden pleats in the side skirt.

N.Y. Woman Editor Criticizes Education of Girls in U.S.

Cap Le La Madeleine, Que., Nov. 30 (CP)—The United States educational system for girls is inadequate, says Mrs. Dorothy Day, editor of the New York Roman Catholic Daily Worker.

Main trouble with the U.S. school scheme is that the girls are taught in the same schools as boys, she said, and cannot fully develop their feminine traits.

Learning the same things boys do, girls cannot properly learn to take over responsibilities in the home.

The net result, she said is the lack of balance in U.S. homes.

Mrs. Day, she said, writing a series of articles on Canadian girls' education, is spending a few days at the Val-Marie school of household science here.

In order to write more accurately on the subject, she is taking part in daily routine courses.

She said she found the Catholic scheme of separate schools for girls—particularly in Quebec province—is "simply perfect."

"We hope you (of Quebec) will guard jealously those educational ideals," she said.

Mrs. Day said she didn't have to come to Canada to learn household education.

"My daughter has told me a lot about it since she has been studying at an institution similar to Val-Marie at Ste. Martine in this province."

Yesterday, Mrs. Day had a lifetime thrill when come true—for the first time she operated an old-fashioned spinning wheel.

"It's the wheel, she said, "once was the soul of the home."

"It's a shame that we have forgotten the real value of this family symbol."

Mrs. Day attended classes of instruction from a nun on the operation of the wheel, then, she and the students took turns at spinning the wheel.

Val-Marie is a well-known institution in this city, a Roman Catholic shrine, halfway between Montreal and Quebec City on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River.

For the richer client there are dresses such as the lovely black velvet frock by Paquin with its great bell skirt and exquisitely simple lines. Fit for a princess with its tight, long sleeves and high mandarin neckline, the dress has only one touch of color. The neck is outlined in white pique and white edging slots the glamorous, pointed sleeves.

Women's Institute

Clarence W. I.

The regular meeting of the Clarence W. I. was recently held at the home of Mrs. W. R. Bateman with 20 members and 13 visitors present, one of whom joined during the meeting.

An extremely interesting item on the program was the talk given by the guest speaker, Mrs. Rolph of Plainfield W. I., on how to go to the Guelph local museum for historical research and current events clippings.

Her talk gave detailed information on how to compile the Tweedsmuir History. All information recorded should come from reliable sources, so that the history, when completed will be authentic. Institutes are urged to start and continue local museums so that the things of today may be preserved for future generations.

First W. I.

Another visitor, Mrs. Chester Sills, of West Huntingdon, spoke a few words on W. I.'s matters. Being an intimate friend of Ex-land Lea's niece, when training for a nurse, she was a guest at his home when he called the meeting at which Mrs. Hoodless was guest speaker. From this meeting stemmed the first W. I. But it was not until later, while nursing overseas during World War One, that she fully realized what a wonderful organization it was, and so became such an enthusiastic worker.

Other items on the program prepared by Mrs. Elliott: "Good Old-Fashioned Dinner," a poem read by Mrs. E. Elliott, a beautiful violin selection, 'Angel's Serenade," by Miss L. Brady with Mrs. Bateman playing the accompaniment. Two encores followed this. Mrs. T. McCrea read "Why Not Worry" a satiric article telling why we should worry. The concluding number was a comic poem, "When John Pets up the Stove," read by Mrs. L. Elliott.

Interesting Articles

Under standing committees, Mrs. Charles Jeffrey reported on agriculture and in an article "Sobering Experiences,"—a farmer's review of his life's work,"—recalling the sluggish disagreeable labor, the hazards and adverse weather; but through it all is a definite vein of humor. A second article was a man's experience with his newly installed water softener, which showed the power of imagination.

For historical research, Mrs. J. Rannie read History of Hungerford Twp. For citizenship and education, Mrs. R. Clarence Graham read "Illiteracy in the Modern World," which stated that over half the people of the world have not learned to write. Illiteracy is most common among the classes of the people, while Asia, Africa and Latin America leading.

Mr. Stanley Webb read an article on dental health, which stressed the importance of early visits to the dentist, mouth hygiene and diet. Prevention is the motto rather than correction. For community activities and public relations, Mrs. Lorne Gunning suggested that each rural member interest an urban lady in W. I. work and so improve our public relations.

Letters from Mrs. Purcell, Provincial President F. W. I. O. and Dr. Edith Rutherhanzova, Director of Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, told of the crying need in northern Greece for food and a community tractor. A fund has been started for this purpose, and it was decided that $10 toward the fund be contributed.

Mrs. S. R. Dafoe's name was chosen to be sent in as a possible attendant at the Folk School to be held near Madoc in January.

A dainty refreshing luncheon prepared by Mrs. William Woods, Mrs. Wilbur Bateman, Mrs. Lorne Gunning, Mrs. Harry Coulter and Mrs. W. R. Bateman was then served, while all enjoyed a social half hour.

The next meet will be held at the home of Mrs. Lincoln Elliott on Wednesday in the form of a pot-luck supper. Gifts for the exchange should not exceed 25c cents. The husbands and families of all members are invited to this meeting.

RECORD SMASHER

Yorkton, Sask. — (CP) — Andy Mark's automobile was damaged when he ran into a deer which jumped from a ditch. It was his second accident in 49 years of driving; the first was caused when he ran over a cow in 1921.

Food for Thought

Readers' Friday Column

By MARY MOORE

Have you been wishing there was some way you could write in for a recipe for "Christmas baking or entertaining" or "something in the food topic"? Mary Moore will answer your letters through this column or, if you prefer will send you a private reply if you enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Question:

I would like very much to get recipes for Eccles Cakes and for the bread—Apple German Strudel if it's made from flour and lard and pulled till it's paper thin. I've never been able to get the recipe yet—I'm very fond of it. I would also like to know if Pickled Cauliflower I put up is spoiled when it turns a pinkish color as I'm afraid to try it in case it is spoiled. Last time I put it up it was a clear white. —Mrs. D. Y.

Answer:

Apple Strudel

Strudel Dough: 1 egg, ½ teaspoon salt ¼ cup lukewarm water, 1 tablespoon slightly melted butter, 1¼ cups sifted bread flour, ½ cup farm butter or shortening, 4 tablespoons light bread crumbs.

Beat egg, salt, lukewarm water and slightly melted butter. Gradually add 1¼ cups flour beating till smooth. Add remaining flour if dough is soft and sticky—dough must leave sides of bowl and form a ball. Strike dough against lightly greased board for about 2 minutes. If it sticks during process add small amount of flour. Place dough under hot bowl for about one hour. Meanwhile cover table with large pastry cloth sprinkled lightly with 2 or 3 tablespoons of flour. Roll and stretch dough until thin as tissue paper and cut away thick edges. Cut dough into two separate sheets.

Apple Filling: 4 cups thinly sliced apples (Jonathan or Delicious are the best), 1/3 cup granulated sugar ¼ cup each steamed bread crumbs and walnuts, and bread crumbs to sprinkle on apples, 1 teaspoon each cinnamon and nutmeg combined with the sugar. A little melted butter may be drizzled over apples before rolling. Drizzle dough with part of melted butter and sprinkle with 4 tablespoons of bread crumbs spread with filling. Place second piece of dough over first. Drizzle with part of melted shortening and crumbs. Fold end nearest you over filling, then lift cloth and roll up like jelly roll. Brush top of roll with warm melted shortening and bake on baking sheet for 30 to 40 minutes at 375 deg. Fahr. If too large for baking sheet form a crescent.

Eccles Cakes

These are made with Puff (French) Paste cut into squares 4" x 4". Barely moisten dough with water. In centre place 1½ tablespoons of filling 2/3 cup of currants, 1/3 cup chopped mixed peel, ¼ to ½ teaspoon each of mace and allspice, ½ to 1 cup bread or cake crumbs, 1 cup brown sugar.

When filling is in centre of square of dough, pinch corners together to centre top to seal filling in Turn cake over and gently shape it into a round about ¾ thick. Brush cakes with milk and dip in granulated sugar and bake at 375 deg. Fahr.

As for your pickled cauliflower which has turned pink during the pickling process, it is quite harmless if all the other ingredients in the jar are in good condition.

Women's Activities

VOTA-VITA MISSION CIRCLE

On Tuesday evening last the young ladies of Vota-Vita Mission Circle of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church held their monthly meeting at the home of Miss Jean Thompson.

After a rousing song fest the president, Margaret Hagerman, led in prayer. A Life Membership certificate was presented with joy to Miss Marjorie Hales.

Mrs. Heinz Hales was in charge of the devotions and chose as the subject "The Secret Place." The 91st Psalm was read and these scriptures were expounded by Mrs. Zaliff.

The student pastor, who is working at the Sunday School at Fairway Avenue, Mr. Ralph Wilton, is the son of missionaries in India and a letter from these parents addressed to the circle was read at this time.

A duet entitled "Tell Me More of Jesus" was sung by Misses Marjorie Hales and Jerry Campbell.

It was a privilege to have Miss Nourse, the church clerk, speak to the Circle on the theme "And ye shall be witnesses unto me both in Judea and Samaria and unto the uttermost parts of the earth." It proved most inspiring as Miss Nourse likened this commandment to the task "in Ontario and Quebec."

Refreshments were served and enjoyed by all.

Woman Pastor Has Parishes In Northland

Porcupine, Ont. (CP) — This three-charge parish in Northern Ontario's huge Cochrane presbytery of the United Church of Canada received its first woman minister recently — and the miners, bush workers, farmers and their families like the idea.

The minister, Rev. Kathleen Christopher, 30, is the daughter of Henry Christopher, a miner at Cobalt, Ont., mine and was raised at nearby Schumacher. She entered the ministry because "it was the one spot in life for me."

Sunday is one of her busiest days, with morning service here at 11 o'clock, Sunday school at 2 p.m. and then a 13-mile drive east to Hoyle to get Sunday school started there. Next come regular services at Hoyle and a drive back to Golden City for supper. Later she again sets out to drive 20 miles for the evening service at Connaught.

Albert Dyrland, the parish's clerk of session, says things have gone "marvellously well". He said Miss Christopher is a wonderful worker and men, women and children have taken to her and like the idea of a woman in the pulpit

Miss Christopher, one of three women graduates of Edmanuel College, Toronto, who were ordained last spring, says she never felt she was "under judgment", as it were. Everything went smoothly from the first.

Mrs. T.H. Field New Alderman At Edmonton

Edmonton (CP)—All-male rule on the Edmonton city council came to an end in this year's elections when Mrs. T. H. Field became the first woman to win a seat at the aldermanic table in five years.

Not since 1945 has a woman been on the council, said Mrs. Field: "A woman's viewpoint will be a definite asset to the council which, I feel, needs the balance a woman can give."

The new "alderwoman's" contributions to the community have been many and varied. She is immediate past president of the Women's Canadian Club; former president of the board of directors of the Victorian Order of Nurses; former chairman of the Northern Alberta Division of the Navy League and former chairman of the Canadian Red Cross Corps, plus participating in a host of other activities.

Mrs. Field made no pre-election promises, but after winning her aldermanic seat said: "Always I will endeavor to give my utmost to Edmonton and to make a worth while contribution to the administration of government in this rapidly-growing city."

Wife of the late Dr. T. H. Field, prominent Edmonton surgeon, she is the mother of two children—a daughter now married and a son, who is a student at the University of Alberta.

Mrs. Field came to Edmonton 26 years ago from her former home in London, England.

Says Trial Did Not Prove Meyer Guilty of Murder

North Bay, Nov. 30 (CP) —A lawyer who was on call as a prosecution adviser at the court martial of Maj.-Gen. Kurt Meyer said yesterday the trial did not prove that the German officer was guilty or murdering 18 Canadian prisoners of war, or of ordering them murdered.

The lawyer, Dalton Dean of Haileybury, was a colonel on the judge advocate-general's First Canadian Army staff and was associated with the prosecution at Meyer's 1945 trial at Aurich, Germany.

"The public believes from press reports that it was shown in Kurt Meyer's court-martial that Kurt Meyer murdered Canadian soldiers or ordered them murdered," he said.

"That is completely false.

"The worst ever proved against Meyer was that he commanded troops who killed Canadian prisoners, and that he made certain remarks indicating that the objective of the attack was not to secure prisoners."

Mr. Dean suggested that a panel of judges from the Supreme Court of Canada review the Meyer case.

Ban Love Songs At Weddings

Toronto, Nov. 30—(CP) — A move to ban secular music from marriage ceremonies did not support here, a newspaper survey indicated today.

The move started in Hamilton. The Canadian College of Organists wrote to the council of churches urging that such songs as "I Love You Truly" and "I'll Walk Beside You" be dropped in favor of strictly sacred music.

The Roman Catholic Church bans secular music at wedding services. Protestant clergymen polled, with one exception, said they felt only sacred music should be played at weddings.

Dissenter was Rev. Ray McCleary, bachelor minister of Woodgreen United Church who is said to marry more couples annually than any other clergyman in Toronto. Mr. McCleary said: "The sentimental numbers belong."

Sir Ernest MacMillan, director of the Toronto Symphony, said he would support the Hamilton move.

"I'm a former organist myself," he said. "Wedding music had best be kept to a religious note."

THERAPISTS NEEDED

Halifax — (CP) — More physical and occupational therapists are needed in Nova Scotia, said Dr. W. D. Stevenson, chief neurosurgeon of the Victoria Hospital, in an address here. He said the whole of Canada has to be supplied with trained therapists from McGill University and the University of Toronto.

FLOOD PROJECT

Fort Frances, Ont. — (CP) — Town council is considering construction of a road dike along the Rainy River, to hold back flood waters and protect riverfront property. Financial aid will be sought from the federal and Ontario governments.

Santa Claus Runs Out of Money In Copenhagen

Copenhagen, Nov. 30 (AP) — What millions of children all over the world have been fearing for hundreds of years happened Wednesday, Santa Claus ran out of money.

He didn't have even enough for postage to answer the bagloads of letters he's getting these days.

At least that it what the bid. tetary committee of the Danish parliament was told. It called a special meeting last night to deal with Santa's plight.

Don't worry—the parliamentarians took action. They unanimously decided to appropriate a special grant to Santa Claus. He will get 55,000 kroner ($8,400) to help him answer his mail.

You see Santa's main mail station is in Greenland, Denmark's Arctic colony near the north pole. But all his mail is sent via the Royal Danish Greenland administration, Copenhagen, Denmark. Here, Santa's helpers handled 130,000 letters from boys and girls all over the world last year. Santa expects 200,000 letters via this route this year and he plans to answer them all and enclose a picture from Greenland and a pamphlet of children's stories by Hans Christian Andersen.

That is the reason he ran out of money Wednesday.

Diefenbaker Says Federal Election Is Coming Soon

Sherbrooke, Que. Nov. 30 (CP) —John G. Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Lake Centre, Sask., said last night a federal election is not far off.

Speaking at a meeting of the Sherbrooke district Progressive Conservative organization, he said the general election date would have been announced within a few weeks had it not been for the Liberal setback in the recent Ontario provincial elections.

Mr. Diefenbaker said there were countless indications in government action forecasting the election.

Among improvements brought about by the government to gain public support, he said, were:

1. The recent increase in old age pensions for everyone over 70.

10 Starving Dogs, Three Cats Found In Filthy Home

Flesherton, Ont., Nov. 30 (CP) —Ten starving dogs and three cats were taken last night from what provincial police said was a filth-strewn farm house near this Guelph district town. Two other dogs and one cat were found dead.

Acting on instructions from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, Inspector L. Shaw of Guelph took the surviving animals to the Ontario Veterinary College at Guelph.

The SPCA came into the case after Provincial Constable H. C. Black went to the house Wednesday on the complaint of a man who said he bought a dog and did not receive it.

Police said the owner of the house, a woman, has not been seen since Saturday. There was no food or water for the animals and they apparently had not been let out of the house for some time.

O.V.C. officials said the animals were suffering from "malnutrition." Dr. James Archibald said that with proper care all would recover.

The house was vacant when police arrived but the furniture had not been removed and there were several trunks in the building.

RELIEF FUND STARTED

Toronto, Nov. 29 (CP)—Three Toronto organizations and others across Canada are rallying to aid some 80,000 flood-stricken Italians.

The formation of a Canadian flood relief for Italy fund, under the patronage of James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto, was announced Wednesday.

Three R.C.A.F. planes already have transported Red Cross supplies to Italy for the thousands of victims.

FINE SOIL

The prolific acres of Bermuda produce large quantities of lily bulbs, bananas, onions, potatoes and green vegetables.

2. Increase in veterans' pensions.

3. Repayment next April of excess income tax payments.

4. Payment of $100,000,000 in grants to western wheat farmers.

5. Efforts being made to improve the unemployment situation that will result from present artificial prosperity.

He scored the federal authorities for the constant use of "emergency powers" to encroach on provincial rights.

Two Governments Reach Agreement On Power Plan

Ottawa, Nov. 30— (CP)— A fresh step towards the harnessing of urgently-needed power potential in the St. Lawrence River was taken here yesterday by the federal government and the government of Ontario.

The two governments announced that they had reached agreement on the details of arrangements which will permit Ontario to go ahead with the appropriate United States authority —presumably New York State—to develop the hydro phase of the St. Lawrence seaway project.

The announcement came from Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Frost at the conclusion of two meetings.

Details of the $400,000,000 project, the cost of which will be shared equally by Ontario and its American partner, will be announced here on Monday when the agreement is formally signed in Mr. St. Laurent's office.

Mr. St. Laurent indicated to reporters later that he does not expect any immediate move to reach an agreement with Quebec for the harnessing of power in the St. Lawrence near Montreal. Quebec's need for power, he observed, is not as urgent as Ontario.

The proposal is for the development of 1,440,000 kilowatts of firm power in the international section of the St. Lawrence. Half of this would go to Ontario and half to New York State.

Under the agreement completed today, Ontario will bear all the cost of the dams and power development. The federal government will carry the cost of building locks for navigation purposes and use later in the seaway side of the project when the Dominion itself goes ahead with that stage.

Cost of the seaway project has been estimated at $350,000,000 to $300,000,000.

EGG CUSTOMER

St. John's, Nfld. — (CP) Puerto Rico took the largest amount of any country out of Newfoundland fish exports in October. The Central American Republic took 31,058 quintals of the total of 63,467 quintals of bank and shore fish exported.

SPECIAL CLASS

Stellarton, N. S. — (CP) White belts issued by the highways department are worn by grade 7 Boys who direct traffic in the school area at recess and lunch time. The boys, who take special care of younger pupils, are trained by traffic officers.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

Promised Lands Always Expensive

By ROY L. SMITH

The mayor of a great American city had listened patiently while a church club speaker had declaimed on the subject of the need for leadership in national life. It had been a vigorous speech, received with enthusiasm and much applause.

Enroute back to his office with one of the leaders in a great community work the mayor said, "That was a good speech, and it got live applause it deserved. But in my experience in public office what the average town needs is a new sense of 'follow-ship.' I have seen unselfish and public spirited people in this city break their hearts in efforts to rally the citizenry in the name of some great work. One of the most difficult tasks I have is to find strong men of the town who are willing to subject themselves to the abuse and vilification they must endure if they attempt to lead the people who do not want to be led."

Trouble Always Ahead

No exodus from any Egypt, in the direction of any promised land, has ever been a joy ride. There have always been Red Seas to be crossed, wilderness to be traversed, hunger and thirst to be endured, and privations to be accepted.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for December 2: "Doubting And Disobedient People," Exodus 32; Numbers 11—14.

But the most discouraging aspect of any such journey is the murmuring of the people. Most of us want community services of a high order, and demand them. At the same time we insist that taxes must be kept down. We want paved roads produced by magic, parks enlarged without expense, and better schools without any sacrifices on the part of the tax-payers.

Any man who sets out to obtain all these things for the people should prepare himself for their spite, the vindictiveness, their resentment, and their abuse. It is strange but it is true.

Let's Go Back

There are always those in every community who begin to whimper and say, "Let's go back. Let us return unto Egypt."

They talk of the good old days, completely forgetful of the fact that they complained loud and long while they were living through the good old days.

Price of Promised Lands

No promised land has ever been reached except at the cost of courage, determination, sacrifice, suffering and fatigue.

No man in modern times suffered more than Charles Goodyear did, in his lifelong struggle to produce and market vulcanized rubber, which makes it possible for the rest of the world to ride on air.

The Wright Brothers were lampooned, caricatured, and publicly ridiculed before they convinced the world of the feasibility of air transportation.

Alexander Graham Bell suffered a long list of indignities before he convinced even his friends that he could "talk over a wire."

As with individuals, so with nations. The period of suffering always precedes the age of triumph. Wildernesses come ahead of promised lands, and murmuring and rebellious people turn their wrath upon the very leaders who are conveying them to the fine new days.

Minority Report

It happens many times that the truth is to be found in the minority report. Gilbert Chesterton once said that "the majority has always been wrong" but there is at least too much truth in it.

The trouble with the ten spies was that they looked at life through the lenses of fear. The two spies looked at the promised land through the lenses of faith.

Two men looking at the facts with God were better judges than ten men exaggerating the facts because of their terrors.

(Copyright 1951 by the Division of Christian Education, National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States of America.)

OWNERS SOUGHT

Guelph, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Provincial police and Humane Society officials Thursday sought the owners of 11 starving dogs and three starving cats found shenfoned on a district farm. One dead dog and one dead cat also were found at the farm.

C.P.R. Applies For Further Rise In Freight Rates

Ottawa, Nov. 30—(CP) — The Canadian Pacific Railway's average annual capital requirements are about $80,000,000, vice-president R. B. Crump told the Board of Transport Commissioners yesterday.

The C. P. R.'s chief operating officer, Mr. Crump testified in the railway's application for a further general freight-rate increase of 10 per cent.

He said the $80,000,000 figure is necessary for expansion of rail facilities to meet demands for an expanding economy.

The money would have to come, Mr. Crump said, both from earnings of the railway and from investor capital.

At present the company puts about $30,000,000 a year from current earnings into its depreciation fund for replacement of equipment, Mr. Crump said. this fund would have to be augmented by about $30,000,000 a year to cover rising costs of replacement.

Another $30,000,000 would be needed to expand service in line with the general national expansion.

Capital outlays for diesel power would necessarily be large but ultimately would increase efficiency and bring savings to the railway and to the shipper.

However, he added that any such savings to date have been more than wiped out by rises in costs.

Mr. Crump said he feels the C. P. R. probably will never build another steam locomotive.

J. N. Pratico, assistant to the C. P. R. vice-president, told the board that during 1951 the 40-hour week for rail employees will cost the C. P. R. an estimated $8,335,000. This was for the seven months from June 1, the date the short work week started.

Costs of the 40-hour week awarded to non-operating employees as the result of their 1950 general strike, is one of the main bases for the freight-rate application.

The actual additional cost between June 1 and Sept. 30 was $4,952,000. The wage expenditures for the classes of employees affected amounted to about 13 per cent as the result of the 40-hour week.

FUND MISSES QUOTA

St. Thomas, Nov. 30 — (CP) — The community chest campaign conducted here in the last month ended Thursday at $32,160, nearly $3,000 short of the $30,000 objective.

DANGEROUS TURN

Montreal — (CP) — Citizens of Vaudreuil — Soulanges have impressed on representatives of the federal transport department the need for reconstructing the dangerous St. Emeel road approach to the Soulanges canal. The intersection with the main highway, only 30 feet from the canal, has been the scene of 11 drownings since 1933.

The Outsiders

By Jane Abbott

And, all the time, he had been thinking of her as the girl he'd seen in Altamont — abandoned there. She remembered he'd forced himself upon her, just before she left. Come up to her and said something—she could not recall just what but probably he was thinking it would be easy to pick up with a discard! He'd forced himself on her, that first day up on the rock. . .

But from now on—she straightened, set her lips in their hard line—he would not exist in, so far as she was concerned. "I despise him!" She said it aloud into the quiet of the room.

At Marilyn's call, John went to the kitchen for his breakfast.

"Pancakes," said Marilyn. She did not often make them. They were too much bother she declared.

"Going to be another grand day," he said. "You ought to get out, Lyn. You've been cooped up in the house all week. It won't hurt your ankle to walk on it, so long as you keep it strapped up." He passed his cup to her for more coffee. "There's something I'd like you to do—stop in on Jeremy Penny. Go in when school closes and get her to come back here with you."

Marilyn stared at him, the coffee pot in her hands. "For gosh sakes—why should I do all that!" The old snap was in her voice.

John buttered a pancake while he took a moment to consider how much he could tell her. "She isn't too well—fact is, she came here to my office the other evening to consult me. I think it's mostly loneliness with her. You are near the same age—you could get to be friends, I imagine."

"I wouldn't want to—not with her! She's the dullest person I ever met!" She filled his coffee cup, passed it to him.

John put it down on the table. "If it were going to help a person, even the dullest person in the world, which I doubt Miss Penny is! It doesn't cost anything to be kind, you know."

His tone had its old curtness and Marilyn's face flushed a little. "You don't have to say it that way! I wouldn't be unkind to her, if I met her. Or anyone else, I hope! But I don't see any reason to push myself on her—why don't you give her some visits or something? After all she's your patient—you said she came to consult you. I don't believe she's any lonelier here than I am."

John got up from the table. "Forget that I asked it of you."

Marilyn said quickly, "John, if it was anything else—anything important. . ."

He had started for the door, he stopped, and turned and came back to her. "As things are between us, it isn't going to be easy for us to go on together, Lyn. We've each of us got to watch our step. And I guess the best plan is for neither of us to ask anything of the other!"

"I am trying!" Two tears ran down Marilyn's cheeks and she doubed at them with the back of one hand. "I mean to be different from what I was. Honest, I do! I know I've been rotten to you. . ." She caught hold of the lapel of his coat held it tightly.

John loosened her fingers on his coat, turned and walked out of the room. . .

He stood at the old scarred desk in his office, looked around the room. At the files, empty of case-records. Jeremy had sat in one of the two Windsor chairs which he had brought from his mother's attic. . .

Yet now, looking over it all, he did not feel the old heavy drag of failure; rather, he had a curious sense of achievement waiting for him ahead.

One was to see George Culbert. He smiled a little. A small thing, of course, to report to the manager on Dave Wilson's progress, but he anticipated considerable satisfaction in it from some quarter.

From the window he saw the men going into the mill yard. John went back to the kitchen. "I'm going over to the mill for a few moments."

Marilyn wheeled around from the sink where she was washing dishes. "To the mill?"

"Yes. To see Culbert."

"John you're not. . ." Her face twisted in her alarm.

"To report on Dave Wilson's injury," he finished.

"Oh, that!" He heard the relief in her voice. It sickened him a little.

He did not need to have her tell him what had happened that evening while he was over the hill. He knew enough of it. It was quite easy, too, to figure out that it was Loren Matthews who had given her a lift home, that he knew. If it had been his wife—but young Matthews was probably very much in love with his wife.

"Good morning." John spoke from the door of the manager's office. . .

George Culbert lifted his head from the letters he was opening, then sprang to his feet, scowling. "What are you doing here? I fired you!"

John came a step or two inside the room. "As a mill man, I'm here now to report to you as a doctor on Dave Wilsons' condition."

"You report!" Culbert went around the desk toward John. "What business is it of yours? It's Cooke's case. I warned you not to chisel in!"

"It was Doctor Cook's request that I go in with him in this particular case." John kept his voice even. "We've good reason to believe the man will have the full use of his hand in time. And we're agreed that it is important that he remain in the hospital 10 days, longer—at least."

An angry red spread over the manager's cheek bones. "The mill is not going to pay eight or 10 dollars a day to coddle a man who was fool enough to get himself hurt! You can tell Cook, if he did send you to me, to bring the fellow home, that we don't pay a cent more on hospital expenses. Or fees either, if that interests you!"

Not a muscle in John's face moved, except around the corners of his mouth. "We? I was under the impression Miss Elsa Forrestal owned this mill, that you are on the payroll, like the other men here. . ."

"Get out!" shouted George Culbert.

John had turned to the door as the mill manager ordered him out. "Sorry I bothered you, Culbert, I should have gone to Miss Forrestal about it in the first place. I'll do just that, now." He went out into the mill yard as he spoke.

George Culbert followed him. "Quit a minute Streeter!" His face was livid, a sneer curled his lips under the small black mustache. "Forgot my manners! Remember me to your wife—or is she that? Sometimes one wonders!"

For a fraction of a moment John saw the other man through a thick blur. Then his vision cleared, his right arm shot out and his clenched fist struck squarely into the sneering face, a blow that sent Culbert reeling back against the jamb of the door, to which he had to cling to hold himself upright.

"You—you'll hear from this!" But his voice was lost in a shout of derision from the gate.

"A pretty job!" Loren Matthews slapped John on the back. "We're been waiting for you to get 'round to it!"

As John went on toward his house he looked at his right hand with sudden anxiety. It'd be too bad if he had hurt it, with Loren Matthew's baby coming in a week or so. But except for a considerable stinging of the knuckles, it appeared to be all right.

He could not remember ever striking a man in retaliation before. He had not known it could give one the exhilaration he was feeling at the moment. He'd got quite a bit more of satisfaction from the interview than he had anticipated.

FOG OF CONFUSION

at understanding of the impact of news that there had been a halted slackening of the war.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, 8th Army commander, said yesterday reforces issued to adjust the fighting to the truce situation had been misinterpreted at lower echelons. Presumably this misinterpretation was responsible for the fact that for a time ground fighting came to a virtual standstill.

What was really intended, as authorities here understand the situation, was that U.N. forces should not fight for territory which they might have to yield under an armistice.

Forestry officials said Grainger applied for a job with their Godbery office Aug. 21. His application papers said he was born in London and served with the British army in North Africa, Italy, France, Holland and Germany. He came to Canada in December, 1950.

He left his job Oct. 9 for a medical examination at North Bay and didn't return.

Police said yesterday Grainger was incoherent when brought in here.

While working here he had a strong English accent. There was no trace of the "hillbilly twang" reported used by the recruit in Texas.

You Can Even Choose It for Economy!

It is true, of course, that when men and women move up to Cadillac, their motivating thought is not economy. Their hearts are set on owning the "Standard of the World."

But if they needed another impulse to move them to Cadillac, it could certainly be found in the car's remarkable record for practicality.

Even on the basis of its initial cost, a Cadillac represents a surprisingly sound automotive investment. Indeed, a number of Canadian motorists are driving other makes of cars which actually cost them more than they would have had to invest if they had purchased new Cadillacs!

And the surprise is no less when you look to the everyday aspects of Cadillac's economy. Few could ask for greater mileage from a gallon of gasoline. And the car's freedom from the needs of service—beyond the routine—has long been traditional.

And finally, of course, there is Cadillac's tremendous capacity to serve—the years and years and years of wonderful utility designed and built into it.

Yes—when you want a Cadillac, you want it for what it is, and does, and represents. But what an added satisfaction it is to reflect that it is also so eminently practical!

Bank Employees Robbed of $2100 By Two Bandits

Orangeville, Ont., Nov. 30 — (CP) —A holdup reminiscent of old-time stage coach robberies was pulled off yesterday by two daring bandits who made off with $2,100.

The robbery took place on a highway between here and Caledon, 10 miles southeast of Orangeville, while two Royal Bank employees were travelling by car with the day's receipts of the Caledon branch.

The bandits, wearing dark sun glasses and red polka dot handkerchiefs over their faces, forced the bank car off the road.

They took the car keys of William Mc Dougherty, 36, acting manager of the Caledon branch, and his revolver which was in the glove compartment of the bank car. They forced Mr. Dougherty and his companion, clerk Marion Wilson, 18, to drive in a sidecar a mile from the nearest farm road before stranding them.

The Royal Bank employees were driving toward Orangeville, 20 miles northwest of Toronto, when the bandit car pulled alongside, its horn sounding. One man poked a gun through the window while the driver forced the bank vehicle to the side.

One gunman, grey-haired and middle-aged, told them: "We are not going to hurt you, and give us the money and you will be all right."

Provincial police learned later the license plates of the bandit automobile were stolen earlier in the day at Aurora, 30 miles east of here.

KOREAN WAR

So both are prepared to let the fighting in Korea come to an inconclusive end.

Before the great calm fell along the front, the faltering armistice talks took a sudden lurch forward. The delegations agreed upon a cease-fire line. Thus in 4½ months the armistice talks had produced agreement on two-fifths of agenda, which calls for: (1) adoption of the agenda, (2) location of a cease-fire line, (3) enforcement of the armistice, (4) exchange of prisoners, and (5), recommendations to the interested powers.

Reds Would Never Agree

Brig.-Gen. William P. Nuckols, spokesman for the U.N. delegation recalls that when the talks started last July the communists proposed only two points: A cease-fire and withdrawal of all foreign troops.

It was well known then that Ridgway was mainly interested in two things: An exchange of prisoners and a provision to send security teams behind enemy lines.

He still will insist on the prisoner exchange, but there's a good chance the U.N. will give in on the security check.

"It would be impractical anyway and furthermore the reds would never agree to it," one officer said.

The apparent preparations to give in on this point are further evidence of the pressure Ridgway is under to get the fighting in Korea ended.

This brings up the question "are the reds shoving us around?"

"Definitely not," replies Nuckols. But, he says, it is clear that both sides have to make some compromises if they are going to produce an armistice.

Maj.-Gen. Henry I. Hodes broke the deadlock on the cease-fire issue by handing the communists a bargain. He gave them a cease-fire line, but with "30 days to pay."

The reds brought. If the terms of the armistice aren't settled within 30 days, the U.N. will have to take the unpopular stand of foreclosing on their offer.

Canadiens Hit Third Spot With 5-1 Triumph Over Toronto Maple Leafs

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

VICS JUNIORS HERE TONIGHT!

Tonight it's the senior Hawks turn to take a whack at the hockey foemen. "Red" Dorrel's Hawklets face the fast-stepping Kingston Vics, conversely tied with the Lindsay Lions men for the front seat, in their first meeting of the season and the clash should be an interesting one.

The Vics, raised by indirect report to be the underdogs have popped up with victories over the highly-touted Lindsay crew and in their initial appearance made the big Peterborough Triple Links my "uncle". They were defeated 10-3 on Lindsay ice by the homesters but reared back into the picture to defeat their conquerors a few nights later.

They figure if the big brothers wearing the uniform of the SAC's can take the measure of the senior Hawks there's no reason why they shouldn't pluck a few tail feathers from the fledglings. They're husky youngsters, those Jackson kids and can put up a fairly good hockey argument especially if the party of the second part wears a Belleville uniform.

Dorsa's youngsters feel they have not yet struck their proper stride despite the fact they outscored the Peterborough Links the other night 6-3 in the last two periods of play. Tonight they'll be out to show their best wares, we hope, and some fast exciting hockey should result.

And tomorrow night they're right back at it again on the wide open spaces in the Kingston Community Centre.

* * *

WHAT TO DO!

The question now, so far as the senior Hawks are concerned, is what are they going to use for a defence? The senior squad's rear guard has not been the best in the group by a long shot since the season opened and now with Tommy Schreider out for six weeks, or possibly the season, what goes?

* * *

Schreider sustained a fracture of the wrist in the Kingston-Hawks fracas Wednesday night. Jud Semark suffered a broken nose, and four teeth that threaten to part company with the jaw most any time. Ernie Trumble either swallowed a bashed-out molar or it's gone in hiding somewhere in the arena and big Vern Goyer sustained an injured toe that may be fractured.

And what was that remark this column made the day previous about adding casualty lists to summary scores of hockey games? Our predictions are usually a mile off par, but that one apparently hit the jackpot.

We understand that a strong protest has been filed with the Ontario Hockey Association by the executive of the senior hockey division of the Belleville Hockey Association against the officiating at the Kingston - Hawks game the other gloaming. Referee Herb. Payne of Peterborough who was in charge that night was under terrific spectator fire. He have seen far better officiating and it is not likely the BSA will "stand for his' appearance here again in an official capacity. It is recalled the junior Hawks management last year protested vigorously against Pa'ne's "working" here, and their protest was granted by the OHA.

Up to this point, the referees working here have been inclined to thumb the lads at the slightest hint of rough-play. That drew the ire of the crowd. Wednesday night the official let several penalty incidents pass. That, too, caused the faithful to roar and toss programs in protest. The hero that is the happy medium, if he exists, should warrant a spot in the hall of fame.

There's far too much of the "mountie" code being applied to hockey these days, and the first thing you know someone is going down with a serious injury. It appears a broken nose, toe, the loss of a few teeth, as Tommy Schreider can testify, are to be taken in their stride. Unfortunately the engineers who designed the most complicated pieces of machinery in the world, the human body did not blueprint for spare parts. There are no replacements for heads, ears, eyes, noses, throats, legs and digits. And if there was nothing under the heat when you came off the assembly line, that's your tough luck. You can't install brains, And in a lot of cases where they were part of standard equipment, the mechanics failed to put the right connections in and there's a lot of faulty wiring in some of them. They work at times and again they'r'f as dead as a four-hour mackerel.

* * *

Having "made the round" of the group and seen all teams in action, our impression is that the senior Hawks' weakest department is behind the blueline. And as we said before, with Schreider out of action indefinitely, matters are that much worse. We are not detracting from the play of the rest of the boys in that department, but to be brutally frank they do not compare as a defensive whole with any in the group. And the defence is the backbone of any team. A good goaltender and five forwards have yet to win a championship.

* * *

DOTS 'N FLASHES . . .

Gus Marker, Kingston's "Frank Tumey" dropped in the other day with an "invite" to Belleville's wrestling faithful to attend his show in Kingston Memorial Centre Monday night . . . Says he has matched Lord Athol Layton against Whipper Thom, St. Louis, the world's champion . . . We've seen Thom in action and Lou is one of the best who consistently proves it . . . It should be a good show . . . Bob Taylor, now with Springfield Indians gets a nice mention in the current "Hockey News" . . . A. E. W. and others, Fiction:—Thanks very much. I read the "tripe" you mention. Purely a case of abysmal ignorance of newspaper ethics. The odor lingers . . . Bill Spafford's basketball Glen Boys get their baptism of fire tomorrow night against Peterborough . . . Hear Don Dudley, Glen Roy courtier suffered an injured jaw during practice, . . Sergeant Micky Sargent of Calgary runs the hockey game here the other night . . . Home on compassionate leave . . . Gary Schreider saw the Notre Dame-Iowa game last week at South Bend with the St. Michael's College grid coach . . . H-mmm, it could be that Gary is one of a future "Four Horsemen" . . . And to the Bantams: Remember tomorrow morning at the arena the Red Wings meet Rangers at nine o'clock; Black Hawks meet Bruins at 9.40 and Maple Leafs hook up with Canadiens at 10.20 . . . At eight o'clock the peewees take the ice under Maurice Lefort . . . And now off to Toronto and the Ontario Minor Hockey Association annual convention . . .

Richard Gets Pair, Lach One As Habs Snap Losing Streak; Wings, Bruins Tie One-Alf

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Montreal hockey fans whose special delights are watching Maurice Richard scoring goals and Canadiens whipping the bejabers out of Toronto Maple Leafs, today are chortling in their coffee cups. They've just had a double dose of cheer.

Their beloved Canadiens snapped a three-game National Hockey League losing streak with a thumping 5-1 home victory over the Leafs last night. And the hero of the piece was Richard with two goals.

The triumph sent Canadiens into the possession of third place, five point behind the Stanley Cup champion Leafs and one up on Boston Bruins who settled for a 1-1 draw at Detroit to deprive the only games on the schedule.

First in Four

The Montreal verdict, before a bowling mob of 14,543, was the first in four games against the Leafs this year. It also broke a three - game Toronto winning streak

After a scoreless first period, Canadiens got back with a three-goal second-period splurge and the bedeviled Richard put final icons with his two counters in the third frame.

Dick Gamble, Elmer Lach and Paul Meger were the other Montreal scorers with Sid Smith notching the Toronto marker early in the final 30 minutes.

As usual when these two clubs meet, the going was rough and at times the game threatened to blow up into some fist-swinging, and probably blood-letting, but the officials were on top of three incipient brawls and the culprits were let off with minor penalties.

Canadiens drew seven minors and Leafs six.

Boston, seeking its first victory in 11 games, took a 1-0 first-period lead on veteran Milt Schmidt's goal. Red Wings evened it 'n the second on a counter by Sid Abel.

Play 15th Tie

It was the 15th tie played in 63 N. H. L. games this season, a tailing mark for Boston, New York and Calcago officials who want a return of the sudden-death overtime, abandoned during wartime due to transportation difficulties.

The one point sent Detroit six up on Toronto. Red Wings and the Leafs each have six drawn games, two less than the Bruins who lead the league in this department.

The Leafs lost more than a hockey game last night.

Rookie defenceman Hugh Bolton wound up in the hospital with a slight jaw fracture and facial lacerations suffered during the game with Canadiens.

He was struck by a puck from the stick of Montreal's Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion.

Vern Goyer Top Goal-getter In Senior Group

Kingston's Don Murray leads the senior B group point getters with thirteen according to statistics released today by Lorne Cook, OHA executive member, Kingston. The figures are up to and including games of last Wednesday night.

Belleville's Vern Goyer heads the goal-getters with 11 and is in second place in the scoring list. It must be remembered however that the five goals he scored against Queen's are not included since all games played with the now defunct university team, have been washed out.

Young, Durando Resume Rivalry In 'Rubber' Bout

By JACK HAND

New York, Nov. 30 (AP) — Paddy Young and Rosie Durando two rock - throwing middleweights, resume their rivalry with a 10-round "rubber" match tonight at Madison Square Garden. The winner gets a Jan. 25 non-title date with champion Sugar Ray Robinson.

A better-conditioned Young, at least three pounds lighter than the 159 1-2 he carried into his Nov. 2 loss to Durando, is expected to be the 2-to-1 favorite Bayonne, N.J. slugger. It will be covered by radio and television at 10 p.m. EST.

Young whipped Durando easily Sept. 13 1950. It was a different story when they met again at St. Nicholas Arena earlier this month. Durando countered a smashing right to Young's head with surprising nine-count knockdown in the first round.

Although Paddy got up and came back strong, Durando's superior condition earned him the edge over the 23-year-old from New York's Greenwich Village.

The decision was unanimous for Young in 1950 and split for Durando this month.

Quakers, Royals Battle to Tie

Saskatoon, Nov. 30 — (CP) — Saskatoon Quakers and New Westminster Royals battled to a 3-3 tie last night in a Pacific Coast Hockey League game. The league-leading Royals remain nine points in front of the third-place Quakers.

Tommy Fowler and Cy Rouse scored for Saskatoon with Billy Boyce and Gayle Fielder tallying for New Westminster.

Rickey Wants Student Rule Changed, Charges Law is Being Violated

Pittsburgh, Nov. 30 — (AP) — Branch Rickey is going to baseball's minor league annual meeting with a determination to wipe the high school rule changed.

Rickey, engaged in the terrific job of trying to rebuild the Pittsburgh Pirates into a pennant-winning club, says a manager should be able to sign a high school youth to a contract.

The present rule forbids a manager from even talking business with a high school student. Rickey says the law is being violated—and often.

Sign, No Pay, Play

He thinks a proposed amendment to the rule that would permit baseball's front office to have a heart-to-heart talk with a high school boy, but forbids a contract is equally ridiculous.

The old maharaja is preparing for a stiff campaign at the minor league meeting in Columbus next week to make it legal to sign a high school boy but not to pay him or play him.

Rickey says he's going to work hard as hard for the change at the major league meeting which comes a few days later, in New York.

"I believe the high schools must come to a different definition of amateurism," says Rickey. "I believe the parents with the cooperation of their sons should not be deprived of the right to make contracts for future services."

Panthers Confident They Can Win Title From Western Legionaires

Hamilton, Nov. 30 (CP) — Hamilton Panthers get their big chance Saturday to prove they're worthy of the senior Big Four.

Coach Merle Hapes, Panther coach, said last night about four of his boys celebrate Eastern Canada football champions could stalk the senior grads "if they were really given a chance."

On Saturday they meet Norwood-ex Bonifaces Legionaires, peppy Western Canada champions, in the first Canadian intermediate football final. Panthers, who swept through all opposition handily in the east, take on a team which has been waiting almost a month for an eastern winner to be declared.

Rassle-Dassle Affair

St. Boniface has held nightly practice sessions since defeating Fort William Redskins early this month. A party of 34 players and six officials left Winnipeg last night.

Coach Hapes, enthusiastic about his team's chances, said it will be almost at full strength. One notable absentee will be ex-team Scot Scocca. The Canadian Rugby Union notified the club last night that the husky wingman isn't eligible to play in the Dominion final after playing in the early-season games with the senior Hamilton Tt-Cats.

Another fine prospect for senior company will be on hand. He's Glen Dawson, Panther quarterback, who has sparked the team to 13 straight victories this year.

Saturday promises to be a rassle-dassle affair with door prizes to attract customers and a chance-to section made up of kids allowed in at 25 cents apiece.

There's no cup for the intermediate title but officials hope one will emerge eventually. The CRU contribution to a dry field —its $12,000 carpanlin used in the Grey Cup final at Toronto, is scheduled to be laid down today. When it arrived here it was too wet to be laid.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York Nov. 30 (AP) — Dewitt Portal, San Jose State College boxing coach, has come up with a fool-proof system of rating boxers and deciding when they're due for retirement. . . it's fool-proof because if it were adopted, nobody would be fooled about a fighter's ability. . . Here's how it works: A boxer who qualified for a professional license (by fulfilling certain requirements as an amateur) would be assigned a certain rating, say 20 points (on a 0-to-100 basis). Thereafter each time he beat a boy with a lower rating, he'd assume that boy's rating and the loser would drop half-way back. . . Say a 70 boxer beat an 80 guy, Mr. 70 would become Mr. 80 and Mr. 80 would drop to 75 . . . Portal argues that it would prevent mismatches because matches would be permitted only within certain point spreads.

It might prevent injuries and a too-big drop would result in "probation" or possibly forced retirement. . . Doe doesn't offer any mathematical way of rating managers and boxing commissioners.

They Got Him

Steve Owen, the grid Giants' coach, tells this one on Fordham coach Ed Danowski. Mr. Steve maintains that when Ed played for the Giants he had more relatives in the stands (on the cuff) than all the other players. . . One day when Danowski was kept on the bench, the relatives started chanting: "We want Danowski." . . says Steve: "I got on my nerves, so I called Danowski off the bench. He threw off his blanket, limbered up and said: 'I'm ready, coach.' and I said: 'That's fine. Go sit in the stands; there's a lot of people there who want you.'"

P.G.A. Approves U.S.-Canada Golf Annual

Chicago, Nov. 30 (AP)—Only a few details remain to be worked out before United States and Canadian golf professionals begin playing a yearly match, much like the traditional Ryder Cup series between the U.S. and the British.

The Professional Golfers Association approved the match yesterday.

As plans stand now, the series will extend over three years running, with the first match to be played at Montreal in 1953. The 1953 match will be played in the United States and the third in Canada.

Each squad will be represented by 10 players, as are the U.S. and English Ryder Cup team.

No dates have been set. These and other details will be worked out later.

Schwabs Assume Major 'A' Lead

The leadership in the major 'A' bowling league is a changeable as the mind of a chorus gal. For the third time in as many weeks the top slot position has changed hands and this time Schwabs cling to the spot by virtue of a 7-0 decision over City Cleaners.

Monroe Chiselers 4-3 defeat of Belleville Golf dropped the latter into second place while Lawn Bowlers retained spot number three by trouncing Calghan's Ice 7-0. Kissmen defeated CNR 5-2.

Jim McKenzie set the pace with 830 followed by Vic Bellview 787, Les Lennox 781, Bill Fraser 779, Frank Martin 756, Wally Dingman 734, Ted Greenfield 732, Newt. # Mail Robbery One Way to Get Football Ducats

San Francisco, Nov. 30 (AP)—Postal inspectors disclosed yesterday hard-to-get tickets to the Shrine east-west football game are missing as a result of a mail robbery.

They asked purchasers to report immediately if they haven't yet received tickets ordered by mail. Some 57,000 were mailed out.

The theft was discovered last Sunday, inspectors said, when John F. Chiaro, a 39-year-old Southern Pacific baggage agent, was arrested on a charge of stealing a check from the mails.

Forty-three of the football tickets were found in Chiaro's home. Inspectors said he admitted selling others in Sacramento bars.

The checks sell for $5 each, but since each year's game is a sell-out, scalpers are able to command as much as $20 for a good seat to the December 29 grid classic.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Horse Sense is just common sense translated into the terms you must use in bridge. Every act in it is what your instinct would tell you to do if you did not know the rule or forgot the rule.

Take the answers to a take-out double. There is nothing mysterious about them. If you were not confused by some expert or friend, you would naturally make the correct answers.

If your partner doubles for a takeout, it forces you to keep the bidding open. No matter how you do it, you must give him another chance to bid. That is what a takeout double orders you to do.

If no bid intervenes, you must bid to keep the bidding open. If a bid intervenes, the bidding is thus kept open even if you pass. An opponent has kept the bidding open for you.

If no bid intervenes, your bid is a forced bid. And if you are forced to bid, you may not have a trick in your hand. So, a forced bid is assumed to show a weak hand. Partner must realize this.

If a forced bid shows a weak hand, how could you show a strong hand when you are forced? By using a signal; the usual signal for showing strength in bridge; a jump bid.

Now the opponent starts with an opening bid of one heart. Your partner in west doubles for takeout. If north passes, you are forced to bid in the east seat. You have this east hand:

♠Q J 9 5
♥K 7 2
♦K 7 3 4
♣Q 8 3

If you responded with a normal bid, partner would have to assume you have no strength, or very little strength. Or, at most, your strength is not enough to help make a game.

But you have a strong hand to answer to partner's takeout double; your hand is strong enough to help make game. Respond with two spades; a jump that says you have strength.

It is better than using strong language.

A resolution was passed, suggesting that the riding executive consider the matter of an early date for a convention to select a candidate for the federal election.

2 Service Stations In Bloomfield Entered, Robbed

Picton—Two service stations in the village of Bloomfield were robbed yesterday. Loot included $87 from a safe at Gus Turpin's station, $50 cash and a quantity of merchandise from Jack Wright's station.

A window was broken at the Turpin station and the office door forced. The light safe was pried open with a crow bar.

At the Wright station, the lock on the door was forced. The money was in the cash register and cigarettes and chocolate bars in a glass case.

County Constable James Lovelace and Provincial Police are investigating.

CHATHAM THIEVES ACTIVE

Chatham, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Thieves worked hard in this area Wednesday night.

They broke into a service station at Fraser Siding, nine miles west of here, and stole cigarets and meat, provincial police said today.

Winnie Ruth Judd Murderess Escapes From Insane Hospital

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 30 — (AP) — Winnie Ruth Judd, 48, murderess who has been in the Arizona State Hospital for the Insane since 1933, escaped last night, hospital authorities announced.

The Maricopa county sheriff's office said Mrs. Judd apparently got out of the hospital on a rope ladder through the window of her second floor room.

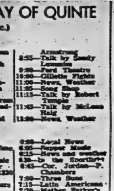
Earlier in the evening she had been seen at a dance being held for the inmates.

When last seen, Mrs. Judd was wearing a blue silk dress and a green coat with fur cuffs.

She was convicted of the trunk murder of two women friends in 1932, but was saved from execution when a jury found her insane. The cut-up bodies of her two friends were found in a trunk in Los Angeles.

RETIRED WORKER KILLED

Palgrave, Ont., Nov. 30—(CP)—Joseph P. Pulfy, 68, a retired railway worker, was killed yesterday by a falling tree near here. Pulfy and Joseph Fragan, of Bolton, were cutting wood near Grogan's house when the tree suddenly jumped and landed on Pulfy's head before he could run clear.



MORE INTERESTED IN BINGO

Toronto, Nov. 30—(CP)—Civic election note: More than 300 persons gathered in a smoke-filled ground floor room of the westend Orange Hall last night to play bingo. Upstairs on the third floor Ward 5 candidates were beseeching voters to take a more active part in municipal politics. Third floor attendance: 50.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

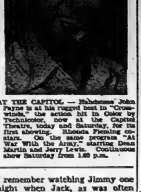
Hollywood, Nov. 30 — (AP) — Ethel Barrymore was preparing for her television debut in a small rehearsal hall.

The first lady of America's greatest acting family seemed to be enjoying herself immensely.

One of the foremost declaimers of the English language, she was teamed with its arch-murderer, James Durante.

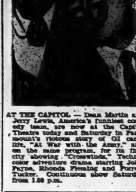
"It's a catastrophe," Miss Barrymore explained.

"Ethel, ya got the wold wrong," Durante corrected. "It's 'catastrastroke.'"



The incongruous pair went through several hilarious routines for Durante's TV show tomorrow evening. He gave Miss Barrymore a dramatic lesson, illustrating how she should register certain emotions. Then she sat down at the piano to play "Who Will Be With You When I'm Far Away?" while he sang the raucous song.

"She ain't bad at the pianner," Jimmy confided. "But she don't bang at it the way I do. But then —who can? Even Hurtil is luke-lor."



Old Pals

The Durante-Barrymore friendship goes back many years, she said.

"I used to see Jimmy a lot when he was playing night clubs in the '20's she said, "and Jimmy was a great favorite of my brother, Jack.

AT THE CAPITOL — Rhonda Fleming as Miss Parrae is at his rugged best in "Crosswinds," the action hit in Color by Technicolor, now at the Capitol Theatre, today and Saturday. For its first showing, Rhonda Fleming enjoys top billing with co-stars Forrest Tucker, Wally Brown and Chill Wills. Additional co-feature Martin and Jerry Lewis. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

AT THE CAPITOL — Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, America's funniest comedy team, are now at the Capitol Theatre today and Saturday in Paramount's riotous story of GI camp life, "At War With the Army," and "At War With the Army" is the big showing Technicolor adventure drama starring John Payne, Rhonda Fleming and Forrest Tucker. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00 p.m.

I remember watching Jimmy one night when Jack, as was often the case, was feeling no pain. For some crazy reason, he slipped a ring on my finger, and I have never been able to get it off."

Jimmy told an anecdote concerning Miss B. She was sitting in the M-G-M casting office while making "Rasputin" with her brothers. Jimmy, whose failure to remember names is fabulous, thought she was an actress looking for work.

"It's there anything I can do for you," he asked.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, December 1

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—It will be well to think before you act. Refuse to be irritable, impatient. Keep eyes open, mind clear and alert, and avoid friction with others.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Your Venus and a few other planets' aspects now stress intelligent caution and patience if you are to get best results at your job, in conferences. Be cheerful at home especially.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Neither unfavorable nor too helpful day. Some hindering tendencies. These can be of service if they cause you to stop to ponder, then go ahead.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—No time to indulge moods, temperamental spurts. Self-control, dignity, plus patience and smart management of affairs are safeguards. Good work, conscientious planning won't disappoint.

July 24 to August 23—(Leo)—Self-control important to your accomplishment today. Toss down enthusiasm to a practical ratio; be reasonable in demands, fair in all dealings and you'll come out a winner.

August 24 to September 22—(Virgo)—Similar to Gemini now. No need for worry. Just be set to do your best and appreciate any good results. Familiar routine, issues you know are most favored.

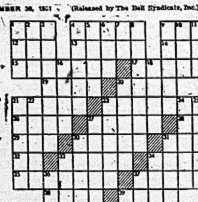
September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—That old adage, "A little with contentment is great gain" applies to your day's outlook, doings. Those who have the day for rest or recreation should enjoy it amply. Shun worry.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Mars, Jupiter, Venus warn against irritability, reckless spending, say carelessness in conduct or management. This done, it can be made productive day.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Sound advice is to be watchful in any and all important transactions, conferences, but do attend cheerfully to routine, regular affairs.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Matters with which you are familiar can move ahead especially well. Day not hindering except for the impatient, individual. If possible enjoy some recreation, rest.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Be cautious today. However, sensible procedure, dictated by what your schedule demand, should swing you along right road. When essentials are tended to, relax, rest.



February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Be guided in actions now by the urgency of tasks. The calmer, more serene you are, the happier and more successful you'll find your day.

YOU BORN TODAY: If true to your finer self, you are a happy, engaging and very capable somebody, willing to aid those less fortunate than yourself, but never intruding upon others' rights. Have faith in God's help always. Keep studying. Many noted bankers, leaders in industry, military and entertainment world are Sagittarians.

Birthdate: Anna Comnena, first woman historian.

Intervention Withheld on Chinese Intervention From Commanders At Yalu River Drive Says Story

Boston, Nov. 30 (AP) — The Christian Science Monitor, in a copyrighted story by Gordon Walker, said yesterday "there is strong evidence" that General MacArthur's staff "withheld intelligence information on Chinese intervention . . . from the president and from line commanders in the ill-fated 1950 Yalu River offensive."

Walker is assistant foreign editor of the Monitor and former war correspondent attached to General MacArthur's command in the Pacific and Tokyo.

"Front-line commanders ordered their troops into battle without prior knowledge that they faced overwhelming odds—odds which in most cases were as high as three or four to one," the Monitor said.

Walker wrote that first information about Chinese intervention "actually had reached Tokyo by mid-November." The Chinese started in late November.

"By correspondents in Tokyo who sought to establish the fact, however, were officially discouraged by headquarters from writing about it," according to Walker.

"A correspondent for this paper (The Monitor) pointed out at one briefing that he personally had spoken to Chinese prisoners in their own language, and they had told him of their recent entry into Korea. He was informed that 'he must be mistaken.'"

Walker said that the Yalu River story is in the record again because of the charges of Maj.-Gen. Charles A. Willoughby, former chief intelligence officer for MacArthur, that correspondents wrote about the operation with "bias." The charge was contained in a Cosmopolitan magazine article.

Gen. Willoughby, in New York, said he would stand on his magazine article which was "carefully documented and edited."

"Those (Walker's) statements are deliberately false, whether they are in the Christian Science Monitor or the Police Gazette."

Army Record Fails to Rescue Sailor From Navy Clink

Jack Duff, a Winnipeg sailor of H.M.C.S. Cayuga, received the personal praise of Brig. "Rocky" Rockingham for bravery in action in Korea, but found that his army record meant nothing to the navy. He landed ship in Japan, flew to Korea, attached himself to the Royal Canadian Regiment where he joined a grenade - throwing patrol and got all the action he wanted. Reporting back to the navy he was docked 30 days' pay, was sentenced to 30 days in detention.—Central Press Canadian.

Two Suicide Notes Found May be Answer

Detroit, Nov. 29 — (CP)—Two suicide notes and a pair of toy sailboats standing guard on a river bank Thursday gave at least partial answer to the mystery of a blonde-haired boy whose body was found Tuesday night in a shallow canal off the Detroit River.

The notes were left by pretty Mrs. Marjorie Cooper O'Brien, 34, a "skid row" waitress, and mother of George O'Brien, 3 1-2.

Mrs. O'Brien is missing. Her purse was found on a beach not far from the point where George's body was discovered. Beside the purse were a stuffed panda and a toy dog.

The boy was identified last night by a tavern waitress, a friend of Mrs. O'Brien's, who had seen the boy's picture Tuesday in Detroit newspapers.

One note read in full: "Dear father, this is my last letter to you." The other instructed that "anything I have" go to the nie ce of one of the owners of the cafe where Mrs. O'Brien worked.

County Farm Forum News

Farm forums are again meeting for discussions throughout the Dominion. Hastings county is glad to report a new forum this year, namely, River Valley, with Mrs. Robert Philp as secretary.

The November series has been concerned with Co-ops—Are they (1) efficient? (2) democratic? (3) socialistic? The question, "Do you think co-ops pave the way for public or state ownership and more government control?" was discussed. The forums think co-ops do not pave the way for socialism.

Foxboro says, "Large monopolies tend toward state control, whereas the co-op which is the most democratic of all economic means of distribution, can never become an abusive monopoly to abuse the people it serves." Hazzard says, "Co-ops depend on people owning an interest. Socialism takes ownership away from individuals."

The forums believe that a country should have 4 kinds of ownership, e.g., individual, co-operative, private-profit enterprise and some state and municipal ownership for a good life such as in Canada. But Canada must have more Co-ops, as they act as a pendulum on the economic life—the more Co-ops there are the less monopolies there will be to hinder progress. State and municipal ownership are needed where services are not provided by other enterprise but should be kept to a minimum.

Hold Annual Meeting

On November 19, Farm Radio Forums of the county met at Foxboro United Church Hall for their annual meeting. Forums represented were: Foxboro, Brookdale, Melrose and Hazzards with an attendance of 56. Mr. Everett Priddle, county chairman, called on the Rev. Mr. Giffen, who welcomed the forums to Foxboro. Mr. Ronald Longwell, president of County Federation of Agriculture, reminded the forums of the federation's program "Town and County" each Monday night at 7.30 over CJBQ, and of the annual meeting of the Federation of Agriculture at Stirling Community Hall with Mr. Ray Hurgett as guest speaker. Forums will provide lunch.

Mr. F. Campbell of Foxboro led in community singing with Mr. Wm. Glover of Hazzards at the piano. Films were shown on Co-ops in Western Canada.

A quartet from Hazzard shg. Eng. "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes" was enjoyed. Mr. C. Millican gave a resume of his recent trip to Ohio, sponsored by Co-operatives, comparing the co-operative movement in the U.S. with that in Canada. He also told of his visit to Louis Bromfield's farm in Pleasant Valley.

Officers

The following officers were elected — Chairman, Mr. Philo Harris, Madoc; vice-chairman Mr. S. Denville, Shannonville; secretary, Miss A. Moorecroft, Madoc and press correspondent, Mrs. Morley Sine, Frankford.

Murray Cotterill Resigns Office

Ottawa, Nov. 30 (CP)— The Canadian Congress of Labor announced yesterday Murray Cotterill of Toronto has submitted his resignation as national director of the CCL's political action committee.

The announcement gave no reasons for the resignation which it said would be placed before the congress' executive council at its next meeting in the new year.

The political action committee has been sponsored by the Congress for the last few years to aid in the election of CCF members to parliament and the provincial legislatures. The CCL designates the CCF as the "political arm" of labor.

It was understood Mr. Cotterill's resignation was handed in before the Ontario election in last Thursday, in which the CCF lost heavily in its legislature representation and was displaced by the Liberals as the official opposition group.

County Council Meeting

The County Council met in the Council Chamber, Court House, Belleville, on Tuesday, November 27th, 1951, at 10 o'clock a.m. with the Warden in the chair.

The minutes of the last session were read and confirmed.

The Warden's address was read and received.

The Treasurer's report was read and received.

Ontario Sheep Breeders Sweep Show at Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 30—(CP)—Ontario sheep breeders brought the most honors to Canada of any of the Canadian exhibitors at the 52nd International Livestock Exposition.

The Canadian sheep — mostly from Eastern Ontario — captured four championships and many top placings in the medium and long wool breeds.

Two championships each went to M. M. Lee and Sons of Highgate, Ont., and Don Head Farms, Richmond Hill, Ont.

The Lee flock—from the rolling Lostand Farm—took the championship ram and ewe in the Lincoln breed yesterday. However, the Lee victory was traditional. For almost every year for the last 43 shows the Lee flock have shown the champion or reserve champion.

The Don Head flock—handled by Anand Balsom—won the championship for the best ram and ewe in the Southdown class Tuesday. The big Don Head outfit on rich farm land about 13 miles north of Toronto also shows Angus cattle.

The Ontario exhibitors were George H. Hden and Son of Edgerton, Ont., and F. W. Gorney of Paris, Ont., who showed Shropshires; W. J. Brodie of Stouffville, Ont., Peter McAren and Sons, Thamsville, Ont., Ed. D. McEwen of Landon, Ont., with Southdowns; the Lees with Lincoln and Charles J. Shore of Glanworth, Ont., with Cotswold.

A-Commission Ends 1951 Tests

Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 30 (AP)—United States atom masters, satisfied that they have found some facets of nuclear know-how, closed the book today on the 1951 fall test series.

The Atomic Energy Commission and the army wound up their joint show with an afternoon blast yesterday. It was the seventh and one of the least spectacular of a series that started Oct. 28.

Unofficially it was the 27th atomic explosion in history — all set off by the U.S. Big Russia has admitted three.

Test manager Carroll L. Tyler said the series produced "data important to the nation's military security."

"Each nuclear detonation resulted in increased atomic knowledge," Dr. Alvin C. Graves, A. E. C. scientific director, reported.

The final burst, a low flash of red ringed with black, caused speculations that the detonation might have been the first underground nuclear detonation. The A. E. C. would not confirm this.

Troops took part in yesterday's test, although not in a tactical manoeuvre.

The series hit a high spot Nov. 1 with the first atomic manoeuvre in history.

For security reasons there will be no further report on the tests, Tyler said, except for some information on effects which may be released after analysis and screening.
